

Language Hub

ADVANCED Student's Book

JEREMY DAY
GRAHAM SKERRITT

Contents

LESSON • OBJECTIVES		GRAMMAR	VOCABULARY	PRONUNCIATION
U1	TRENDS
1.1	Dress for success (p2) Talk about style and fashion Give fashion advice	nominal clauses	clothes and fashion metaphors	linking and intrusive /r/
1.2	Trendsetting (p6) Compare different trends Make a podcast or vlog	comparatives and superlatives	experimenting with prefixes and suffixes	emphatic stress
1.3	Café Hub Diet and lifestyle (p10) Pitch your own business idea		give it a go
UNIT REVIEW (p12)		WRITING	(p156) Write a blog post KEY SKILL Making your blog post successful
U2	CREATIVITY
2.1	The story behind it (p14) Give a presentation about art Talk about creative projects	narrative tenses	describing art	contrastive stress
2.2	Creative people (p18) Talk about finding inspiration Describe a life-changing moment	future in the past	ideas and inspiration compound adjectives	questions for comment or criticism
2.3	Café Hub Art and design (p22) Discuss a work of art		nowhere phrases
UNIT REVIEW (p24)		WRITING	(p157) Write a review KEY SKILL Writing concisely
U3	PROGRESS
3.1	Progressive design (p26) Make predictions about the future Use persuasive language to sell something	future structures	sustainability forming verbs from adjectives	sounding persuasive
3.2	Better ... or worse? (p30) Discuss progress and society Evaluate costs and benefits	negative inversion	verb–noun collocations	stress-shift words
3.3	Café Hub Sustainability (p34) Discuss renewable energy		the 'rule of three'
UNIT REVIEW (p36)		WRITING	(p158) Write a persuasive email KEY SKILL Persuasive techniques
U4	INTELLIGENCE
4.1	Brain training (p38) Discuss improving the brain Talk about future technology	conditionals without if	conceptual metaphors	adding information
4.2	Thinking and thought (p42) Talk about regrets Discuss intelligence	wishes and regrets	science and research thinking	adding information or changing the topic
4.3	Café Hub Life-changing tech (p46) Recount events		straight out of
UNIT REVIEW (p48)		WRITING	(p159) Write a report KEY SKILL Hedging
U5	GAMES
5.1	21st century games (p50) Discuss problem-solving tasks Discuss gaming and game design	the passive	competition and cooperation	expressing disbelief
5.2	Serious gaming (p54) Identify generalisations Discuss ideas for solving a challenge	passive reporting structures	reporting verbs motivation and manipulation	-ate words
5.3	Café Hub Win or lose (p58) Plan a fundraising event		ellipsis
UNIT REVIEW (p60)		WRITING	(p160) Write a formal report KEY SKILL Using depersonalisation

READING • LISTENING	SPEAKING • WRITING
read an article about how clothes affect the way you think listen to a conversation about how to look good for less KEY SKILL Listening for recommendations read a blog post about the lifecycle of a trend KEY SKILL Using contrasts to work out meaning listen to a podcast about how to be a trendsetter ▶ watch a video about veganism ▶ watch someone pitching a business idea	discuss trends in clothes and fashion SPEAKING HUB roleplay a conversation about fashion compare trends from different time periods SPEAKING HUB plan and make a podcast or vlog KEY SKILL Using circumlocution SPEAKING HUB plan and give a short pitch
listen to a radio programme about a famous painting KEY SKILL Anticipating content before listening read a newspaper article about how the Eden Project was made listen to a conversation about how creative people get inspiration read an article about famous people who were discovered by accident KEY SKILL Inferring meaning ▶ watch a video about the London Design Festival ▶ watch people giving their interpretation of a work of art	give a short presentation about a work of art SPEAKING HUB tell a story about a project discuss suggestions for finding inspiration SPEAKING HUB tell a story about a life-changing moment KEY SKILL Managing a discussion SPEAKING HUB discuss a painting
read a newspaper article about an architect's plans for a city in the future listen to a conversation about smart materials KEY SKILL Listening to identify persuasive techniques listen to a radio show about declinism read a magazine article about voluntourism KEY SKILL Reading to determine costs and benefits ▶ watch a video about seaweed farming in Bali ▶ watch people discussing alternative fuels	discuss future developments and changes SPEAKING HUB persuade someone to buy a product discuss whether life is getting better or worse SPEAKING HUB discuss the costs and benefits of a project KEY SKILL Maintaining a conversation SPEAKING HUB talk about the pros and cons of renewable energies
listen to a radio discussion about brain training KEY SKILL Identifying logical fallacies read an article about brain augmentation read two articles about embarrassment KEY SKILL Identifying different writing styles listen to part of a debate about the disadvantages of being highly intelligent ▶ watch a video about Neil Harbisson ▶ watch someone tell an anecdote about a technology fair	compare products to boost intelligence SPEAKING HUB discuss responses to hypothetical situations talk about a time when you did something you regret SPEAKING HUB have a debate about intelligence and education KEY SKILL Recounting events SPEAKING HUB tell an interesting and complex anecdote
listen to a conversation about escape rooms read a blog post about urban games KEY SKILL Understanding colloquial asides listen to a presentation about Game Theory KEY SKILL Distinguishing generalisations from preferred solutions read an article about the gamification of life ▶ watch a video about risk-taking in games ▶ watch people come up with strategies while playing a game	suggest creative solutions to a problem SPEAKING HUB design an urban game talk about generalisations, expectations and assumptions SPEAKING HUB use gamification and game theory to solve a problem KEY SKILL Building relationships SPEAKING HUB discuss and plan a fundraising event for a charity

LESSON • OBJECTIVES		GRAMMAR	VOCABULARY	PRONUNCIATION
U6	DISCOVERIES
6.1	Challenging journeys (p62) Speculate and make deductions about the past Plan an amazing journey	past modals of speculation and deduction	journeys and adventures three-part phrasal verbs	showing your attitude
6.2	Inquisitive minds (p66) Discuss rewarding jobs Give a presentation about someone you admire	-ing and infinitive forms	binomial expressions	pauses and pitch in presentations
6.3	Café Hub Word of knowledge (p70) Plan and perform an interview		engaging listeners
	UNIT REVIEW (p72)	WRITING (p161) Write an expository essay KEY SKILL Structuring an expository essay
U7	EXTREMES
7.1	Beyond the limits (p74) Describe reactions to extreme experiences Describe extreme situations and achievements	it clefting	feelings	intonation in question tags
7.2	Extreme jobs (p78) Discuss extreme jobs Deal with difficult interview questions	what clefting and all clefting	polysemy intensifiers	any and quite
7.3	Café Hub Push your limits (p82) Tell a story about an exciting journey		fronting
	UNIT REVIEW (p84)	WRITING (p162) Write a cover letter KEY SKILL Using power verbs
U8	WELL-BEING
8.1	Health and wellness (p86) Discuss wellness treatments Talk about health and technology	relative clauses with complex relative pronouns	health problems	building suspense
8.2	Sport and wellness (p90) Talk about sports psychology Discuss nutrition and fitness	pronouns and determiners	idioms describing taste	pronunciation of idioms
8.3	Café Hub Health hacks (p94) Explain and give instructions about a process		reformulating
	UNIT REVIEW (p96)	WRITING (p163) Write a summary KEY SKILL Paraphrasing
U9	BEHAVIOUR
9.1	Language and behaviour (p98) Talk about group behaviour Discuss factors that affect behaviour	noun phrases	slang	pronouncing vague expressions
9.2	Animal behaviour (p102) Discuss animal behaviour Talk about behavioural experiments	participle clauses and verbless clauses	verb + object + infinitive gestures and body language	intrusive stops
9.3	Café Hub Model behaviour (p106) Give and justify your opinion on social engagement		end up
	UNIT REVIEW (p108)	WRITING (p164) Write a conclusion to an academic report KEY SKILL Linking in academic writing
U10	SOCIETY
10.1	Urban problems (p110) Discuss issues related to tourism Present solutions to urban problems	discourse markers	culture and heritage nouns with to	introducing new information
10.2	How to change the world (p114) Talk about political activism Discuss how to make a difference	ellipsis and substitution	word building	managing conversations
10.3	Café Hub Changing cities (p118) Debate for and against a motion		describing a scene in real-time
	UNIT REVIEW (p120)	WRITING (p165) Write a persuasive essay KEY SKILL Using counter-arguments and rebuttals

READING • LISTENING

SPEAKING • WRITING

read an article about a famous explorer
KEY SKILL Prediction strategies for reading listen to a discussion about travel challenges read an article about investigative journalism listen to a presentation about an inventor

KEY SKILL Taking notes while listening

- ▶ watch a video about nature and the universe
- ▶ watch an interview with a scientist read an extract from a story listen to a TV show about hysterical strength

KEY SKILL Identifying causation

read an article about working in extreme places listen to a talk about extreme job interviews
KEY SKILL Understanding reference within texts

- ▶ watch a video about extreme driving
- ▶ watch a phone call between two people

read a newspaper article about new wellness treatments
KEY SKILL Identifying writers' opinions listen to a conversation about technology and health listen to a podcast about sports psychology

KEY SKILL Understanding speech with background noise read an article about a gluten-free diet

- ▶ watch a video about food packaging
- ▶ watch two people discuss a recipe

listen to a conversation about a psychology experiment KEY SKILL Understanding rapid colloquial speech read a newspaper article about how language affects behaviour

read an article about understanding animal behaviour
KEY SKILL Identifying outcomes of scientific research listen to a radio show about behavioural psychology

- ▶ watch a video about group behaviour
- ▶ watch people discuss sociological experiments

read three short articles about the problems caused by tourism KEY SKILL Integrating information from different texts listen to a radio report about building design read a newspaper article about political activism listen to a conversation about finding a job after university

KEY SKILL Recognising shifts in register

- ▶ watch a video about cable cars in Mexico City
- ▶ watch people argue about the benefits of urban development make speculations about historical mysteries

SPEAKING HUB
 design and present an original travel challenge compare different types of job

SPEAKING HUB
 give a presentation about an inspirational person

KEY SKILL Conducting an interview

SPEAKING HUB
 roleplay an interview between Veronica Matos and a journalist describe your experiences of mental states

SPEAKING HUB
 conduct a media interview about extreme abilities/achievements give advice to a job applicant

SPEAKING HUB
 interview candidates for a job

KEY SKILL Changing and recycling topics

SPEAKING HUB
 perform a conversation about an exciting journey talk about the value of wellness treatments

SPEAKING HUB
 design and pitch a health/wellness product discuss the benefits of sports psychology techniques

SPEAKING HUB
 design a fitness plan for an athlete

KEY SKILL Repairing misunderstandings

SPEAKING HUB
 explain a process you know well to your partner discuss the problems of group behaviour

SPEAKING HUB
 analyse and present evidence for or against an idea discuss experiences and opinions of animal intelligence

SPEAKING HUB
 plan and carry out a behavioural experiment

KEY SKILL Backtracking and reformulating

SPEAKING HUB
 present your opinion on social engagement talk about the importance and problems of tourism

SPEAKING HUB
 discuss how to solve problems in your city discuss world problems and activism

SPEAKING HUB
 persuade people to support a charity

KEY SKILL Using vague language

SPEAKING HUB
 debate whether vehicles should be banned from city centres

GRAMMAR

Verb tenses and structures

A Choose the correct option to complete the conversation.

- A: Hello. Could you tell me ¹where is the conversation class/ where the conversation class is?
- B: Yes, just follow me! ²I'm going / I'll go there now. I actually study here myself.
- A: Cool. ³Did you/ Have you been studying English for long?
- B: Let me think. Actually ⁴I'll have been / I'll be at this school for two years at the end of this month. Don't worry. You ⁵don't have to / mustn't bring anything. Just yourself. And there is only one rule: you ⁶needn't / mustn't speak in your own language in class.
- A: Great, that's really important. In my last school we ⁷used to / get used to do a lot of grammar. But I wasn't ⁸taught / didn't teach any speaking or pronunciation. So I really need to ⁹used to / get used to speaking more.
- B: Yes, me too. I ¹⁰was learning/ am learning on my own for a bit, but stopped because I didn't feel I'd made much progress.

Articles, determiners and quantifiers

B Find and correct the mistakes in the sentences.

- 1 It's the good to watch videos in English to practise your listening.
- 2 A lot problems when learning a language come from lack of confidence not lack of ability.
- 3 It's best to get personal recommendations when finding the English courses.
- 4 When you first learn a language you should spend a great deal time on grammar.
- 5 A childhood is a good time to start learning a language.
- 6 There's never time enough when you're working and learning at the same time.
- 7 Most the people feel demotivated at some point when learning a new language.
- 8 Every languages has its own unique pronunciation and grammar and you can't easily compare them.
- 9 Languages are neither fixed and completely stable but are constantly changing.

C SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you agree with the speakers in Exercise A? Why/Why not?
- 2 Do you agree with the statements in Exercise B? Why/Why not?

VOCABULARY

Collocations

A Choose the correct words to complete the collocations.

- 1 It's highly/ deeply/ absolutely likely that even jobs in education will be automated in the future.
- 2 Concerning future problems, I'm bitterly/ deeply/ ridiculously concerned about extreme weather conditions.
- 3 There is the possibility for/ of/ about colonising another planet to relieve human overpopulation.
- 4 Young people should have knowledge/ ideas/ opinions of news sources and searching online to deal with the problem of fake news.
- 5 Understanding your focus/ target/ regular audience is important for being an entrepreneur.
- 6 Not all regeneration projects get a positive/ high/ key reaction from local communities.

Compound adjectives and nouns

B Complete the sentences with the compound adjectives and nouns in the box.

community spirit last-minute old-fashioned six-bedroom street parties up-to-date

- 1 Visit our website for the most _____ travel times and _____ deals.
- 2 Mark and Susan have just bought a huge _____ house in the countryside. It's a bit _____, but they're planning on renovating it.
- 3 There is great _____ in my village. The local council often organise _____ for national holidays.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you agree with the statements in Exercise A?

PRONUNCIATION

A Circle the arrows to predict which intonation will be used. Then listen and check.

- 0.1
- 1 Is this meeting finishing soon? [↗]/[↘]
 - 2 How often do you come to these classes? [↗]/[↘]
 - 3 Unless there is a good reason [↗]/[↘], you shouldn't work late. [↗]/[↘]
 - 4 Take some chocolate bars [↗]/[↘], in case you need a quick snack. [↗]/[↘]

0.2 B Listen to the sentences. Draw () between any words that link together.

- 1 He's improved a lot despite having a few problems.
- 2 We went out at night a lot to see the city.
- 3 Plenty of people find it difficult at first.
- 4 Hundreds of people came out to see her talk.

C Practise saying the sentences in Exercise B.

The majority have no other reason for their opinions than that they are the fashion.

Samuel Johnson

A flamingo amongst geese, egrets, swans and herons.

OBJECTIVES

- talk about style and fashion
- give fashion advice
- compare different trends
- make a podcast or vlog
- pitch your own business idea
- write a blog post

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. How does it relate to trends?
- 2 Read the quote. What do you think it means? Do you agree?
- 3 How important are trends in the following areas to you?
 - fashion
 - music
 - design
 - lifestyle

VOCABULARY

Clothes and fashion

A Work in pairs. Do the quiz.

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 142.

READING

A PREDICT Work in pairs. Read the title of the article. Look at pictures 1–3. How might what the people are wearing affect their behaviour?

B SCAN Read Style speaks and check your predictions from Exercise A.

- 1 Do you carefully plan your outfits or just wear the first thing to hand?
- 2 Have you ever had to attend an event with a dress code?
- 3 If you had to go to a fancy dress party, what costume would you wear?
- 4 Are people more productive when they wear uniform or casual clothing?
- 5 Would you describe yourself as a trendsetter or a trend follower?
- 6 Is it better to fit in with or stand out from the crowd?
- 7 Do you ever wear baggy or scruffy clothes to relax at home?

STYLE speaks

1 We've all heard the old adages ... Dress for the job you want, not the job you have. Look good, feel good. These clichés are rather worn out. How can the way we dress affect our lives? But it seems there may be some truth in them after all. People do form first impressions based on what we're wearing. Not only that but maybe even part of our own self-worth is tied up in the clothing choices we make.

Power dressing

Not convinced? Imagine turning up for an interview at a big city firm, in the jeans you've been wearing for the past three days and an old baggy t-shirt. Would you be successful in getting the job? Unlikely. Would you feel self-conscious about what you're wearing? Very likely. It seems that wearing smart clothes, such as a well-cut suit, could help you feel more confident. And when we're feeling confident we negotiate better, we respond better to questions and we put other people at ease.

Breaking free

On the flip side, wearing fitted or tailored clothing is not what most of us would choose to wear when we are trying to be creative. Can you imagine writing the next great novel, or coming up with a great innovation, sat typing away in a £2000 designer suit? This is why many leading tech companies have an ultra-relaxed dress code and encourage casual clothing. Mark Zuckerberg isn't topping any best-dressed lists but his billions of dollars make up for it. Furthermore, many places of work have 'Casual Fridays' to encourage employees to let their hair down a bit and get creativity flowing.

Uniform thinking

Wearing a uniform can make us feel part of something – provide us with a sense of belonging, but also one of duty. Many people argue that wearing school uniforms encourage us to work harder. Whilst this is not necessarily true, there is no doubt that when, for example, a firefighter puts on their helmet or a doctor a white coat it comes with a responsibility. So fundamentally, to dress the role is to start to live it.

Glossary

adage (n) a well-known phrase that says something about life and human experience clique (n) a small group of people who seem unfriendly to other people unconsciously (adv) without realising or being aware of one's actions

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again. Complete each statement with one to three words from the article.

- 1 People should wear _____ when they're feeling low.
- 2 _____ could help people come up with new ideas.
- 3 People sometimes wear _____ clothing to fit in.
- 4 _____ may encourage people to make healthier choices.
- 5 People should wear _____ to feel more persuasive.
- 6 _____ may make people more careful at work.

D SPEAK Discuss in small groups.

- 1 What surprised you most about the blog post?
- 2 Do you think your own choice of clothes affects how you think and behave?

Gym ready

It's not just work that clothing affects, but lifestyle as well. Professional and semi-professional athletes tend to stick rigidly to an 'athleisure' style. Their reasoning? They don't enjoy wearing formal clothes. And they want to be able to work out whenever they feel like it. And for many, having the clothes on reminds them to make healthier choices ... to choose the fruit salad over the fruit cake.

Pack Mentality

Have we really evolved that much away from our primal, tribal instincts? Visit any city centre at lunchtime on a Saturday and your answer will be probably not. The packs of roving teenagers are dressed in a pseudo uniform of branded clothing, like Ray-Bans and Hype T-shirts. We unconsciously imitate the clothing of people we have regard for. A shared sense of style builds rapport and helps you to instantly feel part of a clique. Maybe it's self-preservation, or maybe it's a hope that you will be infused with the qualities you so admire.

Lift your mood

That our mood impacts on what we choose to wear will not come as a surprise. How many of us think about it the other way round? What we wear could affect how we are feeling for the better or worse. One of the best cures for when you're feeling down is to wear that cosy, bright yellow jumper. More people than you might think are great believers in wearing bright colours to boost positivity. It seems simple, but why not give it a shot next time you're having a bad day?

GRAMMAR

Nominal clauses

A Read the sentences. Is the underlined part of each sentence the subject or the object?

- 1 They don't enjoy wearing formal clothes.
- 2 Wearing a uniform can make us feel part of something.

B Work in pairs. Underline the nominal clauses in sentences 1–6 from the article. Use the information in the box to help you. The first two have been done for you.

Nominal clauses

Nominal clauses are clauses that work like nouns. They are very common as objects, but they are also possible as the subject, after a preposition or the verb be, and in the following ways.

- a nominal -ing clause _____
- b nominal that clause _____
- c nominal question-clause _____
- d nominal to + infinitive _____
- e We often use a phrase like the fact/idea that or the experience/problem of to introduce a nominal clause and make it easier to understand. _____
- f That clauses and to + infinitive can sound unnatural as the subject. We can use it as an empty subject instead. _____

- 1 Luke is upset that he didn't pass.
- 2 Lisa doesn't enjoy watching horror films.
- 3 It wasn't surprising that Tara came in first place.
- 4 The fact that the team won the league shows how good the manager is.
- 5 Where you go to university is your choice.
- 6 To tell a lie about something so important was wrong.

C WORK IT OUT Match sentences 1–6 in Exercise B with the rules (a–f) in the box.

D Go to the Grammar Hub on page 122.

E Complete the sentences so they are true for you. Then discuss in pairs.

- 1 What I like doing most of all in the evenings ...
- 2 How a person is dressed ...
- 3 Spending a lot of money on ...

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in groups. To what extent do you agree with the following statements? Give reasons for your answers.

- Wearing a uniform affects what grades you get at school.
- Buying expensive clothes is the best way to succeed in life.
- Spending lots of money on luxury goods makes people more generous.

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the infographic from a fashion magazine. What do you think the results would be in your country?

B LISTEN FOR RECOMMENDATIONS Listen to a conversation between two friends. What nine tips does Carly give Dan? Use the information in the box to help you.

Listening for recommendations

When listening for recommendations, pay attention to phrases like it's a good idea to, it's always worth, or don't forget to.

Also listen for phrases that signal a shift from main points to examples (e.g. for instance, let's say) and those that move from examples to new main points (e.g. more generally, that's an example of).

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Choose the correct answers (a, b or c).

- 1 Why is Dan worried?
 - a He doesn't know what to wear for his new job.
 - b He thinks people won't respect him.
 - c He won't earn enough to buy nice clothes.
- 2 What's good about the suit Dan wants to buy?
 - a the price
 - b the fit
 - c the quality
- 3 Why did Dan wear baggy trousers for his job interview?
 - a He knew the interviewers couldn't see them.
 - b He wanted to create a good impression.
 - c He didn't have any other trousers.
- 4 What should Dan do with his suit trousers?
 - a mend them
 - b sell them
 - c bin them
- 5 According to Carly, what's good about ugly sales pages?
 - a You can charge more money.
 - b You appear inexperienced.
 - c You can buy things cheaply.
- 6 Where does Carly say you can find good second-hand bargains?
 - a posh parts of town
 - b trendy neighbours
 - c areas near universities

D SPEAK Work in small groups.

- 1 Which of Carly's tips do you already follow?
- 2 Would you try any of them in the future? Why/Why not?

FASHION TRENDS in the UK according to our readers

75% of you only buy BRANDED sportswear

45% believe QUALITY is more important than VALUE for money

IMAGE is the first thing that 85% of you notice about someone the first time you meet them

65% THROW ripped clothing away rather than MENDING it

40% of our readers think FASHION is more important than COMFORT

VOCABULARY

Metaphors

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the sentences. What do the underlined words and phrases mean?

- 1 a I'd love to come out tonight, but I'm on a tight budget.
b They had some lovely suits, but they were all too tight.
- 2 a The dress was so finely stitched that it looked seamless.
b It needs to be a seamless process for your customers.
- 3 a Instead of buying a cheap off-the-shelf suit, save up for a tailor-made suit.
b Don't use an off-the-shelf template for your company's website. We can design a tailor-made site to help you stand out from the competition.

- B Work in pairs. Decide whether the underlined words in Exercise A are literal (l) or metaphorical (m). Use the information in the box to help you.

Metaphors

A metaphor is a word or phrase that's used in a different context from its literal meaning. It's easier to understand a metaphor when you know the literal meaning. For example:

Literal: There is a breeze outside. (= a light wind)

Metaphorical: It was a breeze! I got the job. (= easy and pleasant)

- C Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words in the box.

catch drain peanut run snap wind

- 1 I'm getting quite _____ up about it.
- 2 You're throwing money down the _____.
- 3 It's much better in the long _____.
- 4 Then you'll have two suits in your wardrobe for _____.
- 5 Choose a template that _____ your eye.
- 6 All the best stuff will be _____ up immediately.

- D Work in pairs. What is the metaphorical meaning of each sentence in Exercise C?

- E Complete the questions with the correct form of a word from Exercises A or C.

- 1 When one person leaves a job and another person takes over, how can they make the transition as _____ as possible?
- 2 Are you the kind of person who plans for the long _____? Or do you tend to make snap decisions?
- 3 Have you ever bought anything that was _____ especially for you? Or do you always buy _____ products?
- 4 Which current trends really _____ you up?

- F SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions in Exercise E.

PRONUNCIATION

Linking and intrusive /r/

- A Work in pairs. Read the sentences below aloud. Draw a () between any words that you think are connected by a /r/ sound.

- 1 I saw a nice suit yesterday for 40% off.
- 2 You're only saving money if you buy something you need.
- 3 I just wore a jacket from an old suit.
- 4 They had no idea I was wearing tracksuit trousers.
- 5 Are auction sites the best place to pick up cheap clothes?
- 6 Avoid shops in a trendy area or one with lots of students.
- 7 Many shop assistants are authorised to offer discounts.

- B Listen to check. Then practise saying the sentences.

1.2

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Choose one of the following roles.

Spend a few moments thinking about your character (e.g. your age, background, ambitions, the problems you face, etc).

- Role 1: The fashion victim. You always want the latest designer fashions, but you're worried you spend far too much.
- Role 2: The reluctant shopper. You hate shopping and don't care what you wear, but all your clothes are old and scruffy.
- Role 3: The trendsetter. You like to take risks and experiment with your clothes. Just one problem: you've run out of ideas!

B DISCUSS Work in groups of two or three. Roleplay a conversation between your characters. Ask your partners for more information about their situation. Offer each other (good or bad) fashion advice.

I know it feels good to snap up a bargain, but in the long run, it's just money down the drain, don't you think?

C REFLECT Report back to the class on the best and worst advice for each character.

1.2 Trendsetting

Compare different trends
Make a podcast or vlog

G comparatives and superlatives
P emphatic stress

V experimenting with prefixes and suffixes
S using contrasts to work out meaning

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Think of as many trends from the past five years as you can in one minute. Use the topics below to help you.

- technology
- fashion
- music
- culture

1 Technology trends are very simple at first sight: older technologies become outdated and anachronistic, to be replaced by newer, funkier technologies, until they are rendered obsolete with the next cycle. In this way, the vinyl records of the 1970s gave way to cassettes in the 1980s. By the 1990s, cassettes were old hat and CDs were state-of-the-art. By the 2000s, we all loved novel gadgets like MP3 players. But by the 2010s, we had cloud-based music streaming services like Spotify. Why limit yourself to the music you own, when you can stream every song ever recorded?

2 But in 2016, the unexpected happened: sales of vinyl records in the UK outstripped digital music sales for the first time. The renewed interest in vinyl is a powerful reminder that trends don't always flow in a straight line from fringe products to mass-market blockbusters. It also reminds us to pay attention to the durability of trends over decades, not just the short-term ups and downs of the latest fads.

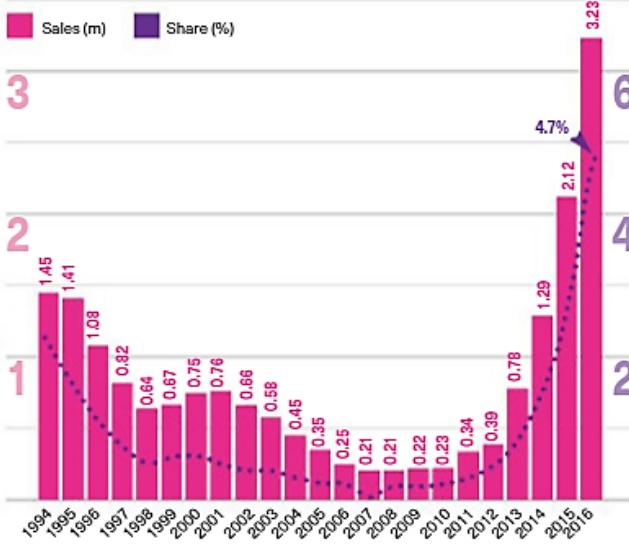

3 These trends are clearest in the world of popular music, which seems to be on a 20-year cycle. In the 1980s, music from the 50s and 60s was cool, while 70s music was naff. By the 1990s, 70s music was enjoying a revival, but 80s music had become the height of uncool. After 2000, it was OK to like 80s music again but now 90s music was for losers. The 20-year cycle makes rather more sense when you remember that the average trendsetter is about 22 years old. They feel sheepish about the music they enjoyed when they were 12, but they can look back a great deal more fondly at the music from their early childhood.

4 There's a key difference between a trend, a flash-in-the-pan and a fad. A flash-in-the-pan pops up suddenly, grabs everyone's attention, and then disappears again almost as suddenly. A few years ago, the whole world went crazy for a new smartphone app called 'Pokémon Go'. At one point, people were playing it everywhere you looked. But within a few months, almost everybody had abandoned it, leaving only a handful of die-hard fans to persevere with it.

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read The lifecycle of a trend quickly. Match the paragraphs (1–7) with the topics (a–d). Some paragraphs cover more than one topic.

- a musical styles
- b music formats
- c games
- d human needs

Vinyl LP Sales and Market Share

Source: British Phonographic Industry

5 A fad, on the other hand, may be a little more enduring but it too is doomed to disappear sooner or later because it serves no useful purpose. It may be quirky or amusing, but unless it fulfils a basic human need, like 'convenience', 'social status', 'self-expression' or 'security', it will never be more than a gimmick.

6 In contrast, an authentic trend always fulfils one of our very deepest needs – something that's shared by every human that's ever lived. Of course, nobody really needs a slightly thinner than usual phone or every song ever recorded, but we do need things like relaxation, creative stimulation, self-confidence and a sense of belonging to a social group, which those products and services satisfy.

7 This idea of basic human needs also goes some way towards explaining by far the most curious feature of the vinyl revival: almost half of buyers of vinyl records never actually listen to them according to a poll by ICM Unlimited! As long as we see vinyl as 'a music format' to fulfil our need for 'relaxation' and 'creative stimulation', this makes no sense. But don't forget, we also have a need to own beautiful physical objects to express our personality, and this is every bit as important as those other needs. And of course, the large-sleeved LPs more than meet that particular need, to a lot greater an extent than either diminutive CDs or intangible digital downloads.

Glossary

- doom (v) to make someone or something certain to fail, be destroyed, be extremely unhappy, etc
- durability (n) the ability to continue to exist or work for a long time
- outstrip (v) to become larger than something else
- revival (n) the process of becoming active, successful, or popular again

C WORK OUT MEANING Read the article carefully and answer the questions. Use the information in the box to help you.

Using contrasts to work out meaning

It's often possible to work out the meaning of new words and phrases by looking for contrasts with known words and phrases. Look out for linking words (e.g. while, but) that signal a contrast.

- 1 Which underlined adjectives in paragraph 1 mean old-fashioned? Which mean new?
- 2 What do the two underlined words in paragraph 2 contrast?
- 3 What do the underlined words and phrases mean in paragraph 3?
- 4 What does the underlined phrase in paragraph 4 mean? What is it being contrasted with in the same sentence?
- 5 Which two verbs are being contrasted in the last sentence in paragraph 4?
- 6 Which of the underlined words in paragraphs 5 and 6 have a positive meaning? Which have a negative meaning?
- 7 What do the underlined adjectives in paragraph 7 mean? Which words in the same paragraph have the opposite meanings?

D Work in pairs. Compare your answers to Exercise C.

E SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you agree that all successful trends are popular because they fulfill a basic human need?
- 2 Can you think of any examples or counterexamples to support your opinion?

GRAMMAR

Comparatives and superlatives

A Are these statements true (T) or false (F)?

- | | |
|---|-----|
| 1 After a comparative adjective (e.g. bigger), we always need than . | T/F |
| 2 We form the comparative and superlative of -ly adverbs (e.g. quickly) by changing -y to -ier/-iest . | T/F |
| 3 We always need the before a superlative (e.g. fastest). | T/F |

B Work in pairs. Justify your choices in Exercise A with examples in bold from the The lifecycle of a trend.

- 1 _____
- 2 _____
- 3 _____

C WORK IT OUT Complete the rules with an example in bold from the article.

Advanced comparatives and superlatives

- 1 Some modifiers start with a/an (e.g. a little). When we use these together with a/an + noun, the second a/an goes after the comparative:
- 2 Only a few words (anticipated / expected / hoped for / necessary / usual) can come between than and a noun:
- 3 We can use the structure more than with a small number of verbs (double, make up for, meet):

D Go to the Grammar Hub on page 122.

E SPEAK Tell your partner about one of the following. Use comparative and superlative structures.

- a film that you enjoyed more than you thought you would
- a concert that you went to or an album you really love
- the most enjoyable holiday you've ever had

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in pairs. Compare the following things. Use structures from this lesson.

- 1 fashion from 1 / 5 / 10 / 20 / 50 years ago
- 2 popular music from 5 / 10 / 20 / 30 years ago
- 3 technology now / 10 / 20 / 50 years ago
- 4 society now / 10 / 20 / 100 years ago

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What's the difference between the types of people in the box? Do you know any of these types of people?

blogger influencer podcaster trendsetter vlogger

- 2 Do you listen to any podcasts or watch any vlogs? If so, which ones?

B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to a podcast about trendsetting.

1.3

- Which topics do the speakers give advice about?

- | | |
|--|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> 1 making money | <input type="checkbox"/> 5 designing your own website |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 2 choosing a focus | <input type="checkbox"/> 6 learning from statistics |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 3 using social media to build a community | <input type="checkbox"/> 7 long-term planning |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 4 the problem with perfection | <input type="checkbox"/> 8 learning from mistakes |

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Are the statements true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false statements.

1.3

- | | |
|--|-----|
| 1 Dora and Adam are in the same room. | T/F |
| 2 Dora regrets that she made so many mistakes. | T/F |
| 3 Hardly anyone watched Dora's videos at first. | T/F |
| 4 Dora releases a video at the same time every week. | T/F |
| 5 Dora replies to every comment on her videos. | T/F |
| 6 Dora sees herself as an overnight success. | T/F |
| 7 Adam is unsure about filming himself. | T/F |

D SPEAK Discuss in pairs.

- 1 Do you think the idea of an 'overnight success' is a myth?
- 2 Have you ever had a blog or vlog? If not, would you ever consider starting one? Why/Why not?

VOCABULARY

Experimenting with prefixes and suffixes

A Complete Dora's advice using the words in the box.

amateurish biggish disaster-prone hyper-influential re-editing super-lucky tech-savvy unmute user-friendly

VLOG AWAY!

A lot of the vlogs on the web are very ¹ _____. Stand out by editing and ² _____ until your vlog is as slick and professional as possible.

If you're not particularly ³ _____, do some research into ⁴ _____ software – one with clear instructions.

Look at some of the videos made by the most ⁵ _____ vloggers and some with a ⁶ _____ number of subscribers. Success isn't down to being ⁷ _____, it's about hard work and perfecting the craft.

You don't have to be a ⁸ _____ person to sometimes forget to ⁹ _____ the mic. Remember not to be too hard on yourself. We all make mistakes, the important thing is to learn from them. You'll get more confident with experience.

- B Complete the information in the box with examples from Exercise A. Use the information in the box to help you.

Experimenting with prefixes and suffixes

- 1 Some prefixes (e.g. un-, re-) allow you to invent completely new verbs:
- 2 Super-, hyper- and ultra- all mean 'much more than usual':
- 3 You can add -york-ish to nouns to invent new informal adjectives: rubbishy, babyish, _____
- 4 You can add -ish to an adjective or number to mean 'more or less': twentyish, smallish, _____
- 5 Friendly, prone, proof, resistant and savvy can be used as suffixes to make adjectives: environmentally friendly, waterproof, heat-resistant, _____

- C Replace the underlined phrases in these extracts with a word with a prefix or suffix. You may need to change the word order in some sentences. Then listen to check.

- 1 You actually need to forget all you learnt about all those rules about perfection!
- 2 Whenever I have a fairly good idea for a podcast, then I try to make it within a few days.
- 3 You also need to be far more aware of how to use social media.
- 4 Well, there are plenty of people who post offensive comments that are like spam.
- 5 Your content would work much better as videos that work well on smartphones.
- 6 I really think you should have a second think and become a vlogger instead.
- 7 I feel incredibly exhausted just thinking about it.

- D Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 142.

- E SPEAK Work in pairs. Think of examples of the following.

- websites that aren't very user-friendly / smartphone-friendly
- a person who's tech-savvy / fashion-savvy
- any objects you own that are waterproof or water-resistant
- any objects you own that are damage-prone

PRONUNCIATION

Emphatic stress

- A Listen to the extracts from the recording. Underline the words that are stressed.

- 1 One of the most common mistakes that new vloggers and podcasters make is to expect everything to be perfect.
- 2 But after a while, it got a lot easier!
- 3 ... if nobody cared after a year, I'd give up. And it did take a while to get noticed.
- 4 ... you've found your niche and you've created some excellent content.
- 5 Every Wednesday at ten o'clock, there will be a new video on my channel.
- 6 I suppose in many people's eyes, I am an overnight success.
- 7 I felt awkward at first, too, but you do get used to it.
- 8 Dora Cho, thanks so much for joining me today.

- B Work in pairs. Why did the speaker use emphatic stress in the extracts in Exercise A? Practise saying the sentences.

- C Decide where to add emphatic stress in these sentences. Then listen to check.

- 1 That's one of the most popular vlogs on the web.
- 2 When you reach one million subscribers, it will be worth it!
- 3 Is it possible to be a trendsetter and an influencer?

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Work in small groups. You are going to make a podcast or vlog episode about trends. Discuss the following questions.

- What will it be about?
- Why will anyone want to listen/watch?
- What topics could you cover?
- How will you add your own personalities?

- B DISCUSS Share your initial ideas with the class. Ask your 'audience' what the next episodes should focus on. Try to engage with them to generate enthusiasm.

- C PREPARE Plan an episode of your podcast/vlog. Don't simply write a script – you'll need to stay spontaneous.

- D PRESENT Make your podcast/vlog. If you have recording equipment, e.g. a phone, you can use that. Otherwise, present your episode to the class.

- Compare different trends
○ Make a podcast or vlog

► Veganuary

- A Work in pairs. You are going to watch a video titled Veganuary. What do you think Veganuary means?
- B Watch the video and check your answers to Exercise A.
- C Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with one word or a number.
- 1 There are now more choices for vegans when they eat out and at _____.
 - 2 The food which Tabitha says she misses most is _____.
 - 3 Tabitha initially became a vegan because of _____ reasons.
 - 4 Many cafés sell a wider selection of products to appeal to _____.
 - 5 Some people limit eating meat to one or two times a week. _____
 - 6 In the UK _____ people attempted Veganuary.

Glossary

boom (v) to experience an increase in activity, interest or growth ethics (n) a set of principles that people use to decide what is right and what is wrong mainstream (adj) considered ordinary or normal and accepted or used by most people niche (n) a specialised segment of the market for a particular kind of product or service

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

- A Read the sentence from the video. What do you think the phrase in bold means?

Health, ethics, there are just so many reasons, I think, to give it a go.

- B Read the information in the box to check your answer to Exercise A.

give it a go

We use give it a go to express it's a good idea to attempt something you haven't done before. We also use give it a try, give it a shot, have a go and have a stab to express the same idea.

- C Work in pairs. Respond to the sentences using give it a go or one of the other expressions from the box in Exercise B.

- 1 We're not sure whether to try skiing when we're in Switzerland.
Why not have a go and see if you like it?
- 2 Sam would like to study French but he's always found languages difficult.
- 3 I've never travelled abroad alone before.
- 4 Nina's always been too shy to introduce herself to complete strangers.

- D SPEAK Discuss three things you would like to start doing that you have never tried before.

► The big pitch

A Watch the video. Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Who is Sam and how does he spend his day?
- 2 What do the following people do?

Emily Malcolm Amanda Harry

B Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with the best option.

- 1 Emily feels confident about / unprepared for her pitch.
- 2 Emily would like to grow her current business / start a new sustainable business.
- 3 Emily's yoga experience package will include two / three meals a day.
- 4 Emily's business will focus on yoga and food / outdoor yoga.
- 5 Emily thinks she will make profits evenly every year / her profits will equal her costs in the first year.

SAM

MALCOLM

AMANDA

HARRY

EMILY

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Look at the example from the video. Why has Emily used this phrase?

Emily: ... Well, it's kind of like my yoga classes that I teach, but with the idea that you would be getting more than just exercise.

B Look at the information in the box. Then underline examples of circumlocution in the sentences from the video.

Using circumlocution

We often use circumlocution, the use of many words where fewer would do, in a deliberate attempt to be vague or evasive, when we are nervous or can't think of the exact word, or even to make an idea sound more impressive. Look at these other sentences from the video and underline examples of circumlocution.

1 I mean what I really want to do is to expand my business into something more sustainable, you know, a yoga retreat where people can stay for a few days.

2 Full body cleansing, you know the physiological withdrawal of toxins from the body.

C Why do you think Amanda uses circumlocution in the sentences from Exercise B?

D Work in pairs. Ask each other about the following things. When you answer try to be evasive or vague. Use the expressions from Exercise B to help you.

- your favourite café
- your diet
- your job or studies

O SPEAKING HUB

A PLAN You are going to make a short pitch for a business you would like to set up. Think of a business idea.

B PREPARE Make notes on what you are going to say. Consider the following points.

- | | |
|------------------------------|-----------------|
| • product/service | • market |
| • USP (Unique Selling Point) | • profitability |

C PRESENT Work in groups. Pitch your business idea.

Well, I'd like to give running my own exercise boot camp a go.

D REACT Once everyone in the group has pitched their idea, decide which is the best. Give reasons.

O Pitch your own business idea

► Turn to page 156 to learn how to write a blog post about a trend.

GRAMMAR

A Put the words into the correct order to make nominal clauses.

- A: Why are you getting rid of those trousers?
There's nothing wrong with them!
- B: Well, the fact ^{aren't} / ^{in the knees/holes} / ^{that} / there doesn't mean I can wear them for ever.
These trousers are so last year!
- A: Come on! ²your clothes / people / think about/what isn't important! What counts is ³on/ what's/inside / the!
- B: Exactly! But you know what they say: ⁴on/ smart/to look / outside / theis to feel smart on the inside.
And anyway, ⁵fashion /gives / following me a lot of pleasure.
- A: Yeah, apart from the fact ⁶you can afford / that you spend / more than.
- B: ⁷much / I spend / How is up to me!

B Choose the correct options (a, b, c or d) to complete each sentence.

- 1 This is the worst film I've ever seen.
 a just b marginally c somewhat d absolute
- 2 There was a slightly larger than crowd at the game.
 a anticipated
 b believed c hope for d previous
- 3 Some online shops are as cheap as high-street stores.
 a by far b double c far and away
 d twice
- 4 My achievements are as impressive as yours.
 a considerably
 b every bit c rather d significantly
- 5 The hotel offers best views across the bay.
 a at least b fractionally
 c the very d dramatically

VOCABULARY

A Match numbers (1–6) to letters (a–f) to form full sentences.

- 1 If Jon decides to come to the wedding,
 2 If you get a new job in an office,
 3 If celebrities dress in a stylish way,
 4 If you wear creative and original clothes,
 5 If you want to stay cool in the summer,
 6 If you're going away for the weekend,
- a wear light, baggy clothes.
 b you'll fit in well here – everyone has a very unique style.
 c pack at least four outfits.
 d make sure he doesn't wear his usual scruffy clothes.
 e check the company's dress code before you start.
 f they often set a trend.

B Complete the words in the sentences. Some of the letters have been given to help you.

- 1 I can't afford to eat out again this week – I'm on a very budget.
- 2 We offer a range of -the- and a -m suits for our customers.
- 3 I got really u up this morning when I couldn't find a parking space.
- 4 I know it seems expensive now, but it's worth it in the long
- 5 If we leave it too late to go to the sales, all the bargains will have been p up!
- 6 If you have the time to look, you can buy great clothes for p n in charity shops.
- 7 The exam was an absolute - -z – I'm sure I got full marks!

C Complete the advert using a prefix or suffix from the box with the words in brackets. Each prefix or suffix may be used more than once. Other changes may be necessary.

-ish ultra- -savvy -prone -y -friendly -proof

TRENDY KID

Are you looking for an ¹ (cool) fashion gadget for an ² (accident) child?

Our new unbreakable 'Trendy Kid' smartwatch is completely ³ (child).

No need to be ⁴ (tech)!

This watch uses the latest skeuomorphic design principles to make it as ⁵ (user) as possible.

Available in ⁶ (flower) pink or ⁷ (mud) brown.

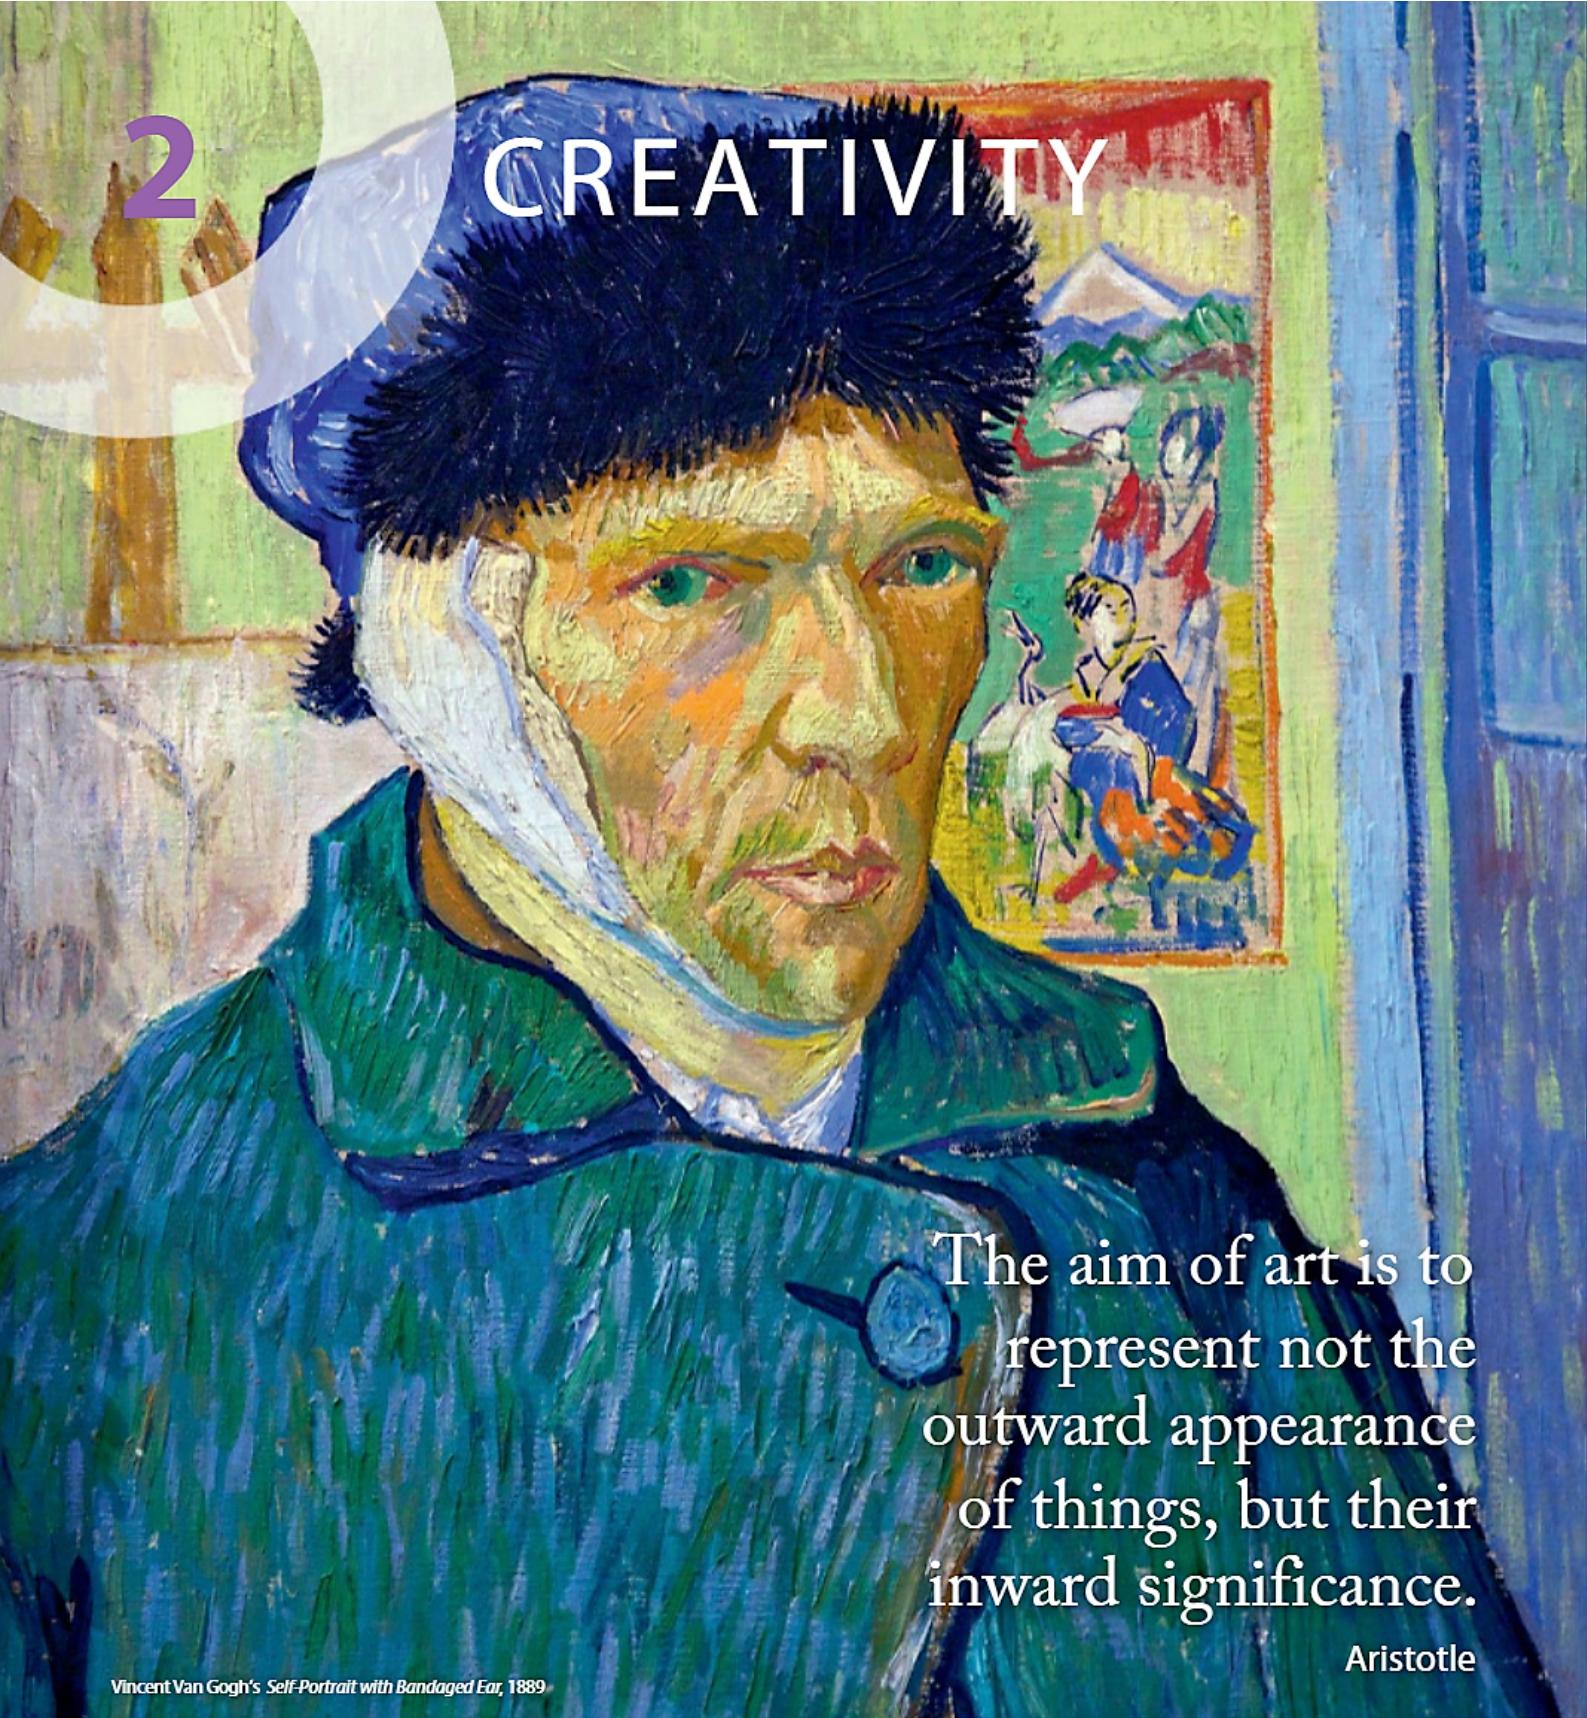

Do you love the design but worry that you'll look too ⁸ (child) wearing a 'Trendy Kid' watch? Head over to our store for a huge range of on-trend adult smartwatches!

2

CREATIVITY

The aim of art is to represent not the outward appearance of things, but their inward significance.

Aristotle

Vincent Van Gogh's Self-Portrait with Bandaged Ear, 1889

OBJECTIVES

- give a presentation about art
- talk about creative projects
- talk about finding inspiration
- describe a life-changing moment
- discuss a work of art
- write a review

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. What is your opinion of works of art like this?
- 2 What does Aristotle mean in the quote? Do you agree with him?
- 3 Is the main aim of art:
 - to tell a story
 - to celebrate an event
 - to express emotion
 - to create beauty
 - to persuade
 - to entertain?

2.1 The story behind it

V—describing art

P—contrastive stress

G—narrative tenses

Give a presentation about art

Talk about creative projects

S—anticipating content before listening

VOCABULARY

Describing art

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the pictures (a–e) and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you know any of these works of art?
- 2 Which do you prefer? Why?

B Choose the correct adjectives to complete the comments (1–5).

C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 142.

D What art forms are being described in Exercise B?

1 _____ 2 _____ 3 _____ 4 _____ 5 _____

E SPEAK Think of an example of an art form from Exercise D. Describe it to your partner.

I find this installation groundbreaking. It makes you think about space in a different way.
It's actually fairly ... It's not that ... It's somewhat ...

- 1 I think some famous works of art are overrated / repetitive. But that isn't the case here. The artist's use of light and shade in this composition was different from anything that had come before – it was truly pretentious / groundbreaking.
- 2 It was hilarious / tedious! I couldn't stop laughing. OK, the same jokes again and again becomes a bit underrated / repetitive, but the comic performances were awesome / appalling.
- 3 It's a very unconventional / repetitive piece. I can see why some people wouldn't want something so big and strange put up in a public space. They probably think it's a bit acclaimed / pretentious, as if the artist is trying too hard to be different.
- 4 Most people recognise this image. It's so iconic / hilarious, capturing the mood of the time it was taken. It's thought-provoking / unconventional, too – it really makes you consider the human story behind this historical event.
- 5 The risk with performances like this is if the songs are appalling / iconic then it's really not enjoyable. It just makes them really tedious / awesome – so long and slow. Fortunately the music, lighting and costumes in this show were really special. It was a truly sensational / iconic experience. I can see why it's been overrated / acclaimed by critics and audiences.

a

b

LISTENING

- A Work in pairs. Read a review of the radio programme More than meets the eye. Are there similar radio programmes in your country?

More than meets the eye gives an analysis of one different piece of groundbreaking fine art each week.

The guest speakers make these discussions unique and sometimes quite unconventional. They don't just have specialist knowledge of the artist, but also some personal connection to the pieces.

- B ANTICIPATE CONTENT You're going to listen to an episode of More than meets the eye about picture b. Work in pairs and answer the questions below. Use the information in the box to help you.

Anticipating content before listening

You can use different types of information to predict what you will hear.

- Read notes, reviews, handouts, etc.
- Look at titles or images for clues about what the speaker will cover.
- Use your own knowledge to predict topics or themes.
- Use information to think of questions you expect to be answered.

1 What topics will be discussed in the programme?

2 What questions will be answered?

- C LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to the programme and check 2.1 your predictions in Exercise B.

- D LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen and write down the different 2.2 ideas about who the main subject of the painting is.

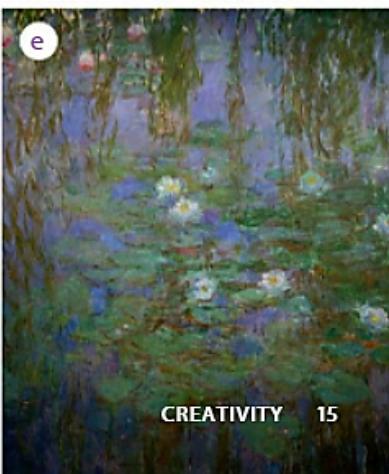

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

- E SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Who do you think the subject of the painting is?
- 2 Why do you think the artist chose this composition?

PRONUNCIATION

Contrastive stress

- A Listen to these extracts from the radio programme. Draw arrows to show whether the intonation rises (↗) or falls (↘).

- 1 Yes, we can see her entourage on the right (↗), but to the left (↘), we can see the artist himself, standing next to a gigantic canvas.
- 2 So, it's a portrait of the King and Queen (↗), not the Infanta (↘).

- B Underline the words you think will be stressed and draw arrows to show where you think the intonation will rise (↗) or fall (↘). Then listen to check.

- 1 Actually, Mondrian wasn't American, he was Dutch.
- 2 Although I like his landscapes, his portraits are much better.
- 3 Why don't we watch a film instead of going to the gallery?
- 4 I don't think it's tedious. I just think it's overrated.
- 5 It was painted in 1656 – you said 1666.
- 6 A: You study art history, don't you?
B: No, I study fine art, not art history.

- C SPEAK Guess whether your partner likes these things or not. Respond to your partner's guesses. Use contrastive stress when appropriate.

classical music comic books crime novels heavy metal Hollywood movies modern art musicals science fiction films soap operas

A: You like Spiderman comics.

B: No, I like Batman not Spiderman.

SPEAKING

- A Choose a work of art that you really like. It could be a painting, a sculpture, a photograph, a film, a book, a play, a poem or a song.

- B PLAN Make notes so that you can talk about:

- information about the artist / writer / singer
- a description of the work of art
- your interpretation of the work of art
- the reasons why you like this work of art.

- C PRESENT Give a short presentation to your partner about the work of art you have chosen.

- D DISCUSS Ask your partner about the work of art they chose.

READING

A PREDICT Look at the pictures in the article. What kind of place is this? Do you know anything about it?

B SKIM Read the box below about the Eden Project. Check your answers to Exercise A.

The Eden Project is a spectacular tropical garden housed inside huge plastic bubbles within a crater the size of thirty football pitches.

How we made the Eden Project

Glossary

arch (n) a structure with a curved top and straight sides that you can walk through camaraderie (n) friendship and trust between people in a group crater (n) a large round hole in the ground pioneer (n) one of the first people to do something important pit (n) a very large hole dug in the ground in order to obtain a particular substance or type of stone quarry (n) a place where stone is dug out of the ground.

C READ FOR DETAIL Read How we made the Eden Project. Put the events (a–h) in the correct order. Two events are not needed.

- a They hired a lot of people to work on the project.
- b They did lots of tests to make sure the building would be safe.
- c They tried out some innovative techniques.
- d They had to stop working until they found more money.
- e They started working on designs without a specific location in mind.
- f Tim Smit had the inspiration for the project.
- g They found the ideal location.
- h They conducted a feasibility study.

Tim Smit, founder

We started the construction with just £3000 in the bank. To persuade civil servants to part with public funds, you have to do a feasibility study and that's expensive. So we simply progressed on faith, and hope, promising ourselves that we'd never use the word if only when.

The idea for a huge horticultural expo had come to me as I worked on the Lost Gardens of Heligan. ¹I'd always loved the thought of a lost civilisation in a volcanic crater, and when I saw the lunar landscape of the old Cornish clay pits, ²I realised they'd be the perfect site.

A friend put me in touch with an architecture firm. I hadn't received a penny in funding at that point, or even a site, just a belief that the idea of a lost world in a crater would appeal to anyone who's ever been 12. They thought the idea was mad, but it struck them as an adventure and they agreed to start work for nothing. Meanwhile, a construction firm put some money into the project in return for a share of the profits. Everyone was now suddenly highly motivated.

Our two horticultural directors recruited anyone they'd ever worked with and debated what to put in the buildings. I'd envisaged rainforest and Mediterranean areas, keen for it to be the greatest ever collection of plants useful to humans. But it was also a question of finding a balance between the wow factor and more meditative moments. So we have a giant waterfall along with a prairie that, in winter, is about the most boring thing you can see – then, for six weeks a year, it bursts into spectacular life.

D SCAN Read the article again. What were the obstacles they had to overcome to build the Eden Project?

E SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Why do you think people agreed to work on the project while funding was uncertain?
- 2 Why do you think this project succeeded?
- 3 Would you like to have worked on this project?
- 4 What other kinds of projects would you like to work on?

Jolyon Brewis, architect of Grimshaw Architects

Most architects dream of creating a new world on a scale that eclipses all that's gone before. So, in the early days, when there was always the threat of construction being stopped because of lack of money, all the companies involved carried on regardless: we were so enthralled by the vision.

Our first designs were for different locations, including a tent-like structure for a hillside, then Smit discovered the china clay quarry at Bodelva. It had a romantic, lost world feel since it would be hidden from view until you were almost upon it. For a long while it all seemed a terrific gamble. Usually, the one thing an architect can rely on is solid ground, but since it was still a working quarry there was a lot of movement. What's more, to work out costings, we had to design our buildings right down to the last detail, even though no one knew if there'd even be enough money to buy the site.

³We'd been working on a series of snaking arches linked with glass, but while one of our design team ⁴was washing up, they realised that bubbles would have far more stability on the shifting soil. Building on such a huge scale involved untried technology: this was a leap into the unknown. Glass would have been too heavy so we pioneered 11-metre hexagonal pillows of inflated plastic. It had never been used so big before and we had no idea how it would behave. So we had to work through various disaster scenarios, such as what would happen if one deflated, then filled up with water and brought down the entire structure.

The worst moments were at the start when we ⁵hadn't been given the funding yet and some of the foundations ⁶got washed away during one of the wettest winters in memory. But there was a great feeling of camaraderie. We felt there was nothing we couldn't cope with.

GRAMMAR

Narrative tenses

A Match the underlined words (1–6) in the article with the tenses.

past simple	—	past perfect continuous	— past continuous	—	past simple passive	— past perfect simple	—	past perfect passive	—

B WORK IT OUT Complete the rules with the tenses in Exercise A.

Narrative tenses

- 1 When we tell a story, we use the _____ and _____ to explain the main events.
- 2 We use the _____ and _____ to give background information for actions that were completed before the main events of the story.
- 3 We use the _____ and _____ to give background information for actions that were in progress before the main events of the story.

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 124.

D Choose a sentence and continue the story. (It doesn't have to be a true story!)

- 1 I had been working for several hours when ...
- 2 I had been planning to go to ... for months, but ...
- 3 I had just gone to bed when ...
- 4 It had been raining all day, so ...
- 5 I had been feeling unwell all day because ...
- 6 I had already eaten a big breakfast, but ...

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Think of an anecdote about an interesting project you worked on or a piece of work you have done. Use the ideas below to help you prepare what you are going to say.

- what was the project or piece of work
- what went well
- what went badly
- what would you do differently if you could do it again

B PRESENT Work in groups. Tell your anecdote about the project or piece of work.

C DISCUSS Listen to your classmates' anecdotes, react to what they say and ask questions.

D REFLECT Choose the best anecdotes.

- Give a presentation about art
- Talk about creative projects

2.2 Creative people

V Ideas and inspiration; compound adjectives

G future in the past

Talk about finding inspiration
Describe a life-changing moment

P questions for comment or criticism

S Inferring meaning

VOCABULARY

Ideas and inspiration

A Read the blog post Sparking ideas. Choose the correct definition (a or b) for the underlined phrases (1–10).

- 1 a find the right location
b find the right mood
- 2 a abandon an idea
b develop an idea
- 3 a working from nothing
b working with no equipment
- 4 a steal someone's ideas
b discuss something with someone

- 5 a get ideas from b paint a picture of
- 6 a escape a problem
b help you to think of some ideas
- 7 a become very involved with something b are about to finish

- 8 a feel more energetic about b get a different view of
- 9 a find a good idea
b am unable to progress
- 10 a think carefully
b rely on your feelings

SPARKING IDEAS

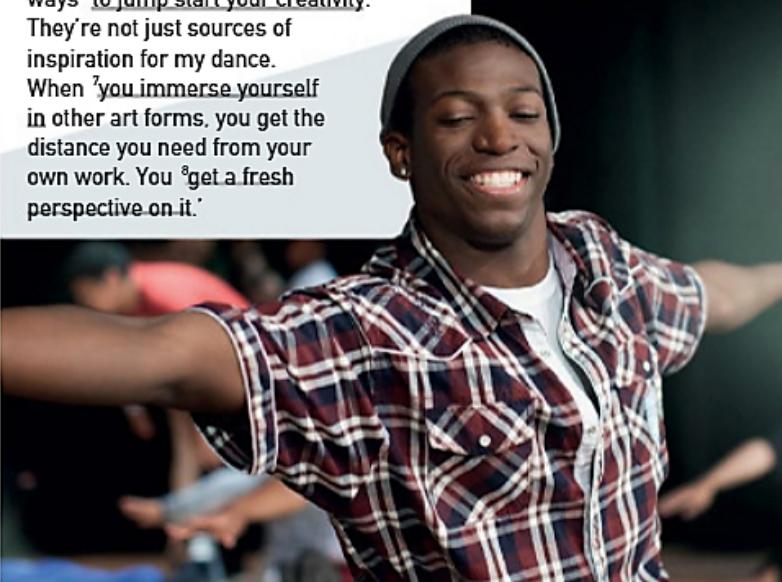

Jasmine, artist

'Some people are very practical about finding ideas. But not me. I need to get into the right state of mind, whatever it takes. It means travelling miles to get away from everyone, working through the night or going for a walk – until I find inspiration or it finds me. Then I just run with an idea and see where it takes me.'

'I draw inspiration from other art – film, paintings, even books are great ways to jump start your creativity. They're not just sources of inspiration for my dance. When you immerse yourself in other art forms, you get the distance you need from your own work. You get a fresh perspective on it.'

Leo, dancer and choreographer

Michelle, director

'Working from a blank canvas, with no idea where you are going to start, can be really scary. So, ... I call my mum! It's great to bounce ideas off someone. Even if you disagree, it can help you move forward.'

Sam, playwright

'Although writing is my job, when I hit a wall and just can't find the ideas, I start doodling cartoons, shapes. It really helps me to think. Then when the ideas start to come, you trust your instincts. You just know which ideas to use, which to combine and which to just forget.'

B Choose the correct phrases to complete the sentences.

- I've just got into the right state of mind / hit a wall with this project. I've got no inspiration and can't get any further with it.
- With art projects, you can't always know for certain you have the best idea. Sometimes you just have to trust your instincts / work from a blank canvas.
- When you're feeling uninspired, talk to other people. Bouncing ideas off someone / Running with an idea can only help.
- When there are no distractions and you are completely focused, you can truly get a fresh perspective on / immerse yourself in something.
- We had no idea where we could begin with the design. We were jump starting our creativity / working from a blank canvas.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you ever have to be creative in your daily life? How do you come up with ideas?LISTENING

- A LISTEN FOR MAIN IDEA Listen to Mark and Lauren 2.5 discussing an article about inspiration. What seven tips for getting inspiration do they discuss?

SEVEN TIPS FOR GETTING INSPIRATION

- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7

- B LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Which of the tips does 2.5 Mark like?

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Have you ever tried any of the ideas mentioned in Exercise A? Why/Why not?PRONUNCIATION

Questions for comment or criticism

- A Listen to the questions from the discussion. Draw arrows 2.6 in the brackets to show whether the intonation rises (↗) or falls (↘) at the end of each sentence.

- 1 Isn't that a bit pretentious? ()
- 2 Is he crazy? ()
- 3 Why does she keep writing if it's terrible? ()
- 4 Don't you think? ()
- 5 Is she serious? ()
- 6 How can you make something when you don't know what you're doing? ()

- B Choose the correct intonation for the questions. Then listen to check your answers.

- A: Do you think it's sensible to schedule time for creativity? B: What's the point of that? (rise / fall) You can't be creative if you're not in the right state of mind.
- A: Do you ever have creative ideas while you're dreaming? B: Yes, but I can never remember them. Isn't that frustrating? (rise / fall)
- A: Do you find it easier to be creative when you're listening to music? B: Are you serious? (rise / fall) I can't think properly unless it's quiet.
- A: Do you feel more creative early in the morning or late at night? B: Late at night. Definitely. Who feels creative first thing in the morning? (rise / fall)

C SPEAK Ask your partner the questions in Exercise B. Try to use a question for comment or criticism in your answer.SPEAKING

- A Look at the infographic. Think of an advantage and disadvantage for each suggestion.

- B Work in pairs. Compare your ideas with your partner.

- C Now decide which is the best suggestion for finding ideas. Talk for about one minute.

D DISCUSS Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Are you a creative person?
- 2 How important is the ability to be creative?
- 3 Do you think everyone should try to do something creative from time to time?

VOCABULARY

Compound adjectives

A Complete the fame quiz.

ARE YOU CUT OUT FOR FAME?

RATE YOURSELF ON A SCALE OF 1 to 5.

1 = Strongly agree 5 = Strongly disagree

- 1 You would trade having privacy for being world famous. 1 2 3 4 5
- 2 You are very focused on one kind of career. You are not open-minded to other career choices. 1 2 3 4 5
- 3 You would describe yourself as a highly-motivated person. 1 2 3 4 5
- 4 You are thick skinned. You don't mind being criticised. 1 2 3 4 5
- 5 You would rather be self-employed than do part-time work for someone else for the same money. 1 2 3 4 5
- 6 You'd prefer to be paid less in a fun creative job than well paid and bored at work. 1 2 3 4 5
- 7 You can handle working long days and doing late-night shifts. 1 2 3 4 5

B Work in pairs. Turn to page 149 of the Communication Hub to see what your answers say about you.

C Find eight compound adjectives in the quiz. Use the information in the box to help you.

Compound adjectives

Compound adjectives can be formed in several ways, including:

- adjective + noun: last-minute
- adjective + participle: left-handed
- adverb + participle: never-ending
- noun + adjective: sun-dried
- noun + participle: career-ending

We always hyphenate compound adjectives before a noun, but not after a noun. However, some compound adjectives are written as one word (e.g. heartwarming) or always hyphenated (e.g. self-important).

D Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 142.

E SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions. Use some of the adjectives in Exercise C.

- 1 Would you like to be famous?
- 2 What do you think are the good and bad points of being famous?

CHANGE OF PLANS

Some people choose a career at a young age and stick with it. However, here are four famous people who ended up with very different careers from what they expected.

CHARLIZE THERON

Charlize Theron, originally from South Africa, was to have been a ballerina. However, she suffered a career-ending injury to her knee that meant she had to abandon her childhood dream. Instead, she decided she would turn to acting. After finding it difficult to land speaking roles, she watched hours of television to try to pick up an American accent. But, the roles still didn't come and although she was getting modelling work, money was tight. One day she was trying to cash a cheque at the bank but the teller said he was not going to accept it. Theron started to argue with the teller, making a scene in the bank as she tried to explain that she was about to be thrown out of her apartment if she couldn't cash the cheque. Eventually a man in the line behind her came over to help resolve the situation and, after she had her money, he gave her his business card – he was an agent. A couple of months later, Theron had landed her first film role.

ANDREA BOCELLI

World-famous opera singer Andrea Bocelli was supposed to have a very different career. Although he displayed a clear talent for music from an early age, his parents encouraged him to study law so that he would always have a steady income. Following his parents' advice, he attended law school and became a lawyer. However, he also continued with his music – playing in piano bars in the evenings to earn money for singing lessons. It was at one of these bars where he got the lucky break that was to launch his career. Zucchero, a famous Italian singer, heard him sing, and thought that he would be perfect for a demo he wanted to make. As a result of that meeting, Bocelli ended up going on tour with Zucchero. Bocelli even sang at Zucchero's birthday party – and was immediately signed up by an agent at the party. The agent knew he was going to be a big star – and she was right.

Glossary

- renovate (v) to make something old look new again by repairing and improving it, especially a building
- embroidery (n) the activity of decorating cloth with coloured stitches

READING

- A SPEAK Look at the pictures of the people in the article Change of plans. What do you know about them?
- B READ FOR DETAIL Read Change of plans. What do the four people's stories have in common?
- C INFER MEANING Read the article again and answer the questions. Use the information in the box to help you.

Inferring meaning

Writers do not always explain everything in detail. They sometimes provide readers with the facts and allow them to infer the meaning by drawing a conclusion from the available information.

1 Why was Charlize Theron unable to get speaking roles?

2 Does Andrea Bocelli still work as a lawyer?

3 What do we know about Harrison Ford's personality when he was younger?

4 How did Grandma Moses learn to paint?

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions

- 1 Which was the most interesting story? Why?
- 2 Which person do you think was the luckiest?

HARRISON FORD

Harrison Ford first became interested in acting at the age of 18 because he thought it would be an easy way to get a good grade on his English course. He dropped out of college and moved to Hollywood in his early 20s. He managed to get some small acting jobs, but after a few years he became frustrated with the kind of roles he was being offered. While renovating his house, he decided to use the tools he had bought and the skills he had learnt to become a self-employed carpenter. One day, film director George Lucas hired Ford to make some cabinets for his home and after meeting him, decided to cast him in a film he was making called American Graffiti. When Lucas was auditioning actors for his next film, he was one actor short so he asked Ford to help out. In the end, he cast Ford and the film, Star Wars, would go on to become a huge hit and make Ford a star.

GRANDMA MOSES

Grandma Moses (Anna Mary Robertson Moses) became a famous painter at the age of 80 – despite not having had any formal training. She was born in 1860 and raised on her parents' farm. She didn't attend school regularly, because she knew she would be leaving home to start working on another farm when she was 12. She married at 17, was widowed at 47, and retired at 76. In fact, she didn't start painting until she took it up as a hobby at the age of 78. She only started because she was giving up embroidery due to pain from arthritis. She painted rural scenes from her childhood, which she gave away or sold cheaply. However, one day an art collector saw her paintings in a local shop. He drove straight to her farm and asked to buy all the paintings she had, and, later that year, he exhibited some of her paintings at a show for new painters. This led to solo exhibitions, and soon her shows would break attendance records around the world. She died in 1961.

GRAMMAR

Future in the past

- A WORK IT OUT Look at the underlined phrases in the article. Then choose the correct words to complete the rules.

Future in the past

- 1 When we talk about plans, intentions and predictions that we had in the past, we use past / present forms of the verbs we usually use to talk about the future.
- 2 We use be + to + infinitive for events that came true / didn't come true and be + to + have + past participle (or be + supposed to + verb) for events that came true / didn't come true.

- B Go to the Grammar Hub on page 124.

- C Write sentences using the future in the past to explain the situations (1–5). Then share your ideas with a partner.

- 1 You didn't get up early today.
- 2 You missed your train or bus this morning.
- 3 You didn't eat lunch yesterday.
- 4 You got lost in the city.
- 5 You went to see a film with a friend.

I was going to get up early, but I forgot to set my alarm clock.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Think of a time when a change of plans had a big effect on your life. Choose one of these situations or think of your own idea.

- You changed your mind about something.
- You suddenly had an unexpected opportunity.
- Something did not go as you had planned.
- Something good came out of a bad situation.

- B PREPARE Make notes to prepare to talk about this event.

- C PRESENT Tell your partner about what happened.

- D DISCUSS Listen and ask your partner questions.

○ Talk about finding inspiration

○ Describe a life-changing moment

City design festival

A Work in pairs. Look at the pictures (a and b) and discuss the questions.

- 1 Where are they?
 - 2 What do you think they are?
- B Watch the video and check your answers to Exercise A.

Glossary

accessible (adj) art, music, literature, etc, which is easy to understand and enjoy ceramic (adj) made from clay baked at a high temperature so that it has become hard eccentricity (n) the state of behaving in a strange and unusual way, sometimes in a humorous way installation (n) a piece of art that consists of several objects or pictures arranged to produce a particular effect

C Watch the video again. Tick the things you see.

- 1 People walking inside an installation.
- 2 A designer creating an installation.
- 3 An indoor design exhibition.
- 4 A man sitting at a table with a cup of coffee.
- 5 Children playing on the installation.
- 6 A person taking a photo of an installation.
- 7 People walking through arches.
- 8 A designer showing a group of people around an installation.

D Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with the best option.

- 1 What Camille Walala loves most about an outdoor art installation is that it makes art easier for people to understand and enjoy / allows her to be more creative.
- 2 Camille has lived in London for fifteen / twenty years.
- 3 A woman says Camille Walala's installation looks like a theme park / bouncy castle.
- 4 Adam Nathaniel Furman says people think ceramics are something found in your bathroom and kitchen / used to cover buildings.
- 5 Ben Evans says a minority / the majority of London's design community have British passports.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentences from the video. Then choose the correct words to complete the information in the box.

There's nowhere quite like it, especially when it comes to design.

I absolutely love London, it's like an eccentricity that you've got nowhere else.

There's nowhere else really in the UK where you can just walk down the street and see exciting things like this every day.

nowhere phrases

We use there's nowhere quite like, that you've got nowhere else and there's nowhere else where to express that a place is ordinary / unique.

We have many other phrases with nowhere like: nowhere on earth, ... but nowhere more so than ... , out of nowhere, go nowhere, be going nowhere fast, in the middle of nowhere, nowhere near and nowhere to be found.

B Write sentences using phrases with nowhere about these places.

- 1 Paris There's nowhere on earth like Paris for culture.
- 2 London
- 3 Dubai
- 4 New York
- 5 Italy
- 6 Brazil

C Work in pairs. Tell each other about some of your favourite places (countries, cities, restaurants, shops, museums, etc) and why they are unique.

Art critics

SAM

MALCOLM

AMANDA

HARRY

EMILY

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you like modern art? Why/Why not?
- 2 What do you think about art criticism?

B Watch the video and answer the questions.

- 1 What does Malcolm like about the painted paper?
- 2 What does each of the following people think the message of the painted paper is?
 - Amanda
 - Malcolm
 - male customer
- 3 Whose opinion is most popular amongst the three of them?
- 4 What misunderstanding has occurred?

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Look at the underlined expression from the video and answer the questions.

Amanda: The artist is clearly making a comment on ...
Sam: I think you're a bit confused ...
Amanda: Sam ... Can you let me finish?
 Thanks. The artist is clearly making a statement on feelings of isolation ...

- 1 What has happened in the exchange between Sam and Amanda?
- 2 Why do we use expressions like this when we're speaking?

Read the information in the box. Which of the ways of managing a discussion (1–5) are used in the exchange in Exercise A?

B Match the ways of managing a discussion (1–5) with the examples from the video (a–e) below.

Managing a discussion

- 1 Interrupting: Say something to stop someone speaking so that you can speak instead.
- 2 Taking the floor: Signal that you are now going to join a debate or discussion.
- 3 Returning to a point: Indicate that you want to further discuss a point that you previously made.
- 4 Stopping an interruption: Tell the person who is trying to interrupt that you want to finish your point first.
- 5 Pre-empting an interruption: Anticipate that someone will interrupt you and briefly state all the points you want to cover before they cut in.

- a Well that leads back to my point ... without meaning there is no relationship.
- b If I could just finish ... my main point though is that it doesn't really matter what it is.
- c I couldn't agree more ... it does evoke some really quite intense emotions.
- d I don't mean to cut you off, Amanda, but I think it's the exact opposite.
- e And that's my point exactly. When you are using bold colours like this artist has, you are clearly trying to expose just how superficial those connections are.

C Work in small groups. Discuss one of the following topics. Use the strategies from Exercise B.

- Art in the past and now • The greatest artist ever
- Different forms of art

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE You are going to talk about a work of art in a small group. Look at the picture on page 13. Think about what you want to say about the picture and art in general.

B PRESENT Work in small groups. Discuss the picture and present your views.

A: I usually tend to prefer landscapes rather than portraits ...

B: Can I just stop you there? ... The style of painting is what makes it special.

A: Exactly. What I was actually saying was that while I usually prefer landscapes, in this case ...

Discuss a work of art

- Turn to page 157 to learn how to write a review about a classic book or film.

Unit 2 Review

VOCABULARY

A Complete the conversations with the words in the box.

groundbreaking hilarious repetitive sensational tedious unconventional

- 1 A: That was a really funny film. I was crying with laughter.
B: Yes, it was _____.
- 2 A: I thought her performance was amazing.
B: She was _____. She deserves an Oscar.
- 3 A: Have you read this book? I'm finding it pretty dull.
B: Yeah, it's a bit _____, isn't it?
- 4 A: It was such an innovative musical. I loved it.
B: Me, too. As you say, it was _____.
- 5 A: Shall we turn this off? It's just car chase after car chase.
B: Yeah, it's kind of _____, isn't it?
- 6 A: Do you like her work? Her pieces are very unusual.
B: She's _____, but I find her work exciting.

B Complete the sentences with the words in the box. Then choose which ideas help you feel most creative.

bounce draw fresh trust immerse run stimulate hit

- 1 Take a break. _____ yourself in a TV show for 30 minutes.
- 2 _____ ideas around with your best friend. Ask them for a _____ perspective.
- 3 _____ inspiration from a piece of music.
- 4 Whenever you _____ a wall, go for a walk.
- 5 Drink coffee to _____. your creativity.
- 6 Don't think carefully – just _____ with an idea. _____ your instincts.

C Match numbers (1–8) to letters (a–h) to form full sentences. Then think of some jobs which match each sentence.

- 1 You need to be thick-
2 It's a well-
3 You need to be highly
4 Most people won't become world-
5 It's like being self-
6 There are a lot of late-
7 You have to be open-
8 It's a high-

 - a night shifts, so you'll have an irregular sleeping pattern.
 - b risk job, so it pays well.
 - c employed, because you can work from home.
 - d paid job.
 - e minded, because things change all the time.
 - f motivated, because it's competitive.
 - g skinned to handle the criticism.
 - h famous, but they still make a living.

GRAMMAR

A Complete the text with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

My first role

When I was about ten, I ¹ _____ (join) a drama group in a nearby town and they ² _____ (perform) a show every year. That year, we ³ _____ (do) Peter Pan.

We ⁴ _____ (rehearse) for weeks. I ⁵ _____ (give) a pretty big role – I ⁶ _____ (play) Michael, the smallest of the children Peter Pan ⁷ _____ (bring) to Neverland. I ⁸ _____ (remember) how nervous I ⁹ _____ (be) when we ¹⁰ _____ (peek) out from behind the curtain to see the people in the audience.

However, it was worth all the nerves when the audience ¹¹ _____ (applaud) at the end. I ¹² _____ (feel) so proud – and I couldn't wait to start practising for the next show.

B Choose the correct option to complete the sentences.

- 1 The band did not know they would have / were to be the biggest selling rock group this decade.
- 2 Little did he know, it was this discovery that was to change / is to have changed the experiment completely.
- 3 This was supposed to be / would be a dream holiday, but it turned into a nightmare.
- 4 They were to finish / be finished in May, but the deadline was pushed back until June.
- 5 The motorway was due / meant to be completed by now.
- 6 Carlos had been about / set to go through airport security when he realised he didn't have his passport.

If there is no struggle,
there is no progress.

Frederick Douglass

Blazing a trail at thirty thousand feet.

OBJECTIVES

- make predictions about the future
- use persuasive language to sell something
- discuss progress and society
- evaluate costs and benefits
- discuss renewable energy
- write a persuasive email

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. What does it say about progress? What other examples can you think of to illustrate the same idea?
- 2 Read the quote. What does Douglass mean?
- 3 How could you measure 'progress':
 - in your own life
 - in your city/country
 - in the world?

3.1 Progressive design

V sustainability; forming verbs from adjectives
P sounding persuasive

G future structures
S listening to identify persuasive techniques

VOCABULARY

Sustainability

A Work in groups. Which of these sustainable / environmentally friendly solutions would most benefit your country?

- recycling
- biodegradable plastic
- electric vehicles
- beach clean-ups
- wind power

B Choose the correct words to complete these statements about sustainability.

- We will never / soon run out of renewable energy sources like solar and wind power.
- A sustainable building generates less / more electricity than it consumes.
- To be carbon-neutral you might cut down / plant some trees to offset the pollution caused by a plane journey.
- A zero-emission factory causes no air / water pollution.
- Over-exploitation of natural resources will lead to / prevent the depletion of those resources over time.
- Biodegradable materials break down into harmful / harmless parts which don't accumulate in the environment.

C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 143.

D SPEAK Work in groups. Discuss the questions.

- Can ordinary people be carbon-neutral/cause zero-emissions in the modern world?
- Is it worth the effort? Can ordinary people make a difference?

READING

A SPEAK Look at the pictures in the article. What might be special or unusual about the buildings?

B READ FOR GIST Read the article quickly. Match the names below with the pictures (a–c).

- Aequorea
- Nautilus Eco-Resort
- The Liliypad

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again. Which project(s) from Exercise B does each statement apply to?

- Scientists will work there.
- It takes its shape from the natural world.
- It will collect its own water.
- It will use less energy than it generates.
- The buildings will move up and down.
- It will move from place to place.
- It will hold tens of thousands of people.

D SPEAK Would you like to live or stay in any of these places? What would be the benefits and drawbacks?

Make predictions about the future
Use persuasive language to sell something

GRAMMAR

Future structures

A Look at the underlined sections (1–10) in the article. What time do they refer to?

B WORK IT OUT Match the sections (1–10) with the rules in the box (a–f).

Future structures

- We use the future continuous to describe a situation that will be in progress at a particular point in the future (—), or to emphasise that it will cover an extended period of time (—).
- We use the future perfect simple to describe changes that will be completed before a particular point in the future (—).
- We use the future perfect continuous to focus on the future results of an earlier future process, and/or to measure the length of time of that process (—).
- We can use a modal verb (e.g. might, could) instead of will in these structures (—).
- After words like if, unless, when, while, etc, future tenses (e.g. future continuous) usually become present tenses (e.g. present continuous) (—, —).
- Other future structures include be on the brink/verge of doing (—) and be about / due / set to (do) (—, —).

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 126.

SPEAKING

SPEAK Work in pairs. Ask and answer the questions about the times in the box.

ten years from now the end of this lesson this time next year

- Where will you be? What will you be doing?
- What will you have achieved? How will the world have changed?
- How will you be feeling? Why?

ONE ARCHITECT'S VISION

TO BRING US BACK FROM THE BRINK

The world of 2100 will look considerably different to the world of today. ¹By then, much of the ice around the north and south poles will have melted, according to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. ²Sea levels could well have risen by as much as 88 cm. ³Many of the world's low-lying islands and coastal regions will be disappearing – or will already have disappeared – beneath the rising tides. Millions of people will have lost their homes. In short, ⁴we're on the brink of witnessing irrevocable changes to our world.

A visionary Belgian architect, Vincent Callebaut, has an innovative answer to the problem of rising sea levels: The Lilypad, a futuristic-looking city that will drift around the world following ocean currents like a giant ship. If his plans come to fruition, ⁵this self-contained city is set to become home to around 50,000 climate refugees.

The Lilypad's design is inspired by the shape of the Victoria amazonica lily pad. At its centre will be a lake to catch, store and purify rain water, surrounded by three 'mountains'. Thanks to a series of renewable energy sources, this eco-city will produce more energy than it consumes. All its carbon dioxide and other waste will be recycled, making the Lilypad entirely zero-emission.

The Lilypad isn't Callebaut's only attempt to re-think the design of buildings and cities. Back in 2015, he revealed spectacular plans for the world's first underwater skyscrapers, called Aequorea, which will be 500 metres wide, have 250 floors and be capable of holding 20,000 people. These eco-friendly structures will be self-sufficient, as they'll produce all their own energy, heat, food and water. They'll also be made of 100% recycled plastic, collected from the world's oceans.

Each oceanscraper will have a jellyfish-like structure: the entrance will be located at the surface and then the structure will spiral down to depths of 1000 metres. Inside will be homes, offices and workshops, science laboratories, sea farms and fruit and vegetable gardens.

Fresh drinking water will be produced using in-depth pressure to separate salt from seawater.

The Aequorea will be moored off the coast of Brazil, rather than in the open ocean. Residents will certainly be glad of the chance to visit the mainland and soak up some much-needed sunshine at the end of each working week – ⁶they'll have been breathing processed air and staring out into the deep, dark ocean all week, after all.

Mr Callebaut's latest project, the Nautilus Eco-Resort in the Philippines, takes its name and inspiration from a mollusc, the nautilus. The hotels themselves will also be shaped like seashells, which will rise and fall as they rotate around a central coil. Visitors can expect uninterrupted sunshine throughout the day as the towers follow the course of the sun. Some rooms will even disappear underground ⁷when they're not being used. But before you book your ticket, be warned that ⁸the resort isn't about to open any time soon – like most of Mr Callebaut's designs, it's still some way from actually being built.

The Nautilus Eco-Resort aims to be a 'zero-emission, zero-waste, zero-poverty' project, built entirely from reused or recycled materials from the islands. Visitors will also be actively involved with scientists, engineers and ecologists to ensure their experience encourages sustainable progress. So if you do decide to take a luxury holiday there, ⁹you won't be spending all your time lounging around by the pool. You'll also get some practical lessons on sustainability ¹⁰while you're collecting rubbish from the beach!

c

Glossary

- brink (n) the point in time when something very bad or very good is about to happen
- irrevocable (adj) impossible to change or stop
- moor (v) to stop a ship or boat from moving by fastening it to a place with ropes or by using an anchor
- sustainable (adj) using methods that do not harm the environment
- visionary (adj) original and showing a lot of imagination

LISTENING

- A SPEAK Work in pairs. Read (Very) Smart Materials. Discuss why each material mentioned might be useful.

Glossary

smart materials (n) technologically advanced materials with properties (e.g. colour, shape, magnetism, etc) that can change in response to stimuli such as light, temperature, pressure or moisture

(VERY) SMART MATERIALS

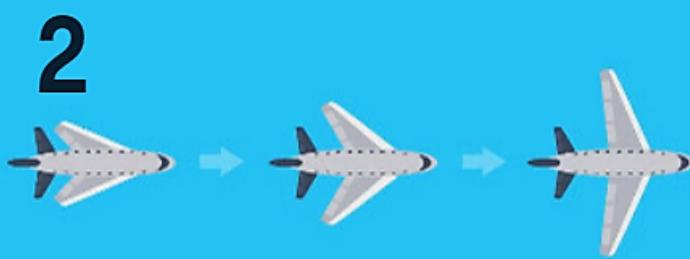

COLOUR-CHANGING PAINT:

The roof and walls of a building automatically change colour during the day, depending on the temperature.

PIEZOELECTRIC SHOES:

Walking in the shoes causes crystals in the soles to change shape, generating an electric current.

SHAPE-CHANGING AEROPLANE WINGS:

The wings detect the plane's height (using atmospheric pressure) and change shape automatically.

SELF-REPAIRING RUBBER TYRES:

The rubber contains tiny balls of glue. If the tyre is damaged, the balls open, glue is released and solidifies, and the holes are repaired.

- 3.1 B LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to a conversation about smart materials. Choose the correct options (a, b or c) to answer the questions.

- What is the woman trying to do?
 - make friendly conversation
 - teach the man something
 - sell something
- How does the hat work?
 - Its fibres change shape to control air flow.
 - It uses electricity to warm your head.
 - You can adjust its shape based on the weather.
- What must the man do to keep the hat?
 - write a detailed report about his experiences of wearing it
 - pay £50
 - test it in the rain
- Why does the woman phone her boss?
 - to ask for advice about the jacket
 - to persuade her boss to lower the price
 - to put the man under pressure to buy the jacket

- C LISTEN FOR TECHNIQUES Listen again. Which persuasive techniques does the woman use for 1–6? Use the information in the box to help you.

Listening to identify persuasive techniques

People sometimes use tricks to persuade us to do things. When someone is trying to persuade you, listen out for these tricks.

Exaggeration: listen for words like absolutely and extremely.

Leading questions: listen for questions that 'push' you towards a particular answer, including question tags (e.g. isn't it?).

Personalisation: listen for phrases like if you imagine and overuse of you/your.

- cycling more often
- how the hat works
- testing the hat
- the problem and the solution
- the smart jacket
- paying for the jacket

- D SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- Is it acceptable to use techniques like these to persuade or manipulate other people? In what situations is it OK? When is it unfair?
- What techniques do you use when you're trying to persuade someone?

PRONUNCIATION

Sounding persuasive

- A Listen to the extracts which include the sentences below. How is the woman trying to sound persuasive? Use the information in the box to help you.

- 1 You just look like a very fit and sporty person.
- 2 Yeah, tell me about it!
- 3 Hmm, I know exactly what you mean.
- 4 I think you've got yourself an excellent deal there, sir. I can see you're a very smart negotiator!
- 5 You know what? Maybe I can help you out there.
- 6 But ... hmm ... maybe ... I can offer you ... a special price ... to thank you for your help.

Sounding persuasive

- a Speak fairly quietly (as if you're sharing a secret) and slowly, with lots of pauses (as if you're thinking of new ideas while speaking).
- b Start fast and then slow right down, placing extra stress on all positive words.
- c Use slightly exaggerated rising and falling intonation on key words to express emotions.

- B SPEAK Work in pairs. Practise saying the sentences in Exercise A as persuasively as possible.

VOCABULARY

Forming verbs from adjectives

- A Complete the extracts with the correct form of the verbs in the box.

ensure formalise simplify strengthen tighten warm

- 1 I bet you can't wait for the weather _____ up!
- 2 It's quite complicated technology, but I'll try _____ it for you.
- 3 The fibres in your hat respond to the cold temperature by _____ up.
- 4 That _____ there's no heat loss from your head.
- 5 As the hat gets wet, the water _____ the fibres.
- 6 I just need you to sign this form _____ our agreement.

- B What adjective is each verb from Exercise A formed from?

- C Use the affixes in the box to create verbs. The same affix is used for all words in each group. Other spelling changes may also be needed. One group doesn't require any change.

-en -ify en- -ise

1 strong long short

2 final visual equal

3 empty smooth narrow

4 pure solid simple

5 danger able large

- D Complete the advice with the adjectives you formed in Exercise C. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

How to be persuasive

- 1 Don't just offer weak opinions. _____ your arguments with evidence and examples.
- 2 Help your potential customers to _____ themselves using your product.
- 3 Don't try to persuade everybody at the same time: _____ your focus to a small group of key people.
- 4 _____ complicated explanations to make them easier to understand.
- 5 _____ the decision-making process for your customers by removing any barriers that make their decisions harder.
- 6 Don't speak too quickly. Try to _____ the pauses between key words.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PREPARE Work in pairs. You are going to try to persuade somebody to buy a product made from smart materials. Choose one of the ideas from Listening Exercise A or use your own idea.

- B DISCUSS Discuss how your product works and why it's useful.

- C PLAN Plan a sales strategy using the persuasion techniques from Listening Exercise C.

- D PRESENT Swap partners. Take turns to try to persuade your new partner to buy your product.

- E REFLECT Share your experiences with the class. Would you buy your partner's product? Why/Why not?

○ Make predictions about the future

○ Use persuasive language to sell something

3.2 Better ... or worse?

P stress-shift words

V verb-noun collocations

G negative Inversion

S reading to determine costs and benefits

Discuss progress and society

Evaluate costs and benefits

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in groups. Do you think life is generally getting better or worse for your generation?

B LISTEN FOR MAIN IDEA Listen to the first part of a radio show. Match the people (1–5) with the opinions (a–e).

- 3.3 1 Bob _____
2 Mary _____
3 James _____
4 Callum _____
5 Sonia _____

- a I'm more aware of bad things happening than I was.
b The earlier generation didn't have the same financial worries as we do.
c Everything was better when I was younger.
d Young people were more polite in the past.
e I feel bad when I compare myself with others.

C SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you agree with the interviewees' opinions?
2 What are some possible explanations for their opinions?

D LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to the second part of the radio show. Match the opinions (a–e) in Exercise B with the concepts (1–5).

- 3.4 1 the inequality paradox _____
2 the reminiscence bump _____
3 the them-and-us delusion _____
4 the invisible struggle phenomenon _____
5 the window-on-the-world effect _____

E LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to the second part again.

Are these sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- 1 Professor Martinelli believes that life is getting better everywhere. T / F
2 Declinism proves that things really are getting worse. T / F
3 When average levels of well-being improve, it can lead to a rise in declinism. T / F
4 People often have nostalgia for their youth. T / F
5 We tend to focus on good behaviour in groups that we don't belong to. T / F
6 Professor Martinelli's parents never worried about financial problems. T / F
7 Professor Martinelli is optimistic that people will try to prevent global tragedies. T / F

F SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What are your experiences of the five concepts from the radio show?
2 Are you generally optimistic or pessimistic about the near future?

PRONUNCIATION

Stress-shift words

3.5

- A Listen to the sentences. Underline the stressed syllables in the words in bold.

- Despite amazing progress in technology and sharp increases in living standards, many of us believe our quality of life has actually decreased
- Let's hear a few extracts from those interviews.
- You feel like a reject from society.
- It's almost as if we rewrite the events in our memories.
- You've simply erased their negative attributes and bad conduct from your memory.
- We tend to attribute other people's success to luck.
- That's a major source of inter-generational conflict: young adults always suspect that earlier generations had it much easier!

3.6

- B Underline the stressed syllables in the words in bold. Then listen and check.

- Why are you always such a rebel? Why do you always rebel against everything I say?
- I didn't think I'd like Thai food, but now I'm a convert. Your cooking has converted me!
- You need to install an upgrade for your computer. When did you last upgrade it?
- I deal with imports and exports in my job: I import raw materials and export finished products to customers.
- I frequent this café during the summer, but I'm not really a frequent visitor during the rest of the year.

- C Practise saying the sentences with the correct stress.

GRAMMAR

Negative inversion

- A Complete the extracts from the radio show with one word.

- No sooner _____ an older person got on the bus than we all stood up.
- Only after they'd all got off the bus _____ I finally sit down.
- No way could I _____ afford a flat.
- None of our neighbours had much money, and neither _____ we.
- Not _____ did I have great friends, but we also did cool things all the time.
- By no means _____ I suggesting that life is wonderful for everybody everywhere.
- _____ in a million years did it occur to me that my parents were worried about money.

- B WORK IT OUT Match the sentences (1–7) in Exercise A with the rules (a–d) in the box.

Negative inversion

When we want to emphasise a negative element of a sentence (e.g. never), we can move it to the beginning and swap the subject and auxiliary verb. This process is called inversion.

- When there is no auxiliary verb, we add do/does/did.
- Inversion with could is common after phrases like only after and no way _____.
- Inversion is very common in the structure not only ... but also.
- After no sooner, we need a than-clause. _____

We don't use inversion when a negative word/phrase is the subject: Not one person offered me a seat. (NOT: did offer)

- C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 126.

- D Complete the sentences so they are true for you.

- Under no circumstances would I ...
- Only rarely do I ...
- Not only do I think ...

SPEAKING

- A PREPARE Work in pairs. Imagine you are on a radio interview about progress. Student A – read the information below. Student B – go to the Communication Hub on page 154

- B SPEAK Roleplay your interview.

Student A

You're a radio interviewer. You believe that while people complain about the world today, overall it is actually getting better. Interview Student B about progress. Also give your view on the subject. Discuss the following areas.

- the impact of technology
- community
- quality of life
- cost of living
- employment
- the environment

READING

A PREDICT Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the pictures and title of the article. What do you think 'voluntourism' might be?
- 2 What do you think attracts people to these kinds of activities?
- 3 Why might some voluntary work do more harm than good?

B SKIM Read Voluntourism: more harm than good? quickly and check your ideas in Exercise A.

VOLUNTOURISM

more harm than good?

When Pippa Biddle was a teenager, she went on a school trip to Tanzania, where she and her classmates were tasked with building a library for an orphanage. Lacking even basic construction skills, they did their best and, remarkably, over the course of a week, the building started to take shape. Only later did Pippa learn the truth: every night, a group of professional builders had been carefully undoing and redoing the teenagers' work in order to make the construction structurally sound. The whole project was an illusion: the true purpose wasn't to get help on the building project, but to make the teenagers feel good about themselves.

Welcome to the world of voluntourism, where volunteering meets tourism. Unlike true volunteering, this is paid work – but it's the worker who pays for the privilege. On the surface, voluntourism is a win-win situation. The voluntourist seizes an opportunity to travel to an exotic country and work with real people in authentic locations, while the recipients get free help. But the reality, as Pippa's story brings home to us, is rather more complicated.

The main criticism of voluntourism is that it perpetuates the myth that people in some countries need help from wise and generous benefactors in richer countries. The reality, of course, is that these countries have plenty of kind-hearted experts of their own. But of course, most voluntourists aren't even experts: they're typically gap-year students looking for a quick adventure, with no valuable skills to offer. At best, their input is often a waste of time. At worst, it could do more harm than good, as with Pippa's building experience.

Even worse are stories of fake projects created merely to keep the volunteers busy, regardless of any inherent local need. For example, there are English-language schools in remote communities where the locals neither want nor need to study English.

It's hard to avoid the conclusion that voluntourism is nothing more than an ego-trip: a chance to pretend you're making the world a better place, so you can wow your friends back home with tales of your generosity, your suffering and your profound experience of 'finding yourself'.

C READ FOR COSTS AND BENEFITS Work in pairs.

What are the deep costs and benefits of voluntourism? Use the information in the box to help you.

Reading to determine costs and benefits

When you read a for-and-against article, it's useful to distinguish between surface-level costs/benefits (e.g. obvious, short-term or unimportant ones) and deep costs/benefits (e.g. hidden, long-term or highly important ones). When deciding if you agree with the writer's opinion, focus mainly on the deep costs and benefits.

But there's another side to volunteerism. While many people do sign up with naïve expectations, they often emerge from their experiences with a far deeper understanding. On their return home, they can spread a more positive and realistic image of the countries they visit, and counter rather than perpetuate stereotypes. Finally, many voluntourists go on to become committed life-long volunteers, with their new-found habit of helping others, whether globally or in their own communities.

It's also an oversimplification to claim that voluntourism is always harmful to local communities. Highly-skilled volunteers like doctors, scientists and engineers can indeed bring real benefits. The key is to do so in a spirit of cooperation and mutual respect with local experts, rather than following the 'watch me and learn' approach. Many voluntourism agencies can have a genuinely positive impact both on the volunteers and the communities they serve.

So if you're considering signing up as a voluntourist, seize the initiative and do some research beforehand. Be honest and realistic about your skills and expectations. Above all, never forget that the main beneficiary of your voluntourism adventure will probably be you. With the right mindset, this could well be the most important experience of your life.

D READ FOR DETAIL Work in pairs. Read the article again and discuss the questions.

- 1 Why did the builders work at night?
 - 2 How did Pippa's building experience 'do more harm than good'?
 - 3 What does the writer mean by 'the right mindset' in the last paragraph?
- E SPEAK Work in groups. Do you think voluntourism does more harm than good? Would you consider doing it yourself?

Glossary

beneficiary (n) someone who gets an advantage from a situation illusion (n) a false or wrong belief or idea mindset (n) a way of thinking about things orphan (n) a child whose parents have died perpetuate (v) to make something such as a situation or process continue, especially one that is wrong, unfair or dangerous profound (adj) used about very strong feelings recipient (n) someone who receives something

VOCABULARY

Verb–noun collocations

A Choose a verb to complete each pair of verb–noun collocations. Then decide on the best collocation to complete each sentence. Use the information in the box to help you.

Verb–noun collocations

Verb–noun collocations are a good way to build vocabulary. Sometimes these include advanced verbs (e.g. perpetuate), but mostly they include very common verbs (e.g. make, do, take). Try to underline these as you read in English.

- 1 Unless you have valuable work experience you'll usually do your best / more harm than good.
- 2 Volunteer organisations should always the time / shape to train volunteers before a project.
- 3 A trained English teacher can benefits / home to a host community.
- 4 It's vital that voluntourists the responsibility / the opportunity to understand their host community before and during their visit.
- 5 Volunteer organisations should not the myth / problem that their projects are just extended holidays.

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 143.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you agree with sentences 1–5 in Exercise A? Why/Why not?

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Work in pairs. Imagine you are going to volunteer abroad. Choose one of the following voluntary projects or use your own idea.

- working at an animal sanctuary
- planting trees
- teaching children
- cleaning up litter

B PLAN Create a list of surface-level and deep costs and benefits for:

- you and your partner
- who you are helping
- the world in general.

C DISCUSS Discuss whether the benefits outweigh the costs. How could the costs be reduced? How could the benefits be increased?

D PRESENT Present your plans to the class. Whose ideas would have the best chance of making the world a better place?

O- Discuss progress and society
O- Evaluate costs and benefits

▶ Seaweed farming

- A Work in small groups. What is being shown in each picture (a–e)?

B  Watch the video. Check your ideas to Exercise A and number pictures a–e in the order they appear.

- C Watch the video again. Answer the questions.

- 1 What have scientists discovered about seaweed?
 - 2 What can seaweed help us do?
 - 3 What are the three countries mentioned in the video?
 - 4 Is the presenter's tone generally positive, negative or neutral?

Glossary

- allotment (n) a small piece of land in town you can rent and use for growing vegetables
- harvest (v) to pick and collect crops or plants
- seaweed (n) a green or brown plant that grows in the sea

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

- A Work in pairs. Read the sentence from the video and the information in the box. What three things doesn't seaweed need?

This doesn't need lots of land space to grow it, it doesn't need awful artificial fertilisers, it doesn't need lots of fresh water.

The 'rule of three'

The 'rule of three' is a rhetorical device we use to express concepts more completely, emphasise our points and increase the memorability of our message. In the 'rule of three', we often repeat the same grammatical construction.

► Fuelling the future

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you prefer to use public transport or travel by car? Why?
 2 What do you think about policies that ban or limit cars in city centres?

B Watch the video. Are these statements true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- | | |
|--|-------|
| 1 Malcolm has recently achieved a long-held ambition. | T / F |
| 2 Amanda understands the appeal of owning a sports car. | T / F |
| 3 Malcolm believes speed is the main positive of car ownership. | T / F |
| 4 Amanda says that all new vehicles will be banned from the UK by 2040. | T / F |
| 5 Amanda thinks that other feasible options besides petrol vehicles currently exist. | T / F |
| 6 Harry thinks alternative fuels will be the norm in the distant future. | T / F |
| 7 Malcolm is going to let Amanda test drive his car. | T / F |

SPEAKING SKILL

A Watch the video again. Complete the sentences (1–6) from the video.

- 1 _____ coming out for a look at my new wheels?
- 2 I mean we don't really need them in the city. _____?
- 3 _____ Harry? You're a cool young guy ... you must like sports cars.
- 4 Just the other day we were discussing alternative fuels, _____?
- 5 That kind of thing, must be a long way off though, _____?
- 6 _____ Malcolm?

B Work in pairs. Look at your answers in Exercise A. What are the speakers doing in each sentence?

I Malcolm is asking Amanda to give her opinion.

Maintaining a conversation

Inviting people to give their opinion or speak

Ask a direct question (Would you like to say something here, Andy?) or invite someone to speak using a statement (You haven't said anything yet, Maria)

Noticing changes in attitude

Respond to body language and facial expressions by asking questions or making statements. (I can tell you don't agree with me.)

Question tags

Add these to a statement to make it a question or to request agreement. (I think we all pretty much agree on this, don't we?)

Asking questions to get agreement

Ask people directly to agree with you in order to move conversations along. (Am I right in thinking that's true?)

C Work in pairs. Choose one of the topics below and try to maintain a conversation for four minutes without any long pauses.

- the environment
- a documentary you watched recently
- public transport in your country

O SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Work in a small group. Think about the pros and cons of the sources of energy below.

- wind power
- tidal power
- fossil fuels
- nuclear power
- solar power

B PLAN You are going to discuss which of the energies would be the best for achieving a sustainable future with another group. Plan how you are going to achieve agreement within your group and get all the members of the group to give their opinion.

A: What's your opinion?

B: Tidal power is too expensive compared to other renewable sources.

C DISCUSS Join with another group to discuss the pros and cons of the sources of energy.

D REFLECT As a class decide which arguments were the most convincing and which of the energy sources are necessary for a sustainable future.

O- Discuss renewable energy

► Turn to page 158 to learn how to write a persuasive email about sustainability.

Unit 3 Review

VOCABULARY

- A Complete the leaflet with the words in the box. There are two extra words that you do not need to use.

accumulate biodegradable consume depletion emissions exploitation neutral offset renewable

Want to live a more sustainable life?

Here's how.

- 1 Stop buying products wrapped in plastics, which _____ in the oceans. Choose products that use _____ packaging instead.
- 2 Cut down on the energy you _____, and use solar power, wind power or other _____ energy sources if possible.
- 3 Reduce your _____ of greenhouse gases by walking or cycling instead of driving.
- 4 Become carbon-_____ by planting trees to _____ the carbon you generate.

- B Complete the sentences with the correct form of the word in brackets.

- 1 They want to _____ (large) our university by adding a new building.
- 2 The dirty water is _____ (purify) before being released into the sea.
- 3 If your dinner's cold, you can _____ (warm) it up in the microwave.
- 4 They're _____ (strong) the old bridge before it falls down.
- 5 We didn't bother to _____ (formal) our agreement – we trust each other.
- 6 Some screws are loose on this table. Can you _____ (tight) them up?
- 7 We were winning six-five, but the other team _____ (equal) in the last minute.

- C Complete the conversation with one verb in each space.

- A: I want to¹ _____ the world a better place, but I don't know how. Could you² _____ me in the right direction?
- B: The only thing that³ _____ to mind is voluntourism.
- A: Good idea! I'll go for it.
- B: Well, please don't⁴ _____ this personally, but you don't really have any skills to offer. They have strict rules about who they accept.
- A: Really? Maybe they'll⁵ _____ an exception for me.
- B: No, I think you need to⁶ _____ the time to research it carefully so you don't end up⁷ _____ more harm than good.
- A: OK, thanks for the advice. I'll try to⁸ _____ it on board.

GRAMMAR

- A Find and correct the mistakes in four of the sentences.

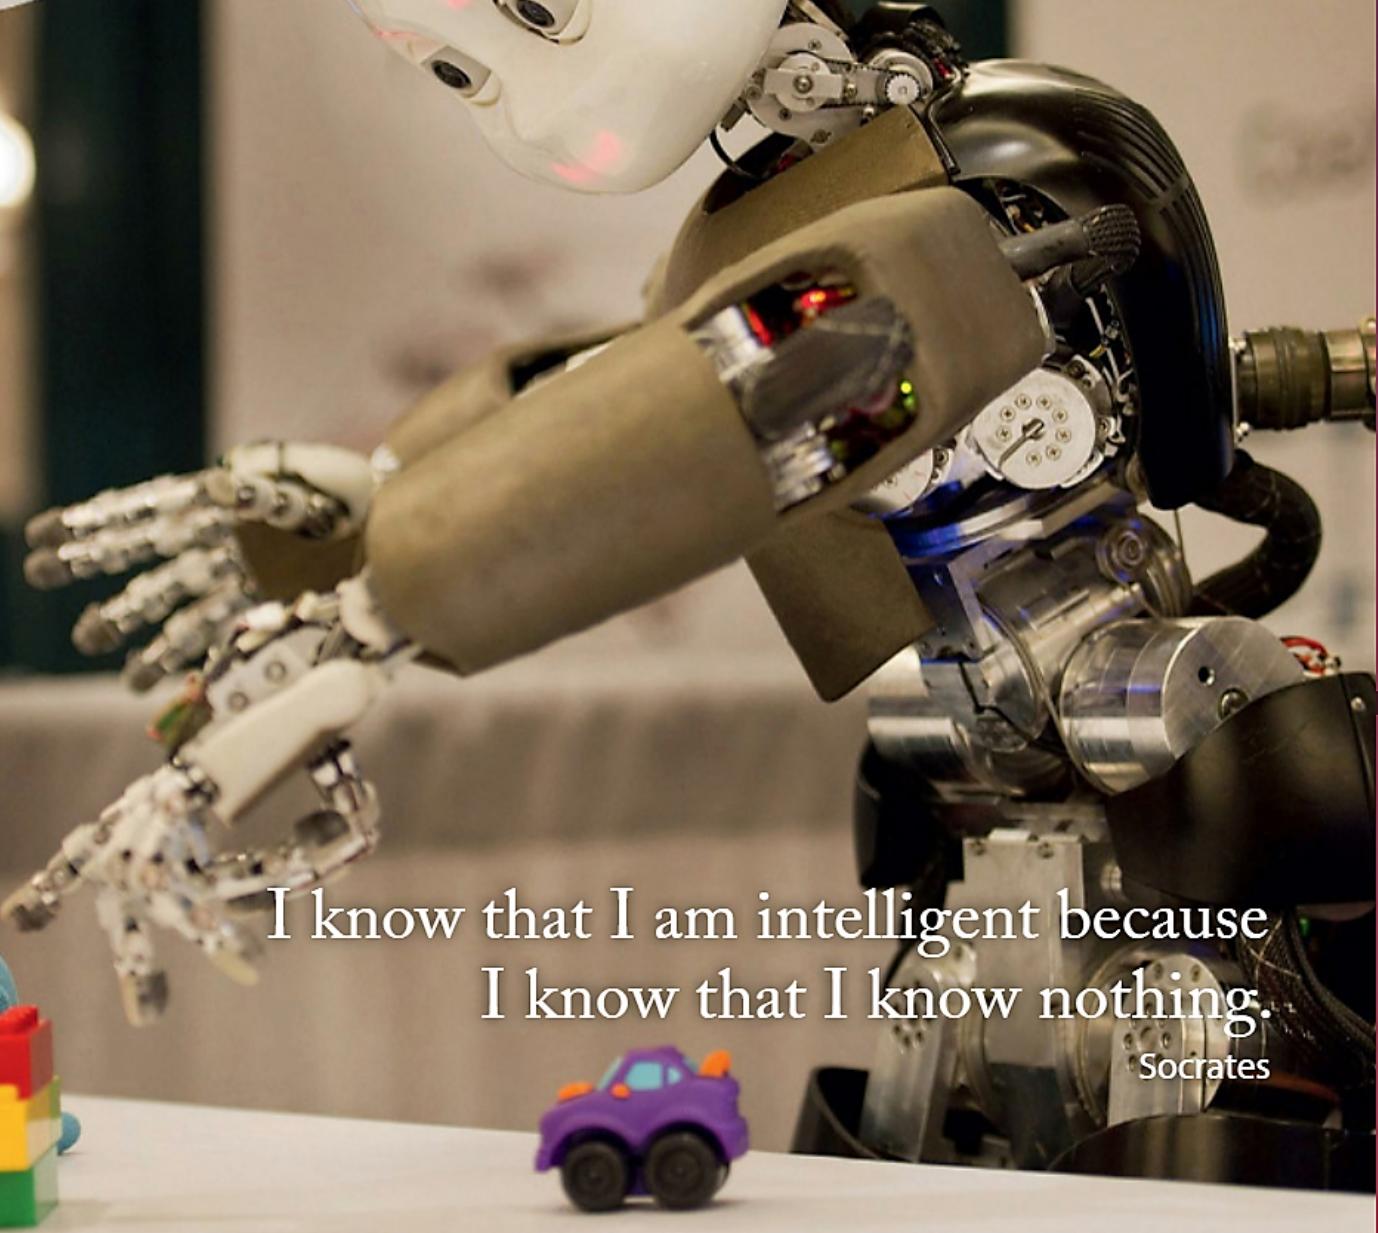

- 1 Fifty years from now, the world will have been changing completely.
- 2 My life's about getting a lot more complicated.
- 3 We'll be seeing a lot more of each other when we're neighbours.
- 4 Call me again at ten – I might have finished by then.
- 5 I'm on the verge of resigning from my job.
- 6 Your eyes will hurt after you'll have been studying all night.
- 7 Prices setting to fall by 10% over the next year.

- B Reorder the words to make sentences. The first word is given in bold.

- 1 By / you / do / I / should / means / believe / no / resign
- 2 Under / be / opened / may / circumstances / no / this box
- 3 Not / did / thanked / all the work / you / have / me / once / for / I
- 4 Only / the waiter / our food / three times / we / bring / complained / had / after / did
- 5 No / the washing / started / had / than / put out / sooner / it / I / to rain
- 6 No / to college / ever / going back / I / way / consider / would
- 7 Not / this hard / since / worked / students / we / have / I / were

4

INTELLIGENCE

I know that I am intelligent because I know that I know nothing.

Socrates

Future choices at the Istituto Italiano Di Tecnologia, Genoa.

OBJECTIVES

- discuss improving the brain
- talk about future technology
- talk about regrets
- discuss intelligence
- recount events
- write a report

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. How is it connected to the topic of intelligence?
- 2 Read the quote. What do you think Socrates means? Do you agree?
- 3 Would you rather be very intelligent, very strong or very attractive? Why?

LISTENING

- A Work in pairs. Look at the brain teaser below. Do you know the answer? Go to the Communication Hub on page 149 for more brain teasers.

TODAY'S BRAIN TEASER

David's mother had three children.
The first one was named April.
The second one was named May.
What was the name of the third child?

- 4.1 B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to a radio discussion about ways to increase your brain power. What four methods of boosting brain power are discussed?

- 1 _____
2 _____
3 _____
4 _____

- 4.2 C LISTEN AND IDENTIFY Listen to three extracts from the radio discussion. Whose argument is weaker in each extract? Which type of logical fallacy (a–c) from the box have they used?

Identifying logical fallacies

- a Generalisation: drawing a conclusion about a large group from a very small amount of data.
b Anecdotal evidence: using non-scientific personal experience as proof for something.
c False cause: claiming a relationship exists between two things when there is no evidence to support this.

- 1 Dr Carter / Amanda _____
2 Dr Carter / Amanda _____
3 Dr Carter / Amanda _____

- D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which of the methods that the speakers discussed do you think can really boost people's brainpower?
2 Do you agree with what Dr Carter said about Sudoku?
3 Why do you think findings have been inconclusive on some methods?

PRONUNCIATION

Adding information

- A Underline the part(s) of these sentences that provide additional information about something.
- 1 To answer the question, I'm joined today by two experts, Dr Ramona Carter, a leading neuroscientist, and Amanda Saraha, a life coach and the author of How to be smarter.
 - 2 So for example, if you do a lot of Sudoku, the maths puzzle where you write the numbers in boxes, it's most likely that you will just become better at playing that game.
 - 3 Recently, we've seen a lot of media stories about super foods, food that you should eat to boost your brain power.
- 4.3 B Listen to the sentences in Exercise A. Draw arrows where the intonation rises or falls.
- C SPEAK Work in pairs. Give additional information about the underlined words.
- 1 I like to do some exercise before I start work in the mornings. (give more detail)
 - 2 My friend is definitely one of the smartest people I know. (give more detail)
 - 3 I try to do some meditation because it helps me relax. (define the word)

VOCABULARY

Conceptual metaphors

- A Match the sentences (1–6) with the related conceptual metaphor (a–c). Use the information in the box to help you.

Conceptual metaphors

Conceptual metaphors help us to talk about abstract or complex ideas by comparing them with something else. For example, life is often compared with a journey, such as in sentences like this: She had reached a crossroads. Should she go to university or continue with her job? (= reached a point when she needed to make an important decision about her life)

- 1 I spent an hour doing Sudoku.
 - 2 She shot down my arguments.
 - 3 He has a really fiery temper.
 - 4 After I had cooled down, I apologised.
 - 5 I've invested a lot of time in brain training.
 - 6 I couldn't defend my position.
- a anger = heat
b argument = war
c time = money

- B Read three sentences from the radio show. What do the underlined words and phrases mean?

- 1 Of course, everyone would like to be more intelligent, but is it really possible? And if so, how can we make ourselves brighter?
- 2 A team from Cambridge actually tried to shed some light on the impact of brain training games.
- 3 As Dr Carter says, we may still be in the dark about the science behind it, but I personally believe that the food we eat has a huge effect on every aspect of our lives.

- C SPEAK Identify the conceptual metaphor being used in the questions. Then discuss the questions in pairs.

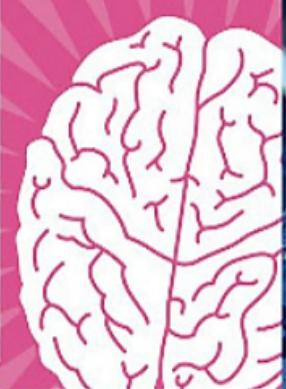

- 1 Do you think brain training is a waste of time?
- 2 What's a good strategy to convince people to buy brain-training products?
- 3 Do you think intelligent people are usually more hot-tempered?
- 4 Are you able to stay cool in an argument?

SPEAKING

- A Look at the adverts. Which products would you try? Which would you avoid? Why?

BRAIN WAVE

Drawing on the latest research, Brain Wave keeps you focused by providing regular stimulation in the form of a small electrical shock. Scientifically proven to boost performance – 73% of users agree that it has helped them to think more clearly.

Brain Juice

Are you sick of feeling tired and run down? Then it's time to supercharge your brain with the next generation energy drink. Packed full of ingredients to boost your confidence, focus and mood. Brain Juice will help you outshine the competition and start living life to your full potential.

SMARTER PHONE

Technology is dimming your intellect, so our new Smarter Phone has stripped out all the features that are making you lazy. No calculator, no map, no spell checker or auto-complete. It's time to turn off the technology and switch on your brain. Guaranteed results.

- B PRESENT Work in groups. Think of a product or service that you could sell to people who wanted to boost their brain power. Present the product to the class. Which product is the most popular?

- C DISCUSS Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you believe that it's really possible to make yourself smarter?
- 2 Should companies be allowed to sell products like the ones in Exercise A? Why/Why not?

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. If you could significantly boost your intelligence overnight, would you do it? Why/Why not?

B PREDICT Work in pairs. Look at Brain augmentation: The key to super intelligence. In your own words, explain to your partner what you think the article is about.

C READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read the article and complete the table.

Method of augmentation	Examples of benefits
1
2
3

D READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again and answer the questions.

- When do scientists predict highly sophisticated robots will be a common sight?
- How has technology been used to help blind people?
- What did scientists learn from the research with epilepsy patients?
- What potential dangers of brain augmentation does the article mention?

E SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- What was the most surprising thing that you learnt from the article?
- Do you think that the government should control this kind of augmentation?

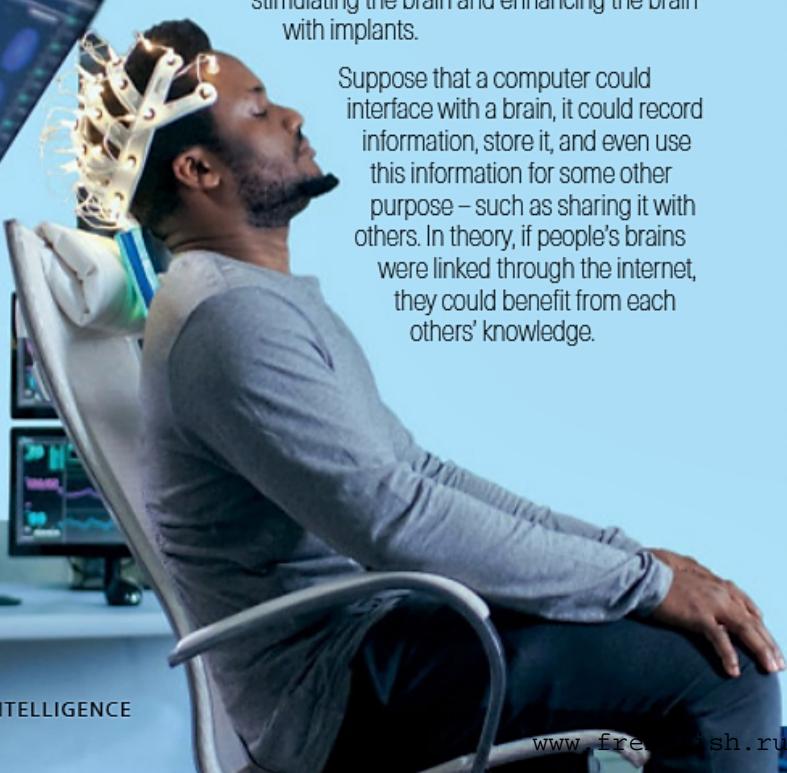

BRAIN AUGMENTATION:

The key to super intelligence

How far would you go to enhance your own intelligence? Would you implant a chip into your brain? For many scientists around the world, the answer appears to be yes. Brain augmentation, enhancing the intelligence of human brains with implants, is a growing area of interest as some predict that super-intelligent cyborgs will be a normal part of everyday life within the next 10 to 20 years.

In fact, experts believe that there are three main approaches to brain augmentation: interfacing with the brain, stimulating the brain and enhancing the brain with implants.

Suppose that a computer could interface with a brain, it could record information, store it, and even use this information for some other purpose – such as sharing it with others. In theory, if people's brains were linked through the internet, they could benefit from each others' knowledge.

Another way of augmenting the brain is by stimulating it in some way – typically with electricity. One goal of stimulation is to produce artificial sensations, such as the sensation of touch or vision. In this case, the main motivation comes from a desire to help repair the brains of people with neurological conditions. For example, in the last couple of years, scientists from Second Sight have been able to partially restore the sight of some blind people by implanting a chip into their retinas that sends signals to the brain from a camera. Although these people cannot see, the stimulation of the brain creates pictures in their mind. At the moment these are just black and white, pixelated images, but assuming that the technology continues to improve, this could be the beginning of a permanent cure for blindness.

Another goal of stimulating the brain is to improve its function and its capabilities. A recent study led by Dong Song of the University of Southern California looked at the effects of stimulating the brain on memory. Researchers worked with twenty volunteers who were having electrodes implanted into their brains to treat epilepsy. Researchers examined the effects of stimulating the brain through these electrodes during tests that involved either the volunteers' short-term memory or working memory and found that the right kind of stimulation improved short-term memory by 15% and working memory by 25%. Interestingly, unless the right kind of stimulation was provided, the volunteers' memory was actually worse. So, there is clearly a lot of work to be done to understand the right kind of stimulation to provide.

GRAMMAR

Conditionals without if

A Underline conditional sentences in the article with the same meaning as sentences (1–6).

- 1 If a computer could connect to a brain, it could download information and make it available to others. (Paragraph 3)
- 2 If the technology gets better, it could lead to a cure for blindness. (Paragraph 4)
- 3 If robots decided to fight against humans, we would have to be clever enough to take them on. (Paragraph 6)
- 4 If people created successful brain-augmentation implants, we would need to think about the moral implications. (Paragraph 7)
- 5 If you ask many people about what's happening right now, they will tell you they don't know anything about it. (Paragraph 8)
- 6 If the government had not allowed this work into augmentation, we would not be developing innovations to assist people with vision problems. (Paragraph 8)

The final approach to augmentation is the most radical, because it involves merging man and machine. The biggest impact is likely to be from implanting a chip into your brain. Bryan Johnson, founder and CEO of neuroscience company Kernel, believes that these chips could be used to help us learn faster, enhance our memories, and provide us with a cognitive boost. Space X and Tesla are also working on technology to boost the human brain through the company Neuralink. One concern raised is that humans are able to enhance their intelligence, because, should AI turn against humans in the future, we would need to be smart enough to fight back.

Of course, were brain-boosting implants to be successfully developed, they would raise several difficult ethical questions. Would changing people's brains change their personalities? If someone had an implant fitted, would they be at risk of being hacked? Could these super intelligent cyborgs be a danger to the rest of us?

Ask many people about what's happening right now in this field and they will tell you they are completely in the dark. Unfortunately that includes the government, who many feel should be doing more to regulate the technology and ensure that it really is safe. However, had the government banned this kind of research, the technology to help blind people would not be under development.

B Choose the correct words to complete the rules (a–c). Then look at the example sentences you found in Exercise A to complete the rules (d–f).

Conditionals without if

We can use inversions to talk about hypothetical situations in formal or literary English:

- Had*: We use had + subject + infinitive / past participle / verb.
- Should*: We use should + subject + infinitive / past participle / verb.
- Were*: We use were + subject + infinitive / past participle / verb.

We can use other words instead of if:

- Verbs*: imagine, _____, _____, _____
- Present participles: _____, presuming, providing, supposing
 - Past participles: provided
- We can also make a conditional sentence by starting with an imperative and joining the clauses with _____.

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 128.

D Change the start of these sentences to make conditionals without if. Complete the sentences with your own opinions.

- 1 If people were able to upload information into their brains, ...
- 2 If we ignore the potential danger of AI, ...
- 3 If brain implants were only affordable for the super-rich, ...
- 4 If I were to be offered a brain-boosting implant, ...

E Compare your sentences with your partner. Do you agree with your partner's opinions?

SPEAKING HUB

Work in pairs. Student A – go to the Communication Hub on page 150. Student B – go to the Communication Hub on page 152. Describe the situations to your partner. Discuss what you would do.

Glossary

cyborg (n) a creature in science fiction stories that is part human and part machine electrode (n) a small metal or carbon object inside an electrical cell or a battery that electricity flows through. There are two electrodes, one positive and one negative.

neurological (adj) relating to your nervous system or to the diseases that affect it retina (n) the part at the back of your eye that sends light signals to your brain, where they are changed into images

- Discuss improving the brain
- Talk about future technology

4.2 Thinking and thought

Talk about regrets
Discuss intelligence

G wishes and regrets

P adding information or changing the topic

V science and research; thinking

S Identifying different writing styles

READING

A SPEAK Read No need to be embarrassed? Discuss the following questions.

- 1 Have any of the situations described happened to you?
- 2 Which stories do you think are the most and least embarrassing?

B Read The positive side of embarrassment What do scientists think is the purpose of embarrassment?

C READ TO IDENTIFY Who is each text written for? What is the purpose of each text?

Text 1 _____

Text 2 _____

D Read both texts again. Find examples of the writing styles (a–e) in the box. Use the information in the box to help you.

Identifying different writing styles

Texts written for a general audience usually use:

a shorter, simpler sentences (including sentences that start with and, but and so) b idiomatic language (contractions, phrasal verbs, idioms).

Academic papers and articles:

c are objective not personal (no I, you or we, no emotional adjectives)

d use longer, more complex sentences

e use formal language (no contractions or phrasal verbs, but academic vocabulary).

E SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you agree that displaying embarrassment can make a positive impression on others?

NO NEED TO BE EMBARRASSED?

Glossary

buddy (n) (American English) friend consolation (n) something that makes you feel less unhappy or disappointed cringeworthy (adj) something that makes you feel embarrassed or ashamed

Psychologists believe that embarrassment should actually be viewed as a positive thing. When we blush or stammer in embarrassment, we are showing that we know that we shouldn't have said or done something and that we don't normally do this kind of thing. In other words, showing we are embarrassed is a kind of non-verbal apology.

Well that's all well and good, but when you're caught red-faced, I don't think that would be any consolation. In light of this research, I thought I'd do a bit of my own. Now I'm no stranger to embarrassment, but a quick survey revealed embarrassing work stories far worse than mine. Here are some of your most cringeworthy moments.

PAUL Can you even begin to imagine what it's like to walk into a glass door at full speed? Must be painful, right? Now add to that the mortification that it was in front of your new boss. If I hadn't been trying to impress her with my walking-while-emailing skills – like I was a hot-shot political aide on an American TV show – I might have noticed the door. But the humiliation doesn't stop there. All of my co-workers were sat around a conference table on the other side of that glass door. I would have loved to make a good impression. But all I ended up with was wounded pride ... and a broken nose.

CAROLINE Generally speaking I'm a pretty confident person. I'm great at putting people at ease and keeping conversation going. I just wish I wasn't so absent-minded. Over the years it has caused me infinite amounts of awkwardness. But never more so than just last month. An important client was flying in from Vancouver for an even more important meeting. So I offered to pick them up from the airport. The only problem was by the time he came through the arrivals gate, I had completely forgotten where I'd parked my car. We spent the next two hours wandering aimlessly around various car parks in the pouring rain. I wish I'd never offered to give him a lift ... and I bet he does, too!

GIANNI This happened five years ago but to this very day the memory still haunts me! The CEO where I used to work sent a (very smug) company-wide email congratulating himself on record profit margins. In response I wrote a very rude message making fun of the CEO to my office buddy ... or so I thought. If only I hadn't been in such a rush to have lunch, I might have noticed that I had hit reply to all instead of reply... those two little words make a huge difference. My email was sent to every employee in London and Boston. It was only when I came back from lunch and everyone was sniggering that it clicked what had happened. I just wanted the ground to swallow me up.

The positive side of embarrassment

The outward signs of embarrassment are well known, and include blushing, gazing downward, turning away and face touching. However, researchers have been attempting to identify the evolutionary purpose of embarrassment.

Several researchers have postulated that embarrassment may help to signal whether humans are willing to develop long-term bonds with each other. For example, Lewis (2008) believes that embarrassment is when an individual makes a negative evaluation of their actions, thoughts or feelings because they feel they have not behaved according to social standards.

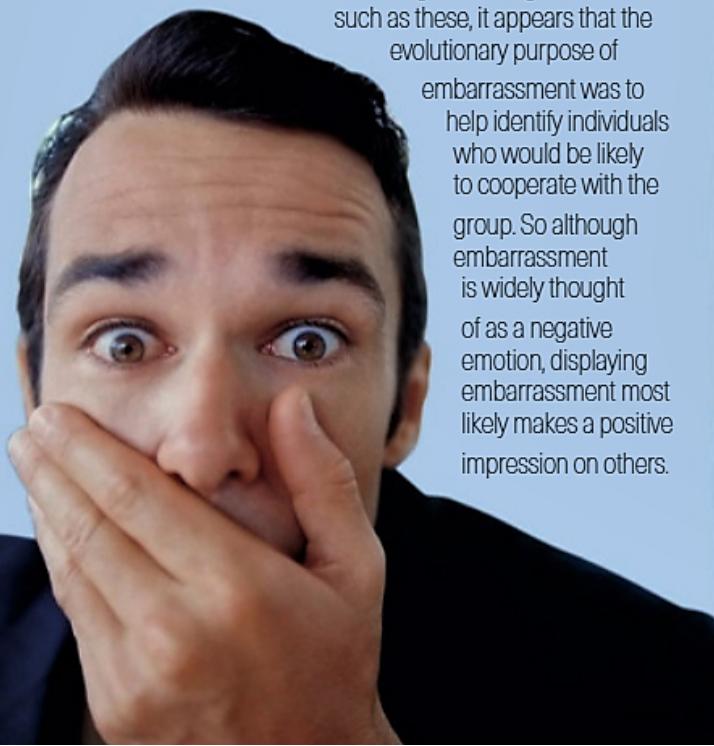

Feinberg, Willer, Keltner and Dacher (2012) hypothesised that embarrassment served several important social functions and conducted several experiments to test this hypothesis.

In one experiment, participants were asked to tell an embarrassing story and then complete a questionnaire that looked at their tendency to be kind. The findings indicated that people who showed more embarrassment were more likely to be kinder people. The researchers concluded that these people were more 'pro-social' – that is they wanted to be part of the group and not behave in a way that was counter to the social norms of the group.

In another experiment, participants witnessed an interaction between a researcher and someone that they thought was another participant (but was actually an actor). The researcher praised the fake participant's performance on a test, and the fake participant either expressed embarrassment or pride. The participants who saw the actor look embarrassed were more likely to think he was trustworthy and want to interact with him. This experiment demonstrated that people are more likely to have a positive perception of someone who shows embarrassment. The researchers speculated that this was because this person is showing a desire to fit in with the group.

From examining the findings of studies such as these, it appears that the evolutionary purpose of embarrassment was to help identify individuals who would be likely to cooperate with the group. So although embarrassment is widely thought of as a negative emotion, displaying embarrassment most likely makes a positive impression on others.

VOCABULARY

Science and research

A Match the words in bold from the second text with the meanings (1–9).

- 1 do (an experiment, a study)
- 2 standard behaviour
- 3 suggest a theory
- 4 guess
- 5 people taking part in a study or experiment
- 6 results
- 7 test
- 8 decide
- 9 show

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 143.

C SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Would you like to be a participant in a psychology study?
- 2 Think of an experiment you've heard about. What did it hypothesise? What were the findings?
- 3 Is it ethical to conduct a study where you make people feel embarrassed?

GRAMMAR

Wishes and regrets

A WORK IT OUT Look at the underlined sentences in No need to be embarrassed? Then choose the correct words to complete the rules.

Wishes and regrets

- 1 We use wish or if only + present / past simple to wish that the present was different.
- 2 We use wish or if only + present / past perfect to wish that the past was different.
- 3 We can use should (not) or ought (not) to + have + past participle or been + present / past participle to talk about regrets.
- 4 We can use would + love or prefer or hate + to have / have + (not) past participle to talk about regrets.

B Go to the Grammar Hub on page 128.

C Complete the sentences so they are true for you.

- 1 If only I could ...
- 2 I wish I were ...
- 3 I would have loved to ...

SPEAKING

A PREPARE Think of a time when you did something you regret. You can use the list of ideas on page 150 of the Communication Hub or your own ideas. What happened? What do you wish had happened differently?

B DISCUSS Tell your partner about what happened. Listen to your partner and ask questions.

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the pictures. Discuss which of the following gives people the biggest advantage in life. Give reasons for your choice.

- Money
- Intelligence
- Supportive family
- Good health

4.4

B LISTEN FOR MAIN IDEA You are going to listen to part of a debate about whether being highly intelligent gives people an advantage in life. What are the speaker's three main points?

- 1 _____
2 _____
3 _____

4.4

C LISTEN FOR SPECIFIC INFORMATION Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 What is the 'nutty professor' stereotype?
- 2 What mistakes do intelligent people often make at social events?
- 3 What do intelligent people sometimes do to preserve their reputation?

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Can you think of any counter-arguments or challenges to the three points in Exercise B? Present them to your partner. Use the phrases below to help you.

First of all, the speaker claimed that ... but ...

In addition, the speaker stated that ...

The speaker also mentioned the fact that ...

E SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you know any intelligent people who behave in the ways that the speaker described?
- 2 Do you think the speaker has a convincing argument? Why/Why not?
- 3 The speaker says that intelligence and happiness don't necessarily come together. Do you agree?

VOCABULARY

Thinking

A Complete the questions (1–8) with the correct form of a word or phrase in the box.

absent-minded common sense curious eccentric eureka moment overthink troubleshoot wishful thinking

- 1 Are you good at _____ or do you find it difficult to find and fix problems and faults?
- 2 Do you sometimes think about the same thing over and over again? Are you _____ things?
- 3 Do you solve problems with sudden bursts of inspiration, like an _____?
- 4 Do you like to take things apart? Are you _____ about how things work?
- 5 Do you make time in the day to organise work? Or does it seem like _____ to sit down and plan things?
- 6 Do you forget where you leave things? Are you _____?
- 7 Are you a practical person? Or do you lack _____?
- 8 Would you describe yourself as fairly conventional and similar to most people? Or are you a bit _____?

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 144.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Ask and answer the questions in Exercise A. Then decide if your partner is a genius.

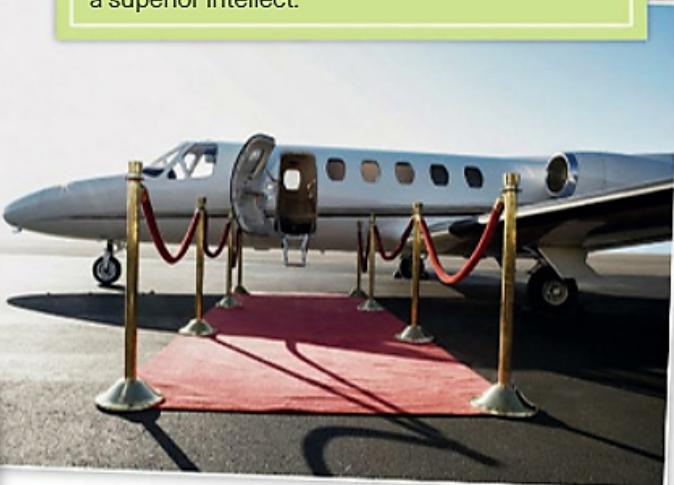

PRONUNCIATION

Adding information or changing the topic

- A Listen again to the beginning of the debate.
4.5 Draw arrows to show whether the intonation is rising (↗), falling (↘) or fall-rising (↘↗) at the end of the underlined words/phrases.

Thank you very much. It's an honour to speak against the motion tonight. ¹Right, () it's easy to see why so many people believe being intelligent makes your life better. ²After all, () we see intelligent people thriving at school. We see them getting onto the university courses they want. We see them graduating with good academic qualifications. And ³on top of that, () we see the importance the world gives to qualifications. So, it may seem strange for me to stand here and argue that intelligent people aren't necessarily at an advantage in life. ⁴However, () that is exactly what I'll do. ⁵In fact, () there are several clear disadvantages in having a superior intellect.

- B SPEAK Work in pairs. Read the dialogues, focusing on the intonation of the underlined words and phrases. Then continue them with your own ideas.

- 1 A: I read that highly-intelligent people often like to spend time alone.
- B: On top of that, they find it really hard to make friends.
- 2 A: Are you going to watch the debate on intelligence on TV tonight?
- B: Yes, I'm planning to. By the way, do you want to go to a debate?
- 3 A: Einstein has been voted the most intelligent person ever.
- B: Really? Incidentally, how did you do on your exam?

SPEAKING HUB

- A PREPARE Work in groups. Read the motion below and decide whether you will argue for or against it.

Motion: Highly intelligent people should be educated separately.

Order of debate

- 1 Presentation in support of the motion.
- 2 Challenge to this presentation.
- 3 Presentation against the motion.
- 4 Challenge to this presentation.

- B PLAN Decide on the roles each team member will have. Brainstorm arguments to support your position. Try to anticipate the arguments the other team will make, and prepare counter-arguments to them.

- C DISCUSS Hold the debate. Follow the order given in Exercise A.

- D REFLECT Discuss the following questions:

- How successful was the debate?
- What was your real opinion about the motion?
- Is it difficult to argue for a point of view you don't really agree with?

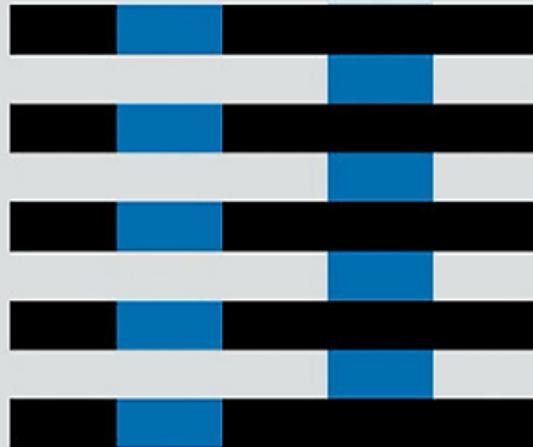

- Talk about regrets
- Discuss intelligence

► Sound and vision

a

b

A Work in pairs. Look at pictures a and b and discuss the questions.

- 1 In picture a, is each half of the circle the same shade of red?
- 2 In picture b, are the rectangles the same shade of blue? Turn to page 154 to check your answers.

B 4.6 Listen to three short pieces of music. What colours do they make you think of? Why? Turn to page 153 to check your answers.

C Watch the video about an artist. Complete the sentence with the best option.

Neil Haribsson has ...

- 1 partial colour blindness in which it is difficult to distinguish between blue and yellow, violet and red, and blue and green.
- 2 slight colour blindness in which it is difficult to distinguish between red, green, brown and orange.
- 3 total colour blindness in which colours are seen as black and white.

Glossary

implant (v) to put an organ, group of cells, or device into the body in a medical operation sensor (n) a piece of equipment that reacts to physical changes such as the amount of heat or light that exists somewhere skull (n) the bony case which contains the brain

D Watch the video again. Complete the summary.

Neil Haribsson, an ¹ _____, has never been able to see colour. He was ² _____ about colour because people always refer to it. He wanted to be able to ³ _____ colour rather than to alter his sight. A team of doctors and ⁴ _____ helped him create an electronic device. This is made up of a colour sensor and a ⁵ _____. The sensor picks up ⁶ _____ frequencies and the chip ⁷ _____ the frequency into a sound. Each colour creates a different ⁸ _____.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Read the sentence from the video and the information in the box. Why do you think Neil's electronic device is compared to something from science fiction?

With the help of a team of engineers and doctors he created something straight out of science fiction.

straight out of

You use straight out of to say that something is similar in type to something else. This structure is often used to compare the thing we are describing to an imagined or fictional scenario.

B Work in pairs. Complete the sentences in an interesting way.

- 1 The scenery in Ireland is stunning – straight out of a travel brochure.
- 2 The band are really like The Beatles. They sound like something straight out of the 1960s.
- 3 Himari saw snow for the first time that winter. It was like something straight out of an old movie.
- 4 The village has spectacular old buildings, a beautiful lake and no roads. It's straight out of the Wild West.
- 5 My bag had been stolen, it was pouring with rain and I couldn't speak the language. It was straight out of the movie Indiana Jones.
- 6 The climb to the summit was long and difficult. It was like something straight out of the movie Everest.

C Join with another pair. Compare your answers to Exercise B.

Hearing colours

A Work in pairs. Discuss the following questions.

- 1 What gadgets or devices do you use?
- 2 Are there any new gadgets or devices you want to buy?
- 3 Have you ever been to a technology fair or exhibition? Why/Why not?

B Watch the video. Are these sentences true (T), false (F) or not given (NG)?

- | | |
|---|------------|
| 1 Harry is off sick from work. | T / F / NG |
| 2 The café was very busy in the morning. | T / F / NG |
| 3 Emily was about to leave the Tech Fair when a woman approached her. | T / F / NG |
| 4 The device looked like headphones. | T / F / NG |
| 5 The first thing that Emily saw on the screen was a red square. | T / F / NG |
| 6 Emily agrees that Sam should go to the Tech Fair. | T / F / NG |

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Put the following sentences from the video in the order they are spoken.

- Well, I was at this big Health Tech Fair earlier today, right?
- But hang on, I'll get to that.
- Tell me about it. I've had a bit of a strange one myself.
- [The woman] asked me to step inside a large box. So I did.
- [I'm] thinking about heading out when all of the sudden, this woman stops me.
- Overall it was a strange but unforgettable experience.
- I was just about to ask her what it was when she slammed the door on me!
- So I'm standing there saying 'Excuse me ... what's going on' and thinking what on earth have I got myself into.

SAM MALCOLM AMANDA HARRY EMILY

B Match the sentences from the video (1–8) with the strategies (a–d) in the box.

Recounting events

We often recount events. To do this effectively we use a number of strategies.

- a signalling the start of a story. For example, _____
- b giving the background to a story. For example, _____
- c evaluating parts of a story. For example, _____
- d sequencing events in a story. For example, _____

SPEAKING HUB

A PLAN You are going to tell an interesting anecdote to a partner. You can choose one of the following topics or use your own idea.

- a strange coincidence
- a great event
- an unforgettable trip

B PREPARE Make notes on how you are going to sequence the events in your anecdote.

C DISCUSS Work in pairs. Tell your anecdote. Change roles.

So I'm thinking to myself this is like something straight out of a Hollywood movie.

D REFLECT Work with a new partner and retell them your previous partner's anecdote.

Recount events

► Turn to page 159 to learn how to write a report about a study.

Unit 4 Review

VOCABULARY

A Identify the conceptual metaphor in each sentence. Do you agree with the sentences?

- 1 If you're not learning something, you're wasting your time.
- 2 Don't show that you're bright or people will expect big things.
- 3 Always keep moving, but never go backwards.
- 4 Invest in your friendships above all else.
- 5 If you want to win an argument, attack first and attack hard.
- 6 Keep people in the dark about your goals until you succeed.

B Replace the underlined words in the article with the words in the box. You may need to change the tense of the words.

conclude conduct demonstrate experiment findings hypothesise participants speculate the norm

Pavlovian responses

One of the most famous psychological ¹studies was ²done by Ivan Pavlov, where the ³subjects were dogs. Pavlov observed that all dogs naturally salivated whenever they saw food, so he ⁴decided this was not a behaviour they had to learn.

However, he noticed that his dogs also salivated when his assistant, who often fed the dogs, walked into the room. Pavlov ⁵guessed that the dogs had learnt to associate his assistant with food.

He ⁶theorised that the dogs could learn to associate a stimulus with food and would salivate when exposed to this stimulus even when no food was present. He rang a bell whenever he fed his dogs, so that this became ⁷typical for them.

After several sessions, he rang the bell when no food was present and his dogs salivated. His ⁸results ⁹showed that dogs could learn an automatic response to a stimulus.

C Match the sentences (1–8) with the sentences (a–h) that have the same meanings.

- 1 You're great at troubleshooting.
 - 2 You often overthink things.
 - 3 You can be a little absent-minded.
 - 4 You've got no common sense.
 - 5 You're a little eccentric.
 - 6 You often engage in wishful thinking.
 - 7 You're naturally curious about everything.
 - 8 You often have eureka moments.
-
- a You don't have conventional tastes.
 - b You have sudden instances of inspiration.
 - c You like learning about things and how they work.
 - d You are pretty forgetful.
 - e You're not always realistic when you think about future events or situations.
 - f You have a tendency to spend too much time considering an issue.
 - g You don't understand how to do basic things.
 - h You're good at analysing and solving problems.

GRAMMAR

A Rewrite the beginning of the sentences using the words in brackets. Then complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- 1 If all vehicles were automated ... (Were)

- 2 If companies started selling robots to do the housework ... (Should)

- 3 If schools employed robot teachers ... (Imagine)

- 4 If humans could marry robots ... (Supposing)

- 5 If factories hadn't started using robots ... (Had)

- 6 If robots develop conscious thought ... (Suppose)

B Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 Jim wishes he is / were better at sports.
- 2 If only I can / could speak three languages.
- 3 She would love have / to have a better memory.
- 4 Tina and Bill wish they could save / had saved more money as they can't afford their mortgage this month.
- 5 We should not eat / not have eaten so much junk food when we were younger.
- 6 If only I have / had travelled more.
- 7 My brother ought to spend / have spent more time with our parents while they were visiting.
- 8 I wish I can / could cook.

5

GAMES

We do not stop playing because we grow old; we grow old because we stop playing.

Benjamin Franklin

Generation games – a grandma and granddaughter play.

OBJECTIVES

- discuss problem-solving tasks
- discuss gaming and game design
- identify generalisations
- discuss ideas for solving a challenge
- plan a fundraising event
- write a formal report

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

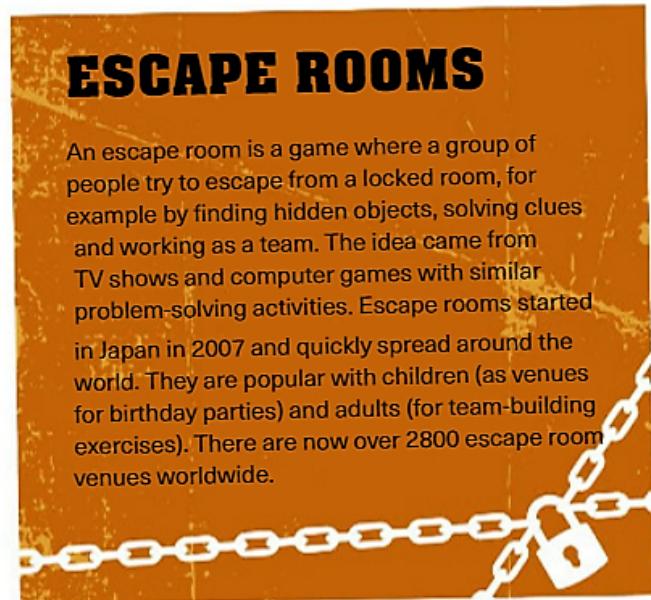

- 1 Look at the picture and read the quote. Why do you think people stop playing games? How does this make us 'grow old'?
- 2 What games did you like when you were younger? Did you stop playing these games? Why?
- 3 What games do you like now? Will you keep playing these games when you are older? Will you start any new games?

LISTENING

A SPEAK Read about escape rooms. Do they exist in your country? Are they popular? Why/Why not?

5.1 B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to a conversation between three friends, Lin, Joe and Olga, in an escape room. The conversation is in three parts. Answer the same three questions after each part.

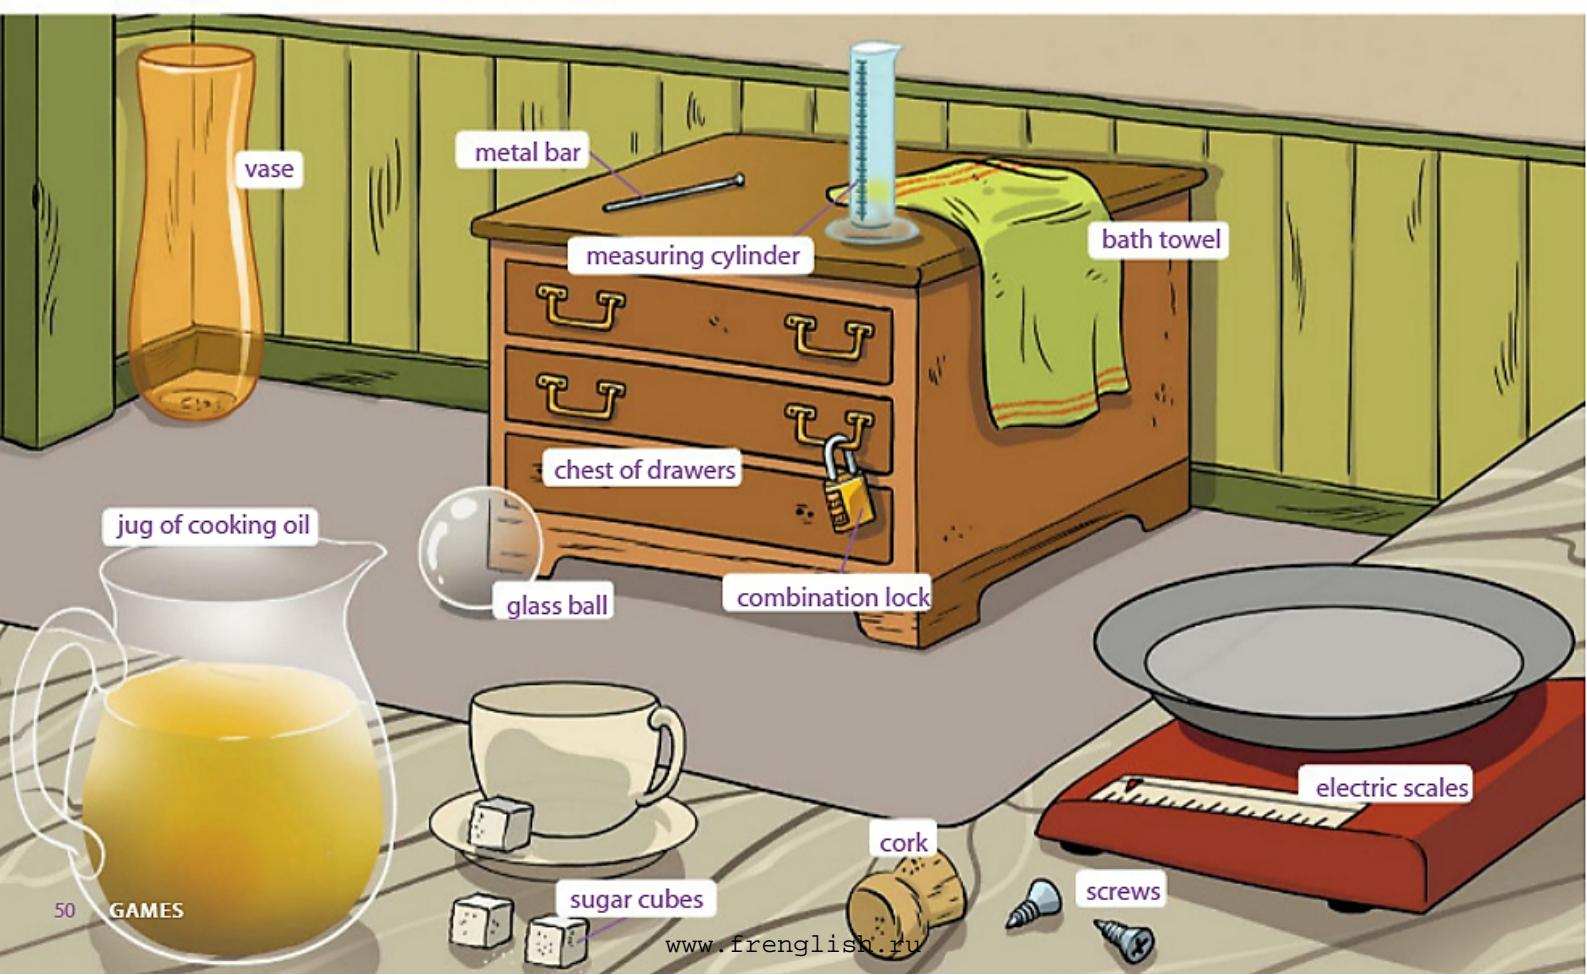

- 1 Which objects from the pictures did they mention for the first time?
- 2 Which problem(s) are they trying to solve in this part?
- 3 What do you think will happen next?

5.1

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to the whole conversation again. Choose the correct options (a, b or c) to answer the questions.

- 1 Apart from the metal bar, why can't they get the key out?
 a The cylinder is too deep to reach the bottom.
 b They're worried about breaking the cylinder.
 c The cylinder is too narrow for their arms.
- 2 How many of the friends have read the instructions?
 a one b two c three
- 3 Why can't they use the vase to transfer the oil?
 a It's full of water.
 b It's too big.
 c It can't be moved.
- 4 Why didn't they notice the message before?
 a The room was too bright.
 b They didn't look in the right direction.
 c They couldn't open the drawer.
- 5 Why does Joe want to keep playing?
 a He's having too much fun.
 b He's sure they've found all the clues.
 c He thinks people will laugh at him.
- 6 Why was the towel necessary?
 a Because they needed an accurate measurement.
 b Because the ball was too slippery to hold.
 c Because they needed to weigh it on the scales.

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 How could they have escaped more quickly?
 - 2 Do you think you would have solved all the puzzles?
 - 3 How long would it have taken you to escape from the room?

GRAMMAR

The passive

- A Look at these sentences from the conversation. Complete the second sentence so that it is in the passive.

- B Match the sentences (1–5) with the rules (a–d).

The passive

- a In the structure make sb do sth, you need to add to in the passive (e.g.).
 - b You can make the passive from -ing forms (e.g.) and to + infinitives (e.g.).
 - c The get-passive (get + past participle) is rather informal. Use it to describe unexpected/unwanted events (e.g.). It's also useful for distinguishing actions (e.g. to get married) from states (e.g. to be married).
 - d Use the causative passive (have/get + something + past participle) to focus on the person who organises/pays for a service (e.g.) or is the victim of a crime (e.g. I had my car stolen).

1 We'll get thrown out if anything gets broken!

2 I don't remember being given any instructions.

3 We were made to sign a form at the reception desk.

4 I reckon the cylinder needs to be filled with water.

5 You need to get your eyes tested!

- C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 130.

- D SPEAK Work in pairs. Ask and answer questions about these topics.

- a way you like/don't like being treated
 - a time when you were made to do something
 - something you've had done recently/you need to get done soon

- a time when you got lost/stuck/d

B: Really? When do you get treated like that? Who by?

PRONUNCIATION

Expressing disbelief

- 5.2 A Match the extracts from the conversation (1–7) with the responses (a–g). Then listen to check.

- 1 It's at the bottom of this measuring cylinder.
 - 2 Try pulling it really hard.
 - 3 I wondered what that form was.
 - 4 Shall we give up?
 - 5 Something metal? Aha! Two screws.
 - 6 You did it! We're free!
 - 7 There's something in the jug!
 - a Screws? What are we supposed to do with them?
 - b Didn't you read it?
 - c Give up? No way!
 - d Seriously? That's cheating!
 - e Yeah right! There's nothing there apart from the oil.
 - f Really? That was easy!
 - g Are you joking? We still need to remove the metal bar.

- 5.3 B Listen and decide in which sentence (a or b) the speaker is expressing disbelief.

- 1 _____ 2 _____ 3 _____ 4 _____

- C SPEAK Work in pairs. Take turns to talk about something surprising you did this month. Express disbelief at your partner's statements.

A: I volunteered to teach in India.

B: Really? India? No way!

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in small groups. Imagine the room you're in now is an escape room. What clues might help you to escape? Where might those clues be hidden? Express disbelief at each other's suggestions.

READING

A SKIM Look at the picture and the title of the blog post. What do you think urban games are?
Skim the blog post to check.

B READ FOR GIST Read the blog post. Which game (a–d) ...

- | | | |
|--|---|----------------------|
| 1 isn't only played in cities? | — | a Hidden Bonds |
| 2 teaches you about a place while you play? | — | b Geocaching |
| 3 has more viewers than live players? | — | c Pac Manhattan |
| 4 has players who stand out from the crowd? | — | d Poznan Beyond Time |
| 5 can be confusing to play? | — | |
| 6 takes advantage of a weakness in technology? | — | |

URBAN GAMES

TURN CITIES INTO PLAYGROUNDS

It's 6 am and I'm sitting on Trafalgar Square, feeling apprehensive. ¹What on Earth have I let myself in for? The square is virtually empty but I have the distinct feeling I'm being watched by thousands of curious eyes. I receive an SMS: 'Follow the man with the striped umbrella. Don't let him see you.' I spot the man in the distance, jump to my feet and set off in hot pursuit, heart pounding.

I'm playing Hidden Bonds, one of the new generation of urban games that are taking off in cities around the world. Urban games encapsulate the best elements of computer games and transfer them to the real world, adding social and physical dimensions to activities that would otherwise involve sitting alone for hours in a darkened room – ²something I'm all too familiar with!

Urban games originated from a game called Geocaching, which uses GPS devices to create virtual treasure hunts. Players are given the GPS coordinates of special boxes called caches, which could be hidden anywhere in the world. Part of the challenge comes from the limitations of GPS, which is only accurate to within a dozen or so metres, so you need to use your eyes. After locating a cache, you win the prize inside – but you must replace it with an appropriate prize for the next player. ³Sounds amazing, right? ... If you're into trudging round muddy fields disorientated and in the middle of nowhere!

One of the best-known modern urban games is Pac Manhattan, a version of the arcade game Pac Man, played out on the bustling, grid-like streets of New York. ⁴How cool is that? Players dressed up as brightly-coloured characters from the game race around city blocks, gobbling up virtual 'dots' as they go – and trying to outmanoeuvre rival players to avoid being caught.

Glossary

- encapsulate (v) to express something in a short clear form that gives the most important facts or ideas
gobble (v) to eat something quickly and often noisily

Luckily, some urban games are played at a more moderate pace. Visitors to Poznan in Poland can choose from a range of treasure-hunt games to explore the city, while solving clues about the city's cultural heritage and history. For example, in Poznan Beyond Time, players embark on a time-travelling adventure to save the world. All you need is a printed game sheet ... and some good walking shoes – ⁵as I learnt to my cost!

Then there are games played out for an online audience – which brings me back to Hidden Bonds. It's quite complicated, but in a nutshell, there are four teams, each represented by five 'agents' on the streets of London. The objective is to cooperate with your allies to overcome rival agents, by sending a Bluetooth message to their phone before they can send one to yours. Problem is, the agents have no idea who the other agents are and who's just a normal passer-by, which can lead to some embarrassing moments, ⁶'I can tell you! The agents receive instructions on their mobile phones from 'spymasters', who coordinate the players' movements based on the votes of hundreds of 'team members' watching the game live online. The team with the last remaining agent prevails

At a rough estimate, I'd say I've played Hidden Bonds as an online team member about 50 times – ⁷yeah, sad, I know. Collaborating with hundreds of strangers is surprisingly satisfying, but playing live is altogether more exhilarating, especially when you come face-to-face with a rival agent. I managed to catch four opponents before getting caught myself mid-afternoon. Only later did I realise that I'd walked over 20 kilometres in the process! ⁸Pretty impressive, right? I'd do it again tomorrow if I could, but there's a seven-month waiting list to participate again as an agent. ⁹Just my luck, huh?

C UNDERSTAND ASIDES Look at the asides (1–9) underlined in the blog post. Then answer the questions (a–f). Use the information in the box to help you.

Understanding colloquial asides

Colloquial asides are informal phrases that comment on other information in the text (e.g. Not bad, huh?). They often take the form of questions or exclamations and they make a text feel more chatty, personal and friendly. Asides can reveal the writer's personality and attitudes. However, watch out for irony, where the writer means the opposite of what they've written.

Which aside(s) ...

- a express(es) genuine enthusiasm? _____
- b is/are likely to be irony? _____
- c suggest(s) the writer feels guilty about their lifestyle? _____
- d show(s) how the writer felt at the beginning? _____
- e suggest(s) the writer often describes frustrations in their blog posts? _____
- f hint(s) at problems the writer experienced while playing? _____

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which games from the blog post would you like to play? Why?
- 2 Which would you not want to play? Why?
- 3 Can you think of any dangers or weaknesses of urban games?
- 4 Why do you think games like this have become more popular?

VOCABULARY

Competition and cooperation

A Match the words in bold in the blog post with the definitions.

- | | | |
|---|-------|--|
| 1 | _____ | (v) working in partnership |
| 2 | _____ | (n) people on the same side as you |
| 3 | _____ | (v) wins (e.g. after a long contest) |
| 4 | _____ | (v) organise people working together |
| 5 | _____ | (v) beat another player or solve a problem |
| 6 | _____ | (n) a person competing against you |
| 7 | _____ | (v) help/support others |

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 144.

C SPEAK Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you prefer games that involve overcoming rivals or cooperating with allies? Think of examples.
- 2 Think of examples of sports or games where you have to outsmart, outmanoeuvre, outplay or outrun your opponents.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Work in pairs. Create an urban game for your town/city. Use ideas from the blog post and your own ideas.
- B DISCUSS Present your ideas to another pair. Ask and answer questions about how your game ideas will work in practice.
- C PREPARE Choose one game idea to develop more fully as a group. Write some simple rules or instructions for your game.
- D PRESENT Present your ideas to the class. Which games would you most like to play? Why?

- Discuss problem-solving tasks
- Discuss gaming and game design

5.2 Serious gaming

G passive reporting structures
P -atwords

V reporting verbs; motivation and manipulation
S distinguishing generalisations from preferred solutions

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Read The Food Truck problem. Discuss two or three possible solutions.

B Work in small groups. You are going to think of a solution for three more puzzles. Go to the Communication Hub on page 151.

C LISTEN FOR SOLUTIONS Listen to the presentation on Game Theory. What are the correct answers to the puzzles? Use the information in the box to help you.

Distinguishing generalisations from preferred solutions

A speaker often presents their preferred solution to a problem or puzzle, alongside obvious but problematic solutions or generalisations. Often the generalisation is discussed first, before the speaker's preferred solution.

Use the following techniques to distinguish the preferred solution.

- Pay attention to the order in which the speaker presents solutions. Preferred solutions may be presented later.
- Listen for phrases that signal a generalisation (e.g. it seems obvious, you might expect, according to conventional wisdom).
- Listen for solutions presented with questioning intonation. This may indicate the speaker does not believe this is the correct answer.
- Listen for attitude words like adverbs which can show that the speaker has a sceptical or cautious attitude to a solution (e.g. presumably, allegedly).

PUZZLE C: THE FOOD TRUCK PROBLEM

You decide to open a food truck business. There's already one other food truck in town, which always parks in the town centre (point C).

Where's the best place to park your food truck? You can negotiate with the other food truck owner, if you wish.

Identify generalisations
Discuss ideas for solving a challenge

5.4

D LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Are these sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- 1 In puzzle A neither participant is likely to win any money. T / F
- 2 Game Theory uses scientific models to find solutions. T / F
- 3 The favourite in talent shows is rarely eliminated in reality. T / F
- 4 The food truck owner at C has no good reason to move. T / F
- 5 The new network would double the amount of traffic. T / F

PRONUNCIATION

-ate words

5.5

A The suffix -ate has two pronunciations. Listen to the extracts from the presentation on Game Theory. Complete the table with the words in the box.

accurate appropriate complicated cooperate eliminated fascinating

/eɪt/	/ət/

B SPEAK Work in groups. Discuss the following questions.

- Do you prefer games where you have to cooperate with others rather than compete individually?
- What is the most fascinating sporting event you've ever watched?
- Do you prefer playing simple or complicated games?

VOCABULARY

Reporting verbs

- A Replace the underlined words in each sentence with the correct form of the verbs in the box.

acknowledge assert conclude imply instruct urge

- 1 If you share the money, you're saying indirectly that you're willing to cooperate.
- 2 It's important to say (although it makes my argument weaker) that this strategy doesn't always work.
- 3 You might decide after thinking carefully that voting for her would be a waste.
- 4 So I'd strongly advise you to resist the temptation to vote tactically.
- 5 You should give instructions to the other truck to move to point D.
- 6 She can simply state as a fact that she's staying in her prime spot.

- B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 144.

- C SPEAK Complete the sentences with your own ideas. Then discuss your sentences with a partner.

- I firmly believe that ...
- I'm not sure whether ...
- I'm brilliant at ...
- Perhaps if I'd done ... I might not have ...
- You really must ...

- D Swap partners and report what your previous partner said using reporting verbs.

GRAMMAR

Passive reporting structures

- A Complete the sentences so they mean the same as the passive sentences with It.

- 1 It can be assumed that your opponent is having the same thoughts.
Your opponent can be _____ having the same thoughts.
- 2 It is said that Game Theory is one of the hardest branches of mathematics.
Game Theory is _____ one of the hardest branches of mathematics.
- 3 It is rumoured that sports coaches have been experimenting with Game Theory.
Sports coaches _____ have been experimenting with Game Theory.
- 4 It is expected that she'll win by a landslide.
_____ to win by a landslide.
- 5 It is reported that this type of thing has happened many times in real life.
This type of thing _____ happened many times in real life.

- B WORK IT OUT Complete the rules about passive reporting structures with information from Exercise A.

Passive reporting structures

Reporting verbs can be used with passive structures when we want to introduce a widely held opinion or fact. There are two main ways of doing this.

- _____ + passive + _____ clause
- _____ + passive + to + infinitive

Some verbs commonly used with these structures are:

_____ and _____

- C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 130.

- D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 When is it useful to use the passive voice to report speech/thoughts?
- 2 Why do you think 'to rumour' has no active voice form?
- 3 What's the advantage of using the structure with/to + infinitive?

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in pairs to think of examples of how Game Theory might be used in sport, business, etc. Use the structure with/to + infinitive to report generalisations, expectations and assumptions.

The best time to make an investment is assumed to be when the price is low, but if everyone has the same idea at the same time, then ...

READING

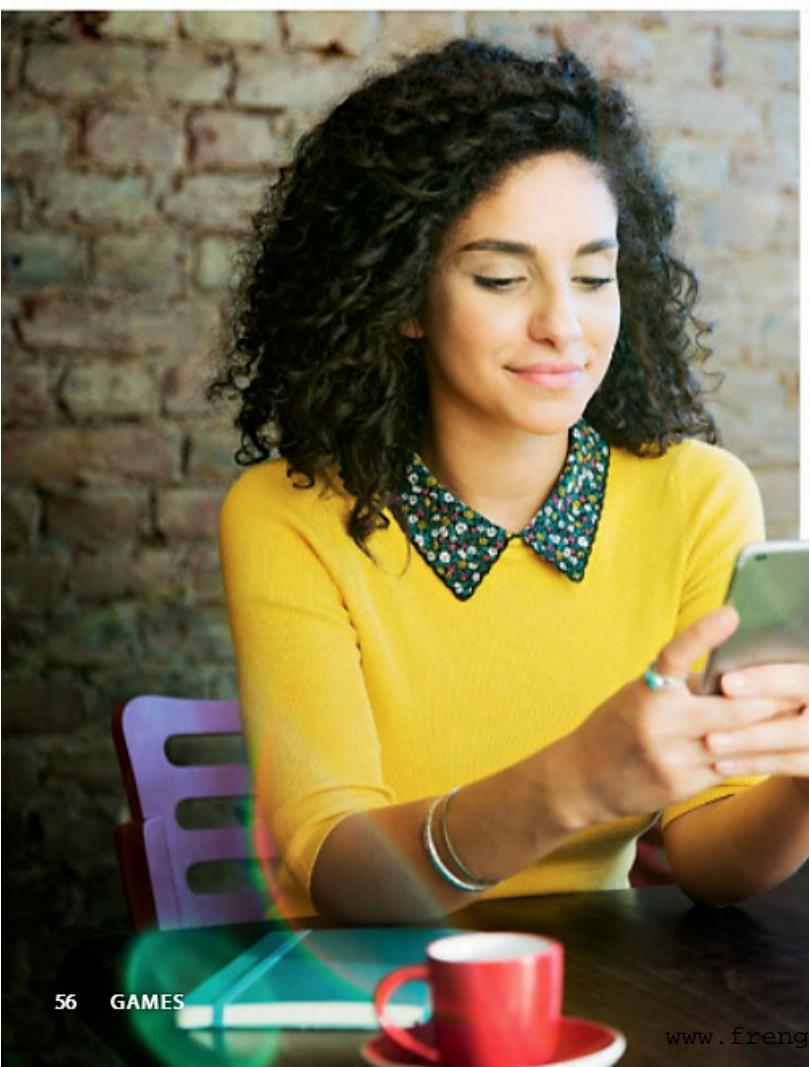

A SPEAK What tricks do smartphone games use to keep people playing again and again? Try to think of other situations where these tricks are used.

B SKIM Read Gamification: treading the line between motivation and manipulation. Are any situations from Exercise A mentioned?

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again. According to the article, are these sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- | | |
|---|-------|
| 1 Many companies are not yet aware of the potential of gamification. | T / F |
| 2 Virtual prizes can still be highly motivating. | T / F |
| 3 The majority of people are aware that gamification has been used on them at some point. | T / F |
| 4 The major benefit of gamification for charities is that it increases financial donations. | T / F |
| 5 Gamification is used to help people recover from injuries. | T / F |
| 6 A brand new interactive show is being developed by a production company. | T / F |
| 7 Gamification sometimes encourages people to behave in a way that isn't right. | T / F |
| 8 The personality of workers may affect how motivating gamification techniques are. | T / F |

D Work in pairs. Look at the two quotes from Christabel Maware and Lisa Tanaka in the article. Which speaker do you agree with most? Why?

VOCABULARY

Motivation and manipulation

A Match numbers (1–7) with letters (a–g) to form full sentences. Then check by looking for the underlined phrases in the article.

- 1 As a result of marketing tricks, customers went ...
 - 2 Getting the university place I wanted spurred ...
 - 3 People don't mind working hard if you can tap ...
 - 4 If people know why they're doing something, they'll be more inclined ...
 - 5 Gamification can make people act against ...
 - 6 We offered virtual prizes to coax ...
 - 7 The online shop is designed to steer people ...
- a to spend time doing it properly.
 b people into giving us their data.
 c me on to study harder for the exams.
 d towards the most expensive products.
 e nuts for the new product.
 f their best interests
 g into their natural desire to do a good job.

B Look at the complete sentences in Exercise A. Decide whether the phrases in bold are related to motivation or manipulation.

C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 145.

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Think of examples from your own experience of each verb in Exercise A. Tell your partner your examples.

My friend tried to coax me into editing her dissertation for her.

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Work in small groups. Choose one of the following challenges, or a similar idea, to solve with your group.

- How to motivate children to read/write more
- How to encourage people to pick up litter

B PLAN Discuss ideas for solving your challenge, using Game Theory and/or gamification techniques.

C PRESENT Present your challenge and solution to the class. Ask and answer questions about how it will work in practice.

D REFLECT Discuss with the class. Which solutions have a chance of becoming popular? Could they make money?

GAMIFICATION

treading the line between MOTIVATION and MANIPULATION

Hitting the treadmill before work, ploughing through deadlines, and finding time to study in the evenings. Perhaps these aren't the sort of activities you'd necessarily associate with fun. Yet a glut of apps, websites and online communities that place game-like experiences right at the centre of motivation might give you pause for thought. None of this is news for many commercial and public organisations which are already tapping into gamification – the application of elements from gameplay psychology to everyday tasks.

Gamification is about more than creating new games for non-gaming contexts. At its heart lies an understanding of the powerful principles that underlie gameplay, the elements that make it so compelling to so many: gratification, competition and rewards. Games increase engagement. Giving people rewards even virtual ones releases dopamine, the feel-good hormone. This leads them to associate that activity or behaviour with positive emotions. And that's often enough to spur them onto repeat it.

The applications of this are diverse: steering commuters towards the stairs over the escalator on the Odenplan subway in Sweden by turning them into a giant piano staircase or promoting good learning habits and classroom behaviour by giving students 'experience points'. It's highly likely you've experienced gamification yourself, although you probably didn't realise it.

So how can this benefit us? Gamification has made inroads into both the not-for-profit and health sectors. For charities, its greatest potential lies not in fundraising but in fostering a sense of community. If volunteers feel part of an engaged community, they are more inclined to stay. Furthermore, they can be incentivised to recruit others or blog about a cause through rewards.

Gamification can also be integrated directly into grassroots campaigning. Hopelab's Zamzee, a physical activity programme for families, uses child engagement with technology to improve health. It guides younger users towards doing more physical activity through an activity sensor and a 'physical points' reward system. More specialised healthcare like physical rehabilitation is using and trialling similar approaches. The Medical Interactive Recovery System (Mira) uses a camera to track a patient's physiotherapy movements and translate them into actions within a video game.

Glossary

- crave (v) to want something very much and in a way that is very hard to control
- incentivise (v) to give someone a reason for wanting to do something
- grassroots (adj) relating to or involving ordinary people, especially in politics
- plough (v) to finish something that takes a long time and is difficult or boring
- recognition (n) praise, respect or admiration

As well as bringing fun to areas where it might be wanting, gamification promises to take fun to the next level in traditional entertainment. Younger and more technologically-savvy viewers may crave an immersive experience, being able to participate in a TV show rather than simply view it. Well, now they can have both their needs for compelling stories and recognition or rewards for their gaming achievements, met at the same time. For example, the popular sci-fi TV show, Defiance, by Universal Cable Productions, allowed viewers to shape the plot of television episodes through their actions in an accompanying game.

Some are cautious about gamification, precisely because of its power and how widely it is being used. 'If it can help change our behaviour, it can also manipulate us to act against our best interests', warns technology lecturer and game designer Christabel Maware. 'I can see it being used quite cynically to exploit consumers and employees.' Some companies and organisations have already been called out. For example, a ride-sharing app was criticised for supposedly encouraging drivers to drive further without breaks.

And even where gamification is encouraging 'healthy' competition or making a mundane but necessary work task more appealing, there are concerns around work freedom and surveillance. While leader boards and badges can keep us motivated, having our performance and potentially complex interactions monitored, graded and immediately reported back on by machines sounds more dystopian. 'Quite simply, not everyone is going to go nuts for badges at work', says Recruitment Manager for AdTech Analytics. For workers who are more introverted or prefer to work privately, this kind of surveillance might be unwelcome and demotivating.

As Lisa Tanaka, founder and CEO of creative agency Gamified International puts it, 'On balance gamification can bring some very positive benefits to many sectors. This stuff works, our brains really are hard-wired for rewards and fun is addictive. We're already being coaxed into doing all kinds of things. But with such a powerful tool, there's a pressing need now for companies to be socially responsible in how they use it.'

- Identify generalisations
- Discuss ideas for solving a challenge

Would you risk it?

a

b

A Work in pairs. What do you think is happening in the pictures (a and b) from the video?

B 00.00–01.00 Watch the first part of a video about an experiment. Answer the questions.

- 1 What happens if the coin lands on heads?
- 2 What happens if the coin lands on tails?

Glossary

flip (v) to turn over quickly or to make something turn over heads (n) the side of a coin that has a picture of a head on it scenario (n) a situation that could possibly happen tails (n) the side of a coin that does not have a picture of a person on it

C 01.00–01.30 Watch the second part of the video. Choose the best option (a, b or c) to complete the sentence.

In this situation most people ...

- a take a risk and maybe win an extra ten pounds or nothing.
- b choose the safe option and take fifteen pounds.
- c risk it for the chance to win an extra five pounds.

D 01.30–02.20 Work in pairs. Watch the third part of the video and complete the sentences with the correct option.

- 1 In the second scenario you are given ten / twenty pounds.
- 2 You have to choose to accept a safe loss of five / ten pounds or take a risk.
- 3 You flip a coin. If it comes up heads, you don't lose anything, but if it comes up tails, you lose five / ten pounds.

E 02.20–03.27 Watch the last part of the video. What do most people do in the second scenario? Why?

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentence from the video and the information in the box. What word has been left out of the sentence?

Would you choose the safe option and get an extra five pounds or take a risk and maybe win an extra ten or nothing?

Ellipsis

Ellipsis is the practice of leaving a word or words out of a sentence when they are not necessary for understanding it. In spoken English, unstressed words are often left out at the beginning of sentences if the meaning remains clear.

B Work in pairs. Match the questions (1–6) with the replies (a–f). Then cross out any words which can be omitted from each question and reply.

- 1 Did you enjoy your holiday?
 - 2 Are you ready yet?
 - 3 Is your dad any better?
 - 4 Are you coming out with us tonight?
 - 5 Did you have any luck with the tickets for the Beyoncé concert?
 - 6 I'm sorry, are you talking to me?
- a I'm almost ready. I'm just putting on my make-up.
 - b Yes, I was asking if you're doing anything nice at the weekend.
 - c Yes, thanks. He should be out at the weekend.
 - d No, they were all sold out. It's a shame, really.
 - e I'm afraid, I can't. I've got to work late.
 - f It was absolutely amazing! I've just got back, actually.

C Work in pairs. Take it turns to ask each other short questions from Exercise B and reply with your own short answers.

▶ How sure are you?

A Work in pairs. Look at the picture.

- 1 What board games are popular in your country?
 - 2 Do you ever play them?
- B Watch the video. Answer the questions.
- 1 If Sam and Amanda go in an anti-clockwise direction, which category do they land on?
 - 2 Why does Amanda think Geography is the better option?
 - 3 How does Sam feel about Amanda's strategy?
 - 4 How does Malcolm indicate the correct answer to Sam and Amanda?
 - 5 How does Amanda suggest making the game more interesting?
 - 6 Why doesn't Emily want to take the risk?
 - 7 What's the question Emily and Harry have to answer?
 - 8 What's Malcolm's answer? Is he correct?

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Look at the underlined expression from the video and answer the questions.

- 1 What is Harry doing?
- 2 Why do we do this when we're speaking?

Sam: Don't you think it's better to play it safe and go for your strongest categories first ... you know ... try and build up a lead?

Harry: That sounds like a solid strategy to me.

SAM MALCOLM AMANDA HARRY EMILY

B Look at the information in the box. Decide which strategy (a or b) is being used in the exchanges (1–4) from the video.

Building relationships

We can build relationships using the following strategies.

- a Agreeing with the other person by tagging on to what they have said.
- b Relating to what the other person has said by evaluating or commenting.

1 Sam: I'm thinking we should go for Geography.

Amanda: Totally ... I absolutely hate Geography ... it's better to try and get it out of the way earlier.

2 Emily: Ah, good – this is quite hard, I think.

Sam: That is quite tricky.

3 Sam: OK, it can only be one of two countries ...

Amanda: ... either Finland or Norway.

4 Emily: I mean sport hardly looks like it would be Malcolm's strongest category.

Harry: I guess not but he is smart.

C Work in small groups. Give your opinions on one of the following topics. Use the strategies from Exercise B to build a positive rapport.

- your favourite board game
- your favourite type of film
- your favourite type of book

○ SPEAKING HUB

A PLAN Work in small groups. You are going to plan a fundraising event for a local charity. Decide on one of the following.

a dinner a board game evening a yoga class a bake off a fashion show a quiz

B PREPARE Individually think about the preparations for the event. Consider the following points.

- space
- logistics
- timing
- cost

C PRESENT Work in small groups. Decide on a course of action for the event. Try to build up positive relationships and create a consensus.

A: We could hold a banquet dinner at the town hall.

B: Great idea! It could go on all evening.

○ Plan a fundraising event

► Turn to page 160 to learn how to write a formal report about gamification.

Unit 5 Review

VOCABULARY

A Complete the instructions with the correct form of a word in the box.

ally collaborate cooperate coordinate prevail rival

Bike clash

The game involves outmanoeuvring players on ¹ teams by racing around the city on bikes. Each team has four players, who ² with each other, and a 'boss', who ³ their movements. By ⁴ with theirs ⁵, players solve puzzles to identify the times and locations of 'clashes', where they try to ⁶ their rivals. When a clash begins, the team with the most players wins a 'trophy'. Any teams that have been outnumbered lose a player. At the end, the team with the most trophies ⁷.

B Choose the correct word to complete each sentence.

- 1 Shops are often laid out to discourage / steer / trigger customers towards expensive items.
- 2 Salespeople try to manipulate us by coaxing / dissuading / exploiting us into spending more than we intended.
- 3 Loyalty cards can make people act / spur / tempt against their best interests.
- 4 My sister spurred / influenced / dissuaded me on to enter the race.
- 5 I wasn't exploited / inclined / influenced to go, but you've persuaded me.
- 6 Advertising can tap / tempt / influence into people's emotional needs.

C Complete the definitions with the words in the box.

discourage dissuade exploit influence manipulate motivate tempt trigger

- 1 If you somebody, you encourage them to want to do something.
- 2 If you somebody, you use tricks to convince them do something.
- 3 If you somebody from doing something, you persuade them not to do it.
- 4 If you somebody from doing something, you encourage them not to do it.
- 5 If you somebody, you take advantage of their kindness or naivety.
- 6 If you somebody, you offer them something that's hard to resist.
- 7 If you somebody's behaviour, you change it, perhaps without the person noticing.
- 8 If your actions a response, they cause it to happen automatically.

GRAMMAR

A Rewrite the sentences so they start or end with the words in brackets.

1 Somebody must have moved my car. (my)

2 You can always rely on Leo. (Leo)

3 I'm worried about somebody seeing me. (seen)

4 They made us leave our phones outside. (we)

5 Somebody's going to fix my car. (I'm)

6 It was nice of them to invite us. (invited)

7 How did somebody break the vase? (broken)

?

B Put the words into the correct order to make sentences.

1 good / considered / my proposal / be / to / enough / wasn't

2 to / anyone / to the party / expected / hardly / was / come

3 have / reported / is / hundreds of complaints / received / to / the company

4 going / at / been / alleged / have / the time / to / the driver / is / too fast

5 planning / is / a new hospital / to build / rumoured / to / the city council / be

6 been / the kidnappers / have / is / the letter / by / to / believed / written

6

DISCOVERIES

The real voyage of discovery consists not in seeking new landscapes, but in having new eyes.

Marcel Proust

Unearthing the past in Huara Rajada, Northern Peru.

OBJECTIVES

- speculate and make deductions about the past
- plan an amazing journey
- discuss rewarding jobs
- give a presentation about someone you admire
- plan and perform an interview
- write an expository essay

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. What do discoveries like this tell us? Are they important? Why/Why not?
- 2 Read the quote. What does Proust mean? Do you agree?
- 3 What do you think has been the greatest discovery ever? Give reasons for your answer.

6.1 Challenging journeys

V Journeys and adventures; three-part phrasal verbs
P showing your attitude

G past modals of speculation and deduction
S prediction strategies for reading

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you know any famous explorers? What did they do?

B PREDICT Look at the title and the pictures in the article. Read the information in the box and answer questions a and b.

Prediction strategies for reading

Use the prediction cycle to help you predict the content of a text:

- Make predictions about the content of the text.
 - a What information will be included?
 - b What questions will it answer?
- Read part of the text to find out if your predictions were correct or not.
 - c Were your predictions correct?
 - d What information supported or challenged your predictions?

C SKIM Read The disappearance of Percy Fawcett. Answer questions c and d in the box in Exercise B.

D READ FOR DETAIL Complete the table with evidence for and against each theory in the article.

For
1
2
3

Against 1
2
3

E SPEAK Work in groups. Which theory do you think is the most likely explanation for what happened? Why?

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF PERCY FAWCETT

In the age of long-haul flights and travel off the beaten track, many now consider themselves seasoned globetrotters. However, there was a time when travelling to the far corners of the world was both dangerous and rare.

This was true in January 1925 when accomplished British explorer Percy Fawcett embarked on his latest expedition, hoping to find an ancient city in the jungle, the Lost City of Z.

Despite previous failed attempts to find it, he was still convinced that a large city that was 'more ancient than the oldest Egyptian discoveries' lay at the heart of the Amazon. On 20th April, his group departed from the Brazilian city of Cuiabá and headed for the jungle.

On 29th May, Fawcett sent a letter to his wife telling her that they were about to enter uncharted territory. They were never heard from again.

So what happened to Fawcett and his party? This remains one of the world's greatest unsolved mysteries and has inspired a lot of speculation. Here are three possible explanations.

1 THEY WERE KILLED BY INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

Some people believe that Fawcett and his companions must have been killed by an indigenous tribe. While journalist David Grann was retracing Fawcett's journey in 2005, he met with a tribe called the Kalapalo. They told him that they had heard stories from their grandparents about explorers coming to their territory and ignoring warnings not to walk through territory belonging to another tribe because this tribe were hostile to intruders. The Kalapalo tribe believe that it is highly likely Fawcett and his companions were killed by this other tribe. However, no bones have ever been found.

2 THEY DIED OF NATURAL CAUSES: EXHAUSTION, STARVATION OR ILLNESS

According to Henry Costin, a man who accompanied Fawcett on several of his previous expeditions, Fawcett was always friendly and respectful towards the tribes he met, so he can't have been killed by them.

Costin believed that there was a distinct possibility, given the scale of the expedition and the impenetrable terrain, that Fawcett and his companions died from exhaustion, or lack of food when their provisions ran out. Alternatively, given that several explorers at the time died from tropical diseases, they may well have succumbed to illness in the jungle.

3 THEY STAYED IN THE JUNGLE

After studying Fawcett's private papers, television director Misha Williams came up with an alternative theory. She believed that Fawcett had become disillusioned with life in Europe and may have decided to establish a commune in the jungle and live a simpler life.

However, many people point out that this theory doesn't make a lot of sense, because Fawcett had a wife and two children, so he couldn't have deliberately abandoned them. Similarly, he could have found the Lost City of Z and decided to stay. In recent years, archaeological discoveries have shown that Fawcett might have been right after all.

Researchers have found the ruins of huge cities in the Amazon that may well have been home to thousands of people. Did he finally find what he was looking for?

Glossary

- disillusioned (adj) disappointed because you have discovered that someone or something is not as good as you had believed
- starvation (n) a situation in which a person or animal suffers or dies because they do not have enough to eat
- succumb (v) to become very sick or to die from a disease
- intruder (n) someone who enters a place where they are not allowed to go
- retrace (v) to go along the same path or route that someone else has gone along previously
- seasoned (adj) experienced in a particular activity or job

VOCABULARY

Journeys and adventures

A Scan the article again. Complete the definitions with the words in bold.

- 1 _____ (n) supply of food, drink, equipment, etc for a journey
- 2 _____ (adj) impossible to move through or enter
- 3 _____ (v) begin
- 4 _____ (n phr) places not covered by maps
- 5 _____ (n) middle of
- 6 _____ (n) frequent international travellers
- 7 _____ (adj) long distance
- 8 _____ (phr) away from frequently visited places

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 145.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Tell your partner about an adventurous journey you've been on or heard about.

GRAMMAR

Past modals of speculation and deduction

A Look at the underlined sentences in the article. Complete the rules with the words in the box.

adjective adverb can't/couldn't could/might/may may well must

Past modals of speculation and deduction

- 1 We use _____ + have + past participle for things we believe logically happened.
- 2 We use _____ + have + past participle for things we think are likely to have happened.
- 3 We use _____ + have + past participle for things we think possibly happened.
- 4 We use _____ + have + past participle to say something was not logically possible.
- 5 We can use phrases that start with There's a/ an- _____ + noun + (that) ... to speculate.
- 6 We can use phrases that start with It's + _____ + adjective (that) ... to speculate.

B Go to the Grammar Hub on page 132.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss these theories about Percy Fawcett's disappearance.

- 1 They were attacked by wild animals.
- 2 Rival explorers killed them.
- 3 They were killed by a natural disaster.
- 4 They decided to join one of the tribes.

SPEAKING

A DISCUSS Work in small groups. Group A – go to the Communication Hub on page 153 Group B – go to the Communication Hub on page 155

B PRESENT Work with someone from the other group. Tell them about the historical mystery you read about.

VOCABULARY

Three-part phrasal verbs

- A Work in pairs. Read Seven reasons to go travelling. Discuss which you think is the best reason to go travelling.
- B Find nine three-part phrasal verbs in the article. Use the information in the box to help you.

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

4 _____

5 _____

6 _____

7 _____

8 _____

9 _____

Three-part phrasal verbs

Phrasal verbs are common in informal English.

Most phrasal verbs only have two parts (for example, sit down, turn up). However, there are also three-part phrasal verbs which contain a verb + a particle + a preposition (for example, look up to).

- C Choose the correct options to complete the rules. Use the examples in Exercise B to help you decide.
- 1 Most three-part phrasal verbs are separable / inseparable.
 - 2 The particle and the preposition can / can't be separated.
 - 3 Some three-part phrasal verbs can take an object after the verb / particle.

- D Complete the sentences with a three-part phrasal verb from Exercise B. Use the hint in brackets to help you.

- 1 It's important to _____ (research) a place before you visit it.
- 2 If you _____ (experience) problems on a trip, it makes it more of an adventure.
- 3 _____ (moving away from) the crowds is more interesting than going sightseeing.
- 4 I don't think I _____ (be interested in) travelling to another country by myself.
- 5 I _____ (remember) my childhood holidays with fondness.
- 6 Travel is a great way to help people to _____ (stop thinking about) work or study.
- 7 You should always _____ (review and practise) your language skills before a trip.
- 8 You should always pack in advance rather than only _____ (eventually do) it the night before you leave.

- E Work in pairs. Discuss whether you agree or disagree with the sentences in Exercise D.

- F SPEAK Work in small groups. Which reasons from the article do you think are the most worthwhile? Why? Think of three more reasons to go travelling.

Seven reasons TO GO TRAVELLING

- 1 Because you are up for an adventure. Challenge yourself with something that pushes you outside your comfort zone. See how you react when you come up against obstacles.
- 2 Because you want to find out about the world. You can read about different countries and cultures, but nothing compares to being there and seeing it for yourself.
- 3 Because you want to learn the language. If you really want to brush up on your language skills, you need to travel to where the language is spoken.
- 4 Because you want to learn about yourself. Getting away from home and work means you have time to reflect on your life and decide if you want to make any changes.
- 5 Because you need to recharge your batteries. If you find it hard to keep yourself away from work, travelling can help you switch off from all the things you need to do and get some well-earned rest.
- 6 Because you want to celebrate a special occasion with friends or family. Travel can create precious memories that you can look back on together.
- 7 Because you always wanted to. Don't keep putting it off or you'll never get round to it!

LISTENING

A PREDICT Work in pairs. You are going to listen to a discussion about travel challenges on a radio programme. What do you think a travel challenge is?

B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to the radio programme. Answer the following questions.

- 1 What is a travel challenge?
- 2 How many examples of travel challenges does Kyle give?
- 3 What reasons other than to be different does Kyle give for people doing these challenges?
- 4 What does the presenter think you need to do a trip like Adam Leyton's?
- 5 What does Kyle admire about Daniel Tunnard?
- 6 What is Kyle's most vital piece of advice for someone doing a travel challenge?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. What is the significance of the following numbers?

- | | |
|-------|-------|
| 1 24 | 5 41 |
| 2 12 | 6 140 |
| 3 22 | 7 14 |
| 4 900 | 8 55 |

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you agree that these kinds of travel challenges are becoming more popular?
- 2 Which of the three travel challenges sounds the most interesting to you?
- 3 Would you donate money to help someone pay for their trip?
- 4 Would you rather go on a normal holiday or try a travel challenge?

PRONUNCIATION

Showing your attitude

6.1

A Listen to these extracts from the radio programme. Match each extract (1–4) with the speaker's attitudes to what they say (a–d).

- a certain that what they say is true
- b believes what they say is a generalisation or approximation
- c believes that what they say is an important point
- d unsure that something is true

B Work in pairs. Draw arrows to predict whether the intonation rises (↗), falls (↘) or fall-rises (↘↗) on the underlined attitude words. Then listen to check.

- 1 Allegedly, (↗) you need to be very careful backpacking in some areas of that country.
- 2 On the whole, (↘) I think it's better to travel alone than with a group of friends.
- 3 The question is, (↗) have you got the luxury of taking time out from work.
- 4 Surely, (↘↗) it can't be that much fun visiting a lot of countries in a short space of time.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions using words, phrases and intonation to show your attitude.

- 1 Which countries would you like to visit and why?
- 2 Should people travel more within their own countries before they go abroad?
- 3 Do you think taking time out to go travelling can help your career?

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Work in small groups. You have entered a competition to win sponsorship for a trip abroad. To win, you must come up with an original travel challenge. Think of an idea to enter into the competition and prepare to present this idea to your class. Think about:

- how you will travel.
- where you will travel.
- what your goal will be.
- what the budget will be.
- how you will publicise the trip.

B PRESENT Present your idea to the class. Listen to the other groups' ideas.

C DISCUSS Vote on the most interesting idea.

- Speculate and make deductions about the past
- Plan an amazing journey

6.2 Inquisitive minds

G -ing and infinitive forms

P pauses and pitch in presentations

V binomial expressions

S taking notes while listening

Discuss rewarding jobs

Give a presentation about someone you admire

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Rank the following qualities in order of how important they are in journalism. Give reasons for your answer.

- | | |
|-------------|-----------------|
| — passion | — courage |
| — curiosity | — determination |
| — integrity | |

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read Chase down your story. What is the purpose of the article?

- 1 To give advice to journalism students.
- 2 To share life lessons which the writer has learnt from journalism.
- 3 To evaluate the importance of journalism in the 21st century.

Chase down your story

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again. Match the questions (1–6) with the sections (a–d). Sections may be chosen more than once.

Which section of the article ...

- 1 acknowledges a misconception the writer had?
- 2 highlights the difference between news in the past compared to now?
- 3 mentions an event which changed the writer's approach to learning?
- 4 describes a characteristic which the writer admires?
- 5 emphasises the importance of personal experience?
- 6 mentions discovering lessons by accident when looking for help?

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Which do you think is the most useful piece of advice? Which do you think is the least useful? Why?
- 2 Have you ever learnt anything from work or study that you could apply to your personal life?

a Finding stories

Ever wondered how journalists find the stories worth telling? Over my first year at a bona fide national newspaper, I learnt the hard way that getting the 'scoop' – being the first to report an exciting or important newsworthy story – was easier said than done. So I asked some of my more experienced colleagues to pass on their tricks of the trade. But what I soon discovered was that their advice could be applied not only to my job, but also to my personal life.

b Be curious

As journalists, we're paid to be curious. The number one suggestion I got was to have an inquisitive mind: figure out what matters, and which stories will inspire, move or make us laugh. It is not enough to report facts these days. But if something sparks your curiosity, the chances are other people will be interested, too.

There was the time I met a woman who mentioned she was thinking about moving to a remote Pacific island for a year. A whole year away from family, friends ... the internet! I had so many questions – and it was no surprise it made a great story, too.

In every conversation I have now, I think about what I can ask and what I can learn. Everybody has something they can teach you. It also helps to ask yourself questions about your own life: Why am I doing what I'm doing? What do I hope to achieve?

c Local is global

Writers have a great imagination. But, as I learnt from my colleagues, that can sometimes have a downside. It can keep us looking towards the horizon, craving uncharted territory. Fresh out of university, I pictured myself jetting off to parts unknown to break the next big story. While there is much to be said for this, articles don't need to be exotic or even big news to catch a reader's attention. More often than not, we find that we write best when we write what we know. This second lesson is perhaps one of the hardest to learn as a new writer.

GRAMMAR

-ing and infinitive forms

A Choose the correct form of the verbs to complete the sentences.

- 1 She was thinking about moving / to move to a remote Pacific island for a year.
- 2 It is time to acknowledge how vital it is staying / to stay on course.
- 3 It's all too easy for details slipping / to slip through the cracks.
- 4 Articles don't need to be exotic catching / to catch a reader's attention.
- 5 It is not enough reporting / to report facts these days.
- 6 Ever wondered how journalists find the stories worth telling / to tell?

B Scan the article again and check your answers to Exercise A.

Most of the greatest reporters have cut their teeth reporting on local news, whether that's uncovering home-grown corruption and injustice or just telling human-interest stories. What I've come to realise is that these stories often have a global reach because we have the same emotions, interests and concerns the world over. This has led me to believe – that whilst we must not be inward looking – appreciating what is right in front of us can be just as rewarding as looking further afield.

d Follow up

We are living in a world that is always on, where consumers can access massive amounts of content and expect instant gratification. In comparison to only five or ten years ago, we are so concerned with the beginning of the story that the middle and end have fallen by the wayside. It's all too easy for details to slip through the cracks and for stories, which should be huge, to be all but forgotten by the next news cycle.

And here lies the last tip, get to the conclusion of your story. Don't get distracted. Many of the finest journalists in history were renowned for their tenacity – their innate ability to chase down the facts in the face of seemingly indomitable odds.

This is a quality to aspire to in life. It is time to acknowledge how vital it is to stay on course, not to allow yourself to be side-tracked by modern distractions and the illusion of endless choice. See things through to their conclusion: whether that's the project you're working on or the sport you're learning. And it applies to people too – valuing and caring for the friends and networks you have is as important as growing them.

Glossary

cut your teeth on sth (phr) to get your first experience in a particular job by doing something tenacity (n) the behaviour of being very determined and unwilling to stop when trying to achieve something

C Match the examples in Exercise A to the rules in the box.

-ing and infinitive forms

We use the -ing form:

- a after prepositions
- b after expressions such as it's no good ... , it's not worth ... , there's no point in ... , have a good time / difficulty / fun / problems ...

We use to + infinitive:

- c after adjectives
- d after nouns
- e after quantifiers
- f after the word time

D Go to the Grammar Hub on page 132.

SPEAKING

Work in pairs. Look at the pictures of people with different jobs below.

Student A: Compare the two pictures. Say what qualities and skills people need for these jobs and why people choose to do these jobs.

Student B: Which job would you most like to do and why?

LISTENING

A PREDICT Work in pairs. Look at the infographic of events in a famous inventor's life. Can you guess who it is?

B Read the information in the box and look at the notes table.

Taking notes while listening

When you need to take effective notes, you can use the Cornell system. It involves the following five stages:

Stage 1 Notes: Write notes in the note-taking column. Focus on main ideas. Use bullet points and abbreviations.

Stage 2 Questions: Write questions about your notes in the column on the left. (e.g. Is this still true today?, What does inhalation mean?)

Stage 3 Summarise: Read your notes and questions. Then write a summary of what you learnt.

Stage 4 Reflect: Think about what you have written. (e.g. Overall, do you agree with the speaker?)

Stage 5 Review and recall: Review your notes. Cover the second column and answer the questions in the first.

6.4

C LISTEN TO MAKE NOTES Listen to a presentation about an inventor. Follow the method in Stage 1 in the box. Make notes in the table as you listen.

Questions	Notes
	Summary

D REFLECT Read your notes. Follow Stage 2 in the box. Write questions in the table.

E SUMMARISE Follow Stage 3 from the box. Write a summary of your notes in the table. Use the questions in the box to help you.

F REVIEW Compare your notes and questions with your partner. Are they similar? Can your partner answer any of your questions?

G SPEAK Work in pairs. If you were an inventor what type of invention would you focus on?

- inventions that save lives
- everyday products that fix common problems
- niche products for rich people

AN INVENTIVE LIFE

One of the first African-American inventors to gain fame.

Invented a hair-straightening oil.

Designed a safety hood which he used when rescuing 32 workers from an explosion.

Came up with the idea of the orange caution light on traffic lights.

Ran for city council.

VOCABULARY

Binomial expressions

- A Match the binomials in bold (1–10) with their definitions (a–j). Use the information in the box to help you.

Binomial expressions

A binomial expression is two words (nouns, verbs, adjectives or adverbs) joined by words like and, or, but, by and to.

The two words can:

- be antonyms (give and take)
- be synonyms (peace and quiet)
- use the same word twice (back to back)
- use words that start with the same sound (black and blue)
- use words that sound similar (here and there).

When a binomial expression is a compound adjective used before a noun it is generally hyphenated (a happy-go-lucky person).

- 1 In my opinion, he's far and away one of America's greatest inventors.
- 2 He was soon selling it far and wide.
- 3 It was truly a life-or-death situation.
- 4 Morgan and his brother Frank raced to the scene and went in side by side.
- 5 They soon re-emerged safe and sound with survivors.
- 6 Morgan's fame began to spread slowly but surely.
- 7 By and large in the early 1920s, American roads were dangerous places.
- 8 Time after time there were stories of injuries and fatalities in traffic accidents.
- 9 But he also put his heart and soul into the community.
- 10 While his life was a classic rags-to-riches story.

- a generally
- b all of one's energy and passion
- c repeatedly
- d by a very large amount
- e next to each other
- f from poor to wealthy
- g unharmed and not in danger
- h in many different places
- i potentially fatal
- j gradually

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 145.

C SPEAK Work in pairs. Complete the sentences with your own ideas. Then share your ideas with your partner.

- 1 _____ is far and away the greatest invention.
- 2 I always put my heart and soul into _____.
- 3 When I was younger, I couldn't _____ . Then slowly but surely, I learnt how.

PRONUNCIATION

Pauses and pitch in presentations

6.5

- A Listen to the first part of the presentation again and mark any pauses with (/).

Today, I'd like to talk about someone who I particularly admire. In my opinion, he's far and away one of America's greatest inventors. His innovations have fixed everyday problems but also probably saved thousands of lives. In addition, he was one of the first African-American inventors to gain public recognition for his work. His name was Garrett Morgan and he was a prolific inventor and entrepreneur who lived between 1877 and 1963. And while you may not all know his name, you're likely to have experienced his innovations.

One of Morgan's early successes was actually an accident. He was repairing a sewing machine in his shop when he noticed that some oil he was using had straightened the hairs on a cloth.

- B Work in pairs. Turn to the audioscript on page 172 and practise reading the presentation about Garrett Morgan. Focus on pauses and pitch.

SPEAKING HUB

A THINK You are going to give a presentation about someone you admire. Choose someone who made a big difference to the world by:

- leading social change
- challenging the status quo
- inventing or discovering something important.

B PREPARE Write a short presentation to tell your classmates about this person. Focus on:

- the life of the person you are talking about
- the main achievements of the person you are talking about
- a big problem the person solved.

C PRESENT Give your presentation.

D DISCUSS Listen to your classmates' presentations. Which of the people do you want to learn more about? Why?

○ Discuss rewarding jobs

○ Give a presentation about someone you admire

▶ Connecting with nature

a

b

c

A Work in pairs. Look at the pictures (a–c) and discuss these questions.

- 1 What are they?
- 2 How might they be connected?

B Watch the video. Check your answers to Exercise A.

Glossary

assemble (v) to build something by joining parts together countless (adj) very many tangled (adj) twisted into an untidy mass vaporise (v) to turn from a solid or liquid state into gas

C Watch the video again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F) according to the video? Correct the false sentences.

- | | |
|---|-------|
| 1 An oak tree is made up of only carbon, nitrogen, oxygen and hydrogen. | T / F |
| 2 The carbon atom in the acorn was created inside a star billions of years ago. | T / F |
| 3 The carbon atom in the acorn has formed part of the earth for two billion years. | T / F |
| 4 The carbon atom in the acorn got into some ancient oak tree through the action of photosynthesis. | T / F |
| 5 In billions of years, when the sun dies and the earth is vaporised, all atoms will die. | T / F |

D Watch the video again. Complete the sentences.

- 1 When atoms react and _____ they make up everything in the Universe.
- 2 Many different types of plants, trees and animals make up the _____ of a woodland.
- 3 When you understand that everything is made of atoms, a woodland doesn't seem such a _____ place.
- 4 An atom in an acorn has spent many years in _____.
- 5 Life is only a _____ home of the atoms that make up the universe.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentence from the video and the information in the box. Which device has been used to engage listeners?

So life is just a temporary home for the immortal elements that build up the universe.

Engaging listeners

Brian Cox is a very engaging speaker. He uses a number of strategies to engage listeners.

- Summarising information, for example, So, when you look at it like that it's really not that complicated at all.
- Repetition of certain words such as billion to emphasise a point.
- Dynamic words such as thrown back out and vaporise

B Go to the transcript on page 154. Underline examples of the strategies from the box that Brian Cox uses to engage listeners.

C Write a short speech on a topic that you're passionate about. Use strategies to engage your listeners.

D Work in pairs. Read your speech to your partner. Try to be as engaging and passionate as possible.

Getting answers

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you ever watch documentaries about science? Why/Why not?
 - 2 Should we try to make science more accessible than it is now?
 - 3 Are there any cons to simplifying science for a wider audience?
 - 4 What is Malcolm doing?
- B Watch the video. Were any of the things you discussed in Exercise A mentioned?
- C Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with one to three words.
- 1 Amanda is interviewing Veronica about _____.
 - 2 Malcolm tells Sam that Veronica is one of the country's _____.
 - 3 Veronica says she saw Brian Cox _____.
 - 4 Since being inspired by Brian Cox, Veronica has been _____.
 - 5 Malcolm comments that Veronica's book is at the top of the _____.

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Complete the line from the video. Why has Amanda asked her question in this way?

Professor Matos, respond to accusations that your book is under-researched?

SAM MALCOLM AMANDA HARRY EMILY

B Look at the information in the box. Match the questions (1–5) with the types (a–e).

Conducting an interview

- a Direct questions are asked in order to make a point about a situation or to point out something for consideration. For example, _____.
- b Indirect questions are used when we want to be more polite. We use an introductory phrase followed by the question itself in a positive sentence structure. For example, _____.
- c Negative questions can ask for confirmation of our opinions or make invitations or suggestions. For example, _____.
- d Tag questions can either be 'real' questions where we want to know the answer or simply ask for agreement when we already know the answer. For example, _____.
- e Rhetorical questions are often statements given in question format in order to make a point about a situation. For example, _____.

- 1 Why don't you go over and introduce yourself?
- 2 It builds on some of the theories set out by Professor Brian Cox, doesn't it?
- 3 I hope you don't mind me asking, why did you decide to write a book?
- 4 Can I quote you on that?
- 5 Did I dumb down the science a bit for the masses?

C Work in pairs. Think of one more example for each of the question types (1–5) in Exercise B.

SPEAKING HUB

A PLAN Work in pairs. Student A: Imagine you are a journalist for a website. Look at the bullet points and prepare a list of questions to ask Veronica Matos.

Student B: Imagine you are Veronica Matos. You are going to be interviewed. Plan what you are going to say using the bullet points.

- when you first became interested in science
- your book
- your future career plans
- advice to young people

B DISCUSS Work in pairs. Perform your roleplay.

A: What advice would you give to teenagers who want a career in science?

B: Decide early which area of science you want to work in. There are hundreds and hundreds of different career paths.

Plan and perform an interview

► Turn to page 161 to learn how to write an expository essay about space exploration.

Unit 6 Review

VOCABULARY

A Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 Airlines keep introducing new long-haul flights to tempt today's globetrotters / distance travellers
- 2 You embargo / embark from Santiago, Chile, to fly direct to Easter Island.
- 3 Fourteen of the world's highest summits / culminations are in the Himalayas.
- 4 It takes several hours of trekking through ragged terraces / impenetrable terrain to reach Waimea.
- 5 Manaus is the closest city to the heart / heat of the Amazon.
- 6 Siberia still has a lot of unchartered / uncharted territory.
- 7 You can quickly get off the beaten track / road in the outback in Australia.

B Complete the three-part phrasal verbs with the correct preposition.

- 1 I use language learning apps to brush up _____ my vocabulary.
- 2 I'd like to find out _____ volunteering.
- 3 Playing video games helps me switch off _____ the stress of the day.
- 4 I often look back _____ the holidays I took with my parents as a child.
- 5 I keep meaning to visit my grandparents, but I never get round _____ it.
- 6 I am up _____ a camping trip.
- 7 Whenever I suggest somewhere to go, my family come up _____ objections.
- 8 I don't like staycations. I want to get away _____ the area where I live for a holiday.

C Match numbers (1–10) to letters (a–j) to form full sentences.

- 1 I looked far and a
 - 2 She amazes me time after b
 - 3 Slowly but c
 - 4 She's far and d
 - 5 He always puts his heart and e
 - 6 They always work side by f
 - 7 It was a matter of life g
 - 8 It's a real rags-to-h
 - 9 By and i
 - 10 She returned safe and j
- a surely he taught himself how to do it.
b riches story, because he was born into a very poor family.
c soul into everything he does.
d wide, but I couldn't find it.
e large, I don't read biographies, but his story was fascinating.
f time with her ideas.
g away the most important scientist working today.
h side, which is really sweet.
i sound from her adventures.
j or death at one point, but he survived.

GRAMMAR

A Complete the text using can't have, could have, couldn't have, may/might well have, might have, must have and the verbs in brackets.

In 1900, three men mysteriously disappeared from the lighthouse where they were working on a remote island in Scotland. Initially, newspapers contained implausible explanations such as that they ¹ _____ (kill) by ghosts or they ² _____ (capture) by foreign spies. However, a later investigation concluded that they ³ _____ (not abduct), because there were no signs of a struggle.

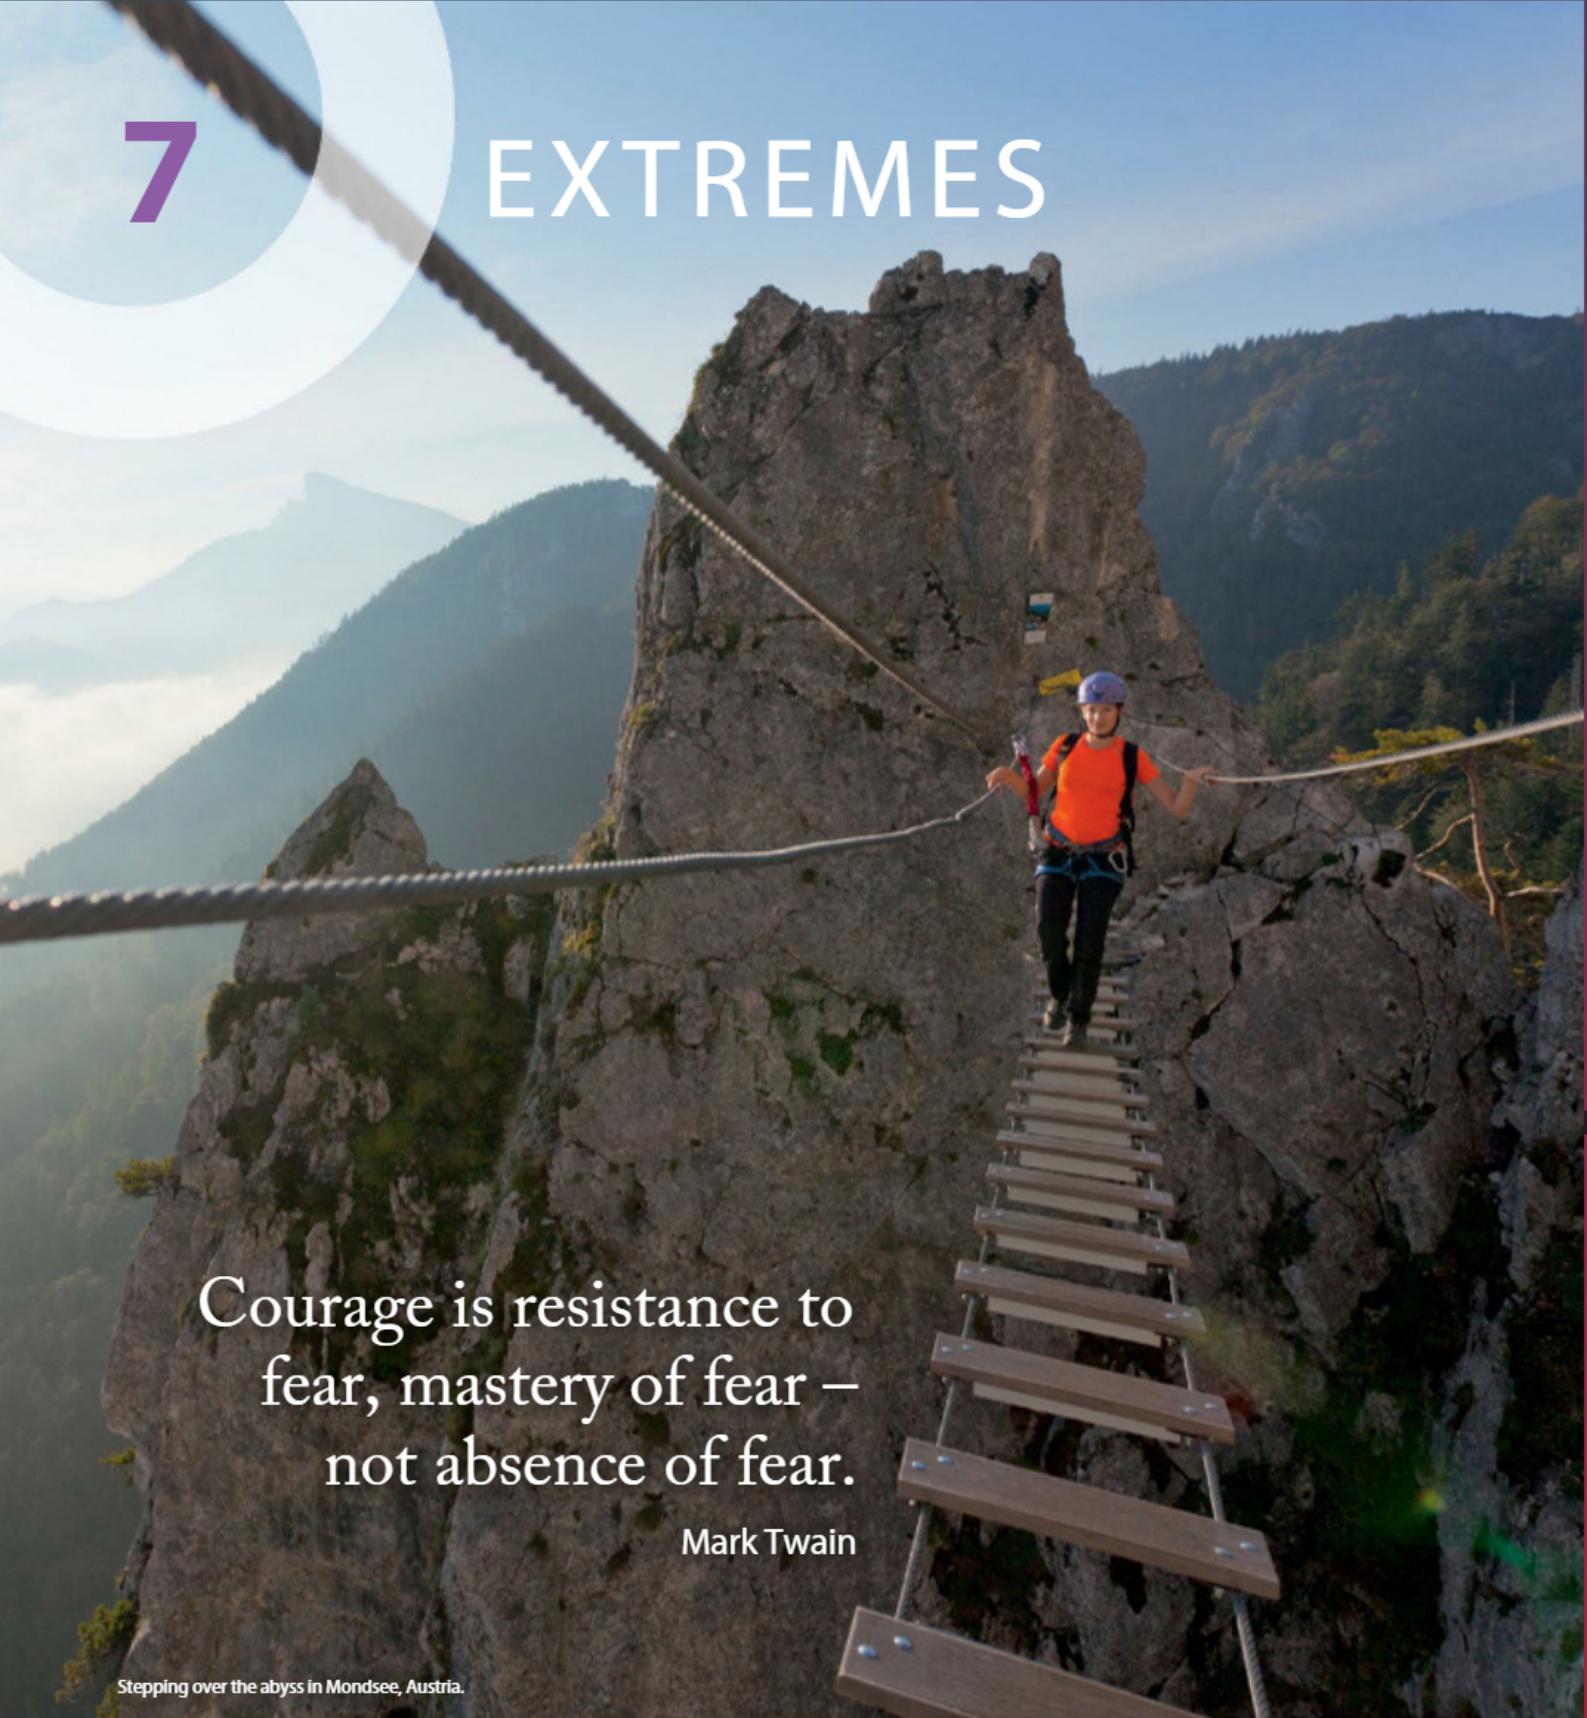

The investigation found a lot of damage had been done to one of the landing stages and that the kind of damage indicated that this ⁴ _____ (cause) by large waves during a storm. Therefore, it's possible that the men were securing boxes on the landing stage in bad weather and the investigators believed that they ⁵ _____ (sweep) into the sea by strong waves. Normally, one man should have stayed behind to man the lighthouse, but he ⁶ _____ (go) to the landing stage to warn his colleagues of the approaching waves.

B Choose the correct words to complete the sentences. Then decide if you agree or disagree with each sentence.

- 1 In my country, schools have problems encouraging / to encourage children to study science.
- 2 It's not worth studying / to study the arts at school because it's not useful for work.
- 3 It's impossible making / to make history interesting for school children.
- 4 It's time introducing / to introduce more practical subjects into the school curriculum.
- 5 Schools need to teach computer programming helping / to help students get jobs in the future.

Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear – not absence of fear.

Mark Twain

Stepping over the abyss in Mondsee, Austria.

OBJECTIVES

- describe reactions to extreme experiences
- describe extreme situations and achievements
- discuss extreme jobs
- deal with difficult interview questions
- tell a story about an exciting journey
- write a cover letter

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. Why do people put themselves in extreme situations? When do you think this is a positive thing? When is it negative?
- 2 Look at the quote. How can we resist fear? Is it possible to master fear? Think of examples.
- 3 Do you prefer extreme experiences or safe/predictable ones? Why? What does it depend on?

7.1 Beyond the limits

G It clefting

V feelings

P Intonation in question tags

● Describe reactions to extreme experiences
● Describe extreme situations and achievements

S Identifying causation

READING

A PREDICT Work in pairs. Look at the picture. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you think the story is going to be about?
- 2 Have you ever been somewhere like this? If so, how did you feel? If not, how do you think you would feel?
- 3 Why do you think some people choose to put themselves in dangerous situations?

B SKIM Read Into the abyss. What different emotions does the writer go through on their journey? Were any the same as your answers to Exercise A?

C READ FOR DETAIL Read Into the abyss again

Six sentences have been removed from the story. Choose from the sentences (a–g) the one which fits each gap. There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

- a It was his lack of words that finally allowed me to shake off the morning's nerves.
- b It was myself who I was really trying to convince.
- c It was that murky half-light, before the night gives in to the dawn, which I now watched.
- d It is hard to describe moments like these.
- e It is in situations like this that it occurs to me how often I put my life in the hands of complete strangers.
- f It was reaching the summit that was my ultimate goal.
- g It was just as Batsal disappeared over a rise that I lost my footing.

D INFER MEANING Work in pairs. Decide which of the words in bold from the story match the meanings (1–5).

- 1 (n) fear of something bad that might happen or that is going to happen
- 2 (n) a feeling of sadness and of being without hope
- 3 (n) a feeling of extreme excitement and happiness
- 4 (adj) relaxed and pleasant because shared with friends or friendly people
- 5 (adj) very serious, and not smiling or friendly

E SPEAK Work in groups. Think of a time when you felt one of the emotions from Exercise D. Tell your group about your experience. Mention the following points.

- when you felt this way
- the reason(s) for feeling the emotion

GRAMMAR

it clefting

A Find a sentence in Reading Exercise C that means the same as the one below. What is different about the version in the article? What is the focus in each sentence? Use the information in the box to help you.

I was really trying to convince myself.

it clefting

We can use it clefting to focus attention on part of a sentence (e.g. the subject, an object, a time clause, a because clause, to + infinitive, etc).

My ultimate goal was reaching the summit. → It was reaching the summit that was my ultimate goal.

B Rewrite the remaining sentences in Reading Exercise C so they don't use it clefting.

- a
- b I was really trying to convince myself.
- c
- d
- e
- f My ultimate goal was reaching the summit.
- g

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 134.

D SPEAK Work in pairs and complete the sentences so they are true for you.

- 1 It was because I wanted to ... that I ...
- 2 It's not ... that's important ...
- 3 It wasn't until ...

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in pairs. Can you think of a time when you felt a mix of emotions? Use the questions to help you.

- 1 What was the situation?
- 2 How did you feel?
- 3 What happened?

INTO THE ABYSS

¹ I had arrived early at the café and now sat waiting at a formica table, tentatively sipping the strongest coffee I had ever tasted. The bitterness was cloying, my hands shaking, but a 6 am start meant that rocket fuel was what I needed. The front door burst open, my coffee spilling across the table. The light struggling through the smeared glass door was blocked out by the silhouette of a man. He paused there in the doorway for a second. Though I couldn't see his face, I knew he was watching me.

He crossed the café in two strides. A weathered face forced itself into a half smile. 'Carla?' 'Yes. Batsal?'. A curt nod and then, 'If we are going, we go now, before the weather turns.'

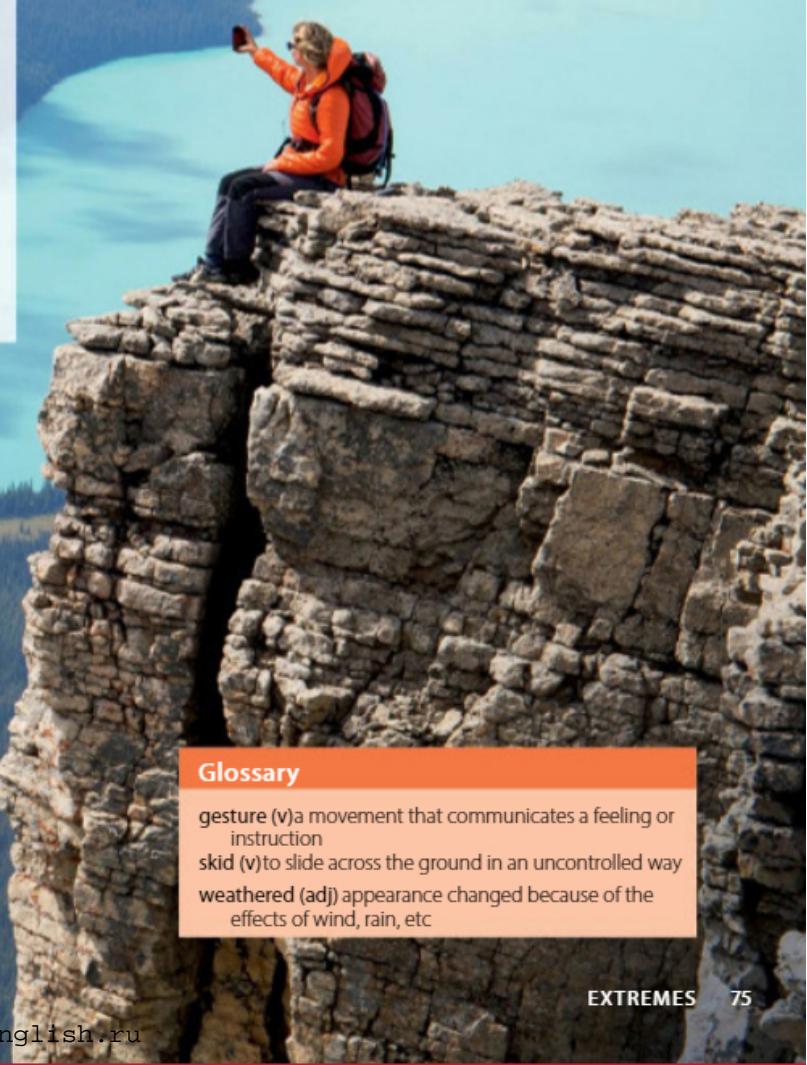

I shouldered my pack and we set off down the pot-holed street beneath the shuttered-up houses and the tangle of electricity cables dangling menacingly low above us. 'Where is everyone?' He gestured a few metres ahead where a teenage boy was struggling to kick-start a motorbike, way past its prime, into life. The boy, who was almost certainly Batsal's son, glanced at me shyly and stepped aside as his father took hold of the bike. With a swift movement the engine roared. Batsal jerked his head at the seat behind him.

We were off. Hurting down the road and then out towards the distant mountains.² I've been conned, ripped off and outright robbed during my travels even by friendly-faced guides. Batsal was different though ... I found his dour demeanour weirdly reassuring.³

Perhaps I was feeling too calm as we set off on foot up a narrow trail. My mind didn't dwell on the terrifying exposure of the route or the crevasses that seemed to plunge down into the depths of the earth. Instead I let my gaze calmly return to the untouched snow of the peaks which glistened in the low sun. We climbed in companionable silence for an hour or so. Up and over some boulders the size of cars.

⁴ A small lapse in concentration. I found myself on my back skidding towards the edge. The boulder felt smooth. I watched in panic as my hands and feet flailed, trying to get purchase on something, anything. My legs were disappearing into the abyss. I thought of my family. Then time slowed, my focus narrowed and I gripped the rock. As I held on I found myself in a place I'd never been, somewhere between dread and calm. A searing pain jolted through me as I was yanked by my arm. I twisted my neck to see Batsal retreating up the boulder, dragging me behind him like a rag doll. He pulled me to my feet. The question in his eyes. 'I can carry on,' I replied. ⁵ And my shoulder throbbed in protest.

We scrambled upwards for five more hours over loose shale. The air was thinning out – every breath was laboured. But something of that strange calmness remained. When we reached a ledge, we stopped. I looked again over at the peaks that seemed no closer than they had at sunrise. 'OK, but let me see it properly before we turn back.' With one last effort I pulled myself up onto the ridge above the ledge and looked out over the perfect vista.⁶ The sheer exhilaration but also melancholy of a journey's end. After ten minutes, we began our descent. My heart thumping.

Glossary

- gesture (v) a movement that communicates a feeling or instruction
- skid (v) to slide across the ground in an uncontrolled way
- weathered (adj) appearance changed because of the effects of wind, rain, etc

VOCABULARY

Feelings

- A Match the quotes (1–10) with the adjectives in the box. How do the people feel?

courageous devastated disgusted frustrated grumpy humbled hysterical indifferent resilient superior

- 1 'I feel bad because there's nothing I can do about my situation.' _____
- 2 'I was overwhelmed by our local community's kindness and generosity.' _____
- 3 'I lost control of my emotions and started shaking and crying.' _____
- 4 'I feel terrible because I've lost all hope.' _____
- 5 'When I'm in a bad mood, I'm not very nice to other people.' _____
- 6 'You can do what you like. I really don't mind.' _____
- 7 'When other people do stupid things, it makes me feel better about myself!' _____
- 8 'I know it's dangerous, but I won't let my fear stop me.' _____
- 9 'When things go wrong, I just have to pick myself up and carry on.' _____
- 10 'I'm so angry! It makes me feel sick.' _____

- B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 146.

- C SPEAK Work in pairs. Think of examples of situations where people feel the ten emotions in Exercise A. Share your ideas with the class.

LISTENING

- A SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 What morning TV programmes are there in your country?
- 2 What type of news stories are discussed on them?

- B LISTEN FOR SPECIFIC INFORMATION Listen to part of a TV programme, the Breakfast Show. Decide if the statements are true (T), false (F) or not given (NG).

- 1 Arjun didn't see the accident happening. _____
- 2 The other driver helped Arjun to move the car. _____
- 3 The car that Arjun lifted weighed over 1500 kg. _____
- 4 Professor Ivănescu thinks Arjun has extremely unusual powers. _____
- 5 Tony (the presenter) doesn't think he'd ever be able to lift the car. _____
- 6 Arjun used hysterical strength. _____
- 7 Whenever our muscles hurt, it means we're damaging them. _____
- 8 The cyclist suffered permanent injuries. _____

- C LISTEN FOR CAUSATION Listen again. Which pairs of events are examples of correlation (a)? Which are examples of causation (b)? Use the information in the box to help you.

Identifying causation

It's important to distinguish between correlation (= two or more things happen at about the same time) and causation (= one thing causes another thing to happen).

Common ways of signalling causation include:

- linking expressions (e.g. as a result of, due to, thanks to, that's why).
- conditionals (e.g. If X hadn't happened, Y might not have happened).
- past perfect in time clauses (e.g. After I'd done X, Y happened rather than past simple (e.g. After I did X, Y happened).

- 1 Arjun wasn't paying attention to the other vehicles. The car ran over a bicycle. a /b
- 2 The driver freed the cyclist. Arjun put the car down. a /b
- 3 They used a mobile phone. A spark caused the car to explode. a /b
- 4 Arjun was brave. The cyclist wasn't seriously injured. a /b
- 5 Arjun's back hurts now. He lifted the car. a /b
- 6 Tony was unable to lift the car. His muscles hurt. a /b
- 7 The adrenaline wore off. Arjun felt extreme pain. a /b
- 8 Athletes feel stressed. They can break world records. a /b
- 9 The cyclist survived. She spent a few weeks in hospital. a /b

- D SPEAK Work in groups. Discuss the questions.

- 1 How do you think you would react in an extreme situation like the one Arjun described?
- 2 Have you heard of any examples of people doing amazing things in extreme situations? What happened?

PRONUNCIATION

Intonation in question tags

7.2

- A Complete the extracts from The Breakfast Show with the correct question tag. Then listen to check.

- 1 So the car could have exploded at any second, _____?
- 2 I mean, you're a big guy, _____?
- 3 It's weird, _____?
- 4 I mean, a car weighs, what, a tonne and a half, _____?
- 5 So that's what helped Arjun, then, _____?
- 6 We can't harness this strength in everyday life, _____?
- 7 I'm just a normal guy, _____?
- 8 Anyway, let's have a break now, _____?

7.2

- B Listen again. Try to copy the intonation.

- C SPEAK Work in small groups and discuss the extreme human abilities shown in pictures 1–5. Use question tags to ask questions, make suggestions, check assumptions and invite agreement.

Let's start with this one, shall we? It's bungee jumping, is it?

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN You are going to conduct a daytime TV interview about examples of extreme achievements. Work in groups of three. Use pictures 1–5 to help you.

Student A: You are the interviewee. You can talk about a real experience from your life, or you can invent the details.

Student B: You are an expert (e.g. a university professor). You have been invited to explain Student A's abilities/achievements. You can use your real knowledge or invent details.

Student C: You are the interviewer. It's your job to make the interviewee and the expert feel comfortable, and to make the TV show entertaining for the audience at home.

- B PRACTISE Practise your interview. Try to use the vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation from this lesson in your interviews.

- C PRESENT Act out your interview for the class.

- D REFLECT Which of the interviews was the most believable? Which was the most entertaining?

- Describe reactions to extreme experiences
- Describe extreme situations and achievements

7.2 Extreme jobs

Discuss extreme jobs
Deal with difficult interview questions

G what clefting and all clefting
P any and quite

V polysemy; Intensifiers
S understanding reference within texts

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the pictures. Why do people choose to work in such extreme places?

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read Risky business. Match the statements (1–6) with the workplaces (a–c).

- 1 It's dangerous if you go up too fast.
 - 2 The weather may prevent you from working.
 - 3 You'll need to work at least half a year.
 - 4 You'll earn a lot of money.
 - 5 It's hard to get a job there.
 - 6 It takes over a week to get home.
- a The Antarctic
b At extreme heights
c Under the ocean

C READ FOR REFERENCES What do the reference devices (1–10) in the article refer to? Use the information in the box to help you.

- | | |
|---------|----------|
| 1 _____ | 6 _____ |
| 2 _____ | 7 _____ |
| 3 _____ | 8 _____ |
| 4 _____ | 9 _____ |
| 5 _____ | 10 _____ |

Understanding reference within texts

Reference devices (e.g. pronouns, articles, contrast linkers, comparatives) link different parts of a text.

Anaphoric reference: refers back to something mentioned earlier in the text.

Cataphoric reference: refers forward to something mentioned later in the text.

Exophoric reference: refers to things outside the text, e.g. you (the reader), they (people in general).

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions. Do any of the jobs in the article appeal to you? Which would you hate?

RISKY BUSINESS

They say over half of us are doing jobs that we don't care about, and a further 16% actively hate our jobs. If you're sick of the nine-to-five, here are some of the more extreme places where you can actually make a living.

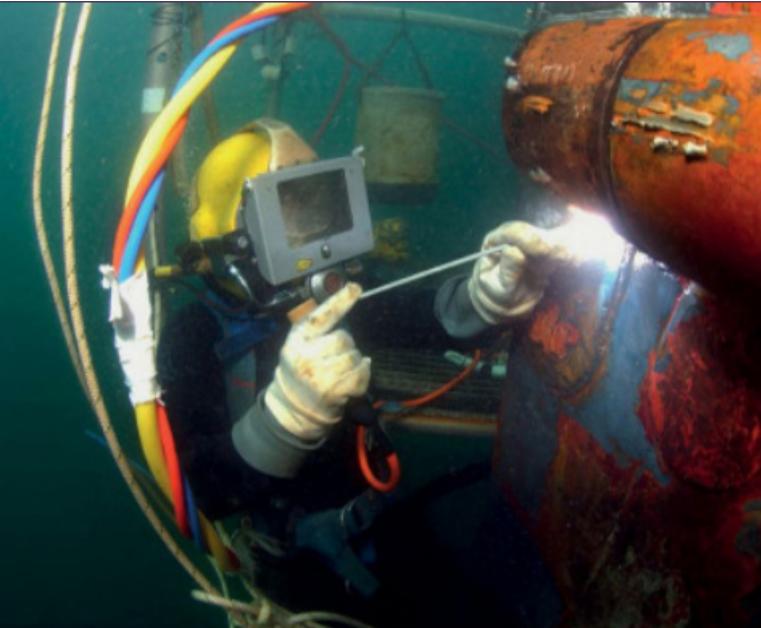

ANTARCTICA

Unfortunately, it's not exactly easy – or cheap – to visit Antarctica as a tourist. So if you really want to go, what you should do is get a long-term job, not a holiday job: no employer is going to pay your airfare if you're planning to stay for less than six months. There are scientific jobs for biologists, glaciologists, geologists, meteorologists, oceanologists, and so on. Trouble is, there's plenty of competition for them, with hundreds of applicants for each vacancy. Your best chance of landing one is to be a well-qualified specialist already, ideally with a doctorate or two. There are also a few support jobs for engineers, technicians, divers, radio operators, etc. Just be warned: you'll spend most of your time on the base, where you'll quickly get bored with the same faces every day. Due to the extreme weather, it's usually too dangerous (or too expensive) to venture out into the wilderness for some sightseeing.

AT EXTREME HEIGHTS

For those of us who get dizzy at the thought of standing on a chair, the prospect of climbing up a radio mast, wind turbine or skyscraper is the stuff of our worst nightmares. But for the lucky few who have no fear of heights, there are plenty of career opportunities.

It's not especially glamorous, but the easiest way to make a career at heights is as a window cleaner. You can literally start at the bottom – all you'll need is a ladder and a bucket – and gradually work your way up to office blocks and skyscrapers. A rather more lucrative career for real-life 'high-climbers' is as a tower climber. These brave people spend their time 100 to 150 metres above the ground, inspecting cellular phone towers for damage, changing light bulbs, replacing cables, etc. One of the biggest challenges is that they need to work in all conditions, including the cold, the wind and the rain, all of which add to the level of danger. The one exception is thunderstorms, which tower climbers steer well clear of.

ON THE OCEAN FLOOR

⁸It's one of the most bizarre careers imaginable. ⁹These people do construction, maintenance and demolition work 300 metres or more beneath the ocean's surface. To survive the extreme pressure at such depths, they spend weeks or months at a time living in tiny pressurised containers, either deep underwater or inside pressure tanks on board ships. Welcome to the world of the saturation diver.

Breathing pressurised air causes inert gases to dissolve in your blood and body tissues. If you were to release the pressure suddenly, by coming to the surface, the bubbles formed would quickly kill you. To avoid this, saturation divers spend several hours building up to the necessary pressure, saturating their bodies with inert gases. At the end of their work, they spend as much as eleven days de-pressurising, before finally returning to normal life.

Saturation divers carry out essential work for some of the world's richest businesses, so ¹⁰it's no surprise to find that they're extremely well-paid. However, before sending off your application, you need to consider how you'd feel about spending months in a tiny metal container with your co-workers, constantly aware that the failure of a single pressure valve would mean certain death.

Glossary

lucrative (adj) bringing a lot of money venture (v) to go somewhere unpleasant, dangerous or exciting

VOCABULARY

Polysemy

A Choose the correct definition of the words in bold from Risky business. Use the context in the article and the information in the box to help you.

Polysemy

Polysemy is where a word has two or more related meanings. Sometimes different meanings have different grammatical properties (e.g. countable/uncountable).

- | | |
|----------------|---|
| 1 sick | a feel unwell |
| | b bored or tired of something |
| 2 competition | a rivalry |
| | b a contest |
| 3 to land | a bring a plane down |
| | b get something you want |
| 4 condition(s) | a weather |
| | b an important part of a contract |
| 5 pressure | a a feeling of too much work |
| | b a 'pushing' force |
| 6 application | a a way of using something |
| | b a document stating why you want a job |

B In which pair of meanings from Exercise A is one meaning countable and the other uncountable? In which pair is one meaning always plural?

C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 146.

GRAMMAR

what clefting and all clefting

A Complete the rules with examples from the article.

what clefting and all clefting

Form: what/all + FIRST FOCUS + is/was + SECOND FOCUS

Example: What you need to succeed is mental strength.

We can use what clefting to focus attention on two different parts of a sentence by keeping them separate.

- 1 You should get a long-term job. →
All clefting has the extra meaning of only.
 2 You'll only need a ladder and bucket. →

B Go to the Grammar Hub on page 134.

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in pairs. Think about the advantages and disadvantages of the jobs in the article. Your partner is planning to apply for one of the jobs. Give your partner advice using what clefting and all clefting.

LISTENING

- A SPEAK Work in pairs. Have you ever had a stressful job interview? What happened?
- B Read Extreme job interviews Rank the questions in order from hardest to easiest (1–7).
- C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to a recruitment specialist giving advice about the questions below. For each question, make notes on the dos and don'ts for job interviewees.
- D LISTEN FOR GIST Now listen to some extracts from an interview for a job as a marketing designer. Does Oscar (the interviewee) follow the recruitment specialist's advice for each question?

EXTREME

job interviews

These days, recruiters are going to extremes to sort the best from the rest. The following questions, all taken from real job interviews, have no correct answer. But they are designed to show how you cope with stress and how creative you are. They might also reveal the real 'you' behind the business suit and the polished CV.

- What would you take with you to a desert island and why?
- If you could be any dinosaur, which dinosaur would you be?
- What's your biggest weakness?
- Name four uses for a stapler, without the staples.
- How many square metres of pizza are eaten in the US each year?
- What's the most interesting thing about you that we wouldn't learn from your CV?
- How would your worst enemy describe you?

7.4

E LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Choose the correct options (a, b or c) to answer the questions.

- 1 How would Oscar feel on a desert island?
a lonely b inspired c upset
- 2 What would be Oscar's priority as a dinosaur?
a pleasure b beauty c safety
- 3 How does Oscar feel at the end of each day?
a relieved b disappointed c exhausted
- 4 Which one of the following is NOT mentioned as a use for a stapler?
a tissue-holder b child's toy c doorstop
- 5 How many pizzas does Oscar think a typical American eats each year?
a 12 b 144 c 300
- 6 How does Oscar feel about looking after his brothers and sisters?
a grateful b frustrated c proud
- 7 How does Oscar feel about people who don't like him?
a grumpy b indifferent c superior

F SPEAK Work in pairs. Ask and answer the questions from Extreme job interviews

VOCABULARY

Intensifiers

- A Complete the sentences from the interview with intensifiers in the box. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

altogether immensely noticeably outright practically radically relatively remarkably somewhat utterly

- 1 I find writing poetry _____ calming.
- 2 I'd be _____ devastated if I couldn't record my ideas on paper.
- 3 Compared to the ground, the sky would be a _____ good place.
- 4 I tend to be _____ disorganised.
- 5 I learnt some _____ simple techniques, and I've improved _____ since then.
- 6 I'm not _____ sure how typical I am.
- 7 I'm not _____ different from the average American ...
- 8 It was often _____ impossible to study.
- 9 I'm not the sort of person who has _____ enemies.

- B Work in pairs. Complete the sentences with an intensifier from Exercise A.

- 1 _____ means 'to a huge extent'.
- 2 _____ is mainly used before negative adjectives and adverbs.
- 3 _____ means 'compared to other things'.
- 4 _____ means 'a little'.
- 5 _____ means 'so much that it's obvious or easy to see'.
- 6 _____ is often used in negative sentences, especially with 'sure'.
- 7 _____ is often used before nouns with a negative meaning.
- 8 _____ means 'not quite 100%, but as good as 100%'.
- 9 _____ is often used before 'different'.

- C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 146.

- D SPEAK Work in small groups. Offer advice for preparing for and coping with extreme job interviews. Use intensifiers in your advice.

PRONUNCIATION

any and quite

- A Listen to the extracts from the recruitment specialist's advice. Underline any and quite when they are stressed.

- 1 Almost any other answer is much better ...
- 2 So don't just say any old number that pops into your head.
- 3 ... on a desert island, without any other people ...
- 4 ... the sense of freedom would be quite exhilarating.
- 5 It takes quite a lot of self-discipline ...
- 6 It's been quite challenging ...

- B Listen and underline the sentence (a or b) in which quite or any is stressed.

- 1 a The interview was quite difficult.
b The interview was quite impossible.
- 2 a Don't say anything!
b Don't say anything!
- 3 a Her house was quite dirty.
b Her house was quite filthy.
- 4 a Any questions can be answered.
b Any questions can be answered.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Work in groups of three. You are going to interview several candidates for a job. First, decide what the job is, what exactly it involves and what sort of candidate you are looking for. Then plan four or five extreme questions for your interview. Use the ideas below or your own ideas.

- If you could be any ..., what would you be?
- Name four uses for a ...
- How many ... could you fit inside this room?
- How would ... describe you?

- B PREPARE Discuss what would be a 'good' or 'bad' answer for each of your questions, bearing in mind the type of candidate you are looking for.

- C INTERVIEW Interview two candidates from other groups. At the end of each interview, provide feedback on what the candidate did well/badly and give advice on how to improve.

- D DISCUSS Work in your original groups to choose the best candidate for your job. Make sure you justify your choice. Share your decision and reasoning with the class.

○ Discuss extreme jobs

○ Deal with difficult interview questions

Driving on the edge

A Work in pairs. Look at the picture and discuss the questions.

- 1 Where do you think this is?
- 2 What do you think it would be like to be a bus driver in these mountains?

B Watch the video. Check your answers to Exercise A.

Glossary

abrasive (adj) having a rough surface canyon (n) a long deep valley with steep sides made of rock maze (n) a set of small streets, roads, paths, etc that it is easy to get lost in slope (n) a surface or piece of land that has one end higher than the other end

C Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with between one and three words.

- 1 The mountains of Northern Peru consist of a network of _____, basic roads and deep canyons.
- 2 Glorioso is considered a _____ amongst some of the villagers in Huancabamba.
- 3 The truck tyres need to be changed after ten weeks as the roads here are so _____.
- 4 Annually, over a _____ people die on the mountain roads of Peru.
- 5 The passengers on the bus are not _____.
- 6 The secret to a long _____ as a Peruvian bus driver is to take your time.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the information in the box. Complete the sentence from the video.

And that's _____ to a long career as a Peruvian bus driver – taking the mountains at their own pace.

Fronting

Fronting involves moving information to the front of a sentence, often to give it emphasis. It is often used in informal spoken English, for example, Really good it was – best film I've seen for ages.

Whole clauses can be fronted, for example, Why they decided to buy that house, I couldn't tell you.

B Work in pairs. Rewrite the sentences to create emphasis. Begin each sentence with the underlined word.

1 I'll never know why Maria married Tony.

2 He didn't know whether he'd got the job or not.

3 I'll be there in about twenty minutes.

4 It cost me three hundred pounds.

5 I just don't know how you put up with your boss.

6 It started to snow all of a sudden.

7 It must have cost an absolute fortune.

8 An old woman sat quietly in the corner.

C Compare your sentences in Exercise B with another pair.

► Hello from the Andes

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you prefer travelling with other people or on your own? Why?
- 2 Do you know anybody that has visited many countries? What motivates them to travel?

B Watch the video. Who calls Sam and where are they?

C Watch the video again. Answer the questions.

- 1 Who did Fred meet by chance?

- 2 What does Fred's meeting make Sam think of?

- 3 What does Fred say about the condition of the bus?

- 4 What could Fred see when he looked out of the window?

- 5 What did Fred find comforting?

- 6 What does Sam suggest doing when Fred returns?

SPEAKING SKILL

A What is the purpose of the phrases in bold in each of the examples from the video?

- 1 Sorry, not very good signal out here. So where was I? Oh yes ...
- 2 I tell you what when you're back from the Andes, let's go for dinner.

B Work in pairs. Underline the words and phrases which are used to change or recycle topics in the extracts below.

- 1 I had just arrived in Lima and guess who I ran into?
- 2 Well, funny you should ask. I had a bit of an adventure getting to my adventure.
- 3 That reminds me of the time when I was in Spain and bumped into my next door neighbour.
- 4 Well, yeah ... made worse by the fact it was quite an old bus.
- 5 For sure ... which brings me back to what I was saying ... Daniel suggested I come with him on a trek.

Changing and recycling topics

We use many different set phrases to try to steer conversations towards the topics we wish to talk about.

We can use them to recycle a topic we were speaking about, for example, as I was saying. We can also use them to change topic, for example, that's like the time when

► SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Student A: you are going to describe your exciting journey to your partner. However, your partner is going to try to distract you and talk about himself/herself.

Student B: you are going to listen to your partner describing a journey. However, you are not very interested in what your partner has to say and you want to talk about yourself and your experiences.

B PRESENT Perform your conversation. Change roles.

A: Why I'd decided to drive through the wilderness alone, I couldn't tell you.

B: Speaking of which, I'm going camping in the wilderness next month.

C REFLECT Work in small groups. Perform and listen to each other's conversations again. Give feedback using the points below.

- use of language
- fluency
- pronunciation
- interaction

► Tell a story about an exciting journey

► Turn to page 162 to learn how to write a cover letter for a dream job.

Unit 7 Review

VOCABULARY

A Match numbers (1–10) to letters (a–j) to form full sentences.

- 1 I'm frustrated because I
 - 2 I thought she was so courageous
 - 3 I became hysterical
 - 4 I always get grumpy
 - 5 I'm quite resilient
 - 6 They were disgusted by
 - 7 As a child, I was indifferent
 - 8 I try to be humble
 - 9 I felt devastated about
 - 10 He acted superior
- a when I'm tired.
b to my classmates' bad behaviour.
c about my success when I meet strangers.
d when she chased away the burglars.
e can't do anything to help.
f losing all that work.
g around the others, as if he were the best player.
h and couldn't calm down for ages.
i the condition he left the flat in.
j so I'm sure I'll get over this setback.

B Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words in the box. Use each word twice.

sick competition condition application

- 1 Unfortunately your _____ for the job hasn't been successful.
- 2 We can't go out in these _____. ! We'll get wet!
- 3 I'm _____ of his excuses. He's just lazy!
- 4 The product can be used in a number of ways – it has many _____.
- 5 I enter a lot of _____ but I never win.
- 6 There's a lot of _____ for each place on the course.
- 7 I find an early night helps if you are feeling _____.
- 8 You can go out on _____ that you're home by 10 pm.

C Put the lines (a–h) in order so that they form a paragraph.

- a long periods – the world-record free-diver, Herbert Nitsch, can go an utterly
- b dangerous changes of pressure. Nitsch's record of 253 metres was spoiled
- c different to normal deep-sea diving, because the divers have practically
- d easy compared to the challenge of coping with immensely
- e somewhat by the medical problems he suffered as a result.
- f Free diving is radically
- g incredible nine minutes without breathing. But holding your breath is relatively
- h no equipment. It involves holding your breath for remarkably

GRAMMAR

A Complete the sentences with words from the box. Each word can be used more than once.

is was until that not because who it

- 1 It was _____ I was scared _____ I decided not to climb the cliff.
- 2 It's _____ adrenaline that I'm looking for; it _____ a sense of flow.
- 3 It wasn't _____ I reached the top _____. I realised how high the cliff was.
- 4 When I said 'Stop being stupid', it was _____ you I was talking to; _____ was James I was talking to.
- 5 It _____ at that moment _____. I realised I was no longer afraid.
- 6 It _____ to impress my friends _____. I tried to lift the car.
- 7 It's you _____ is causing most of the delays, _____. us!

B Find and correct the mistakes in five of the sentences.

- 1 All what I'm trying to say is you should be careful.
- 2 What you should avoid to do is to pretend you don't have any weaknesses.
- 3 What I did was stretched my arms to calm my nerves.
- 4 All I remember is staring out into the abyss and feeling sick.
- 5 What happened next was that some people call an ambulance.
- 6 All they did was watch TV.

The part can never be well, unless the whole is well.

Plato

Sunset swimming washes away the day's cares.

OBJECTIVES

- discuss wellness treatments
- talk about health and technology
- talk about sports psychology
- discuss nutrition and fitness
- explain and give instructions about a process
- write a summary

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. Do you often swim in lakes, rivers or the sea? How is it different from swimming in a pool?
- 2 Read the quote. What does Plato mean? Do you agree?
- 3 Do you think it's easy for people to stay healthy these days? Why/Why not?

8.1 Health and wellness

● Discuss wellness treatments
● Talk about health and technology

G relative clauses with complex relative pronouns
P building suspense

V health problems
S Identifying writers' opinions

VOCABULARY

Health problems

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

Try to write down five words for each question.

- 1 Name five parts of the body connected to the five senses.
- 2 Name five joints.
- 3 Name five parts of the body that people have more than two of.
- 4 Name five parts of the body that can be used as verbs.

B Work in pairs. Match the words in bold in 1–9 with the definitions (a–i).

- 1 fracture a rib/your leg
 - 2 dislocate your shoulder/thumb
 - 3 a sore throat/back
 - 4 pull a muscle
 - 5 sprain your ankle/your wrist
 - 6 inflamed joint/skin
 - 7 skin rash
 - 8 fast/slow heart rate
 - 9 high/low blood pressure
- a the force at which the blood flows through the body
 - b twist (a joint)
 - c the speed that your heart beats
 - d break or crack (a bone)
 - e painful
 - f force a joint out of its socket
 - g red and swollen
 - h red spots on the skin
 - i overstretch or tear

C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 147.

D SPEAK Work in pairs. What can people do to avoid having the health problems in Exercise B? What can people do if they have these problems?

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Have you ever tried any wellness treatments (e.g. a massage, a sauna, a spa)? Did you enjoy them? Did they have any lasting benefits?

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read From forest bathing to halotherapy.

Which treatments are good for ...

- | | | |
|---------------|--------------------|-------------|
| 1 your lungs? | 3 reducing stress? | 5 insomnia? |
| 2 your heart? | 4 your skin? | |

C READ TO IDENTIFY OPINIONS Work in pairs. Read the article again and discuss the questions. Use the information in the box to help you.

- 1 What is the writer's attitude to the things she is writing about? Find examples of three types of language which show her attitude.
- 2 What is the purpose of this article? Is it mainly written to inform, entertain or persuade?

Identifying writers' opinions

Writers can choose particular words and phrases to show their opinion of a topic.

- Adverbs can show a positive attitude (interestingly, surprisingly, intriguingly), a negative attitude (disappointingly, infuriatingly, predictably) or a sceptical or cautious attitude (supposedly, allegedly, presumably).
- Different structures can be used to show writers believe something is true (it is good for the heart), they have a neutral stance about reported information (it is said/thought to be good for the heart) or they are uncertain or even sceptical (it is supposed/meant/claimed to be good for the heart).
- Writers can also use colloquial asides, including tag questions and rhetorical questions (sounds fascinating, doesn't it?) to comment on information. They can use humour, sarcasm and irony to show a sceptical attitude.

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you agree with the writer's attitude to the treatments? Why/Why not?

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in groups. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Why do some people prefer alternative treatments to conventional medicine?
- 2 Should doctors be allowed to recommend wellness treatments and alternative medicine?
- 3 Should companies be allowed to offer scientifically unproven wellness treatments?

FROM FOREST BATHING TO HALOTHERAPY: THE FIVE LATEST WELLNESS TRENDS

Know your 'sound lounger' from your carbon dioxide bath with our guide to the latest and not-so-greatest spa innovations.

'Wellness' is all the rage these days, but we've noticed that some therapies doing the rounds at hotel spas right now sound suspiciously basic. Surely oxygen therapy is just breathing, right? Decide for yourself, as we explore a few of the more interesting treatments we've spotted on spa menus around the world.

Forest bathing or 'going for a walk'

Forest bathing is based on the Japanese practice of Shinrin-yoku. That may sound like some sort of elaborately mystical ritual, but in fact involves simply 'being in the forest'. You might call it walking, or even sitting, in, you know, a forest. The practice is supposed to exercise the mind as well as reduce stress by bringing you back to nature. Perhaps eager to jazz up the concept, The Mayflower Grace Hotel in Connecticut has put together a forest-bathing package that involves 90 minutes of skin-cleansing treatments, using plant-derived lactic acid and exfoliators made with peat enzymes and berries. Finally, a 'plant hydrosol ionising mist' supposedly boosts your lymphatic system with a 'stimulating breeze'.

Carbon dioxide dry bath or 'sitting in a bag'

Does lying fully clothed on a bed while wrapped in a bag of carbon dioxide sound fun? Didn't think so, but in the Czech Republic it's all the rage. In the west of the country – an area known for its natural gas – you can have a large bag wrapped around you all the way from your toes to under your arms and watch it slowly inflate with CO₂. The treatment is meant to slow your heart rate, reduce your blood pressure and improve circulation, but this happens by the gas seeping into your clothes and skin – that thought would put most people's blood pressure up, not down.

So Sound lounger or 'napping and listening to music'

Yes, Tibetan singing bowl therapy has been around for centuries, but it's now been upgraded for the digital age. The So Sound lounger is meant to help you relax by, well, sitting in a lounger and listening to music.

Revolutionary stuff. You're supposed to be able to take a 'therapeutic nap' while the lounger sends musical vibrations through your body ... A bit like an airport massage chair, perhaps?

Halotherapy or 'a salty room'

Halotherapy is actually a fancy name for salt therapy. In a natural setting, this treatment would mean sitting in a salt cave and breathing in the dry, salty air, which is supposed to be good for respiratory and skin conditions. Now hotels are replicating salt caves; the Windsor Arms Hotel in Toronto has created a room filled with salt and negative ions that has darkened ambient lighting to replicate natural salt caves found in Europe. Supposedly this also helps strengthen the immune system, among other health benefits.

Oxygen therapy or 'breathing'

Oxygen therapy is supposed to help with headaches, depression and sleep deprivation by – that's right – breathing oxygen. It involves being hooked up to a machine, sticking some tubes up your nose and, well, breathing.

Glossary

- circulation (n) the continuous movement of blood around your body
- lymphatic (adj) relating to the body's liquid lymph, or involved in moving lymph around your body
- mystical (adj) relating to or involving mysterious religious or spiritual powers
- nap (v) to sleep for a short period of time, usually during the day
- ritual (n) a formal ceremony

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you own any gadgets that monitor your health? If so, how often do you use them?
- 2 What are some of the benefits and drawbacks of these devices?

B LISTEN FOR GIST

8.1 Listen to a conversation between friends discussing technology to help you stay healthy and answer the questions.

- 1 What kinds of health data can be provided by the devices they talk about?
- 2 What four devices do they talk about?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL

8.1 Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why are they talking about wellness technology?
- 2 Why do Cheryl and Luke think that wellness technology is a good idea?
- 3 Why is Jake uncertain?

D DISCUSS

Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Would you use any of the devices the speakers discussed? Why/Why not?
- 2 Do you think it's useful for people to collect data about their health?

GRAMMAR

Relative clauses with complex relative pronouns

A

Read the extracts from the conversation. Underline the relative clauses and circle the relative pronouns.

- 1 Wellness technology is technology with which we can improve our health and well-being.
- 2 I've just read several news stories about people whose lives may have been saved because their smart watch alerted them to a problem.
- 3 I'm meeting the person [who is] writing the article with me for lunch today.
- 4 It's basically a thermometer which a smartphone can be attached to.
- 5 This device has an automated diagnosis feature whereby it checks the symptoms of the person to whom it's attached against a database.

- B Complete the rules (1–6) with the words in the box and the example sentences from Exercise A. You may use the words in the box more than once.

informal formal whereby whom whose

Relative clauses with complex relative pronouns

Advanced relative pronouns

- 1 Use _____ to add information about someone's possessions.
- 2 Use _____ to add information about a method (mainly used in formal English).
- 3 Use _____ to add information about a person where they are the object of the clause (mainly used in formal English).

Prepositions and relative pronouns

- 4 In _____ English, prepositions usually come at the end of the relative clause.

Example: _____

- 5 In _____ English, prepositions come before the relative pronoun.

Examples: _____

and _____

Reduced relative clauses

- 6 In _____ English, we can often omit who, that or which in relative clauses – and in relative clauses that use be, we can leave out the pronoun + the part of be.

Example: _____

- C Complete the sentences with the correct relative pronoun. Add a preposition if needed.

- 1 The device _____ I'm most interested in is something that helps me eat healthily.
- 2 Wellness devices are the technology _____ people will be able to extend their lives.
- 3 Companies need to develop security systems _____ it's impossible for hackers to gain access to users' private health data.
- 4 I don't understand people _____ first thought when they are sick is to look up their symptoms online rather than go to the doctor.
- 5 The people _____ wellness technology will make the biggest difference are older people.

- D SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you agree with the sentences in Exercise C?

- E Go to the Grammar Hub on page 136.

PRONUNCIATION

Building suspense

- A Listen to the example sentences from the conversation.

Underline the word where the speaker changes pitch.

- 1 So check out my brand new smart watch!
- 2 You'll never guess what ... I've just been commissioned to write an article about wellness technology.
- 3 For example, on this smart watch take this handy heart rate tracker.
- 4 And if you forget, it starts flashing red.

- B Complete the sentences so they are true for you.

- 1 The app I use most on my phone is ...
- 2 The person I send most messages to is ...
- 3 In one of the messages I received recently, someone said ...

- C Work in pairs. Present the information in Exercise B to your partner. Use pitch and pauses to build suspense.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Work in groups. Imagine that you work for a technology start up. Your group needs to think of a health and wellness product idea and pitch it to potential investors. Discuss your ideas and think about the following questions.

- Will your idea help prevent health problems, encourage healthy behaviour or help people who are already sick?
- What problem do people have that your idea could help to solve?
- Is your idea for a device, an app or a service?
- Who is the target market for your idea?
- How will you make it easy for users to use your product or service?
- What are the benefits for users of your product or service?

- B PREPARE Prepare a presentation about your idea. Think of ways to sell the idea to your classmates.

- C PRESENT Present your idea to the class. Then as a class, vote on the best idea.

○ Discuss wellness treatments

○ Talk about health and technology

8.2 Sport and wellness

G pronouns and determiners
P pronunciation of Idioms

V Idioms; describing taste
S understanding speech with background noise

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you know any players or teams that use a sports psychologist?
- 2 How do sports psychologists help athletes?

B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to the first part of a podcast about sports psychology. What are the two training techniques the sports psychologist mentions?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 What example situation does Professor Kumar give for using therapy?
- 2 How do Professor Kumar's positive thinking techniques help athletes?

D LISTEN WITH NOISE Listen to the second part of the podcast. Some parts are quite hard to hear because of background noise. Which two main sports psychology techniques does the interviewee use in her training sessions? Use the strategies in the box to help you.

- 1 _____
- 2 _____

Understanding speech with background noise

If there's a lot of background noise and you can't ask the speaker to repeat what they said:

- use the context of the situation to help you. Remember that you don't need to understand every word that is spoken to get the gist of what somebody is saying. Use your knowledge of the topic to help fill in the gaps.
- remember that speakers stress the most important words, so these words should be easier to hear. Use this information plus the context to help make intelligent guesses about what the people are saying.

E LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to the second part of the podcast again and answer the questions.

- 1 What problem had the football team been facing?
- 2 What kind of coaching style does she say many players won't accept?
- 3 What kind of coaching style does Bill prefer?

F SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you think sports psychologists are important?
- 2 Which techniques do you think would be most helpful for you when playing sport?
- 3 How difficult did you find it to understand what the speaker was saying when there was background noise?

VOCABULARY

Idioms

A Look at the three groups of idioms (1–12). Complete the headings for each group with the words in the box.

body sport food

idioms

- 1 My gut feeling is we'll lose the match.
- 2 Their striker was head and shoulders above the rest of us.
- 3 Keep an eye out for John – we're supposed to meet him at the stadium.
- 4 _____

idioms

- 5 It wasn't a big problem, but he was really making a meal of it.
- 6 He says he knows Ronaldo, but you have to take what he says with a pinch of salt.
- 7 What she said about coaching gave me food for thought.
- 8 _____

idioms

- 9 The other athletes are really good. I think she's out of her depth.
- 10 I can't win, so I think it's time to throw in the towel.
- 11 I thought I'd finished my part of the work, but then they suddenly moved the goal posts.
- 12 _____

B Put the underlined idioms below into the correct group in Exercise A.

- They have times when they doubt their abilities or get cold feet because they're anxious about competing.
- It's all about staying calm and focused, so they can give it their best shot.
- I need someone to nag me and tell me to up my game, but I know that's not everyone's cup of tea.

- C Match the underlined idioms (1–12) in Exercise A with the meanings (a–l).

- a something to think about carefully
- b change the rules or aims
- c watch for
- d feel nervous
- e make something seem more important or serious than it really is
- f be the most likely to win something
- g lack the required ability or knowledge
- h much better than
- i be sceptical about something as it may not be accurate or true
- j to have an instinctive feeling about
- k try your hardest
- l not something that everyone likes

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you usually have a gut feeling about who will win a sports game?
- 2 Have you ever felt out of your depth playing a game or sport?
- 3 Do you keep an eye out for new trends in fitness and nutrition?
- 4 What kinds of sport are not your cup of tea?
- 5 Do you know anyone who is head and shoulders above the rest at a sport?

PRONUNCIATION

Pronunciation of idioms

- A Listen to the sentences. Circle the prominent words in the underlined idioms.

- 1 I had a gut feeling.
- 2 It's time to throw in the towel.
- 3 He was really making a meal of it.
- 4 Keep an eye out for the others.
- 5 You have to take what she says with a pinch of salt.

- B Complete the advice for sports players with your own ideas.

- 1 If you feel out of your depth, ...
- 2 If you have cold feet, ...
- 3 You should always keep an eye out for ...
- 4 If you want to give something your best shot, ...
- 5 If your opponent is making a meal of something, ...
- 6 Take it with a pinch of salt if ...

- C Work in pairs. Read the sentences you wrote in Exercise B to your partner. Do you agree with your partner's advice?

SPEAKING

- A Work in groups. Rank the following in order of how important they are for success in sports.

- | | |
|----------------------------|-----------------------|
| • coaching | • natural ability |
| • diet and nutrition | • physical fitness |
| • insights from technology | • sports psychology |
| | • training facilities |

- B DISCUSS Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Could students benefit from using sports psychology techniques? How?
- 2 Could people at work benefit from using sports psychology techniques? How?

- C Share your ideas with another group.

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. What kind of diet should an athlete have?

B SKIM Read Should athletes go gluten-free? about someone trying out a diet. Which foods did the writer eat? Which did the writer have to avoid?

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why did he decide to try this diet?
- 2 What problems did he experience?
- 3 What was his conclusion about the effectiveness of the diet?

D Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you tried a gluten-free diet?
- 2 Would you like to try a gluten-free diet? Why/Why not?
- 3 What might be the advantages and disadvantages?

Should athletes go gluten-free?

For those who are gluten intolerant, a diet that is gluten-free is a necessity rather than a choice. But there are some who may be motivated to try this diet for other reasons. When tennis player Novak Djokovic became world number one, he credited going gluten-free as the reason for his success. Some athletes have followed suit and switched to a gluten-free diet and some are already swearing by its effects. So, I'm going gluten-free for two weeks to see if it makes me a better football player.

DAY 1 Going gluten-free means no bread and no cereal, so I had nice tangy grapefruit for breakfast. Then for lunch, I had a big salad full of nice crisp lettuce and crunchy carrots. I was briefly impressed by how healthy I was being. But then I worked out in the afternoon, and was suddenly ravenous.

DAY 2 I was overjoyed when I saw the gluten-free section of my local supermarket stuffed full of packets of bread, pasta, cakes, and biscuits – all long lost friends! I put several in my basket. Then I added some more packets just in case. At home, I made myself my first sandwich for two days. Disappointingly, the bread was incredibly dry and incredibly bland.

DAY 3 I'd been planning to have grapefruit some days and melon some days, but I was so hungry today that I had both. However, the grapefruit tasted sour, so I decided to try one of my gluten-free cupcakes instead. It didn't look that appetising but it was actually pretty good – moist, unlike the bread, and with very sweet, sticky icing. Relieved that I had found some comfort food, I had two more before lunch.

DAY 4 A revelation! Perhaps the gluten-free bread would be passable as toast? I spread a generous amount of honey on top. Maybe too much as it was a bit soggy – but it actually tasted OK. A relief, because I didn't fancy grapefruit or melon for breakfast again.

DAY 5 For variety, I decided to try some probiotic food – food rich in healthy bacteria that are said to be good for gut health. I'd been told kefir, a fermented milk drink, is a good way to kick things off.

It looked like milk, but it smelled interesting – slightly cheesy but also vinegary. Tentatively, I poured some into a glass. It had a creamy texture, but it was also a little gritty. And it tasted like a slightly acidic, fizzy glass of milk. I'd found something else I could have for breakfast!

DAY 6 A Japanese friend had warned me that natto – another probiotic food made from fermented soya beans – is a bit of an acquired taste. I could see what she meant right away. It looked slimy and had a very pungent aroma – almost like burnt tyres. I think the beans actually had a pretty mild taste, but the smell was so strong that it was hard to tell. I couldn't eat much, so I reached for some gluten-free cakes instead, which I ate with some kombucha, a sweetened tea that looked a little murky. Despite the cloudy appearance it was nice, although it didn't exactly taste like tea.

DAY 7 I met some friends for a game of football. The jury was still out as to whether the diet had had any effect. Unfortunately, there wasn't much to see. I hadn't morphed into an overnight football sensation. So, is going gluten-free better for sports performance? It seems highly unlikely. And if you do need to go gluten-free, you should work with a sports nutritionist to create a diet to suit your training needs.

Glossary

appetising (adj) appetising food smells or looks very good morph (v) to change from one thing into another by small and interconnected steps overjoyed (adj) extremely pleased the jury is still out (phr) used for saying that people have not yet decided what they think about someone or something

GRAMMAR

Pronouns and determiners

- A Look at the sentence from the article Should athletes go gluten-free? Which of the underlined words in the sentence is followed by a noun? What does the word not followed by a noun refer to?

Some athletes have followed suit and switched to a gluten-free diet and some are already swearing by its effects.

- B Choose the best words to complete the rules.

Pronouns and determiners

Words such as this, these, many, several and some can be used as both pronouns and determiners. To understand whether the word is being used as a pronoun or determiner, we need to look at the context.

- 1 Pronouns are / are not followed by a noun. They are used in place of a noun. We need to use the context to understand what the pronoun refers to.
 - 2 Determiners are / are not followed by a noun. They are used to say which thing or how many things are being talked about.
- C Look at the underlined sentences (1–3) in the article in Should athletes go gluten-free? For each sentence, decide which words are pronouns and which are determiners. Then decide which nouns the pronouns refer to.
- D Go to the Grammar Hub on page 136.

VOCABULARY

Describing taste

- A Complete the table with the words in bold from Should athletes go gluten-free? Some words can go into more than one category.

Look	Smell	Taste	Texture

- B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 147.

- C SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Describe a food you have eaten because you wanted to be healthy. Did it have any effect?
- 2 Describe a food you have eaten from another country. Did you like it?
- 3 Describe the most unusual thing you have ever eaten. Would you recommend it to other people?

SPEAKING HUB

- A PREPARE Work in small groups. Imagine you are a fitness instructor or personal trainer. You are pitching your services to a famous athlete. To win the pitch, you need to create the best plan to help him or her prepare for an important competition. First decide what kind of athlete you are pitching to.

- B PLAN Create a plan to help the athlete. Use the questions to help you.

- What are the best mental techniques to help him or her prepare for the competition?
- What should he or she do to prepare physically?
- What is the best diet for him or her to follow?

- C PRESENT Present your plan to the class.

- D DISCUSS Discuss the plans with the class. Which plan was the best?

- Talk about sports psychology
○ Discuss nutrition and fitness

Is it good for you?

A Work in pairs. Look at the picture and discuss the questions.

- 1 Are these foods healthy? Why?
- 2 Would you eat the food shown in the picture? Why/Why not?

B Read the terms below. Now watch a video about food packaging. Tick (✓) the terms you see or hear.

- | | |
|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> source of fibre | <input type="checkbox"/> high in iron |
| <input type="checkbox"/> high in vitamins | <input type="checkbox"/> low in salt |
| <input type="checkbox"/> high in vitamin D | <input type="checkbox"/> source of calcium |
| <input type="checkbox"/> gluten free | <input type="checkbox"/> good |
| <input type="checkbox"/> low in calories | <input type="checkbox"/> 100% natural |
| <input type="checkbox"/> OK for veggies | <input type="checkbox"/> high fibre |
| <input type="checkbox"/> nature is power | <input type="checkbox"/> high in Omega 3 |
| <input type="checkbox"/> organic | <input type="checkbox"/> no refined sugars |
| <input type="checkbox"/> no added nonsense | <input type="checkbox"/> veggie-friendly |
| <input type="checkbox"/> low sugar | <input type="checkbox"/> no added salt |

Glossary

- back up (phrasal verb) to show that an explanation or belief is probably true
- bend the rules (phrase) to allow something that is not normally allowed
- dupe (v) to trick someone into believing something that is not true or something that is stupid or illegal
- manipulate (v) to influence someone or to control something in a clever or dishonest way
- tricks of the trade (phrase) quick and effective methods used by experienced people in a particular profession

C Watch the video again. Complete the summary.

A normal supermarket has thousands of products with 1 information. Food producers cannot make health 2 about products unless they can support them with 3. However, they often manipulate the 4 to make their foods appear healthier. People generally only notice certain 5 when food shopping. Some terms such as 'good' and 'natural' are 6 and can be used without any evidence of health 7.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentences from the video and the information in the box. Which of Babita's words has Richard reformulated?

Babita: So, we're being duped, we're being fooled, are we?

Richard: Well, we're being manipulated.

Reformulating

We reformulate when we want to express that we don't necessarily agree with what another person has said or with their point of view. We often reformulate by using well and then the same structure the other person has used.

B Match the sentences (1–6) with the replies (a–f).

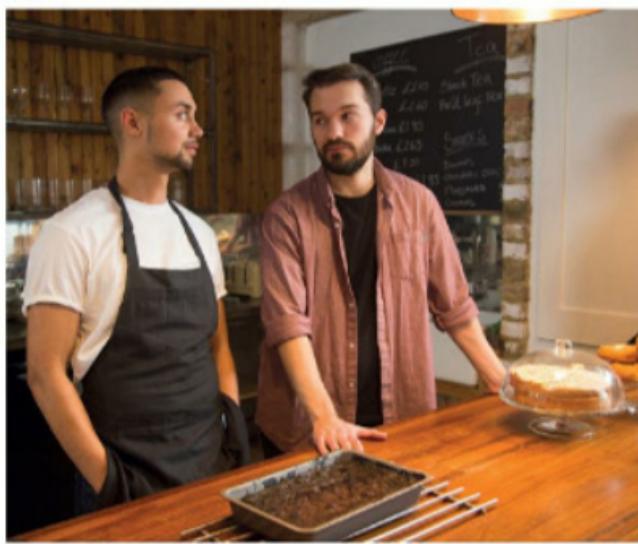

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 New York's the greatest city in the world. | a Well, they're not being completely honest. |
| 2 They're definitely lying to us, aren't they? | b Well, they're definitely bending the rules. |
| 3 What they're doing is illegal. | c Well, some have to be backed up with evidence. |
| 4 All health claims on food have to be backed up with scientific evidence. | d Well, it's certainly the most exciting. |
| 5 You hated the film then? | e Well, she wants to come but she's working really late. |
| 6 So, Maria doesn't want to come to the party then? | f Well, I didn't like it very much. |

C Work in pairs. Write responses to the sentences.

- 1 I bet the film was amazing, wasn't it?
- 2 What they're doing is immoral.
- 3 The apartment's filthy.

D Work in pairs. Practise the exchanges you wrote in Exercise C.

▶ Healthy display

- A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

 - 1 Where do you get recipes from?
 - 2 Are you good at following recipes or do you prefer to improvise?

B  Watch the video. Complete the recipe.

Amanda's HEALTHY BROWNIE RECIPE

INGREDIENTS

- One 1 of coconut oil
 - Two egg whites
 - 2 yoghurt
 - small amount of sugar
 - 3 cocoa powder
 - 4 flour
 - 5 of dark chocolate

METHOD

- Step one: ⁶ the oven.

Step two: ⁷ egg whites from yolks.

Step three: ⁸ egg whites, coconut oil, yoghurt and sugar.

Step four: Add cocoa powder and wholewheat flour to wet ⁹.

Step five: ¹⁰ mixture until incorporated.

Step six: Add chips of chocolate.

Step seven: Spread the ¹¹ in a pan.

Step eight: Put the pan in the oven for ¹² minutes at 260 degrees Fahrenheit.

- C Where does Harry think he went wrong with the recipe?

SPEAKING SKILL

- A Work in pairs. Complete the example in the video. Why does Sam use a question tag here?

Sam: Now you did separate the egg whites from the yolks, ?

- B Read the information in the box. Which strategy (a–c) has been used in the sentences from the video (1–4)?

Repairing misunderstandings

When we don't understand another person or another person doesn't understand us there are a number of things we can do to repair the misunderstanding.

- a Tag questions to check that we have understood correctly or that the other person has understood correctly.
 - b Clarifying instructions to signal that we are going to go over instructions again.
 - c Restating to clarify what we mean. We can also say what we don't mean.

- 1 OK ... maybe let's go over them again.
 - 2 Not whisk ... mix.
 - 3 Remember to add chips ... not chunks ... chips of dark chocolate.
 - 4 Hold on, Fahrenheit? You mean Celsius, don't you?
 - 5 OK, let's go through it one more time.

- C Work in pairs. Take it in turns to read aloud the sentences (1–5) in Exercise B. Try to copy the intonation of Sam and Harry in the video.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN You are going to give instructions on a process you know well. Choose one of the ideas below or use your own idea.

- recipe
 - how to repair something
 - sport or exercise tips
 - professional or academic process

- B PREPARE Make notes on how you are going to explain the process to your partner.

- C PRESENT Work in pairs. Explain your process to your partner. Ask your partner to retell you the process. Clarify any misunderstandings. Change roles.

Well, no ... that's not quite right. You should make sure you stretch first.

○ Explain and give instructions about a process

- ▶ Turn to page 163 to learn how to write a summary of a text about stress.

Unit 8 Review

VOCABULARY

A Choose the correct word to complete the sentences.

- I went to see the doctor when I had a rash / sprain on my chest.
- I'm really stressed at the moment, so my blood pressure / rate is a little high.
- I'm on crutches because I've fractured / pulled a bone in my foot.
- Do you have any eye drops? I've been looking at a screen all day and my eyes are really inflamed / sore.
- I pulled / sprained my wrist when the ball hit my hand.
- I think I fractured / pulled a muscle at the gym, so I'd better put some ice on it.
- Do you ever track your heart rate / pressure while you're exercising?

B Match the questions (1–12) with the answers (a–l).

- Do you ever get cold feet before speaking in public?
 - Do you always give it your best shot when you play sports?
 - Do you always keep an eye out for good places to eat?
 - Which sports are not your cup of tea?
 - Have you heard something that you've had to take with a pinch of salt?
 - Did you feel like throwing in the towel when it got tough?
 - When was the last time you felt out of your depth?
 - Who is a sports player who is head and shoulders above his peers?
 - Do you offer to help out when you see someone making a meal of something?
 - What was the last thing you read that gave you food for thought?
 - Are your gut feelings usually right?
 - Has anyone ever moved the goal posts while you were working on something?
- Yes, because I'm incredibly competitive.
 - Messi is clearly one the best players in history.
 - At times in the race I wanted to give up, but you have to keep going.
 - No, I don't usually get nervous.
 - A teacher once changed the title of an essay.
 - I'm not a big fan of rugby or cricket.
 - There was a great article in the paper about innovation the other day.
 - Yes, a friend told me a story. But he always exaggerates.
 - Not usually, I find it a bit embarrassing.
 - Not really. I search for things online.
 - I once took an exam that was much too difficult for me.
 - Rarely. I'm not good at predicting things.

C Choose the correct word to complete the sentences.

- I don't like soft biscuits. They need to be crunchy / sharp / soggy.
- I don't often eat seaweed. It's a bit too crisp / murky / slimy for me.
- Pasta can often be too bland / pungent / sour, so I always add lots of parmesan cheese.
- I tend to order a mild / gritty / sticky curry when I have Indian food.
- I like lemon dressing on my salad to give it creamy / soggy / tangy flavour.
- I never buy mild / pungent / fizzy drinks in case they've been shaken up.
- I love eating cheesy / gritty / sticky things like toffee apples and candy floss.

GRAMMAR

A Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

- My smartwatch has a feature that you can share your exercise data with friends.
- There's an app which in you can record your fitness data.
- This is the device that being used to monitor people's blood sugar levels.
- The inventor is someone which people like to read about.
- I don't know who's smartwatch this is.
- This is the diet tracking service which I subscribe.

B Complete the text with the words or phrases in the box.

a large number of both either most people one others some people

The raw food diet

These days, there are¹

diets that claim to be the best way to stay healthy.² is the raw food diet. According to this diet,

³ cooked and processed foods are unhealthy, so people should not eat⁴ .

⁵ follow a raw vegan diet, whereas⁶ eat animal products, too. The diet includes fruits, vegetables, nuts, seeds and, for the non-vegans, meat.⁷ who follow the diet, whether vegan or not, also eat fermented foods, such as sauerkraut and kimchi.

9

BEHAVIOUR

Behaviour is the mirror
in which everyone shows their image.

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

Caught red ... and blue ... and green handed.

OBJECTIVES

- talk about group behaviour
- discuss factors that affect behaviour
- discuss animal behaviour
- talk about behavioural experiments
- give and justify your opinion on social engagement
- write a conclusion to an academic report

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. How do children learn to behave? What influences our behaviour as we grow?
- 2 Read the quote. What aspects of our image/character might we deliberately try to show through our behaviour? What might we reveal accidentally?
- 3 What would a stranger guess about your character from your behaviour? What might they assume incorrectly?

VOCABULARY

Slang

A SPEAK Read the dictionary definition. Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Can you think of any examples of slang (in English or your language)?
- 2 What problems can slang cause for language learners?

slang – definition and synonyms

NOUN  Pronunciation /slæŋ/

Words or expressions that are very informal and are not considered suitable for more formal situations. Some slang is used only by a particular group of people.

 B Read and listen to some examples of informal English. In pairs, try to work out the meaning of the underlined slang expressions.

- 1 I could do with some new wheels but they'd set me back at least ten grand ... and I'm completely skint.
- 2 Hey, can you lend me ten bucks? Ah, sweet. That's awesome, dude.
- 3 I don't mean to whinge, but the office do last night was a total shambles. I was so gutted!
- 4 This bloke offered me a brand new telly for fifty quid, so I'm like 'Sounds doggy to me – it's probably nicked or something.'
- 5 I wanted to hang out with my buddies tonight but I'm totally beat, so I guess I'll just chill out and crash instead.
- 6 I'm well chuffed cos I got myself a new flat. So I'm sorted now.

 C Now listen to a more neutral version of the same sentences to check your ideas.

D DISCUSS Work in small groups. Discuss the questions. Use words in Exercise B.

- 1 When was the last time you whinged about something?
- 3 What events have you been to that were a complete shambles? What happened?
- 4 When was the last time you felt well chuffed or gutted? Why?

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you speak or behave differently depending on who you are with?

9.3

B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to a group of people taking part in a psychology experiment. Then answer the questions.

1 How many participants are in the group?

2 Where are the experimenters?

3 What's the purpose of the experiment?

4 What five tasks does the experiment include?

9.3

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again. Are the statements true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- | | |
|--|-------|
| 1 Lisa volunteered to take part for free. | T / F |
| 2 Lisa's group was due to start at 11:30. | T / F |
| 3 All four members of the group agree to eat the doughnuts. | T / F |
| 4 Lisa knew for certain that her answer about the lines was wrong. | T / F |
| 5 Sometimes PTU affects everyone in a group. | T / F |
| 6 The participants think 'yummy' is a cool word. | T / F |
| 7 Groupthink is mainly associated with teenagers. | T / F |
| 8 The experimenters were surprised by Lisa's behaviour. | T / F |

9.4

D LISTEN TO RAPID SPEECH Listen to some extracts from the conversation. Cross out the words and sounds that the speakers leave out. Put brackets [] round the phrases they link together. The first two have been done for you. Use the information in the box to help you.

Understanding rapid colloquial speech

Rapid colloquial English is especially difficult to understand because:

- speakers use a lot of slang and idioms.
- sounds, syllables or even whole words are often left out.
- common phrases like what do you and going to are linked together.

- Good morning. How are [you doing?]
- [Don't know] what they're testing.
- Are we supposed to wait?
- We've got to go and teach.
- Shall we get cracking?
- It's obvious.
- Do you think they're for us?
- What about you, Jake?
- Shall we have some more?
- What are you on about?

E SPEAK Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- Do you think you would respond to the tasks in the same way as Lisa?
- Have you ever experienced PTU? Think about your experiences as a language learner.
- Have you ever encountered groupthink or something similar? What happened?

PRONUNCIATION

Pronouncing vague expressions

A Underline the vague expressions in the extracts from the conversation. Use the information in the box to help you.

Pronouncing vague expressions

Vague expressions are a way of showing that we're not being too precise. They are especially common in informal English.

Vague expressions are usually pronounced very quickly, with no stressed syllables. The word of is often reduced to a (e.g. kinda, sorta). The word and becomes n.

- Something about perception skills and stuff like that.
- There were two blokes here earlier, psychology professors or whatever.
- How groups influence our behaviour, and so on.
- I thought my eyes were playing tricks on me in some way!
- Sometimes it's easier to follow the crowd, in a sense, than to trust your own eyes!
- Everyone else is nodding their heads, or something like that.
- I felt kind of stupid.
- You must think I'm some sort of sheep!

9.5

B Listen to check your answers. Then practise saying the sentences.

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in small groups and discuss the question. Use the vague expressions in the list and slang from this lesson in your discussions.

How can we avoid the problems of group behaviour? Think of at least five practical steps.

- and so on
- more or less
- and stuff like that
- or something (like that)
- in a/some sense/way
- or whatever
- kind/sort of
- some kind/sort of (+ noun)
- (+ adjective/verb)

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Do you think the language you speak could affect any of the areas below? Why/Why not?

- how rich you are
- how you play
- your health

B SKIM Read Does your language affect your behaviour? Were any of your ideas from Exercise A mentioned?

C READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read the article again. Answer the questions.

- 1 How did Chen try to show that language (not other factors) affects our behaviour?
- 2 Why does our language affect our behaviour, according to Chen?
- 3 How could Chen's ideas make the world a better place?
- 4 What other behaviours are connected with our language, according to Chen?
- 5 What other factor (apart from grammatical structures) might affect how speakers of certain languages behave?
- 6 What claim is the main focus of the article?
- 7 What's the problem with the classification of English?
- 8 Which language feature did Chen use to categorise languages?

D SPEAK Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you agree with Chen's claims?
- 2 How else could we explain his correlations?
- 3 Do you often make long-term plans for the future (e.g. saving for retirement)?
- 4 Do you consider yourself an impulsive person or someone who likes to plan?

DOES YOUR LANGUAGE AFFECT YOUR BEHAVIOUR?

In 2013, Keith Chen, a behavioural economist at Yale University, made headlines around the world with the extraordinary claim that the language we speak can have a significant impact on our propensity to save, plan and prepare for the future.

Chen divided the languages of the world into two categories: strong FTR (future tense reference) languages, which need markers like 'will' to signal the future, and weak FTR languages, which don't. In English (a strong FTR language), you can't say 'it snows tomorrow'; you usually have to add 'will' or 'going to'. In weak FTR languages like Mandarin, it's normal to say, 'it snows now' and 'it snows tomorrow', using the same verb form in both these cases.

Chen's remarkable finding was that speakers of weak FTR languages save 25% more money for the future than speakers of strong FTR languages. Chen's interpretation of this correlation is that for speakers of weak FTR languages, the future feels like part of the present, while speakers of strong FTR languages save much less because the future feels more remote to them.

Remarkably, Chen's correlations held not only for savings rates, but also for overeating, smoking, drinking, debt and lack of physical exercise. In each case, speakers of weak FTR languages were significantly healthier and took fewer risks, presumably because they felt a strong connection with their future selves.

While Chen's study provoked considerable interest and enthusiasm from the general public, the backlash from linguists and other academics has been just as striking. One criticism involves the possible confusion of correlation with causation. The link between languages and behaviour may in fact be due to other factors, such as age, education or income levels. Chen took great care to control for all these factors, by comparing families where the only difference was the language spoken at home. However, many academics still feel deeply uncomfortable with the idea of a causal relationship behind the apparent correlation.

GRAMMAR

Noun phrases

A Complete the rules with the examples (1–9) from the text.

Noun phrases

Long noun phrases (NPs) are especially useful in formal and academic writing because they can contain as much information as a full sentence.

Most NPs start with a number, a quantifier (e.g. some, all) and/or another determiner (e.g. the, my, these).

- a all and both can be used before a determiner without of
_____ / _____
- b many, few, little and numbers can be used after a determiner:

- c Some quantifiers can be modified with phrases like almost or not quite

Common structures at the end of an NP include:

- d relative clauses: _____
- e reduced relative clauses: _____
- f preposition phrases: _____
- g that clauses: _____
- h to + infinitive: _____

B Go to the Grammar Hub on page 138.

C SPEAK Work in small groups. Build 'monster noun phrases' around the nouns in the box, as in the example.

behaviour experiments language

A: My friends' behaviour is strange.

B: A lot of my best friends' behaviour is strange.

C: Quite a lot of my best friends' behaviour when they're tired is strange.

SPEAKING HUB

A DISCUSS Work in small groups. Go to the Communication Hub on page 152.

B PLAN Choose one of the ideas in Exercise A. Create a list of at least five pieces of evidence to support or challenge the idea.

C PREPARE Work in pairs. Explain your pieces of evidence to your partner. Listen to your partner's evidence. Give feedback and ask questions.

D PRACTISE Practise presenting your evidence. Use your partner's feedback to improve your presentation.

E PRESENT Report your evidence to the class. Be prepared to answer questions.

F REFLECT Decide which evidence you found most convincing and why.

○-Talk about group behaviour

○-Discuss factors that affect behaviour

One alternative possibility is that it's the connotations of a language that affect our behaviour, rather than any grammatical properties of the language itself. For example, languages such as English might encourage a live-for-today attitude as a result of people's associations of that attitude with English-speaking countries.

In a 2010 study, Dirk Akkermans and colleagues set out to find out more by asking bilingual speakers of English and Dutch to play a game. Those who had lived in English-speaking countries were found to be considerably more competitive when playing in English rather than Dutch. However, those who had experienced only limited exposure to the culture of English-speaking countries were found to be no more competitive when playing in English or Dutch, strongly suggesting that it's the culture of English-speaking countries, not the language itself, that is making the difference.

A second major concern with Chen's study is that his division of the world's languages into two categories, strong and weak FTR, seems overly simplistic. For example, while English does require a future tense marker in predictions like 'it'll rain tomorrow', future markers are optional in other future constructions (e.g. 'I'm leaving tomorrow') and virtually outlawed in conditional clauses (e.g. 'If it rains ...'). The future in English is complex, as pretty much every learner can attest, so its classification as strong FTR feels debatable at best. Similar objections could be raised for many other languages.

Overall, despite the many legitimate concerns, Chen's analysis of the correlation can't be dismissed out of hand. Further research is needed, ideally with a more sophisticated classification of languages. However, if Chen's conclusions that grammar influences behaviour prove correct, the implications will be profound. Wouldn't it be great if we could solve all our financial and health problems simply by outlawing words like 'will'!

"Chen, M Keith. 2013. "The Effect of Language on Economic Behavior: Evidence from Savings Rates, Health Behaviors, and Retirement Assets." American Economic Review, 103 (2): 690-731."

Glossary

backlash (n) a strong, negative and often angry reaction to something that has happened, especially a political or social change legitimate (adj) fair and reasonable outlaw (v) to make something illegal propensity (n) a natural tendency to behave in a particular way provoke (v) to cause a reaction, especially an angry one simplistic (adj) treating something in a way that makes it seem much simpler than it really is

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

chimpanzees dolphins crows and jays dogs

- 1 Which of the animals listed in the box are intelligent?
- 2 How do we know?
- 3 How could we find out?

Understanding animal behaviour

By Peter Aldhous

We gaze into the eyes of a chimp and see a reflection of ourselves. We glance at a crow and see an alien being. Such biases skew our understanding of what non-human intelligence looks like.

The best known experiment designed to probe animal minds is the 'mirror test'. Having been given time to interact with a mirror, chimps are marked with a dye and anaesthetised. After coming round, they look into the mirror while touching the marked area. From this behaviour, researchers have concluded that the chimps know they are looking at themselves – one of the hallmarks of an advanced mind. Other animals that have passed the test include manta rays and dolphins.

My issue with the mirror test isn't the meaning of success, but rather how to interpret failure. Do most animals fail because they lack a concept of self, or is the test irrelevant to species that don't use vision for social communication? How would you design a similar test using smells for a dog or ultrasound for a dolphin? When a dolphin hears its own echoes coming back in altered form, it might well be thinking: 'Yes, that's me' – but how would we know?

In New Caledonian forests, Gavin Hunt of Massey University watched crows fashion twigs into hooks to capture insects from holes. Seeming to understand cause and effect, crows are capable of astounding feats of meta-tool use: using one tool to manipulate another in order to achieve an ultimate goal.

In fact, they seem better than chimps at translating their skill in solving one problem to another conceptually similar one. In the trap-tube test, an animal must use a stick to obtain food from a tube. Pushing it in one direction helps them get the reward; pushing it in the other makes the food fall into a trap. Crows that have already solved this problem can apply their skills when presented with the trap-table test, which looks different but has the same rule: Don't let the food drop down the hole. For chimps, prior experience with the trap tube gives no advantage on the trap table.

B SKIM Read Understanding animal behaviour quickly. What does the writer say about the questions in Exercise A?

Understanding the wider scope of corvid cognition meant entering the birds' world to devise experiments to probe their mental processes. Nicky Clayton did this while at the University of California in the late 1990s. After being told confidently by a psychologist colleague that animals lack 'episodic' memory – an ability to remember the 'what, where and when' of past events – Clayton decided to check for herself. While studying western scrub jays, she realised that the birds' habit of burying food provided a prime opportunity to test their memories.

Clayton first had the jays bury insect larvae and peanuts in sand-filled trays. Having learnt that the larvae tasted bad after a few days, if just four hours had elapsed, the jays sought out the places where they had hidden them. But if several days had passed, they went for the hidden peanuts. This was an impressive demonstration of 'episodic-like' memory. Clayton has also found that jays will selectively bury certain types of food when aware that it is likely to be scarce in future. So now we apparently have jays planning ahead, in addition to acting on specific memories of the past.

When I visited Clayton and her scrub jays, it was a while before I saw one of the birds bury an item of food – apparently my presence had interrupted them. 'They're checking you out,' Clayton told me. I stared back, struck by the gulf between us. Despite having read the scientific papers and knowing how cognitively sophisticated scrub jays are, I experienced no emotional connection.

Glossary

elapse (v) if time elapses, it passes feat (n) something impressive and often dangerous that someone does gulf (n) a large and important difference between people or groups hallmark (n) typical feature

C READ FOR OUTCOMES Complete the notes about the research. Use the information in the box to help you.

Identifying outcomes of scientific research

When you read about scientific research, it's important to distinguish between:

- results (what happened?)
- conclusions (what did we learn?).

You can then decide if you agree with the conclusions.

Mirror test

1 Results: Chimps look in mirror and _____.

2 Conclusions: Chimps know _____.

Trap-tube/-table test

3 Results: Crows _____ from one test to another; for chimps _____.

4 Conclusions: _____ at translating skills to conceptually similar problems

Insect larvae vs peanuts

5 Results: Jays went to larvae locations after _____, but to peanut locations after _____.

6 Conclusions: Jays possess _____.

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the question. How might research like this change the way we treat animals?

VOCABULARY

Verb + object + infinitive

A Look again at the examples in bold in Understanding animal behaviour. Then complete the rules with verbs from the text.

Verb + object + infinitive

A very small number of verbs are followed by an object and an infinitive without to.

1 Sense verbs:

_____ and feel are followed by an infinitive to describe a complete event, or an -ing form to describe a process or series of events.

2 Causative verbs:

_____ After help, both an infinitive and to + infinitive are possible.

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 147.

GRAMMAR

Participle clauses and verbless clauses

A Complete the sentences from the article with one word.

- 1 _____ been given time to interact with a mirror, chimps are marked with a dye.
- 2 After coming round, they look into the mirror while _____ the marked area.
- 3 Nicky Clayton did this _____ at the University of California in the late 1990s.
- 4 After _____ told confidently by a psychologist colleague that animals lack 'episodic' memory ... Clayton decided to check for herself.
- 5 Having _____ that the larvae tasted bad after a few days ... the jays sought out the places where they had hidden them.
- 6 Clayton has also found that jays will selectively bury certain types of food when _____ that it is likely to be scarce in future.
- 7 I stared back, _____ by the gulf between us.

B Match the sentences (1–7) in Exercise A with the rules (a–c).

Participle clauses and verbless clauses

Participle clauses use participles (e.g. doing, done, being done, having done, having been done) instead of a subject + verb.

- a When a clause starts with a participle, the meaning is often when after _____, or because _____.
- b Many participle clauses start with prepositions (e.g. before, after, despite) _____.
- c After some conjunctions (if, when, while, although), we can leave out the subject and be. Usually this leaves a participle _____.

When be was the only verb, we are left with a 'verbless clause' _____.

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 138.

SPEAKING

SPEAK Work in groups. Discuss your experiences and opinions of animal intelligence. Then use participle clauses to report back to the class.

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in groups. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you have any lucky charms that you use before exams or other stressful situations? Do you know anybody who uses these lucky charms?
- 2 Do you have any lucky rituals or routines that you follow, e.g. before watching your favourite sports team? Do you know anybody who follows these lucky rituals?

B LISTEN FOR MAIN IDEA

9.6 Listen to a radio show about behavioural psychology and answer the questions.

- 1 How did the pigeons get food?
- 2 What's the connection between the experiment with pigeons and the one with people?
- 3 How do the three people at the end try to influence events?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL

9.6 Listen again. Choose the correct endings.

- 1 In the famous pigeon experiment, the mechanism always delivered food ...
 - after the same amount of time had passed.
 - at random times.
 - when the pigeons performed a particular action.
- 2 As the food continued to be delivered, the pigeons ...
 - changed their actions.
 - became more sure they could affect the delivery.
 - became more desperate.
- 3 The experiment with people ...
 - showed humans weren't so easily convinced.
 - showed very similar results.
 - used food as well to trick the participants.
- 4 The person who seems most convinced of their power to control events is ...
 - the football fan.
 - the exam-taker.
 - the lottery player.

D SPEAK

Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Do the behaviours and rituals described in the radio show prove that pigeons and people are stupid/irrational? Or is there a benefit in believing we can influence things beyond our control?
- 2 What other examples can you think of, where people (or animals) try to control things that are beyond their control?
- 3 What are some dangers of this type of behaviour?

PRONUNCIATION

Intrusive stops

9.7

A Listen carefully to some extracts from the radio show. Which sound (/p/, /t/ or /k/) can you hear in each of the underlined words?

- 1 A kind of bizarre pigeon dance. /p/ /t/ /k/
- 2 Such actions can influence something beyond our control. /p/ /t/ /k/
- 3 After completely random lengths of time. /p/ /t/ /k/
- 4 I was a youngster, and my aunt gave me a lucky hamster mascot. /p/ /t/ /k/

B Work in pairs. Practise saying the sentences in Exercise A.

9.8

C Which six words in the box can have intrusive stops? Listen to check. What's different about the other three words?

becomes influence intense once prince strength things warmth wins

D Work in pairs. Write a sentence using at least three of the words in Exercise C. Then give it to another pair for them to attempt to say correctly.

The more influence the prince has, the more intense he becomes.

VOCABULARY

Gestures and body language

- A Match the gestures (1–7) with the body parts (a–g). Choose each body part once. When would you use each gesture?

- | | |
|-------------------------|------------------|
| 1 blink / wink | a your finger(s) |
| 2 shrug | b your eyebrows |
| 3 point / bend / wiggle | c your head |
| 4 nod / shake | d your legs |
| 5 fold / cross | e your eyes |
| 6 cross / bend | f your shoulders |
| 7 raise | g your arm(s) |

- B Complete the sentences with the correct form of a verb in the box. Which body part does each verb involve?

beckon fidget gaze glare grin lean smirk stare

- 1 Stop _____ at those people's clothes! It's really rude! They're looking back now!
- 2 You look so happy in that photo! You're _____ from ear to ear!
- 3 I love _____ out to sea and dreaming of what's on the other side.
- 4 Stop _____ with your keys and pay attention!
- 5 During the test, the teacher _____ for me to come to the front of the class.
- 6 Don't _____ against that cupboard! It's not very stable.
- 7 When he beat me at tennis, Harry just _____ and said, 'I guess I'm better than you.'
- 8 I could tell you were angry by the way you _____ at me.

- C Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 147.

- D SPEAK Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which gestures can you use to show that you're happy/interested/bored?
 - 2 How might you show that you don't like someone?
 - 3 How could you communicate with a stranger who doesn't speak your language?
- E Work in groups to play a game. One of you is the facilitator; the others are players. Facilitator – go to the Communication Hub on page 153. Players – go to the Communication Hub on page 150.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PREPARE Work in groups. You are going to design and conduct a behavioural experiment to test an assumption. You can use one of the ideas below or your own ideas.

Assumption 1: Our body language communicates more information than the words we use.

Assumption 2: We can't help nodding or shaking our heads when we say yes or no, or shrugging our shoulders when we say I don't know, even if the movements are extremely tiny.

Assumption 3: We can't help mirroring other people's gestures and body language. We copy them subconsciously.

- B PLAN Work out how you could test the assumption on other members of the class.

- How will you set up the experiment?
- What will you tell the participant(s)?
- What will you be looking out for?
- How might your observations confirm or undermine the initial assumption?

- C CONDUCT Take turns to conduct your experiments with other members of the class.

If you're participating in another group's experiment, try to act naturally. Don't try to guess what the experimenters are testing – and don't try to influence their results.

If you're an observer, watch both the experimenters and the participants carefully. Try to work out what the experiment is testing.

- D DISCUSS Report back to the class on what you learnt from your experiment. Ask other observers for their conclusions. How could you refine your experiment to learn more?

○ Discuss animal behaviour

○ Talk about behavioural experiments

All together now

A Work in pairs. Look at the picture and discuss the questions.

- 1 What is happening in the picture?
- 2 Which other animals behave in this way? Why?

B 00.00–01.51 Work in pairs. Watch the first part of a video. Check your answers to Exercise A.

Glossary

- evacuation (n) the process of removing people from a building or an area that is not safe scenario (n) a situation that could possibly happen simulate (v) to produce the features of something in a way that seems real but is not swarm (v) to go somewhere as part of a large crowd

C 00.00–01.51 Watch the first part of the video again. Complete the sentences with the best option (a, b or c).

- 1 Doctor Ed Codling is a ...
 - a mathematician.
 - b biologist.
 - c mathematical biologist.
- 2 The experiment replicates how people on their own react in ...
 - a a fire.
 - b an earthquake.
 - c a plane accident.
- 3 Doctor Codling wants to observe participants that ...
 - a look confident and assume they can find the exit.
 - b remain calm and find the exit.
 - c panic and follow another person.
- 4 When Doctor Codling blows his whistle he wants them to leave out of ...
 - a the north exit.
 - b the south exit.
 - c either the north or south exit.

D Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you think the result of the experiment will be?
- 2 How many people do you think will go the right or the wrong way?
- 3 Why did people behave in the way they did?

E 01.51–02.35 Watch the second part of the video. Check your answers to Exercise D.

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentence from the video. Choose the correct options in the box.

I mean, I've done it before, you just end up following someone who looks the most confident in the room.

end up

We use end up to describe being in a particular place or state after doing something or because of doing it. It is used when the subject did/ didn't intend or expect this.

B Work in pairs. Respond to the sentences using ended up.

- 1 You missed your plane.

I ended up sleeping at the airport.

- 2 The film you wanted to see was sold out.

- 3 After travelling around the world for years, Marta unexpectedly settled down in Ireland.

- 4 I thought I'd passed the exam but I failed.

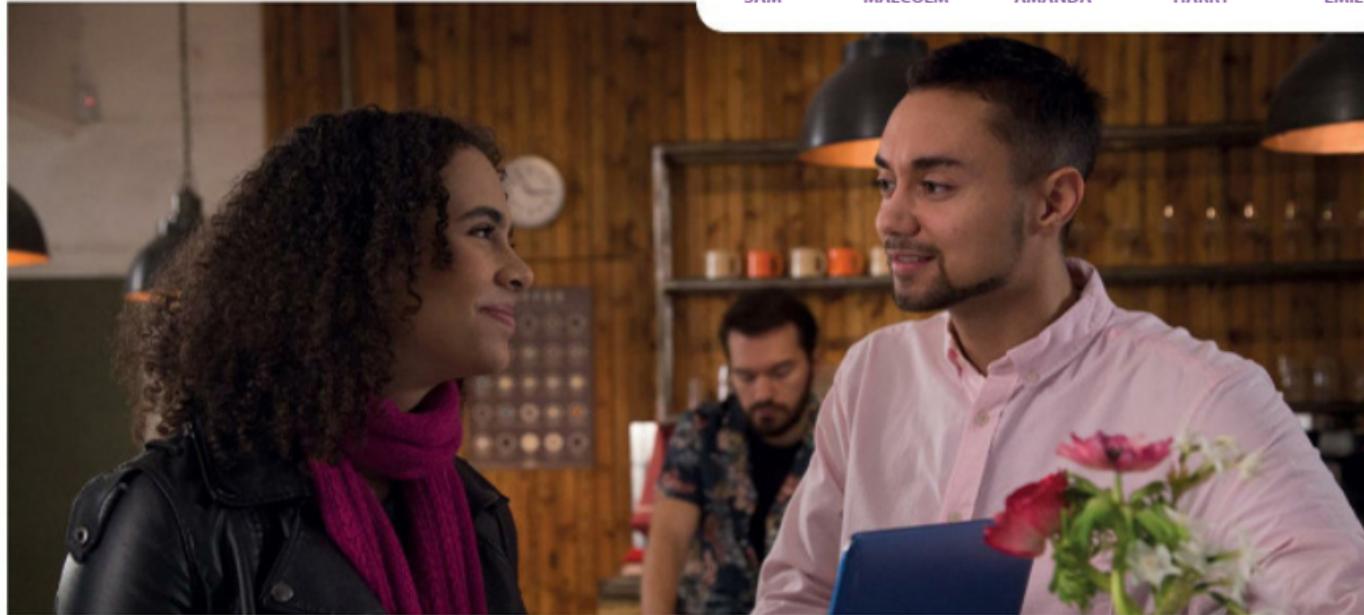

- 5 Alan kept on arriving late for work.

- 6 We had booked a holiday but had to cancel it because my boyfriend was ill.

C Compare your answers with another pair.

► Follow the herd

A Work in pairs. What do you think the phrase follow the herd means?

B Watch the video. Answer the following questions.

- 1 What is Amanda writing an article about?
- 2 What motivated people to use the Social Stairs?
- 3 What doesn't Harry understand?
- 4 Why does Sam want Amanda to tell him what she finds out?

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Complete the examples from the video.

- 1 Oh, _____ like that piano staircase in Stockholm?
- 2 _____, the piano staircase had an escalator next to it.
- 3 You _____ about that other example – the Social Stairs or something like that?
- 4 Oh, yeah. The Social Stairs. _____.
- 5 Or _____, they liked hanging out together.

B Watch the video again to check your answers to Exercise A.

C Choose the correct options to complete the information.

Backtracking and reformulating

When we correct something that has been previously said we ¹*backtrack* / reformulate. When we say something previously said in a different way we ²*backtrack* / reformulate.

D Work in pairs. Decide which of the examples in Exercise A are backtracking (b) and which are reformulating (r).

1 _____ 2 _____ 3 _____ 4 _____ 5 _____

○ SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE You are going to discuss the following question.

Do you think a sense of community is declining in modern society. Why/Why not?

Make notes on what you are going to say and how to justify your opinion. Be prepared to reformulate your arguments.

B DISCUSS Work in small groups. Present your opinion to the rest of the group. Respond to what the other members in your group say.

We've ended up being very isolated ... or to put it another way ... lonely.

C REFLECT Give feedback to the other members of your group. Consider the following points.

- reformulation
- fluency
- pronunciation
- interaction

○ Give and justify your opinion on social engagement

► Turn to page 164 to learn how to write a conclusion to an academic report.

Unit 9 Review

VOCABULARY

A Complete the conversation with the words in the box.

awesome bloke chill out chuffed dodgy dude gutted quid shambles was like

A: Hey, ¹ . You look happy. What's up?

B: I'm well ² ! I just got ten ³ for taking part in an experiment.

A: ⁴ ! What did you do?

B: I had to use sticks to push food out of a tube, but it kept dropping into a hole. Total ⁵ ! I was well ⁶, but the ⁷ who was in charge ⁸, ⁹, man! Don't worry!

A: Sounds a bit ¹⁰ to me. What were they testing?

B: Whether people are smarter than crows! Crazy, huh!

B Find and correct the mistake in three of the sentences.

1 The researchers watched one chimp hide the food.

2 We weren't let to watch the experiment.

3 I'll have my assistant to contact you next week.

4 I felt a mosquito bite me last night.

5 I can't help you to pass the exam, but I can help you avoid mistakes.

6 A crow was seen use one tool to make another.

C Choose the correct words to complete the blog post.

How to listen – and show you care

- Lean / Glare / Raise towards the other person slightly.
- Don't fold / gaze / winky your arms or fidget / shake / wiggle with pens, keys, etc.
- Keep neutral facial expressions – a smile might look like a ⁴gaze/ raise/ smirk.
- Don't speak. Instead, ⁵bend / nod / winky your head slowly to show understanding, cross / point / raise your eyebrows to show interest, or ⁷bend / shrug / wiggle your shoulders to show you don't know.
- Keep eye contact but don't ⁸cross / grin/ stare. You're allowed to beckon / blink / glare!

GRAMMAR

A Reorder the sentences to make noun phrases.

- You usually have to use / forms / available / future / the / two / that / of / one / are /
- The research focused on / for / are making / the / that / worrying / of / preparation / the future / lack / extremely / most people /
- all / behaviour / Practically / into / research / my / animal / shows they're smarter than we think
- The accident occurred because of / the event / for / failure by / such / the organisers / almost / to plan / the / large crowds / complete / to attend /
- problem / the / ways / these / approaching / Both / of / are flawed
- We are aware of / that / be expressed / the / only / animal intelligence / of / many / a / can / few / ways /

B Complete the sentences with participle clauses. Use the verbs in brackets.

- ¹ a big breakfast earlier, I skipped lunch. (eat)
- The octopus uses a coconut shell as a shelter if ² . (attack)
- ³ to understand the rules, the pigeon solved the puzzle quickly. (seem)
- ⁴ to be at the airport at 4 am, we weren't happy about the 10-hour delay. (tell)
- When ⁵ your bags, remember to leave space for souvenirs. (pack)
- Despite not ⁶ at university, she has produced some excellent research. (study)

Society exists only as a mental concept; in the real world there are only individuals.

Oscar Wilde

A castle village in Burj Al Babas, Bolu, Turkey

OBJECTIVES

- discuss issues related to tourism
- present solutions to urban problems
- talk about political activism
- discuss how to make a difference
- debate for and against a motion
- write a persuasive essay

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Look at the picture. What type of person might live in a place like this?
- 2 Read the quote. What do you think Wilde means? Do you agree?
- 3 What would be the advantages and disadvantages of living in an unusual place like the one in the picture?

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. What are some advantages and disadvantages of increased tourism for a city?

B SCAN Read the three newspaper articles. What problem of tourism are they discussing?

Has tourism reached its limit?

Being designated as a UNESCO World Heritage site helps preservea site and refurbish its facilities – as well as boosting tourism. Yet, it can end up endangering the site. A famous example is Machu Picchu, the ruins of an Inca settlement in Peru, which is being destabilised owing to tourists littering, climbing on the ruins or even taking pieces of it home.

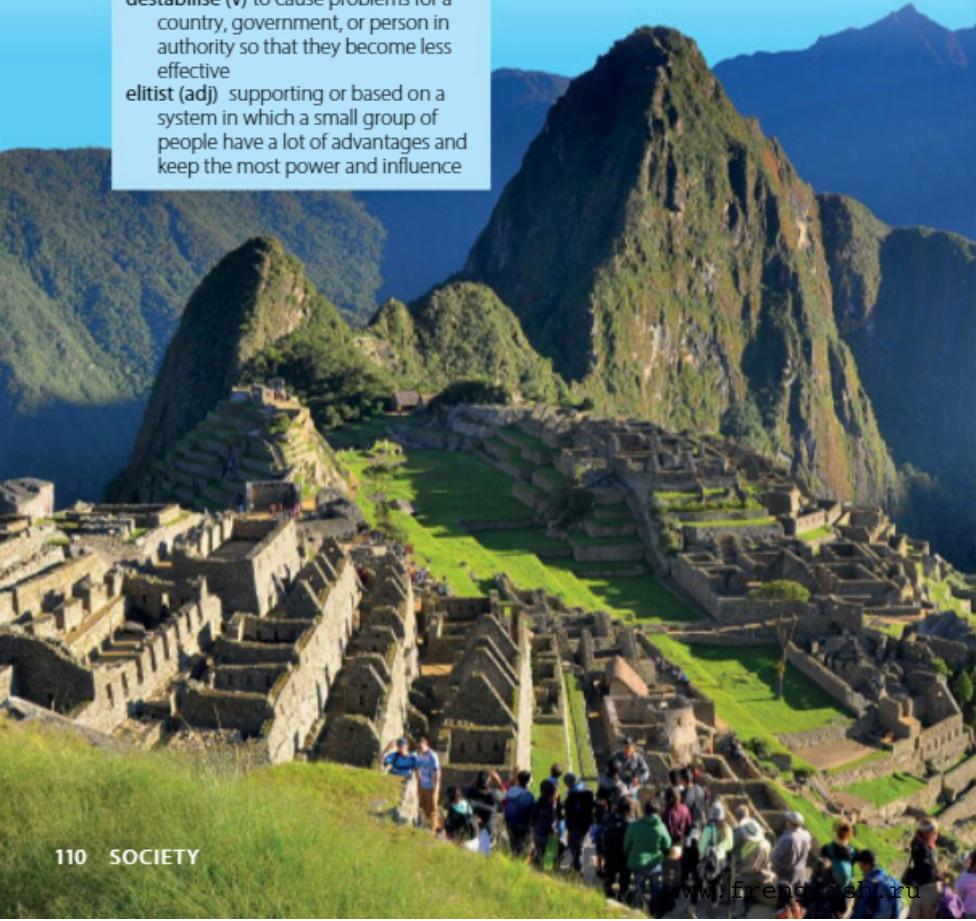

In response to similar problems, Venice has capped the number of tourists allowed to enter its most famous areas. Niagara Falls requires visitors to buy tickets which say when they can enter the site, whereas the Taj Mahal has increased entrance fees for tourists to actually try to put people off visiting.

Glossary

booming (adj) if an activity is booming, it is becoming very popular destabilise (v) to cause problems for a country, government, or person in authority so that they become less effective elitist (adj) supporting or based on a system in which a small group of people have a lot of advantages and keep the most power and influence

C SYNTHESISE INFORMATION Imagine that you are writing an essay about tackling the problem you identified in Exercise B. Complete the notes using information from all three articles. Use the information in the box to help you.

Integrating information from different texts

Sometimes you need to get information from multiple sources to understand a topic.

- Be clear about your purpose for reading. What questions are you trying to answer?
- Underline the main ideas in the texts and look for arguments connected to your topic.
- Use headings to organise the information you are looking for. Make notes under these headings as you read more texts.

Notes

Issues caused by the problem

Ideas for dealing with the problem

Criticism of these ideas

D DISCUSS Work in pairs. Look at your notes in Exercise C and discuss the best methods for solving the problem.

Is tourism tax fair?

The New Zealand government recently announced that it will start charging tourists a tax of approximately NZ$35 (£18). The government claims this fundwill be spent on infrastructure and the natural habitat of New Zealand's wildlife.

Is this reasonable? Tourists already contribute to the economy by paying for hotels, food and souvenirs. It's not as elitist as charging higher entrance fees to attractions, but it is still enough to put some tourists off.

Some might question if the fee is masking a failure to manage tourism properly. Should governments be responsible for not only attracting tourists, but better ensuring they are able to handle the influx of visitors?

VOCABULARY

Culture and heritage

A Match the words in bold in the articles with the meanings (1–10).

- 1 _____ = the type of place where an animal lives or a plant grows
- 2 _____ = the parts of a building that remain after it has been damaged
- 3 _____ = a large amount of money
- 4 _____ = to take care of something and prevent it being damaged
- 5 _____ = a place where people live
- 6 _____ = relating to the style or design of a building
- 7 _____ = to formally choose someone or something for a role or special status
- 8 _____ = objects, traditions and beliefs important to a society's history or culture
- 9 _____ = to put something at risk of being destroyed or becoming extinct
- 10 _____ = to repair or improve a building

B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 148.

C SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Are there any habitats where endangered species live in your country?
- 2 Should your country's government provide a larger fund to preserve cultural sites?
- 3 How important is architectural style to your country's heritage?

Tackling tourism with tech

Tourism in Amsterdam is booming, with over 14 million visitors a year to enjoy the canals and the mix of architectural styles. The Amsterdam tourism board felt limiting tourist numbers was too extreme, so they turned to technology to deal with potential overcrowding.

Many tourists visit the Van Gogh Museum in the morning and take a cruise on the canal in the afternoon. So the tourism board has launched an app providing information on how busy the attractions are and suggesting alternative destinations.

GRAMMAR

Discourse markers

A Choose the correct discourse markers to complete the sentences.

- 1 A top tourist attraction is the Grand Bazaar in Istanbul owing to /despite its spectacular architecture and wide range of shops.
- 2 The Zócalo in Mexico, another very popular attraction, hosts a large number of events throughout the year. Yet/ Moreover, it is home to the Metropolitan Cathedral and the National Palace.
- 3 Some of the most popular tourist attractions are in the US –as a matter of fact / namely Times Square, Central Park and Union Station.
- 4 Theme parks are also among the most popular tourist destinations. Disneyland in Florida, in any case / for instance is a very popular destination.
- 5 Conversely/ Whereas several of the world's most popular tourist attractions are in the US, one of the most popular destinations in Europe is Paris.

B Complete the rules with words and phrases in Exercise A.

Discourse markers

- 1 Use despite, _____ and _____ to join two clauses. They can come at the beginning of the sentence (followed by a comma) or in between the two clauses.
- 2 Use as a matter of fact, conversely, in any case, _____ and _____ to connect ideas in two sentences.

C Go to the Grammar Hub on page 140.

D Work in pairs. Make sentences using the prompts below plus a discourse marker.

- 1 there are some great tourist sites in my city
- 2 people who live near tourist sites often get angry with tourists
- 3 tourists have a reputation for bad behaviour
- 4 many cities around the world are keen to attract tourists

SPEAKING

A SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 How important is tourism to your country?
- 2 Do you believe tourism is mainly good or bad for a city? Why?

B DISCUSS Work in groups. Try to gain a consensus on question 2 in Exercise A. Use the steps below to help you.

- Get everyone's view.
- Allow speakers time to justify their views.
- Establish agreement: think about ways of doing this fairly.

C PRESENT Present and justify your position to the class.

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 What kind of place do you like to work or study in?
Why do you like this place?
- 2 What are your favourite buildings in your city?
Why do you like them?

B LISTEN FOR GIST Listen to the first part of a radio report about building design. Generally speaking, how can the design of a building affect people?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen to the next part of the radio report and note down how these specific features can affect people.

1 Light: _____

2 Shapes and lines: _____

3 Colours: _____

4 Shop facades: _____

5 Spaces between buildings: _____

D SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you think of the different ideas? Do you think they make a difference?
- 2 Why do you think many buildings don't follow the recommendations discussed in the programme?

VOCABULARY

Nouns with to

A Circle the nouns followed by to in the extracts from the radio programme. Use the information in the box to help you.

Nouns with to

Several nouns are often followed by to + the infinitive. You can remember which ones they are by thinking about the adjective or verb forms of these words – because they are also normally followed by to + infinitive, e.g. Architects normally start with the wish to design innovative buildings.

- 1 And if people feel better about their environment, they have a higher inclination to interact positively with the people around them.
- 2 People have a tendency to be less productive if their desk is more than 7.5 metres away from a window.
- 3 ... whereas plain, monotonous facades make people anxious and give them the urge to hurry past.
- 4 The project's failings were a reminder for architects to think not just about the look of buildings, but also about how people would interact within the spaces they create.

B Match the underlined nouns (1–10) with their meanings (a–j).

- 1 Most architects have a desire to create beautiful rather than functional buildings.
- 2 Most people in big cities show a reluctance to talk to strangers.
- 3 Governments have an obligation to limit the population of their cities.
- 4 Cities need to be doing a lot more in readiness to deal with swelling populations.
- 5 The refusal of many cities to provide seating in public places is a mistake.
- 6 A failure to learn from environmental psychology will lead to higher crime rates.
- 7 People need frequent reminders to behave considerately in cities.
- 8 Companies have a responsibility to make sure building design has a positive effect on their staff.
- 9 People in cities have a tendency to feel isolated because they are too busy to socialise.
- 10 There should be a greater urge to limit noise and sound pollution in cities.

- a something that helps you remember something
- b an unwillingness
- c preparation
- d not doing something that you were expected to do
- e a wish
- f saying that you will not do something
- g a strong feeling of wanting or needing to do something
- h responsibility
- i a habit of behaving in a particular way
- j a duty

C Work in pairs. Do you agree with the sentences in Exercise B?

D Work in pairs. Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- 1 Architects have a tendency to ...
- 2 In my city, most people show a reluctance to ...
- 3 Most people have no desire to ...
- 4 Local planners have a responsibility to ...

Google Global HQ

PRONUNCIATION

Introducing new information

- A Listen to the extracts from the radio programme. Does the pitch of the speaker's voice go up or down on the underlined words?

- As the city evolves, its population has swelled to over 21 million, making Beijing one of the most populated cities in the world. And the more people there are, the more challenging it becomes to provide comfortable environments for people to live and work in.
- They found that people strongly preferred daylight to electric light – and, as a matter of fact, other research has shown that people have a tendency to be less productive if their desk is more than 7.5 metres away from a window.
- Apparently, people feel more comfortable in places with round shapes and curved lines. On the other hand, straight lines and sharp edges have been shown to create feelings of fear.
- One interesting study showed that people are more relaxed when they see lively and interesting shop facades, whereas plain, monotonous facades make people anxious and give them the urge to hurry past.

- B Work in pairs. Practise saying the sentences. Listen carefully. Did your partner use a higher pitch on the correct word?

- Although most people think that living in a city is exciting, it's actually quite boring for many people.
- Rather than developing urban areas, we should be developing rural areas.
- Companies are now embracing ideas from environmental psychology rather than ignoring them.
- The offices of large companies are being designed to encourage positive feelings in staff. People's homes, however, are much less likely to receive the same attention.

SPEAKING HUB

- A PLAN Work in small groups. Imagine that your city is holding an election for a new mayor. Make a list of some of the biggest problems about living in your city and brainstorm some solutions to these problems.

- B PREPARE You support a candidate in the election. Prepare a short speech to try to persuade people to vote for your candidate. You should:
- decide which three problems your candidate will solve
 - be ready to explain the problems
 - be ready to explain how your candidate will fix them
 - make sure that each member of your group has something to say.

- C PRESENT Give your speeches and listen to the other groups' speeches.

- D DISCUSS As a class, decide which candidate you want to be mayor.

For me, the best speaker by far was ...

While I liked all the candidates, the one that really stood out was ...

- O- Discuss issues related to tourism

- O- Present solutions to urban problems

READING

A SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- If you were concerned about a local issue, would you contact your local politician about it?
- Do you think that political activism (e.g. demonstrations or petitions) can make a difference?

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read the article Political activism and choose the best summary.

- The younger generation are becoming very active in politics and many are choosing to become politicians so they can make the world a better place.
- The younger generation are more interested in campaigning for specific causes than getting behind a particular political party.
- The younger generation are completely uninterested in politics and prefer to focus on their friendships, hobbies and interests.

C READ FOR DETAIL Read the article again and answer the questions.

- Is the writer part of the younger or older generation?
- Why is the younger generation disillusioned with the political system?
- What three issues has the Harry Potter Alliance taken an interest in?
- What does the writer mean when he says that 'we're moving from a vision of civics that is party-based and partisan to one that's personal and pointillist'?

D SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the question. Some people label the kind of political activism described in the article as 'slacktivism'. Do you think this is a fair criticism?

Political activism is as strong as ever, but now it's digital – and passionate

The new generation of digital natives are not apathetic about politics, but they see online campaigns as more effective than lobbying a politician or joining a party.

Like most Americans of my generation – born in 1973 – I learnt about civics from television. On Saturday mornings, our childhood diet of cartoons was regularly interrupted for Schoolhouse Rock, three-minute animated musical lessons on science, grammar and the workings of government. Today it's hard to teach civics in three-minute snippets because the way we participate in civic life is changing shape – and changing very quickly. The vision of participatory citizenship that I grew up with – read a newspaper, vote in elections and if you're really incensed, write to your congressional representative – is utterly unpersuasive and unappealing to the students I teach. Digital natives, born and raised in an atmosphere of interactivity, are acutely aware of how insensitive most governments are to participation and how little meaningful interaction they can expect from their elected representatives and other government officials.

This distaste for participation in dysfunctional political systems is easily misread as apathy, leading legislators and educators to declare 'a crisis in civics' as young people participate in elections at a much lower rate than their parents. But that misses a key shift: digital natives are participating in civic life in ways where they feel they can have an impact and these points of impact are often outside government.

Take the Harry Potter Alliance, a group of teen and twenty-something fans of JK Rowling's books and movies, who are organising online and searching for ways to live out the values of Harry Potter and Dumbledore's Army here in the Muggle world. Their past campaigns have purchased thousands of books for underfunded public libraries and sent planeloads of health supplies for Haitian crisis response. Now they're working to persuade Warner Bros to buy Fairtrade chocolate for the sweets sold as tie-ins to the movies, bombarding the company with 'howlers', open, digital letters that demand it consider the ethical concerns of Harry Potter's fans.

VOCABULARY

Word building

- A Complete the Example column with words from the article. Use the information in the box to help you.

Word building

We use suffixes to change the form of words. For example, we can add -ness to the end of an adjective to turn it into a noun (ready becomes readiness). Being aware of different suffixes can help you to understand what kind of word is being used.

Suffix	Add to ...	to make...	Example
-al	a noun	an adjective	ethical
-ate	a noun	an adjective
-ic	a noun	an adjective
-ical	a noun	an adjective
-ive	a verb	an adjective
-hood	a noun	a noun
-ity	an adjective	a noun
-ship	a noun	a noun

- B Go to the Vocabulary Hub on page 148.

SPEAKING

DISCUSS Work in small groups. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you think are some of the biggest problems in the world today? Make a list and rank the problems.
- 2 What could people do to raise awareness of the top three issues on your list? How could people try to get companies, individuals or governments to change their behaviour?
- 3 If a friend of yours wanted to become involved in political activism, would you encourage him or her or dissuade him or her from doing so? Why?

Not every digital native is an engaged, active citizen (and not every young person is a digital native) and not every online campaign has an impact. But it's too easy to dismiss digitally-rooted activism as naive 'slacktivism'. Online activism is having an impact, but it often focuses in areas outside formal political participation. Civic participation of the young uses a broad suite of tools to affect a wide range of targets.

Coders write open-source security software in the hope of frustrating NSA surveillance, while community organisers fund neighbourhood gardens through Kickstarter. This emergent civics targets governments, corporations, communities and the media. It harnesses social media, crowdfunding, social entrepreneurship and open-source software as well as law and politics, to bring about change.

No wonder it's hard to get our heads around it. We're moving from a vision of civics that's party-based and partisan to one that's personal and pointillist. Parties offer a way to have an opinion (often an ill-informed one) on every issue, while participatory civics centres on issues that people are passionate about. While my generation tends to see the world in terms of issues important to Republicans or Democrats, my students often see the world in terms of the issues their friends care about, a political identity built on the passions of people important to them. This isn't civics in crisis – it's civics in flux, civics that's changing with the people who practise it.

Glossary

dysfunctional (adj) not working normally howler (n) a silly and embarrassing mistake incensed (adj) extremely angry lobby (v) try to influence politicians or people in authority on a particular subject snippet (n) a small piece of something, especially information or news

LISTENING

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

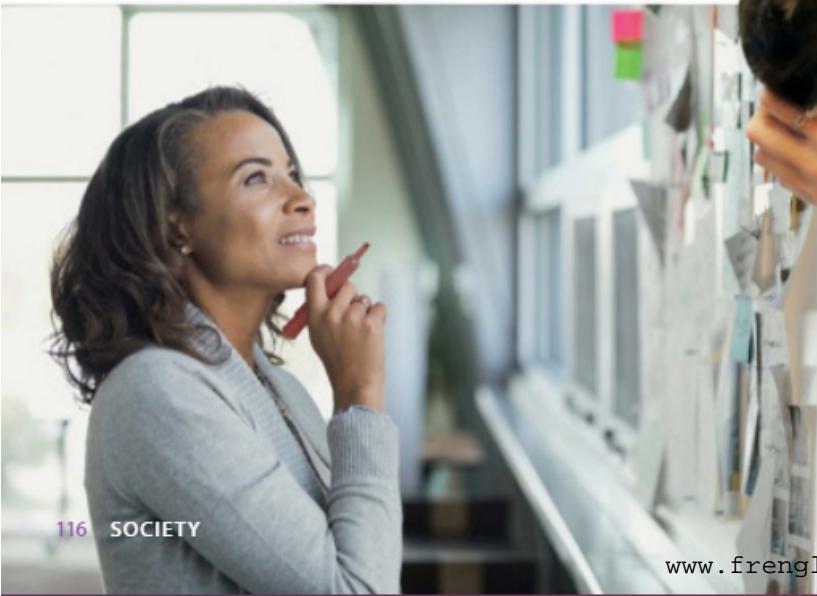

- 1 What job did you want to do when you were younger?
- 2 Do you still want to do that job? Why/Why not?

B LISTEN FOR MAIN IDEA Listen to a conversation about finding a job after university. Answer the questions below.

- 1 What kind of job was Robin interested in before?
- 2 What kinds of jobs is Robin thinking about doing now?

C LISTEN FOR DETAIL Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 What made Robin think about pursuing a different career?
- 2 What does Joanna think about the jobs Robin is thinking of doing?
- 3 What advice does Mr Evans give Robin about finding the job he wants to do?
- 4 How did the philosophy graduate decide to help people?
- 5 Does Joanna agree with Mr Evans' advice?

10.5

D LISTEN TO REGISTER Listen to extracts from the conversation. For each, decide if Robin is using formal or informal register. Use the information in the box to help you.

Recognising shifts in register

People speak differently in formal and informal/casual situations.

In formal situations, speakers:

- use longer, more complete sentences
- use careful pronunciation
- are less direct
- use formal words and phrases.

In informal/casual situations, speakers use:

- short sentences, contracted forms and often omit words
- less careful pronunciation
- more informal words and phrases (phrasal verbs, vague language and slang).

1 informal / formal

4 informal / formal

2 informal / formal

5 informal / formal

3 informal / formal

6 informal / formal

E SPEAK Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 What kind of job do you think Robin should do? Why?
- 2 What do you think about the idea of working in finance to help charities?
- 3 If you want to donate to charity, what's the best way to choose the charity?

GRAMMAR

Ellipsis and substitution

A Look at the extracts from the conversation. The speakers omitted some words. Complete the sentences with the omitted words.

- I've just been trying to sort out my CV and _____ looking for some interesting stuff to apply to.
- _____ any idea what you're going to do?
- You could train to be a teacher or _____ just volunteer in your spare time.

B Look at the underlined words in the sentences. What words do they replace?

- A: So ... you going to work at your dad's company then?
B: Hmm ... hope not.
- If you haven't read it, you should do.
- A: I was thinking about some kind of voluntary work.
B: You should definitely do it.

C Complete the rules using examples in Exercises A and B.

Ellipsis and substitution

Ellipsis means omitting unnecessary words. We can omit:

- the subject + modal: _____
- the subject + auxiliary verb: _____
- a verb phrase
- an adjective: _____

In spoken English, it's also common to leave out words if our meaning is obvious from the context. We can omit:

- the subject
- the subject + auxiliary verb.

Substitution means avoiding repeating something by using words like:

- do*: _____
- not*: _____
- do so / do it / do that* _____

D Go to the Grammar Hub on page 140.

E SPEAK Work in pairs. Cross out the words that can be omitted in these sentences. Then discuss whether you agree or disagree with them.

- Charity workers should not receive high salaries and they should not get bonuses.
- Some charity workers are very persistent and I wish they weren't so persistent.
- Animal charities often receive the most money, but they shouldn't receive the most money.

F Work in pairs. Replace parts of the questions with do so not or so. Then ask your partner the questions.

- Would you ever go overseas to do voluntary work? If you went overseas to do voluntary work, where would you go?
- Do you think having voluntary work on your CV makes a big difference to recruiters or does it not make a big difference to recruiters?
- If your company or university allowed you to take a week off to do voluntary work, would you take a week off to do voluntary work?

PRONUNCIATION

Managing conversations

10.6

A Listen to extracts from the conversation. For each extract, decide if the intonation on the second speaker's words rises (↗) falls (↘) or rises then falls (↗↘).

1 — 2 — 3 — 4 — 5 —

B SPEAK Work in pairs. Think of an anecdote for one of these topics. Listen to your partner and use appropriate reactions to keep the conversation going.

- some good advice a teacher gave me
- a time I made a difference

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE Work in two groups. You are going to roleplay an event where charities look for funding. Group A – you are fundraisers for a charity.

Decide what type of charity you work for. Group B – you are funding organisations. Decide what types of charities you want to give money to and why.

B PLAN Group A – plan how you will persuade people to support your charity. Group B – think of questions you will ask charities that want your funding.

C PRESENT Talk to students from the other group. Try to persuade them to support your charity or ask them questions about their work.

D REFLECT Who was able to convince the most people to support their charity? Why were they successful?

- Talk about political activism
—Discuss how to make a difference

Mexicable

A Work in pairs. Look at the pictures and discuss the questions.

- 1 What are some of the different uses of cable cars?
- 2 Are there cable cars in your city or country? How are they used?

B Watch the video. Tick (✓) which of the following you see.

- 1 A man admiring spectacular views from a cable car.
- 2 A man in a wheelchair going up a ramp.
- 3 A man in a wheelchair entering a cable car.
- 4 Tourists taking photos from a cable car.
- 5 Mechanics repairing an engine.
- 6 A man wheeling himself along a pavement.

C Watch the video again. Complete the sentences with between one and three words.

- 1 Abe likes the cable car station because there's a wheelchair entrance and _____.
- 2 Victor says the advantages of cable cars are that they avoid stoplights and _____.
- 3 The cable cars from Stations 1 to 4 are moved by _____.
- 4 Mexicable connects some of the poorest and _____ areas of the city.

Glossary

feat (n) something difficult needing a lot of skill, strength, bravery, etc to achieve it haphazard (adj) done in a way that does not seem to be carefully planned or organised loop (n) a round shape or curve made by a line curling back towards itself mural (n) a large painting on the wall of a room or building

D Work in pairs. Try to remember what you heard. What do these numbers and dates refer to?

- | | | | |
|--------------|-------|----------|-------|
| 1 22 million | _____ | 5 30,000 | _____ |
| 2 2016 | _____ | 6 4 | _____ |
| 3 6 | _____ | 7 7 | _____ |
| 4 26 | _____ | 8 3 | _____ |

AUTHENTIC ENGLISH

A Work in pairs. Read the sentence from the video and the information in the box. Underline the descriptive words. What do they mean?

The views from the Mexicable – you've got this sprawling city and these murals and the amazing colours on the houses, it's just breathtaking!

Describing a scene in real-time

When we describe a scene in real-time we often use visually descriptive language to bring the scene to life and paint a mental picture in the listener's mind.

B Read the sentences. What is being described in each sentence?

- 1 There's this sea of golden shifting sand, spectacular dunes and a fierce, burning sun.
- 2 Just look at the gorgeous lush green meadows and peaceful grazing sheep.
- 3 I've never seen such deep valleys and magnificent snow-capped peaks.
- 4 Everywhere you look there are towering skyscrapers, bustling streets and stunning street art.
- 5 You've got these picturesque narrow streets, an enchanting medieval square and beautiful, cosy cottages.

C Work in pairs. Describe a scene to each other using descriptive language. Student A – go to the Communication Hub on page 152. Student B – go to the Communication Hub on page 155.

► Everything's changing

SAM MALCOLM AMANDA HARRY EMILY

- B Read the information in the box. Underline the vague language in the sentences from the video.

Using vague language

We often use vague words when we can't find the exact expression we need.

- a List completers – when someone is unable to complete everything on a list.
- b Placeholders – a speaker cannot remember something.
- c Evasion – not wanting to say something exactly.
- d Quantities – when we're not sure of the exact figure.

- 1 It doesn't help either that they're building that thingy over the river.
- 2 I hardly recognise the neighbourhood any more with all the new shops, the road system and stuff like that.
- 3 It was two thousand odd pounds for the month.
- 4 Well, yeah, sort of ... it is convenient ... but if I can't afford to stay in the area they won't be much good to me.
- 5 It will also encourage tourism and who knows what else.
- 6 Crime in the area is down about 20% in the past four years.

- C Work in pairs. Match the examples (1–8) from the video with the functions (a–d) in the box.

A Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What developments are happening where you live?
- 2 Are the developments positive or negative? Why?
- B Watch the video. Does everybody have a similar opinion about the new cable car?
- C Watch the video again. Answer the following questions.
 - 1 Why is parking and traffic worse according to Emily?
 - 2 What is being built over the river?
 - 3 What does Malcolm say will happen to the area soon?
 - 4 How much would it cost Emily to rent a bigger business space?
 - 5 Why is Harry looking forward to the cable car?
 - 6 What improvements have there been to the area according to Amanda?
 - 7 How was Sam able to set up his café according to Harry?

SPEAKING SKILL

A Work in pairs. Look at the extracts from the video. Why have the speakers used the underlined phrases?

Amanda: Also, the area was quite run down with high unemployment and all the rest of it.

Malcolm: I had to park all the way over on whatsitsname and walk here.

SPEAKING HUB

A PREPARE You are going to debate the following motion. Decide who in the class will be for and against the motion.

All vehicles should be banned from city centres.

B PLAN In your groups, make notes for your side of the argument. Think about:

- environment
- convenience
- public transport
- cost

C PRESENT Join together with the other group and hold a debate.

Without cars you could have more public spaces, street cafés and all the rest of it.

D REFLECT Hold a vote on whether you agree or disagree with the motion.

○ Debate for and against a motion

- Turn to page 165 to learn how to write a persuasive essay about living in the city or countryside.

Unit 10 Review

VOCABULARY

A Complete the article with the words in the box.

architectural designated endangered fund habitat heritage preserve refurbish ruins settlement

UNESCO

World Heritage Sites

The aim of the World ¹ _____ list is to help countries ² _____ sites of 'outstanding universal value'. To be ³ _____ as a World Heritage site, a place must meet one of ten criteria, such as being an ⁴ _____ masterpiece, a human ⁵ _____ or the ⁶ _____ of one representative of a particular culture, a place of exceptional natural beauty, or a place that is the natural ⁷ _____ of an ⁸ _____ species.

Once a site is selected for the list, the World Heritage ⁹ _____ can provide money to protect or ¹⁰ _____ the site – and being on the list usually provides a significant boost to the number of tourists visiting the site.

B Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 Architects have an urge / a responsibility to provide people with enough daylight.
- 2 People have a reluctance / tendency to be less productive if there is background noise.
- 3 The government needs frequent desires / reminders to tackle the problem of air pollution.
- 4 The government's readiness / refusal to invest in rural areas has led to overcrowding in cities.
- 5 Architects have a failure / an obligation to talk to the people who will use a building before they design it.

C Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 Young people don't like politics because it is too formal / formality.
- 2 People often vote for the person with the strongest personal / personality rather than the best plans.
- 3 The public / publicity should have a vote on major political decisions.
- 4 Social media enables much easier interactive / interactivity with politicians.
- 5 Politicians' personal / personality lives should remain private.
- 6 People who don't vote have let down their communal / community.

GRAMMAR

A Complete the article with the words or phrases in the box. There are five you do not need to use.

as a matter of fact conversely despite for instance in any case moreover namely owing to whereas yet

Tourist sites go through similar stages as they grow. First of all, adventurous tourists start coming to a place.¹ _____ this interest, local people set up businesses to cater for tourists. They open hotels and restaurants,² _____. After that, larger companies start to invest in the area –³ _____, by building large hotels and catering to large groups. The tourism industry begins to dominate the area, while,⁴ _____, other industries begin to shrink. As the number of visitors increases, the area becomes less attractive and visitors begin to go elsewhere.⁵ _____, the facilities begin to become dated and damaged. If there is no further investment, the area will go into decline.

B Match numbers (1–6) to letters (a–f) to form full sentences.

- 1 It's better to give money to a charity than _____.
 - 2 You should donate clothes or _____.
 - 3 Some charities are really wasteful with their donations _____.
 - 4 If a friend asks you to donate to a charity, _____.
 - 5 Some people are really good at volunteer work, _____.
 - 6 It's a good idea to choose one or two charities to support _____.
- a volunteer your time rather than give money.
 - b and when you do, you can give bigger donations.
 - c you should do so.
 - d to an individual.
 - e and I wish they weren't.
 - f but I'm not.

Irregular Verbs

Infinitive	Past simple	Past participle
be	was/were	been
become	became	become
begin	began	begun
break	broke	broken
bring	brought	brought build	built	built
buy	bought	bought
can	could	(been able to)
catch	caught	caught
choose	chose	chosen
come	came	come
cost	cost	cost
cut	cut	cut
drink	drank	drunk
eat	ate	eaten
fall	fell	fallen
feel	felt	felt
find	found	found
forget	forgot	forgotten get	got	got
give	gave	given
go	went	gone/been
grow	grew	grown
have	had	had
hear	heard	heard
hit	hit	hit
hold	held	held
hurt	hurt	hurt
keep	kept	kept
know	knew	known
leave	left	left lend	lent	lent
let	let	let

Infinitive	Past simple	Past participle
lose	lost	lost
make	made	made
mean	meant	meant
meet	met	met
must	had to	(had to)
pay	paid	paid
put	put	put
read	read/red/	read/red/
ride	rode	ridden
run	ran	run
say	said	said
see	saw	seen
sell	sold	sold
send	sent	sent
set	set	set
shut	shut	shut
sing	sang	sung
sit	sat	sat
sleep	slept	slept
speak	spoke	spoken
spell	spelt/spelled	spelt/spelled spend	spent	spent
stand	stood	stood
steal	stole	stolen
take	took	taken
teach	taught	taught
tell	told	told
think	thought	thought
throw	threw	thrown
understand	understood	understood
wear	wore	worn
win	won	won
write	wrote	written

PHONETIC SYMBOLS

Single vowels		Diphthongs		Consonants
/i/	fish	/fɪʃ/	/ɪə/	ear	/ɪə/	/p/	pen	/pen/	/s/	snake	/sneɪk/
/i:/	bean	/bi:n/	/eɪ/	face	/feɪs/	/b/	bag	/bæg/	/z/	zoo	/zu:/
/ʊ/	foot	/fʊt/	/ʊə/	tourist	/'tuərɪst/	/t/	tea	/ti:/	/ʃ/	shop	/ʃɒp/
/u:/	shoe	/su:/	/ɔɪ/	boy	/bɔɪ/	/d/	dog	/dɒg/	/ʒ/	television	/'telɪvɪʒən/
/e/	egg	/eg/	/əʊ/	nose	/nəʊz/	/tʃ/	chip	/tʃɪp/	/m/	map	/mæp/
/ə/	mother	/'mʌðə/	/eə/	hair	/heə/	/dʒ/	jazz	/dʒæz/	/n/	name	/neɪm/
/ɔ:/	word	/wɔ:d/	/aɪ/	eye	/aɪ/	/k/	cake	/keɪk/	/ŋ/	ring	/rɪŋ/
/ɔ:/	talk	/tɔ:k/	/aʊ/	mouth	/maʊθ/	/g/	girl	/gɜ:l/	/h/	house	/haʊs/
/æ/	back	/bæk/				/f/	film	/fɪlm/	/l/	leg	/leg/
/ʌ/	bus	/bʌs/				/v/	verb	/vɜ:b/	/r/	road	/rəʊd/
/ə:/	arm	/a:m/				/θ/	thing	/θɪŋ/	/w/	want	/wɒnt/
/ɒ/	top	/tɒp/				/ð/	these	/ði:z/	/j/	yes	/jes/

1.1 Nominal clauses

- Nominal clauses function like nouns. They can be used as the subject or object of a sentence, after a preposition, an adjective or the verb to be.
- Nominal -ing clause (also known as a 'participle clause'):

Wearing a uniform can help people feel part of the team. (as subject)
I don't enjoy wearing formal clothes. (as object)
I'm excited about buying some new outfits. (after a preposition)
- Nominal that clause:

That she won again this year is not surprising. (as subject: this use is rare)
I explained that she would have to buy a new outfit. (as object)
I'm worried that I won't fit in. (after an adjective)
- Nominal question clause:

What you wear is entirely up to you. (as subject)
My appearance certainly affects how I feel. (as object)
Fiona felt embarrassed because of how she looked. (after a preposition)

1.2 Comparatives and superlatives

- We only use than after comparative adjectives and adverbs when it is followed by the thing we are comparing it with.
(Ds are more expensive than they used to be.)

Be careful!

(Ds are only fractionally more expensive today. NOT (Ds are only fractionally more expensive than today.)

- We don't put the before a superlative when we use a determiner.
Here's our cheapest smartphone.
NOT Here's our the cheapest smartphone.
- To compare things that are the same, we can use as + adjective/adverb + as ...
Dance music is as popular as it ever was.
NOT None of our audiences have been as large as!
None of our audiences have been as large!
NOT None of our audiences have been as large as!

- Nominal to + infinitive:

To spend so much money on clothes is totally unnecessary. (as subject: this use is rare)

It's a good idea to wear smart clothes for an interview. (as object)

I was surprised to learn about the dress code. (after an adjective)

- We often use phrases like The fact/idea that ... or The experience/problem of ... to introduce a nominal clause.
The fact that you got a high grade shows how hard you worked.
The experience of travelling on the Orient Express was one she would never forget.

Be careful!

- Because that clauses and to + infinitive clauses can sometimes sound unnatural as subjects, we often use it as an empty subject.
It doesn't surprise me that you hate shopping.
NOT That you hate shopping doesn't surprise me.

- We can use the ... the with comparatives to show that two changes are closely connected. As one thing changes, it makes the other thing change.

The cheaper the technology, the worse quality it is.
The bigger, the better!

- We can use the structure more than with a small number of verbs (compensate for, double, fulfil, make up for, meet)
His enthusiasm and intelligence more than compensated for his lack of experience.
- To show that there is a big difference between two things we can use one of these modifiers before the comparative adjective: a good/great deal, a lot, considerably, dramatically, far, significantly, much.
The new building is considerably bigger than the old one.

- To show that there is a small difference, we use these words and phrases before the comparative adjective: a bit/little, a fraction, fractionally, marginally, rather, slightly, somewhat.

The first film was fractionally longer than the sequel.

- We can modify superlative adjectives using: by far, far and away, easily, the very.

Tom is by far the cleverest boy in the class.

Tom is the cleverest boy by far.

- We can also make a superlative stronger by inserting possible after the superlative and before the noun.

The shopping centre was built in the best possible location.

- We can also use modifiers before the structure as ... as: almost, at least, easily, every bit, half, just, twice.

My old phone was every bit as good as this new one.

1.1 Nominal clauses

A Correct the mistakes in each sentence.

- 1 It's an unwritten rule what employees must stick to the dress code.
- 2 The fact of you wear a uniform sends a certain message about your status.
- 3 You'll regret not to wear smarter clothes to yesterday's interview.
- 4 David insisted on that he pay for all the designer clothes I'd chosen!
- 5 The reason for Sarah's absence that she never received her invitation.
- 6 That I had forgotten was that the restaurant only lets in smartly dressed customers.
- 7 The clothing company more than double its annual profits.
- 8 Sandra always wants to buy clothes at the possible lowest price.

B Choose the correct options to complete the conversation.

- Joey: I'm really keen¹ to start / about starting my new job next week.
- Phoebe: I'm sure² you to / that you will fit in really well.
- Joey: They explained³ that they have / having a dress code there. So ...⁴ that I buy / buying a smart suit is my first priority! Will you come and help me choose one?
- Phoebe: Of course. I think you should be prepared⁵ to spend / that you spend quite a bit of money.
- Joey: What do you mean?
- Phoebe: You must know⁶ that / the fact an expensive suit will last longer than a cheap one?
- Joey: Oh, I see⁷ what / that you mean. OK. But⁸ I'm needing to know / what I really need to know is what colour to choose!

C Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Write between two and five words.

- 1 That designer clothes are hugely expensive is well-known.
FACT

designer clothes are hugely expensive is well-known.

- 2 It's none of my business what he does in his free time.
SPENDS

his free time is none of my business.

- 3 The purchase of expensive school uniforms is a problem which many parents face.
OF

Many parents face _____ expensive school uniforms.

► Go back to page 3.

1.2 Comparatives and superlatives

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 Thank goodness I have tech-savvy friends like you – you're a the best	b the best friend

------------	-------------------
- 2 I think we need to replace our company logo with something a funkier than	b funkier

----------------	-----------
- 3 Winning the Young Tech Designer of the Year was _____ moment!

a the my proudest	b my proudest
-------------------	---------------
- 4 Your handwriting is _____ Carol. Well done!

a the neatest handwriting	b the neatest
---------------------------	---------------
- 5 We've redesigned our website so that it's _____.

a more user-friendly	b user-friendlier
----------------------	-------------------
- 6 CDs weren't around for very long, and CD burners disappeared almost _____.

a as quickly	b as quickly as
--------------	-----------------

B Write one word in each gap to complete the sentences.

- 1 My sister is a great _____ more concerned about appearances than I am.
- 2 A tailored jacket is _____ and away the most important item of clothing in your wardrobe.
- 3 I dress _____ fraction more informally on Fridays, but I don't feel comfortable in casual clothes.
- 4 In my opinion, having the right image is every _____ as important as saying the right thing.
- 5 Chelsea only ever buys the _____ best in terms of clothing and accessories.

C Complete the sentences using a word from the box and your own ideas.

considerably half marginally twice

- 1 The green dress costs €25. The blue dress costs €27.
The blue dress costs _____

- 2 My sister is a fashion vlogger and earns ten times more than I do!
My sister earns _____

- 3 We were expecting 100 people at the fashion show, but only 50 came. Only _____ we expected came to the fashion show.

- 4 I believe that you have to do double the work of others to be sure of success.
I believe that you have to work _____

► Go back to page 7.

2.1 Narrative tenses

	Active	Passive
Past simple	I realised it was a great idea.	We were given a month to finish the job.
Past continuous	We were hoping for a better result.	The plans were being drawn up at the time.
Past perfect simple	They had already bought the site.	The architects had been chosen .
Past perfect continuous	We had been walking for hours.

- We use the past simple in a story or narrative to explain the main events.
We met on Saturday, outside Victoria train station.
- We use the past continuous to describe the background to a story, actions in progress at a particular point or, together with the past simple, to describe actions or situations that were interrupted by shorter events.
The sun was shining when Amy left the house.
- We use the past perfect simple to show that one event happened before the other.
He had waited for over an hour by the time she finally arrived.

- We use the past perfect continuous, often together with the past simple, for actions that were in progress before another action in the past.

I had been working all day so I decided not to go out that night.

- We can use the past simple with did + infinitive for emphasis.
He did look very anxious when he left.

Be careful!

- We don't often use the passive form of past perfect continuous.

Someone had been watching us. NOT We had been being watched.

2.2 Future in the past

	Future in the past
Past continuous	We were travelling to Australia the next day.
was/were going to	Sam was going to start looking for another job.
would + infinitive	I thought it would be nice to take a gift.
was/were to + infinitive	Jody was to contact me as soon as her plane landed.
was/were to + perfect infinitive	Jody was to have contacted me as soon as her plane landed.
was/were about to + infinitive	We were about to leave the house when the phone rang.

- When we are talking about the past, we sometimes need to talk about things that had not yet happened. We can use the past continuous or was/were going to for this.

When I saw her, she was leaving the next day.

Jim was going to meet Mary that evening.

- We can use the past form of will (would).

That discovery would turn out to be important later on.

- We can also use past forms of the verb be with the infinitive or the perfect infinitive. The infinitive can be used for events that came true or didn't come true.

He was to deliver the report on Tuesday. (And he did.)

He was to deliver the report on Tuesday. (But he failed.)

The perfect infinitive is usually only used for events that didn't come true.

*He was to have delivered the report on Tuesday.
(But he failed.)*

- We can also use past forms of be + supposed to + infinitive or perfect infinitive. These are often, but not always, used for events that didn't come true.

He was supposed to have delivered the report on Tuesday. (But he failed.)

He wasn't supposed to look at the files. (But he did anyway.)

- To describe something that was going to happen soon, we use the past form of the verb be with the word about. Sometimes we add the word just.

She had her coat on because she was (just) about to take the dog for a walk.

Be careful!

- You may need to make other changes to pronouns, times, places, etc, in the same way as you do in reported speech.

*Anna was leaving for Canada the following day.
NOT Anna was leaving for Canada tomorrow.*

2.1 Narrative tenses

A Choose the option in each sentence that is NOT correct.

- 1 I __ what he meant.
 - a had finally been understanding
 - b finally understood
 - c hadfinally understood
- 2 __ to wait in the reception area.
 - a They told me
 - b I was telling
 - c I was told
- 3 Jim had been swimming earlier and his hair __ wet.
 - a was
 - b had got
 - c was getting
- 4 Angie was shocked by what she __ at the film festival.
 - a had seen
 - b saw
 - c has seen
- 5 He had got the job but he __ the starting date.
 - a hadn't been being told
 - b wasn't told
 - c hadn't been told
- 6 It was a terrible day and it __ heavily.
 - a was raining
 - b had been raining
 - c had been rained

B Correct the underlined mistakes. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- 1 I realised I left my money at home.
- 2 When I looked out of the window, I saw that it rained.
- 3 I did to realise that I had forgotten my keys before I left.
- 4 Janine changed her mind about the theatre but it was too late as I already bought the tickets.
- 5 We arrived a little early and we told to wait until the manager was free.
- 6 Greg went to see the doctor because he wasn't being feeling well.
- 7 As soon as we had finished the discussion, we had left.

C Complete each sentence with the correct form of the verb in brackets, active or passive. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- 1 I was angry because (I / keep) waiting for an hour.
- 2 The sun was shining and the birds (sing) in the trees.
- 3 The reason I was tired was that I (have to/ walk) all the way home.
- 4 We (only / work) on the project for a week when it was cancelled.
- 5 Pete (not / tell) about the change of plans so he knew nothing.
- 6 We couldn't use the living room because it (decorate).

► Go back to page 17.

2.2 Future in the past

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 I couldn't go to the party because I would take / was taking a test the next day.
- 2 When we were at school together, he was becoming / going to become a doctor.
- 3 They thought it will / would be fun to play a trick on us.
- 4 Our new TV was to have been delivered / delivering yesterday but it didn't come.
- 5 I was about / about to ask him where he got the money when he made an excuse and left.
- 6 When the film was released, few people thought it would be / was being a success.
- 7 The fingerprints found at the scene of the crime were being / were to be vital in solving it.
- 8 Thinking there was no way he was going / would to get into university, he didn't even apply.

B Write one word in each gap to complete the sentences.

- 1 Sonja _____ about to get on the train when she realised she'd left her ticket at home.
- 2 Philippe couldn't believe he was actually _____ to graduate in three weeks' time.
- 3 We all knew it _____ be fun to enter the competition.
- 4 Both girls truly believed they _____ going to be famous one day.
- 5 At that point it dawned on me that London _____ to be my new home.
- 6 Marie was _____ about to give in her report when she spotted the mistake.

► Go back to page 21.

3.1 Future structures

- We can use a variety of grammatical forms to express the future, such as future forms with will, the present simple, the present continuous and be going to.

They'll plant some more trees over the next few weeks. When does the presentation begin?

I'm going to install solar panels on my roof.

- We use the future continuous (will be + -ing) to describe a situation that will be in progress at a particular point in the future.

Scientists will be making an important announcement at 3 pm.

- We use the future perfect simple (will have + past participle) to describe changes that will be completed before a particular point in the future.

He will have fixed the air-conditioning by the end of the day.

- We can use the future perfect simple with adverbs in the middle position after will.

Pollution in our city will surely have impacted quality of life by the end of the next decade.

- We use the future perfect continuous (will have been + -ing) to focus on the future results of an earlier future process, and/or to measure the length of time of that process.

The crew will have been tearing down the old factory for twelve weeks by the end of June.

3.2 Negative Inversion

- We use negative inversion when we want to emphasise a negative element of a sentence. We place the negative element at the beginning and we invert (= swap over) the subject and auxiliary verb.

I have never seen such waste in my life. = Never have I seen such waste in my life.

I'm not saying we need to leave now. = By no means am I saying we need to leave now.

No way could I ever drive a petrol-powered car again.

- We add do, does or did in inverted clauses when there is no auxiliary verb.

She never received an apology. = Never did she receive an apology.

- We use than after the phrase no sooner.

No sooner had she written the document than her computer crashed.

- Inversion is often used with the structure not only ... but also.
Not only did I meet the chancellor, but I also met the environment minister.

- Some words and phrases change in inversions, and negative verbs become positive.

Nobody told me about that once. → Not once did anybody tell me about that.

You mustn't say that under any circumstances. → Under no circumstances must you say that.

That's not the only solution by any means. → By no means is that the only solution.

Be careful!

- We usually don't use will after words which signal conditional sentences such as if, unless, when, while. So we use present continuous instead of future continuous, and present perfect instead of future perfect.

She'll be hanging up flyers while I'm meeting with the council. NOT She'll be hanging up flyers while I'll be meeting with the council.

- We can use a modal verb such as may, might or could instead of will in these future structures to express possibility.

They'll be switching to renewable energy soon. (= definitely)

They could be switching to renewable energy soon. (= it's possible)

- We also use phrases such as be on the verge of + -ing, be on the brink of + -ing, be due to + infinitive, be set to + infinitive, and be about to + infinitive to refer to the future.

Danielle was on the verge of achieving her goal.

- There are also some inversions which do not contain negative words and phrases. These include sentences which start with only for time expressions, such as Only after, Only when, Only once, Only if, Only by, Only rarely, and Rarely, Hardly and Barely.

only by reading the instructions three times did I understand what to do.

Be careful!

- With some inversions, such as No sooner ... than, Not only Hardly etc, it's the first verb and the subject which inverts.

Not only was he late, he was also unprepared. Hardly had we sat down when the fire alarm went off.

- With other inversions, such as Only after, Not until, etc, it's the verb in the main clause which inverts.

only after I'd arrived did I realise I'd got the day wrong.

Not until he'd spent hours online did he find a suitable photo.

- We don't use inversion when the negative word or phrase is the subject.

None of my colleagues take public transport.

NOT None of my colleagues do take public transport.

- The verb and subject invert after neither and nor.

None of their staff knew the answer, and neither did we I haven't told anyone, and nor has Jake.

3.1 Future structures

A Match the statements (1–7) with their purposes (a–g).

- 1 We're going to build a zero-emissions home. _____
- 2 I'll call the manager, if you like. _____
- 3 I think you'll be famous someday! _____
- 4 When are they going to close down that factory? _____
- 5 The talk begins at 10 am. _____
- 6 I think I'll just take the bus instead. _____
- 7 With all these clouds, it's going to rain very soon! _____

- a making a prediction from strong evidence
- b explaining plans
- c talking about a fixed scheduled event
- d making a prediction based on opinion more than evidence
- e making an offer
- f asking about plans
- g making a decision while speaking

B Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 We'll be testing / have tested the new equipment for a few hours tomorrow.
- 2 They'll have been laying / laid the foundation by the end of next week.
- 3 I'll be meeting / have met Jim later today, if you'd like to join us.
- 4 Will you have be working / been working with the company for very long when you retire?
- 5 The company will have built / been building two new hotels by the end of the year.
- 6 They won't have taken / be taking questions from the audience after the talk.
- 7 By the time she finishes the marathon, Kayla will have jogged / been jogging for six hours.
- 8 He'll probably still be working unless he decides / will decide to leave it for next week.

C Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning as the first sentence. Use between two and five words, including the word in bold.

- 1 Thirty minutes from now, the meeting will conclude. DUE
The meeting _____ conclude in half an hour.
- 2 The scientists will make the discovery any day now. VERGE
The scientists are _____ the discovery.
- 3 In less than a minute, the rocket will launch. ABOUT
The rocket _____ launched.
- 4 The two companies are close to sealing the deal. BRINK
The two companies _____ sealing the deal.
- 5 By the end of the year, the agreement will have expired. SET
The agreement is _____ by year's end.
- 6 I'll be collecting samples and she'll be recording them. WHILE
She'll be recording samples _____ them.

► Go back to page 26.

3.2 Negative inversion

A Rewrite the sentences (1–6) using inversion and the words given.

- 1 Nobody asked me if I passed my driving test.
Not once _____.
- 2 I'd just arrived home when they called me back to the office.
No sooner _____.
- 3 We seldom see players with such natural ability.
Rarely _____.
- 4 He is really clever and incredibly funny.
Not only _____.
- 5 Tina realised her purse had been stolen when she went to pay her bill.
Only when _____.
- 6 You must not open that door.
Under no circumstances _____.

B Write one word in each gap.

Anna was in charge of organising her company's annual conference. She had met the manager a week before to settle the plans, and no ¹ _____ had they sat down to talk than the manager was called away. She waited forty-five minutes, and ² _____ until she got up to leave did the manager re-appear. On the day of the conference, ³ _____ no means did everything go according to plan. Not ⁴ _____ was the turnout low, but she ⁵ _____ had trouble with the conference venue. ⁶ _____ in a million years would she have thought things could go so wrong.

► Go back to page 31.

4.1 Conditionals without if

We can use inversions to replace the word if in some conditional sentences.

- In first conditional sentences, we can use should to replace if.

Should you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call. (= If you have ... OR If you should have ...)

- In second conditional sentences, we can use were to replace if.

Were it banned, there would be an outcry. (= If it were banned...)

Were I to do the quiz, I'm sure I would win! (= If I were to do ...)

- In third conditional sentences, we can use had to replace if. This use of inversion is more common in formal language.

Had he used a brain training game, he would have remembered more. (= If he had used ...)

- We can also sometimes use verbs, -ing past participles and the imperative in place of if.

Imagine / Suppose (that)

Suppose (that) I had a chip in my brain, would I be smarter?

Assuming / Supposing / Presuming / Providing (that)

Assuming (that) you complete the experiment, will you have all the data?

Provided (that)

Providing (that) we didn't make any mistakes, the results should be correct.

Imperative ... , and Provided (that) you believe in yourself, you will definitely succeed.

Read more books, and you will improve your memory.

Be careful!

- With the imperative and Imagine / Suppose (that) you cannot swap the clauses round.

Imagine you were offered a brain implant, would you want it?

NOT Would you want a brain implant imagine you were offered it?

4.2 Wishes and regrets wish / if only + past simple/continuous to wish that the present was different

I wish / If only I didn't blush so easily.

wish / if only + could/would

I wish / If only I could stop stammering.

wish / if only + past perfect simple/continuous

I wish / If only you would speak more clearly.

wish / if only + could have + past participle to wish that the past was different

I wish / If only I had participated in the study.

ought (not) to / should (not) have + past participle

I wish / If only I could have participated in the study.

ought (not) to / should (not) have been + -ing

I shouldn't have gazed at the floor all the time!

- If only* often sounds more dramatic or emphatic than wish. It can be used about other people, but usually suggests the speaker's opinion.

If only David had known the answer! (= I wish David had known the answer!)

- To be more formal, we use were instead of was after If he/she/it.

If only I were more confident.

He wishes he were more confident.

- When you want to talk about your own wishes, use could instead of would.

I wish I could speak Chinese. NOT I wish I would speak Chinese.

- We can also use ought to have + past participle to talk about things that were ideal or desired in the past.

They ought to have managed the meeting better.

- We can use would love to have + past participle to talk about regrets.

I would love to have had enough time to explain my views. (= I didn't have enough time and that's a shame.)

- We can also use if + past perfect simple + modal verbs (subordinate clause) and modal verb + have + past participle to talk about imagined situations in the past with regret.

I could have learned more, if I had prepared for the classes.

4.1 Conditionals without if

A Complete each second sentence so it means the same as the one before it.

- 1 If I had dropped my coffee on her carpet, I would have felt embarrassed!
Had _____, I would have felt embarrassed!
- 2 If brain implants were available to everyone, I would definitely get one!
Should _____, I would definitely get one!
- 3 If you practised Sudoku puzzles more, you would get better at them.
Were _____, you would get better at them.
- 4 If you become dizzy after taking the medication, please contact your doctor.
Should _____, please contact your doctor.

B Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 Imagine / Imagining that you met Elon Musk, what would you say to him?
- 2 Suppose / Providing that we didn't make any errors during the experiment, the data should be correct.
- 3 Look / Suppose we look at the problem from a different angle, we might be able to find a solution.
- 4 Imagine / Assuming that she told us the truth, I think we can conclude that she's innocent.
- 5 Supposing / Provided all the participants had been men, would that have made a difference to the results?
- 6 Conducting / Conduct more research, and you will have a clearer picture.

C Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 _____ (act) confidently, and you will never again feel embarrassed.
- 2 Suppose you _____ (arrive) late for an exam, what would you do?
- 3 Provided that you think before you speak, you _____ (not say) anything silly.
- 4 Were I _____ (say) the wrong thing, I would apologise.
- 5 Assuming you _____ (prove) he was cheating, would you tell the examiner?
- 6 Should AI become a reality, we _____ (need) to improve human intelligence.
- 7 _____ (I know) that the research was unethical, I would never have taken part in it.
- 8 Unless the government _____ (increase) funding for the programme, the researchers will never be able to complete their study.

► Go back to page 41.

4.2 Wishes and regrets

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 I wish I had made a better first impression. = I made / didn't make a good impression.
- 2 I wish I could understand what the lecturer was saying. = I understand / don't understand
- 3 You shouldn't have been so clumsy! = You were / weren't clumsy.
- 4 Helena wishes her new boss was more friendly. = Her new boss is / isn't friendly.
- 5 I would love to have taken part in the experiment. = I took / didn't take part.
- 6 You ought not to have worn that eccentric outfit. = You wore / didn't wear an eccentric outfit.
- 7 If only I didn't feel so socially awkward. = I feel / don't feel socially awkward.
- 8 If only he could express himself more clearly. = He is / isn't able to express himself clearly.

B Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 I wish I _____ (prepare) more thoroughly for my interview yesterday.
- 2 If only I _____ (know) whether or not I've got the job!
- 3 I wish I _____ (can / get) her autograph but I wasn't brave enough.
- 4 If only I _____ (not / say) that I'm disorganised!
- 5 I wish I _____ (can / think) clearly under pressure but I get so stressed.
- 6 I wish I _____ (not / have to) go through job interviews!

C Correct the mistakes in each sentence.

- 1 You shouldn't have copy your essay from the internet.
- 2 The girls wish they was on holiday.
- 3 You could had told me the truth – I would have believed you!
- 4 I would love to had taken part in the research.
- 5 The scientists ought to have make their findings public.
- 6 Gemma doesn't wish she was so shy.
- 7 If only I hadn't get embarrassed with new people.
- 8 I could have done better, if I haven't been so nervous.

► Go back to page 43.

5.1 The passive

	Passive
make sb do sth	We were made to wait for over an hour.
Passive with -ing	I hate being kept waiting.
Passive with infinitive	He would like to be given the chance to retake the test.
get passive (informal)	They got thrown off the course.
Causative have and get	I need to have my phone serviced .

- Remember that we use the passive when we don't say who or what causes the action (usually because the person or thing is not known, not important or not obvious).

We were made to sit the exam again. NOT We were made by the examination board to sit the exam again.

- We use by when we know who does/did an action and we want to mention it.

I don't mind being told by my boss to work late but I don't like it when I have to cover for other people.

- We can use an infinitive or -ing passive form, depending on the verb or construction that comes before it. Some verbs can be followed by an infinitive or -ing with no or little change in meaning. Prepositions are always followed by -ing.

We arranged to be paid in cash.

I appreciated being told about the delay.

The child loved to be / being thrown up in the air.

Johnny never talks about being thrown out of college.

- We use the causative (in any tense) when someone does something for us, or when we are victims of a crime or accident. The causative with have is more formal than the causative with get.

I got my hair cut. OR I had my wallet stolen on the train.

- We can use get + object + past participle when we talk about causing something to happen or be done by somebody else.

She is popular because she gets things done.

They are angry because they are not getting their parcels delivered on time.

- We can also use get + object + -ing to talk about causing someone or something to do something.

The book on game theory got Susan thinking.

Be careful!

- In both the get passive and the causative, get is usually less formal than have. Don't use it in formal situations.

The letter asked us when we had had the house built. NOT The letter asked us when we had got the house built.

5.2 Passive reporting structures

- Some verbs, such as allege, assume, believe, expect, know, say, report, rumour, suppose, understand, are often used in the passive as reporting verbs. The verb rumour can only be used in this way.
- We often use the impersonal it with these verbs.

It is rumoured that the Prime Minister will announce her resignation today. (= There is a rumour that ...)

- With an impersonal it passive, we can follow the reporting verb with either an infinitive or that.

It is understood to be a complicated situation.

It is understood that the situation is complicated.

- With a personal reporting structure, beginning with I/you/he/she/it/we/they, we use the past participle of the reporting verb, followed by to + infinitive.

- We can sometimes use modal verbs before the reporting verb.

It can be assumed that the business is still profitable.

- In both personal and impersonal constructions, we can use the reporting verb in the past if we are referring to something people expected/knew /thought etc. However, if the action was done in the past, and we are reporting it now, the verbs must reflect this.

He was known to be hiding.

It was thought that they had failed.

He is understood to have made contact.

It is believed that he discovered America.

Be careful!

- Do not use that in a personal passive (one that begins with I/You/He/She, etc).

He is rumoured to be planning to make cuts. NOT He is rumoured that he is planning to make cuts.

to + infinitive	He is known to be a thief.
to + continuous infinitive	She is thought to be planning a comeback.
to + perfect infinitive	They are rumoured to have started a secret mission.
to + perfect continuous infinitive	They are believed to have been watching us.

5.1 The passive

A Find the mistakes and correct them. Some sentences are correct.

- 1 I was made to fill in pages of details on the form.
- 2 I dislike to be spoken to as if I don't understand anything.
- 3 He looks forward to be spoiled when he visits his family.
- 4 In my school, we used to get told off for the slightest things.
- 5 You look different – have you had your hair done?
- 6 Do you know what we were made do in the intelligence test?

B Complete the sentences with the correct -ing or infinitive passive form of the verb in brackets.

- 1 I miss _____ spend summer holidays on the beach. (be able to)
- 2 Justine begged _____ for the things she'd said in anger. (forgive)
- 3 The taller kids tended _____ for basketball, regardless of their ability. (choose)
- 4 The manager wouldn't tolerate _____ with. (disagree)
- 5 Paul didn't mention _____ by the police – do you think he's hiding something? (stop)
- 6 He couldn't remember _____ onto an elephant, although he had the photo to prove it had happened. (lift)

C Complete the sentences in the passive or causative.

- 1 Active: They made him sign the document.
Passive: He _____.
- 2 Active: If you're not careful, they'll throw you out.
Passive: If you're not careful, you'll _____.
- 3 Active: I'd like to know how much it costs for you to clean my car professionally.
Causative: I'd like to know how much it costs to _____.
- 4 Active: How on earth are we going to find someone to repair that window on a Sunday?
Causative: How on earth are we going to get _____?
- 5 Active: I'm sure they didn't tell me to be here half an hour early.
Passive: I don't remember _____.
- 6 Active: Someone will steal your car if you leave it there.
Causative: You'll get _____.

► Go back to page 51.

5.2 Passive reporting structures

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 We are supposed to be / to be being there at nine o'clock.
- 2 It is rumoured to be / that the company is in difficulty.
- 3 Two members of staff are alleged to transfer / have transferred money into private accounts.
- 4 It is / was originally thought that they were related.
- 5 They are believed to plan / be planning a trip abroad.
- 6 The police are known to be / have been following him for the past few months.
- 7 It was thought that there was / to be a secret tunnel, but nothing has been found.
- 8 On her first day, it / she was expected to write three reports.

B Complete the text with a suitable form of the verbs in the box.

announce discuss focus look make plan

Director disputes

Home Articles About us Contact

Following tomorrow's meeting, Collins is expected
 1 _____ his resignation. The company is thought 2 _____ to specialise in the near future. They are expected 3 _____ on only one product, and Collins is known 4 _____ his objections to this very clear on several occasions in the past. Although Collins is understood 5 _____ the situation with top management for several weeks, the company is now rumoured 6 _____ for a way to force him out.

C Rewrite the sentences using both personal and impersonal passive structures. Use the reporting verb in bold.

- 1 People believe he is very rich.
He _____.
It _____.
- 2 Some people report that he was awarded over one million dollars.
He _____.
It _____.
- 3 They say she knows her subject inside out.
She _____.
It _____.
- 4 Critics claim that the game's story is too complex.
The game _____.
It _____.
- 5 Many think that it is a complex problem.
The problem _____.
It _____.
- 6 People assume she is shy but she's just quiet.
She is _____.
It is _____.

► Go back to page 55.

6.1 Past modals of speculation and deduction

- We use must + have + past participle for things we believe logically happened.

It's a huge book, so it must have taken her a long time to research and write.

- We use could/might/may well + have + past participle for things we believe likely happened.

They're still not sure what caused the fire but it may well have been started deliberately.

- We use could/might/may + have + past participle for things we think possibly happened.

The plane might have crashed in the mountains but they never found the wreckage.

- We use can't/couldn't + have + past participle to say something was not logically possible.

They couldn't have built this massive fort in just a week.

Be careful!

- Although could/might/may have + past participle all mean the same thing, might/may not have expresses possibility, whereas couldn't have expresses certainty.

It's possible that Aled didn't see the email. = Aled may/might not have seen the email. NOT Aled couldn't have seen the email.

- We can use phrases that start with There is + a/an/the + adjective + noun + (that) to speculate, with adjectives such as distinct, fair, high, remote, slim and slight, and nouns such as chance, likelihood and possibility.

There is a distinct possibility that he picked up the illness while in the jungle.

- We can also use phrases that start with It is + adverb + adjective + (that) to speculate, with adverbs such as extremely, highly, reasonably, somewhat and quite, and adjectives such as likely and possible.

It's quite possible that rival explorers sabotaged their plans.

6.2 -ing and Infinitive forms

- We use -ing after a preposition.

She praised the journalist for exposing the injustice.

They're not interested in finding out the truth.

- We also use -ing after expressions such as It's no good..., It's not worth..., There's no point (in)... and ...have a good time/difficulty/fun/problems....

It's not worth publishing the article if it will get you fired.

There's no point (in) helping people who are ungrateful.

You'll have difficulty justifying that answer.

- We use to + infinitive after adjectives, nouns, quantifiers and the word time.

She's eager to get started on her work.

They urged people to take shelter in the new facility.

The report is lengthy, and there's too much to read in one night.

Let's pick a good time to review the materials.

Be careful!

- We use to + infinitive after the word time, but after the phrase have a good/great time..., we use -ing.

It's time to make a decision. NOT It's time making a decision.

We had a great time painting the wall. NOT We had a great time to paint the wall.

- Some verbs can be followed by -ing (e.g. appreciate, suggest) and some can be followed by to + infinitive (e.g. attempt, manage). Some can be followed by either, usually with a change of meaning (e.g. remember, stop, try).

Why don't you try doing some research online?
(= experiment)

I tried to get in touch with Jan but couldn't find her anywhere.
(= attempt)

- We can use -ing or infinitive without to after the object of sense verbs like hear, see, etc. The infinitive without to emphasises a complete action that is seen or heard, while the -ing emphasises an ongoing activity.

I saw her drinking the coffee.

(= The action was in progress. I didn't see her finish the coffee.)

I saw her drink the coffee.

(= The action was completed. I saw her finish the coffee.)

6.1 Past modals of speculation and deduction

A Find and correct mistakes in some of the sentences.

- 1 You may have been exhausted after such a long journey.
 - 2 She must be lying. She might not have travelled all that distance in one day. It's impossible!
 - 3 They could have taken a wrong turning, but it's hard to tell at this stage.
 - 4 He must well have taken his bike with him as he loves cycling.
 - 5 Janessa couldn't possibly have climbed Mt Kilimanjaro with a broken ankle.
 - 6 She can't have been a globetrotter in her youth because she has souvenirs from all round the world.
 - 7 Jonathan must not have got our message. I suppose we'll only find out when we hear from him.
 - 8 They must have already left because their room is empty and their bags are gone.

C Complete the text with the words in the box.

couldn't it might must there well

Cabeza de Vaca may ¹ have been one of the luckiest and unluckiest explorers ever. Of the 600 men on his 1527 expedition to the Americas, he was one of only four to survive. While they probably imagined a difficult journey, they ² have known the misfortune that awaited them. They risked it because ³ was a possibility of finding gold. Before they even set foot on land, 100 men deserted. They ⁴ have been too exhausted to continue.

Shortly before reaching the coast, a hurricane killed 60 more. On land, the Apalachee people they encountered weren't very hospitable.⁵ _____ is likely they sensed the explorers' ill intentions. The Spanish tried to escape, and they⁶ _____ have been successful except for another hurricane! More men died, the natives in Texas enslaved them, and it was ten years before Cabeza de Vaca and his last three men were finally free.

► Go back to page 63.

6.2 -ing and Infinitive forms

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

B Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 There is a distinct possibility/ extremely possible that they checked in under a false name.
 - 2 It is a slim chance / somewhat likely that the courier company had the wrong address.
 - 3 There's highly possible/ a remote chance that the Sphinx was carved more than 10,000 years ago.
 - 4 There isn't the slightest possibility/ highly unlikely that anyone survived that plane crash.
 - 5 It's not a distinct likelihood / completely impossible that she made her way out of the cave alive.
 - 6 There's somewhat possible /a reasonable chance that Geoff kept copies of all the correspondence.

B Write the correct form of the verb in brackets.

- 1 Justin was disciplined for _____ (express) not finishing his assignment.
 - 2 She brought food for the picnic, but there wasn't enough _____ (go) round.
 - 3 It's not worth _____ (do) such hard work for so little money.
 - 4 I'm sorry, but this is a bad time _____ (discuss) this topic.
 - 5 Is she having difficulty _____ (adjust) to her new life?
 - 6 They advised him on _____ (invest) in new business ventures.
 - 7 There are many ideas here _____ (help) you get started on the project.
 - 8 Your plan failed miserably. Have fun _____ (explain) that to the boss!
 - 9 I saw them _____ (steal) the bike. I witnessed the whole thing from start to finish.

► Go back to page 67.

Grammar Hub

7.1 It clefting

- We can use the structure It + is/was + 'focus' + defining relative clause to focus on a particular piece of information in a sentence. This focus could be:

a person/people	It was Tenzing Norgay and Edmund Hillary who first reached the summit of Mount Everest.
a time	It was 1953 when Sir John Hunt successfully led the expedition to reach the summit of Mount Everest.
a place	It is Mount Everest which has always captured people's imaginations.
a thing or idea	It was the challenge of the climb which inspired generations of climbers.
a clause with because	It was because he had almost reached the summit one year previously that Tenzing Norgay was hired for the expedition.
a clause with to + infinitive	It was to show his respect for the people of Nepal that Sir Hunt asked Tenzing to make the final climb to the summit.
a clause with until	It wasn't until years later that Tenzing revealed which climber had first stepped onto the summit of Mount Everest.

Be careful!

- In sentences like this, we usually leave out the second defining relative clause to avoid repeating the same information.

It wasn't John Hunt who first climbed Everest – it was Edmund Hillary.

~~NOT It wasn't John Hunt who first climbed Everest – it was Edmund Hillary who first climbed Everest.~~

7.2 what clefting and all clefting

- We can use a what clause + be + second clause in order to emphasise the information in the second clause. With this structure, the information in the what clause is usually known or understood whereas the information in the second clause is usually new and therefore the main focus of the sentence.

What Priyanka wants is to escape the rat race.

What they needed, after their walk in the snow, was a hot bath.

What he decided to do was to change careers.

- To emphasise a verb in the second clause, we can use the structure: what clause with do + be + second clause. We can use the infinitive with or without to after the verb be.

What he does is (to) climb cellular phone towers.

- We can use All instead of What at the beginning of the first clause. This emphasises the idea of there being 'only one thing'.

All you need to do in the interview is (to) act naturally. (= the only thing you need to do)

- It is also possible to use Why, Where, How, When to begin this kind of cleft sentence.

Why he enjoys extreme sports is a mystery to me.

Be careful!

- The structure what clause + be + second clause is reversible.

What he enjoys about his job is living in the wilderness. OR Living in the wilderness is what he enjoys about his job.

- The structure what clause with do + be + second clause is not reversible.

What they did was move to the countryside. NOT Move to the countryside was what they did.

7.1 It clefting

A Write one word in each gap to complete the responses.

- Did you know that Jack was going to come with us?
No, it _____ a surprise that he decided to come.
- What time did Antonio arrive home?
It was seven o'clock _____ I heard his key in the lock.
- Was he worried about the cost of fixing his laptop?
No, it was losing all his work _____ he was more worried about.
- You've met my sister, haven't you?
No, it was your brother _____ I met.
- Did you recognise Stella straight away?
No, it wasn't _____ somebody introduced us that I realised it was her!

B Read the questions. Use it clefting and the information in brackets to complete the answers.

- What first got you interested in rock climbing?
(my friend Seb)
_____ first got me interested in the sport.
- What do you think attracts people to Yosemite?
(the idea of being in the wilderness)
I think _____ attracts so many people to go there.
- When did you set out to climb the Half Dome?
(early in the morning)
_____ we set out.
- When did you realise how high the Half Dome is?
(only when I reached the top)
_____ I realised how high up it is!

C Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Write between two and five words.

- Susan wasn't hysterical, Jane was.
WAS
It _____ hysterical, not Susan.
- Not until after we were rescued did I realise the danger we had been in.
UNTIL
It _____ were rescued that I realised the danger we had been in.
- We took part in the charity walk because we wanted to raise money.
IT
_____ money that we took part in the charity walk.
- What caused her to fail the interview was her over-confidence.
WAS
It _____ caused her to fail the interview.
- I believe yoga will help you to relax.
THAT
It _____ yoga will help you to relax.
- Somebody else upset Mzia, not you.
YOU
It _____ upset Mzia.

► Go back to page 74.

7.2 what clefting and all clefting

A Reorder the words to make sentences.

- about the winter / dislike / is / What / the long nights / I
_____.
- I / want / a normal life / All / is
_____.
- we're / a solution to our problems / to find / is / here / What
_____.
- the last train / we missed / happened / that / What / was
_____.
- I / to ask you / did / All / a simple question / was
_____.
- I / remember / All / is / really difficult / the questions / were / that
_____.

B Rewrite these sentences using what clefting or all clefting.

- I've found that working underwater isn't as bad as it sounds.
What _____.
- I'm only saying that you should think twice before moving to Antarctica.
All _____.
- I'm going to look for a job as a window cleaner.
What _____.
- I only asked for your opinion.
All _____.
- I bought a ladder and a bucket.
What _____.

► Go back to page 79.

Grammar Hub

8.1 Relative clauses with complex relative pronouns

- We use whose to add information about someone's possessions.
I was happy to meet Georgia, whose sister had helped me find a place to stay.
- We use whereby to add information about a method (formal).
They introduced a new system in the company whereby everybody has a full induction on their first day.
- We use whom to add information about a person where they are the object of the clause (formal).
The people whom I asked were all in favour of the plan.
- In very formal English, we place the preposition (generally only with whom, whose and which) before the relative pronoun.
The Prime Minister, in whose honour the event was being held, welcomed all the guests.

*The person on whom I depend the most ...
The place to which I often return ...*

- In less formal English, we put the preposition at the end of the clause.

Martin, whose house I was staying in, was a very tidy person.

The person (who) I depend on the most ...

The place (which) I often return to ...

- Formal constructions can use a variety of prepositions depending on meaning.

The person in whom I have the most confidence ...

The person to whom I sent the letter ...

The person for whom the money was being raised ...

Be careful!

- The relative pronoun whom is very formal. We don't usually use it with a preposition at the end of the clause.
*The person to whom you gave the money ...
NOT The person whom you gave the money to ...*

8.2 Pronouns and determiners

- We use determiners before nouns to identify a number, an amount or a group.

We have a few tomatoes.

I had a couple of cups of coffee while I was waiting.

You need to get some fresh air.

- Some common determiners include: a/an, the, this/that/these/ those, all, some (of), none, (a) little (a) few (of), my/your/their/ its/ etc, any, much, more, both (of), enough, a lot of, other, each/ every, one /two/three/etc, either (of).
- We can use some common determiners like millions of, loads of, tons of when we want to exaggerate a point, especially in informal English.

I feel so guilty because I ate loads of chocolate last night.

- Pronouns can be the same words as determiners but they are not followed by a noun. They replace the noun, often to avoid repeating it.

You look like you need water – I'll get you some.

NOT You look like you need water – I'll get you some water.

- Some common pronouns include: I/he/they/etc, me/you/ him/her/etc, this/that/these/those, there, some, mine/yours/ his/etc, both, several, anyone/something/etc, others, none, either.

- We can also use one or one's as pronouns to refer to people in general. These are especially used to make generalisations in formal English. One's indicates possession.

Diets make one realise how much food can impact one's life.

Be careful!

- Some pronouns cannot be used as determiners.

That glass is mine. NOT That is mine glass.

- Some determiners cannot be used as pronouns.

That is my glass. NOT That glass is my.

8.1 Relative clauses with complex relative pronouns

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 Do you know the name of the person to who/ whom the letter must be addressed?
- 2 That's Melanie, whose / who mother is the manager of our company.
- 3 This is the mobile which/ whereby I am most interested in.
- 4 His father, to whom / whom he would often go for financial help, had refused to give him more money.
- 5 We need to find a solution whereby / which everyone will be happy.
- 6 The new supermarket will benefit the villagers, among whom / for whom there are a number of families without cars.

C Match the sentence beginnings (1–6) with the endings (a–f) to make sentences.

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| 1 We reached an agreement | — | a mood never changes. |
| 2 He was uncomfortable because it was a situation in | — | b which he never recovered. |
| 3 Paula is a person whose | — | c house we were all staying. |
| 4 This will be popular with the team, among | — | d whereby everyone was satisfied. |
| 5 The explorer contracted an illness from | — | e whom any extra support is appreciated. |
| 6 We still hadn't met Mr Dawson, in whose | — | f which he had never been before. |

► Go back to page 88.

B Complete each sentence with a word or phrase from the box.

for whom into which into whose whereby whose with which

- 1 A pedometer is a mechanical or digital device _____ we count steps taken while walking.
- 2 The owner, _____ pocket the pedometer can be slipped, can then use it to calculate their distance travelled.
- 3 More recently, mobiles have started featuring fitness apps, _____ pedometers or 'step counters' have been incorporated.
- 4 Some experts claim that people _____ daily number of steps is lower than 10,000 should be concerned about their health and fitness.
- 5 Most fitness experts agree that any method _____ our steps can be counted is a useful one.
- 6 Pedometers make people _____ exercise is not a priority aware of their daily activity and motivate them to do more.

8.2 Pronouns and determiners

A Underline the determiners in each sentence. Some sentences have more than one determiner.

- 1 I could do with a little help starting this fitness programme.
- 2 The doctor said I should leave the car at home and do more walking.
- 3 Both of the sports centres in my area are too far to walk to.
- 4 There was little point in talking to him since he wouldn't listen.
- 5 One of the techniques is bound to suit you.
- 6 The canteen had two healthier options but I didn't fancy either of them.

B Change one determiner into a pronoun in each sentence by crossing out some words.

- 1 Some people have a gluten-free diet because they genuinely can't eat it without getting sick, but many people believe that avoiding gluten is just healthier.
- 2 I try to drink a couple of litres of water every day, but I'm pretty sure that I don't drink enough water.
- 3 A lot of people I know are cutting back on sugar and caffeine, but I don't want to cut back on either sugar or caffeine.
- 4 I've started following a vegan diet so I like to try vegan restaurants, but there are only a few vegan restaurants in my area.
- 5 I prefer fruit and vegetables that have been grown organically to those fruit and vegetables that haven't.
- 6 The government should make companies that produce food with a lot of sugar use less sugar to help people have better diets.

C Complete each sentence with the correct pronoun. More than one answer is sometimes possible.

- 1 Jack couldn't decide which of the two sandwiches to get so he just bought _____.
- 2 Some people enjoy running, while _____ find it really boring.
- 3 Now I can't tell which shoes are _____ – they look the same as yours.
- 4 'Which of the two matches do you want to watch on TV?' _____ – I really don't mind.'
- 5 I know we said we'd buy oranges but _____ don't look very nice.
- 6 We haven't got any football boots in stock but we'll be getting some new _____ in next week.

► Go back to page 93.

Grammar Hub

9.1 Noun phrases

- We can use possessive adjectives, quantifiers, numbers and modified quantifiers before nouns to make noun phrases.

Article/determiner	Those researchers are highly qualified.
Possessive adjective	Their study is well funded.
Quantifier	Many eager participants started immediately
Number	Two of the five speakers disagreed.
Modified quantifier	Almost every single student showed up early.

- We can use relative clauses, prepositional phrases, that clauses and to + infinitive after nouns to make noun phrases.

Relative clause	The clinic where she works just closed.
Reduced relative clause	The woman sitting down is my colleague.
Prepositional phrase	They shared a wealth of knowledge.
that clause	I question the idea that humans are still evolving
to + infinitive	They looked for a cheap place to eat and sleep.

- We can use phrases such as the fact that, the idea that and the belief that to turn a sentence into a noun phrase.

A language dies every two weeks. That is regrettable. (= The fact that a language dies every two weeks is regrettable.)

People believe language strengthens social ties. This is supported by research. (= The belief that language strengthens social ties is supported by research.)

9.2 Participle clauses and verbless clauses

- We use present and past participles as well as combinations of both to form participle clauses.

Feeling unsure of the results, Mary tested the configuration once more.

Left to their own devices, children can solve complex problems.

Having just finished his research, Travis went for a walk to relax.

- We can use prepositions such as before, after and despite before participle clauses with present participles (but not past participles).

Before arriving at the office, Susan texted her boss.
NOT Before arrived at the office, Susan texted her boss.

- We can use conjunctions such as if, when and while before participle clauses with both present and past participles.

While waiting for the bus, Paula had a marvellous idea.

When pressed to answer questions, Jonathan became very nervous.

Be careful!

- Participle clauses appear near the nouns they refer to. When that noun is missing, or the clause appears closer to another noun which it doesn't refer to, it becomes a 'dangling participle' and is grammatically incorrect.

While doing research, Frank noticed the room getting cold. NOT While doing research, the room got cold. (Incorrect: the room wasn't doing research)

- When the participle clause involves using the verb be, we can omit the verb altogether and the clause becomes 'verbless'.

Too impatient to wait, Paul barged in and demanded the results. (= Being too impatient to wait, ...)

- We can start a clause with just a participle, with words such as when, after or because being implied.

Hearing the news, Alex leapt for joy! (= After hearing the news, Alex leapt for joy!)

9.1 Noun phrases

A Choose the option which is closest in meaning to the sentence.

- 1 Lisa questioned many of her professors, and only one gave a clear answer.
 - a Many of the professors Lisa questioned only gave one clear answer.
 - b Only one of the many professors Lisa questioned gave a clear answer.
- 2 I have two younger brothers, and they are language experts.
 - a Both of my younger brothers are language experts.
 - b Two of my younger brothers are language experts.
- 3 Very few of the participants enjoyed the study.
 - a Almost all of the participants disliked the study.
 - b Quite a few of the participants enjoyed the study.
- 4 Jake is standing at the workstation, and he's running reports.
 - a The man standing at the workstation is running reports.
 - b The man standing at the workstation and running reports is Jake.
- 5 They're looking for a safe location so they can try out their experiment.
 - a They're searching for a safe location to try out their experiment.
 - b They're looking to try out their experiment at a safe location.
- 6 Many people applied for the trial, but few were qualified to join.
 - a Many of the few people applying for the trial were qualified to join.
 - b Few of the many people applying for the trial were qualified to join.

B Rewrite these sentences using noun phrases. Use the words in bold to help you.

- 1 I speak three languages and two of them are Latin-based. _____ languages I speak are Latin-based.
- 2 I have little money, but I save it all ... well, almost. I save _____ money I have.
- 3 I've read very few pieces of research, but this is one of them. This is _____ pieces of research I've read.
- 4 The writer draws two conclusions and they both seem dubious to me. _____ conclusions seem dubious to me.
- 5 The researchers interviewed many people. Quite a few had no savings at all. _____ interviewees had no savings at all.
- 6 They can't conduct the experiment in peace. That is annoying. _____ is annoying.
- 7 That man is in charge of the experiment. He's wearing a white lab coat. The _____ is in charge of the experiment.
- 8 Many linguists believe language is alive and this is factored into their theories. _____ factored into linguists' theories.

► Go back to page 101.

9.2 Participle clauses and verbless clauses

A Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 Sensing / Sensed danger, Henry shut down the machine immediately.
- 2 Having already left / Leaving the building, Danielle didn't feel like returning to get her phone.
- 3 Before notifying / notified her supervisor, Anna wanted to make sure the experiment was a success.
- 4 When asking / asked about the research, Kyle refused to reply.
- 5 Too / Too being cautious to take risks, Martin decided to stay on at his job.
- 6 Despite handed / handing in her notice, Sarah put in great effort during her last days at work.
- 7 Having been told / Being told to speed up the study, David cut corners to make his deadlines.
- 8 If successful / being successful, we can publish the results in a science journal.

B Rewrite these sentences using participle clauses or verbless clauses and the word in bold.

- 1 I understand animal behaviour better now that I've read the article. having _____
- 2 The octopus hid in the coconut shell because it felt threatened. feeling _____
- 3 These experiments can teach us a lot if you do them properly. done _____
- 4 I guessed the answer because I didn't know. knowing _____
- 5 The crow had never seen the tool before but used it perfectly. despite _____
- 6 She wasn't fast enough to win the race, but she came in a close second. too _____

► Go back to page 103.

10.1 Discourse markers

- We use discourse markers to connect ideas, or to give further information regarding our attitude to what we're saying or writing.
- We use some discourse markers to join two clauses within a sentence. They can be positioned either at the beginning of a sentence (followed by a comma) or in between the two clauses. They may be used to express cause and consequence, or to describe a contrast.

despite	Despite having a degree in Business Studies, Karla didn't get the job. Karla didn't get the job despite having a degree in Business Studies.
owing to	Owing to his lack of qualifications, Omar was unable to find a job in the field. Omar was unable to find a job in the field owing to his lack of qualifications.
whereas	Whereas Kim is determined to succeed, her sister lacks ambition. Her sister lacks ambition, whereas Kim is determined to succeed.

- We use some discourse markers to connect ideas in two separate sentences. These discourse markers can be positioned at the beginning of the second sentence, in which case they should be followed by a comma. Some can also be placed after the subject of the second sentence, and should in this case be followed by a comma, or at the end of the second sentence.

as a matter of fact	He's doing research into Arctic animals. As a matter of fact , he's leaving for Greenland next week. / He's leaving for Greenland next week, as a matter of fact .
conversely	The novel was a huge bestseller. Conversely , the film version was never as successful. / The film version, conversely was never as successful.
for instance	Mediterranean resorts are making a comeback. For instance Mykonos is now seen as a holiday hotspot for Europe's young celebrities. / Mykonos, for instance , is now seen as a holiday hotspot for Europe's young celebrities. / Mykonos is now seen as a holiday hotspot for Europe's young celebrities, for instance .
in any case	It seems that no crime had taken place. In any case , it wasn't a matter for the police. / It wasn't a matter for the police, in any case .
moreover	Tax income increased because of tourism. Moreover , it has created hundreds of new jobs. / It has, moreover , created hundreds of new jobs.

10.2 Ellipsis and substitution

- Ellipsis involves leaving out words and phrases to avoid repeating them.
- In written English, there are a number of grammatical items that are often left out.

repeated subject	He's into politics and (he) is passionate about activism.
repeated subject + modal	They should organise a campaign and (they should) create some positive publicity.
repeated subject + auxiliary verb	We're going to start a petition and (we're going to) organise a protest meeting.
repeated verb phrase	'I thought you were going on the march .' Yes, I am (going on the march):
repeated adjective	So many students are apathetic , but Kiera isn't (apathetic).

- In spoken English, we can also leave out some grammatical items for the sake of brevity, when it's clear who/what we're talking about.
subject: Can't believe we managed to save the forest from developers! (= I can't believe ...) auxiliary verb: You planning to join the group? (= Are you planning ...)
auxiliary verb + subject + verb: Any preference as to which route we take? (= Do you have any preference ...)
- We often substitute the following words and phrases to avoid repeating words.
do: Are you going into town? Will you post my letter if you do?
(to avoid repeating 'go into town') not: I may have to organise the campaign, but I hope not.
(to avoid repeating 'that I don't have to organise the campaign') do so: Deactivate the burglar alarm. In order to do so, you'll need to key in this code number.
(to avoid repeating 'deactivate the burglar alarm') do it: I often read English-language newspapers. I do it to improve my vocabulary.
(to avoid repeating 'read English-language newspapers') do that: I specifically asked you not to read my emails. Why did you do that?
(to avoid repeating 'read my emails')

10.1 Discourse markers

A What is the function of the discourse markers in bold? Read the sentences and choose the correct options.

- 1 Large hotel complexes consume huge amounts of water, whereas smaller family-run hotels tend to use less.
 - a contrasting two different ideas
 - b comparing two related ideas
- 2 Walking holidays, for instance are an environmentally-friendly choice.
 - a suggesting a possibility
 - b giving an example
- 3 Huge building projects tend to attract investors. Conversely small businesses sometimes struggle to raise money.
 - a repeating and reinforcing an idea
 - b contrasting two different ideas
- 4 The room wasn't at all expensive. As a matter of fact, it was one of the cheapest places we stayed.
 - a adding more information
 - b giving an example
- 5 Farmers are warning that crops may fail owing to the lack of rain.
 - a offering an explanation
 - b trying to persuade someone
- 6 Despite placing adverts on various websites, Aisha didn't manage to sell her products.
 - a describing a situation
 - b contrasting two different ideas

B Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 We haven't visited all the monuments yet. Owing to /In any case, Farid isn't that keen on sightseeing.
- 2 We managed to visit all the most important museums in the city whereas/ despite our limited budget.
- 3 Because the cost of living in Venice is so high, many people are leaving. Moreover /For instance, many inhabitants are worried about the danger of flooding.
- 4 Many of the streets in Venice are very narrow. The 'Calleta Varisco', conversely / for instance, is just 53 centimetres wide!
- 5 Owing to /Despite rising water levels, Venice city authorities are building flood barriers to protect the city.
- 6 Riding on a gondola is a bucket list experience for many visiting Venice. Some say it is one of the most iconic tourist experiences, as a matter of fact / moreover.

► Go back to page 111.

10.2 Ellipsis and substitution

A Cross out the words that can be omitted in the conversation.

- Dom: Do you know who I saw the other day?
- Ali: No, who did you see?
- Dom: Klaus.
- Ali: Do you mean your old roommate from college?
- Dom: Yeah! I can't believe it – I saw him again after all these years.
- Ali: What happened when you saw him?
- Dom: Yes. He gave me his phone number and he gave me his email address.
- Ali: Are you planning to meet up soon?
- Dom: He's going to be visiting the area again next month, so he'll give me a ring when he does visit the area again.

B Replace the phrases in bold with the words and phrases in the box.

do do it do so doing that don't

- 1 'Do you have time to help out at the animal shelter?'
'No, I'm afraid I don't have time to help out at the animal shelter.'
- 2 'I'd like to volunteer with you at the weekend.'
'That's great. You'll have to fill out this form in order to volunteer with us at the weekend'
- 3 'I volunteer at an animal shelter every weekend.'
'I really admire you for volunteering at the animal shelter'
- 4 'Are you enjoying your voluntary work?'
'Yes. I didn't know how fulfilling it would be, but now I know how fulfilling it is.'
- 5 'I've always wanted to volunteer at the cats' home.'
'So why don't you volunteer at the cats' home?'

► Go back to page 117.

1.1 Clothes and fashion

A Choose the correct word to complete the sentences.

- 1 There is a dress code / uniform at my work – for example, we aren't allowed to wear torn jeans or shorts.
- 2 Many people try to copy Audrey Hepburn's style – she was a real trend setter / follower.
- 3 The theme of the party is Superheroes – everybody has to wear a(n) outfit / costume.
- 4 You need a new pair of trousers – those are so old and scruffy / casual.
- 5 People who work in fashion usually dress boldly to fit in with / stand out from the crowd.
- 6 I like baggy / oversized clothes in the summer as they keep you cool.

B Work in pairs. Look again at both options in Exercise A. What is the difference between each option? What do they have in common?

► Go back to page 2.

1.2 Experimenting with prefixes and suffixes

Add the correct prefix or suffix from the box to the words in bold to complete the sentences.

friendly ish prone proof re resistant savvy super

- 1 It doesn't matter if he dropped the camera in the pool – it's water _____ and shock _____.
- 2 She's really up-to-date with new recording and video equipment. She's very tech _____.
- 3 The sound quality is awful and it looks like it was made at home. It's just too amateur _____ to be taken seriously.
- 4 She has a lot of experience making vlogs. She has every reason to feel _____ confident about her abilities.
- 5 He's always breaking the stuff on the set. I guess he's just accident _____.
- 6 The themes on the show are too adult. I couldn't show my children that – it's not family _____.
- 7 You've made a mess of that video. You'll have to _____ start it.

► Go back to page 8.

2.1 Describing art

Choose the correct words to complete the sentences. Then discuss the sentences with your partner. Do you agree?

- 1 Some people enjoy looking around galleries, but I find it quite tedious / unconventional.
- 2 Some modern theatre is incredibly pretentious / groundbreaking – it's more about making the writer feel clever than actually saying anything important.
- 3 Art needs to be hilarious / thought-provoking. Without a deeper meaning, it's just a pretty picture.
- 4 Some of the most iconic / sensational photographs can be disappointing when you see them up close.
- 5 When a writer uses the same idea in their work too many times, it feels really repetitive / overrated.

► Go back to page 14.

2.2 Compound adjectives

Make compound adjectives with the words in the box to complete the sentences. Use each word only once.

highly late open part self thick well world

- 1 I work for a company now, but, in the future, I'd like to be _____-employed
- 2 Travelling can introduce you to new ways of seeing the world and make you more _____-minded
- 3 Sandra's looking for a _____-time job so she can study and work at the same time.
- 4 Sometimes as a writer you need to be _____-skinned – you can't take criticism personally.
- 5 Rob is a _____-motivated person who loves his job and wants to excel at it.
- 6 It's important that my job is _____-paid, so I have some disposable income after I pay all my bills.
- 7 He is definitely a celebrity in his own country, but he isn't _____-famous yet.
- 8 There is a _____-night convenience store below our flat that will be open.

► Go back to page 20.

3.1 Sustainability

Complete the text with the words in the box.

biodegradable consume emission exploitation neutral offsetting renewable

Home Articles About Contact

How to be green

1 _____ energy from sun, wind, rain and waves is one possible solution to the environmental problems we face today. It helps us to address the over-² of natural resources that are finite like minerals, oil, natural gas and coal. Some businesses and organisations aim to be carbon-³ by⁴ the amount of carbon they release. There are even some zero-⁵ buildings which actually create as much energy as they⁶. Also using⁷ materials, for example, in food packaging, is another important step because these materials break down naturally and cause less waste.

► Go back to page 26.

3.2 Verb–noun collocations

Cross out the incorrect word or phrase in each group.

- 1 We managed to achieve / attain / deliver / perform / meet our goals.
- 2 We have made a concerted effort / limited progress / reasonable headway / advances in the right direction / room for improvement.
- 3 They performed impressively / particularly / reasonably / relatively / surprisingly poorly.
- 4 The statistics demonstrated / hindered / displayed / showed a marked imbalance.
- 5 We should set significant progress / realistic goals / clear objectives / measurable targets.
- 6 We have seen little movement / a deadline / a new record / regression / incremental progress.

► Go back to page 33.

4.2 Science and research

Choose the correct word to complete the sentences.

- 1 What are some examples of social findings / norms in your social group?
 - 2 Can you conduct / speculate how most people would react if they were publicly told they had a low score on a test?
 - 3 Do you think the study above proved the theory that the researchers demonstrated / hypothesised?
 - 4 What did this study conduct / demonstrate?
 - 5 Can you think of another idea for an experiment / some findings to prove the hypothesis?
 - 6 Is it important to read the findings / participants of a study to understand the conclusions?
 - 7 Have you ever conducted / speculated an experiment at school or university?
 - 8 What have you concluded / conducted about embarrassment by reading the texts?
- Go back to page 43.

4.2 Thinking

Choose the correct options to complete the sentences.

- 1 While she is very clever, she just isn't very practical. She hasn't got much common sense / wishful thinking.
- 2 I was lying on the beach when I had an amazing idea for my business – it was an eccentric / eureka moment.
- 3 He is very eccentric / absent-minded – he really stands out from the crowd and doesn't mind doing things in his own unique way.
- 4 I'd say I'm a bit curious / absent-minded – for example, I left my work pass at home this morning and couldn't get into my office.
- 5 If you make a resolution but put no effort into planning how to achieve it, then your idea is just wishful thinking / common sense.
- 6 We need someone who can analyse and solve serious problems – in other words, troubleshooting / overthinking skills are essential for this job.
- 7 Lara always troubleshoots / overthinks things; sometimes she should just follow her instincts.
- 8 Tim describes himself as curious / eccentric, but I would describe him as nosy.

► Go back to page 44.

5.1 Competition and cooperation

A Read the definition of outmanoeuvre. What does the prefix out- mean?

outmanoeuvre – definition and synonyms

VERB  Pronunciation /,autmə'nu:və(r)/ to defeat or gain an advantage over someone by being more clever or skilful than they are

B Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in the box.

outdo outnumber outplay outrun outsmart outweigh

- 1 You'll need to be fast to _____ your rivals and win the race.
- 2 When we played tennis, she completely _____ me, and I lost every game.
- 3 It's not perfect, but on balance, the advantages _____ the disadvantages.
- 4 When I bought a new car, my neighbour didn't want to be _____, so he bought one too!
- 5 I managed to _____ my opponent by solving the clues faster.
- 6 In my class, women _____ men by three to one.

► Go back to page 53.

5.2 Reporting verbs

Complete the second sentences with a reporting verb from the box and reported speech.

alleged boasted clarified doubted speculated

- 1 'The new bridge is supposed to reduce traffic congestion, but I don't think it will.'
Daniel _____ whether the new bridge _____ traffic congestion.
- 2 'Sorry – I think you misunderstood me. I didn't offer to do all the work for you.'
Tania _____ that _____ for me.
- 3 'Who knows? If you'd studied harder, you might have got a better mark.'
Max _____ that I _____ harder.
- 4 'I was brilliant at the Take or Share game! I made over £200!'
Victoria _____ that _____ Take or Share game.
- 5 'I can't prove it, but I know that Andy lied on his CV to get the job.'
Michael _____ that _____ to get the job.

► Go back to page 55.

5.2 Motivation and manipulation

Complete the text with the correct form of the phrases in the box.

act coax go nuts inclined spur steer tap into

A day in the life of...

a salesman

I wouldn't say my job involved ¹ _____ people into buying things that they don't actually want. I would never convince someone to buy a faulty product or ² _____ against their best interests. But I totally believe in the quality of our products – they have been well designed and ³ _____ what the market really wants. My job is just to ⁴ _____ people towards the most appropriate products in our range to meet their needs. To be honest it's not difficult. The products sell themselves. Customers are ⁵ _____ for them. It is the quality of the product that ⁶ _____ me on to do my job as well as I can. If the product is no good, you're not ⁷ _____ to make the same effort to sell it.

► Go back to page 56.

6.1 Journeys and adventures

A Complete the sentences with a word or phrase. Use the definitions in brackets to help you.

- 1 Can you think of a time that you went _____ (away from frequently visited places)?
- 2 How do/would you pass the time on a _____ (long distance) flight?
- 3 Do you prepare in advance before you _____ (leave) on a trip? What do you do?
- 4 Is there any _____ (places not covered by maps) left in the world? Where?
- 5 Imagine you had to camp in the _____ (middle) of a rainforest. What _____ (supplies of food, drink, equipment) would you take with you?
- 6 Would you like a job that required you to be a _____ (frequent traveller)? Why/Why not?

B Work in pairs. Discuss the questions in Exercise A.

► Go back to page 63.

6.2 Binomial expressions

Work in pairs. Complete the sentences with a binomial expression from the box.

by and large far and wide heart and soul life or death safe and sound side by side slowly but surely time after time

- 1 Marco Polo travelled _____ in Asia.
- 2 Brothers Louis and Auguste Lumière worked _____ to create film and cinema.
- 3 Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay were the first to climb Mount Everest and return _____.
- 4 The American conservationist Dian Fossey won the trust of the gorillas _____.
- 5 The German physicist Albert Einstein is, _____, thought to be the smartest person that ever lived.
- 6 Passengers on the sinking Titanic faced a _____ situation.
- 7 _____, numerous climbers have tried to reach the summit of the mountain. But all have failed.
- 8 Van Gogh put his _____ into his art and inventions, working tirelessly on both.

► Go back to page 69.

7.1 Feelings

Choose the correct options to complete the text.

HomeArticlesAboutContact

The psychology of everyday life

Extreme and stressful situations can always be difficult to cope with. But it's actually how we deal with mundane, everyday tasks, that has the biggest impact on our well-being. Here are some tips on how to cope.

- Learn to control your emotions – be the calm and collected person rather than the ¹*hysterical / courageous / devastated* one when the pressure is on.
- Try not to fire back emails when you're ²*humble / grumpy / resilient* – an angry message may make you feel better immediately. But, you'll be ³*indifferent / disgusted / devastated* when your boss fires you and you're suddenly jobless.
- If you just aren't getting anywhere with something and are ⁴*frustrated / devastated / disgusted*, recognise that you may need a break or even to ask for help.
- Sometimes it's important to be ⁵*courageous / humble / superior* and take risks rather than play it safe. Bravery is something you can practise and get better at.
- Just because you are busy, don't be ⁶*indifferent / hysterical / resilient* to other people's problems – it's important to help out the people around you.
- No matter how well you think you're doing at the moment, try to stay ⁷*humble / courageous / resilient* about your achievements. Nothing annoys people more than a ⁸*superior / disgusted / hysterical* attitude.

► Go back to page 76.

7.2 Polysemy

Complete the sentences with the correct form of a word. You can use some words more than once.

- 1 It can be quite difficult to _____ a job with the right balance between intellectual challenge and not too much _____ to succeed.
- 2 One of the most important _____ of barometers (which measure atmospheric _____) is to calculate the height at which a plane is flying.
- 3 There's too much _____ between hundreds of people who have sent in their _____ for the job; there should be a _____ to find the successful candidate instead!
- 4 The pilot says he will _____ the plane shortly as _____ have improved.

► Go back to page 79.

7.2 Intensifiers

Choose the correct intensifiers to complete the advice about job interviews. What other intensifiers are used?

- 1 It's perfectly normal to exaggerate your achievements remarkably / somewhat but you should never tell noticeably / outright lies.
- 2 If you're not altogether / immensely sure what the interviewer is asking, it's completely fine to ask for clarification.
- 3 Practically / Radically all interviews are highly stressful, but as long as you're extremely well-prepared, it should be relatively / utterly painless.
- 4 Remember that for the interviewers, it's practically / exceptionally boring to hear the same answers from every single interviewee. If you give immensely / radically different answers, you'll stand out from the crowd.

► Go back to page 81.

8.1 Health problems

Cross out one word in each sentence which does not make a collocation.

- 1 Tony fractured a(n) muscle/ arm / bone when he went skiing last year.
- 2 Do you sell anything for a twisted / sore throat?
- 3 Some studies have claimed that low/slow blood pressure may be more common amongst athletes.
- 4 When I was running I may have pulled/ dislocated /sprained a muscle.
- 5 After intense exercise your skin rash / blood pressure / heart rate is usually higher.
- 6 You can buy a number of products over the counter to help relieve skin fractures/ inflammation / rashes.

► Go back to page 86.

8.2 Describing taste

Complete the sentences with words from Exercise A. More than one answer is possible for some sentences.

- 1 I love _____ drinks, but I'm trying to be healthy so I usually order sparkling water at restaurants.
- 2 I know I should eat more citrus fruits to get my daily dose of Vitamin C, but they are just too _____ for me.
- 3 Presentation is so important for me – if food doesn't look _____, I can't eat it.
- 4 I ate a delicious curry at the weekend, which wasn't too spicy at all – in fact, it was quite _____.
- 5 My dad loves blue cheese, so I get some really _____ aromas when I open the fridge sometimes.
- 6 I try to eat salad for lunch occasionally, but it doesn't taste of much. It's really _____ unless I put some unhealthy dressing on the top.
- 7 I'm trying to eat healthy snacks, like carrot sticks – they're nice and _____.

► Go back to page 93.

9.2 Verb + object + infinitive

Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 The scientists observed the dolphin _____ itself in the mirror for hours. (admire)
- 2 Snakes' heat sensors help them _____ prey _____. (detect, approach)
- 3 Scientists must be seen _____ procedures very carefully. (follow)
- 4 Oh! You're here! I didn't notice you _____! (arrive)
- 5 I woke up because I could feel a spider _____ on my arm. (crawl)
- 6 I was made _____ for over an hour before they let me _____ in. (wait, come)
- 7 The experimenters had the participants _____ a form before they could start. (sign)

► Go back to page 103.

9.2 Gestures and body language

Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words in the box.

beckon fidget glare grin lean wink nod gaze

- 1 Sally was _____ across the bay, looking at nothing in particular, when the ship suddenly came into view.
- 2 Phillip just can't sit still in meetings – he's always _____.
- 3 James _____ at Emma, so she knew he was joking.
- 4 'Shhh ... we have to be quiet ... just _____ if you agree with me.'
- 5 The bookshelf fell over when I _____ against it.
- 6 Steven was so happy when he got the job that he couldn't stop _____.
- 7 The teacher _____ his student over to the board.
- 8 Elizabeth was so angry that she just _____ at them without saying a word.

► Go back to page 105.

10.1 Culture and heritage

Complete the text with the words in the box.

architectural endangered funding habitat heritage preserve refurbishment settlement

HOMETOWN GLORY

My hometown has a very rich history – it is where a famous treaty was signed and is close to the site of an ancient ¹ _____. In fact some of ruins of the site are still standing today and are of special ² _____ interest as they show the precise engineering methods of the Romans.

For these reasons alone, the town is a very important part of my country's national ³ _____. The nearby forests are the ⁴ _____ of a lot of different wildlife, including some rare species which are unfortunately now ⁵ _____. As such they have been designated as an area of outstanding natural beauty and are protected.

Unfortunately we don't receive a lot of ⁶ _____ from the government to ⁷ _____ areas of the old town. Some of the unlisted buildings are in real need of ⁸ _____ – so please come and visit us. Tourism is a valuable source of income and helps us to keep our heritage and culture alive!

► Go back to page 111.

10.2 Word building

A Write the correct form of the word in brackets to complete the sentences.

- 1 A good politician is someone who grew up in the _____ (commune) that they represent.
- 2 Most politicians are more interested in _____ (person) success than helping the public.
- 3 Becoming _____ (act) in politics is the best way to make a difference in the world.
- 4 I feel _____ (passion) about politics and follow the news closely.
- 5 Most people's political beliefs are formed in _____ (child) by listening to their parents.
- 6 Many people are _____ (apathy) about politics, because they don't trust politicians.
- 7 The best politicians are those who had other careers before entering _____ (politics) life.
- 8 Local politics is often more _____ (effect) at improving people's lives than national politics.

B Work in pairs. Do you agree with the sentences in Exercise A? Why/Why not?

► Go back to page 115.

2.2 Students A and B

Read what your answers to the quiz say about you.

ARE YOU CUT OUT FOR FAME?

MOSTLY 1S

You have a very clear vision for your future and nothing will stop you from achieving it. You welcome negative feedback as a way to improve and grow as a person. You want to be well-known, even if this won't necessarily make you rich.

MOSTLY 3S

You feel comfortable amongst large groups of people and don't need a lot of alone time. That being said, you would not particularly enjoy your private life being discussed online. You are fairly ambitious and would like to be respected in your field. But you also have other interests in your life which are important to you. Fame might not be for you.

MOSTLY 5S

You don't enjoy being the centre of attention and value privacy. For you, work is a small part of your life, secondary to spending time with friends and family. The purpose of working is to earn money to do the things you enjoy. Fame isn't for you.

► Go back to page 20.

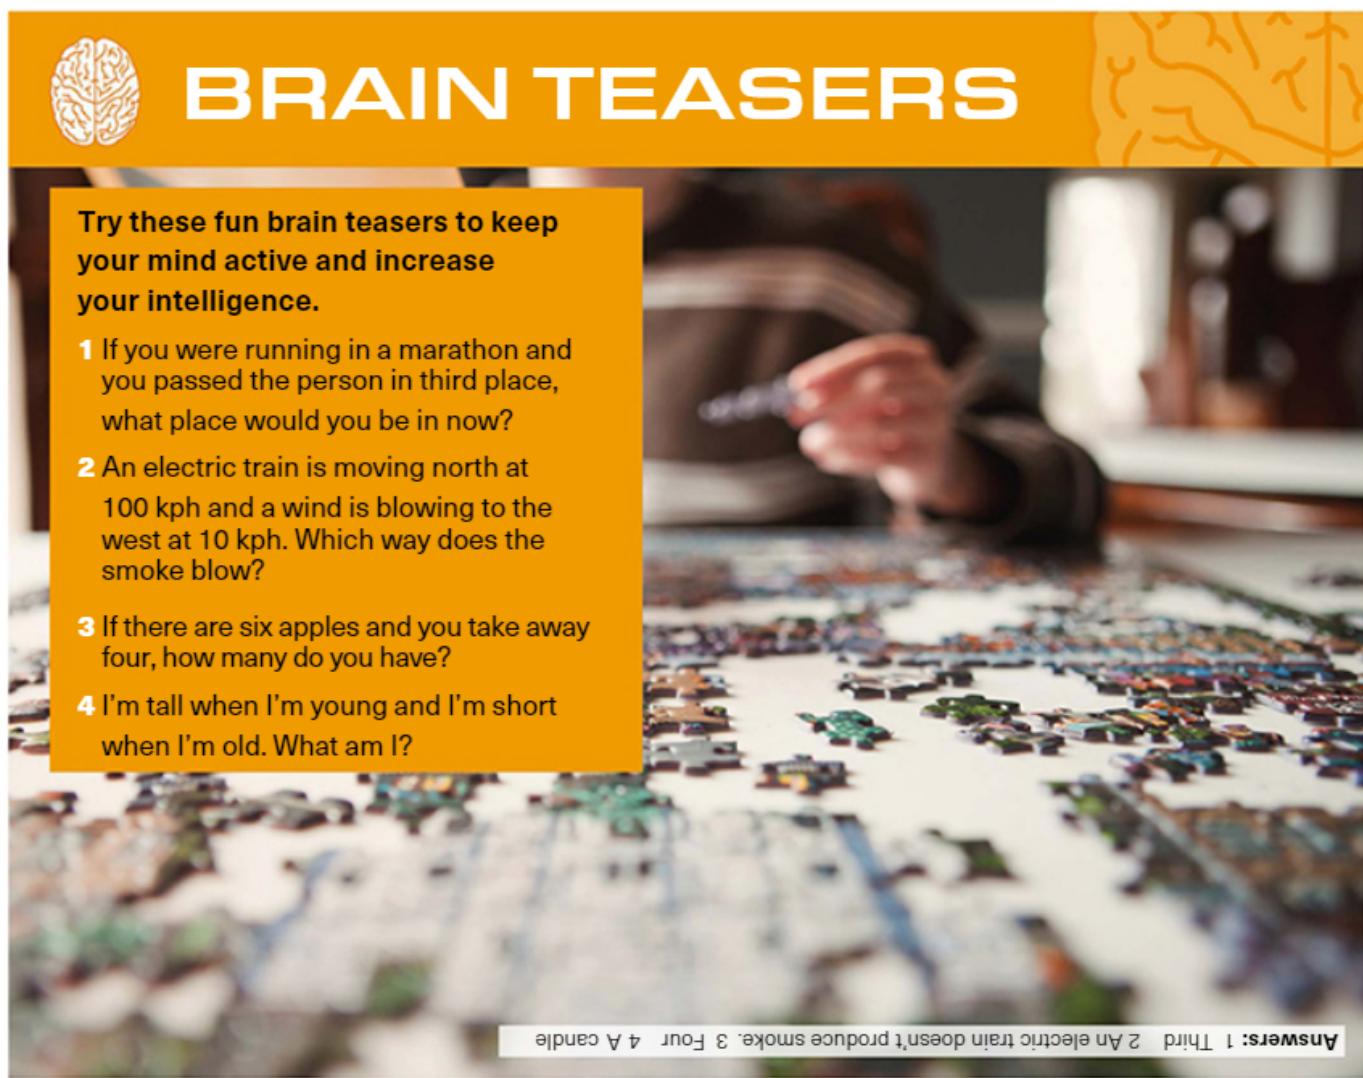

4.1 Students A and B

BRAIN TEASERS

Try these fun brain teasers to keep your mind active and increase your intelligence.

- 1 If you were running in a marathon and you passed the person in third place, what place would you be in now?
- 2 An electric train is moving north at 100 kph and a wind is blowing to the west at 10 kph. Which way does the smoke blow?
- 3 If there are six apples and you take away four, how many do you have?
- 4 I'm tall when I'm young and I'm short when I'm old. What am I?

Answers: 1 Third 2 An electric train doesn't produce smoke. 3 Four 4 A candle

► Go back to page 38.

9.2 Players

You have three minutes to get ten points, but you have to work out the rules to the game by yourselves. For example, perhaps you get a point for nodding your head, for blinking your eyes or for saying a particular word (or perhaps all three at the same time). Work as a team to see if you can win ten points in three minutes. Good luck!

► Go back to page 105.

4.1 Student A

Using your own words, explain each situation to your partner. Then decide what you would do in pairs.

Situation 1

Imagine that a company begins selling brain implants. They allow you to learn and remember information quickly. For example, some people use them to learn languages or other skills instantly. However, the implants have also caused people to lose some of their memories. Would you buy one?

Situation 2

Imagine that a company begins selling highly advanced robots. These robots will take on any tasks that you need them to do, provide companionship for people who live alone, and protect you and your house. They are also smart enough to learn and use their initiative. Would you get one of these robots?

Situation 3

Imagine that artificial intelligence is used for both medical check-ups and treatment in the future. The AI has a higher rate of accurate diagnoses than human doctors. You have the choice between a human doctor or an artificial intelligence system. Which would you pick?

► Go back to page 41.

4.2 Students A and B

Think of a time when you did something you regret. Use the prompts below or your own ideas. Discuss it with your partner.

- You failed a test.
 - You forgot something.
 - You lost something.
 - You missed an appointment.
 - You sent an email or message to the wrong person.
 - You wore the wrong type of clothes.
- Go back to page 43.

5.2 Students

Work in small groups to solve the puzzles.

PUZZLE A: THE TAKE OR SHARE IT GAME

You and a stranger are both offered a choice:

TAKE or SHARE.

If only one player chooses TAKE, they keep £1000.

If both players choose SHARE, they get £500 each.

But if both players choose TAKE, they get nothing.

You can't communicate with each other.

What's the best strategy if you play once?

What if you play many times?

PUZZLE B: THE TALENT SHOW DILEMMA

You're watching a TV talent show. The two candidates with the most votes will go through to the final. Your favourite contestant is so popular she's almost certain to win. Your second favourite contestant also deserves to be in the final. You have only one vote. Who should you vote for?

PUZZLE D: THE ROAD NETWORK

The map shows the road network between four towns. Where (if anywhere) should you build a new road to solve the towns' traffic problems?

► Go back to page 54.

9.1 Students

In your groups, discuss the questions.

- Experiments have shown that speaking English encourages people to be more competitive, thanks to the connotations of English-speaking countries. What effect might your own language have on its speakers?
- Unlike English, many languages have formal and informal words for you, so you always have to think about your relationship with the other person before speaking to them. How might that affect your behaviour?
- The present perfect in English treats past events as part of the present. How might that affect English speakers' views of the past ... and their behaviour?

► Go back to page 101.

4.1 Student B

Using your own words, explain each situation to your partner. Then decide what you would do in pairs.

Situation 1

Imagine that a company begins selling body upgrades. You can use their technology to make you stronger, faster and more skilful. People can use the upgrades to fix their sight and hearing, or repair injuries. However, the new parts don't look natural, so it will be clear you have had upgrades. Would you use this service?

Situation 2

Imagine that a company begins offering a memory back-up service. You can download the memories from your brain onto their servers and then view the memories whenever you want. You can also share selected memories with others. However, you don't get to choose which memories are downloaded. Everything has to be downloaded together. Would you use their service?

Situation 3

Imagine that a highly advanced robot in the future demanded the same rights as a human. The robot argues that it is as conscious as a human being. Would you support the demands of the robot?

► Go back to page 41.

10.3 Student A

SPEAK Describe the following scene to your partner.

► Go back to page 118.

4.3 Students

Low frequency sounds, like number 1, are connected to earthy tones like browns and reds.
High frequency sounds like, number 2, are connected to violet tones like blue and purple.

► Go back to page 46.

9.2 Facilitator

The 'game' is in fact an experiment to see if you can trick the players into behaving strangely. They think they have to 'win' points, but in fact they simply get a point at regular intervals. When the game starts, count to ten slowly and silently in your head, again and again, saying 'one point' aloud every time you reach ten. Don't let the players work out the real rules – but you can share the secret with them at the end!

► Go back to page 105.

6.1 Group A

Work in small groups. Read about an historical mystery. Speculate about what happened.

THE LOST COLONY OF ROANOKE

In 1585, an English settlement was established on a small island off the Eastern coast of the US. In the first year there, they began to run out of food, so the Mayor returned to England to get supplies – but it was three years before he could come back. He left behind his daughter, son-in-law and grandchild among the colonists.

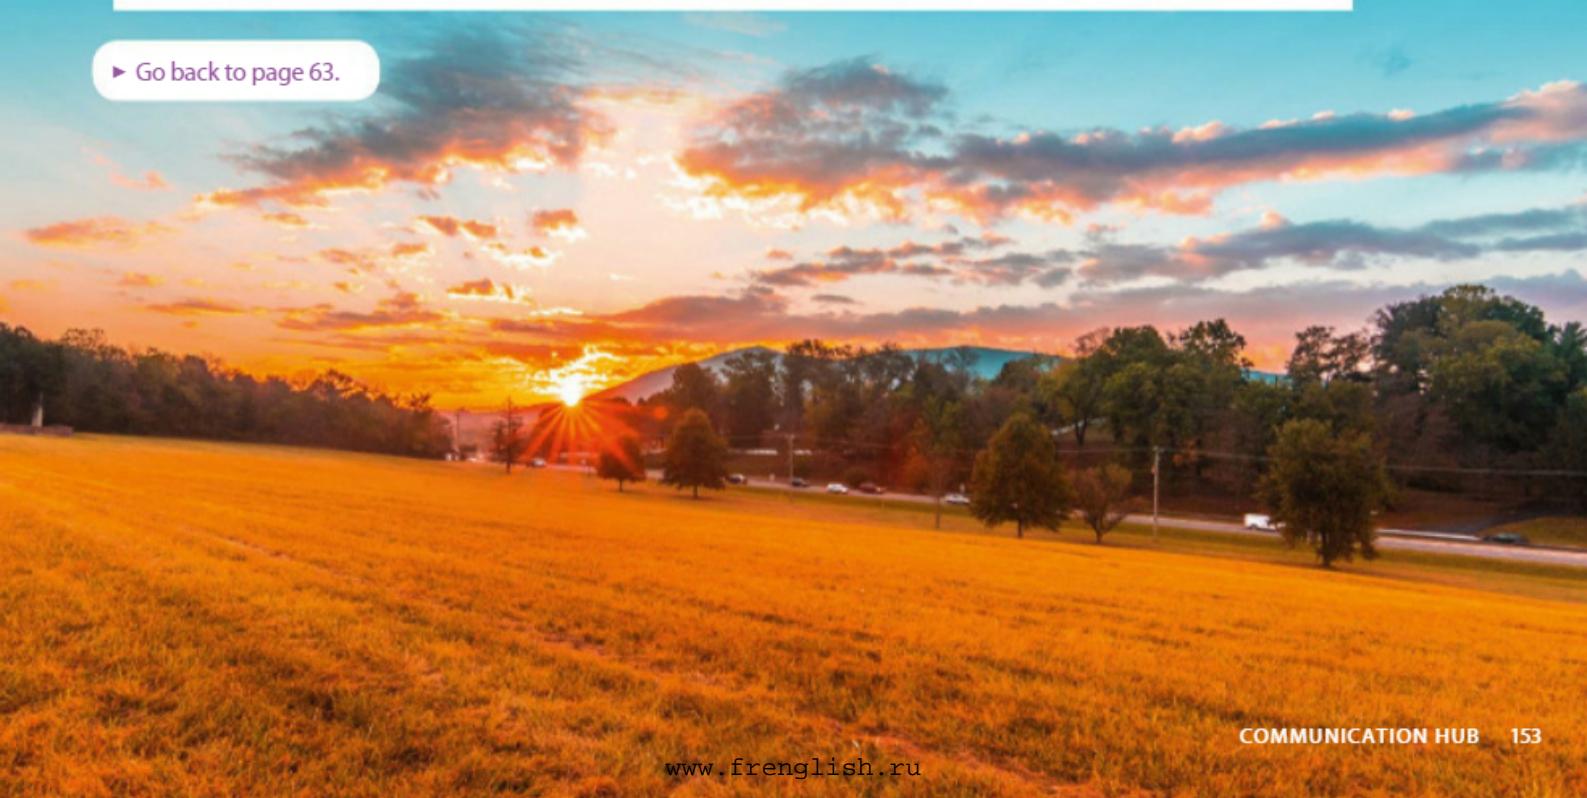

When he returned, the colony and all 117 members of the colony were gone. The only thing left was a fence around the area and a newly built fort on the other side of the island. He never saw or heard from the colonists again.

The Mayor had told the settlers to carve a symbol into a tree if they had been forced to leave the area, but he only found the word CROATOAN. Croatoan was the name of a nearby island, inhabited by a tribe of indigenous people with the same name.

In recent years, some objects of European origin from that period were found at two different locations. Part of a sword was found on Croatoan Island and some pottery was found about 50 miles inland.

Despite modern efforts to solve the mystery, nothing of the actual colonists is known for sure. Several theories exist, but the quest to find out what happened continues.

► Go back to page 63.

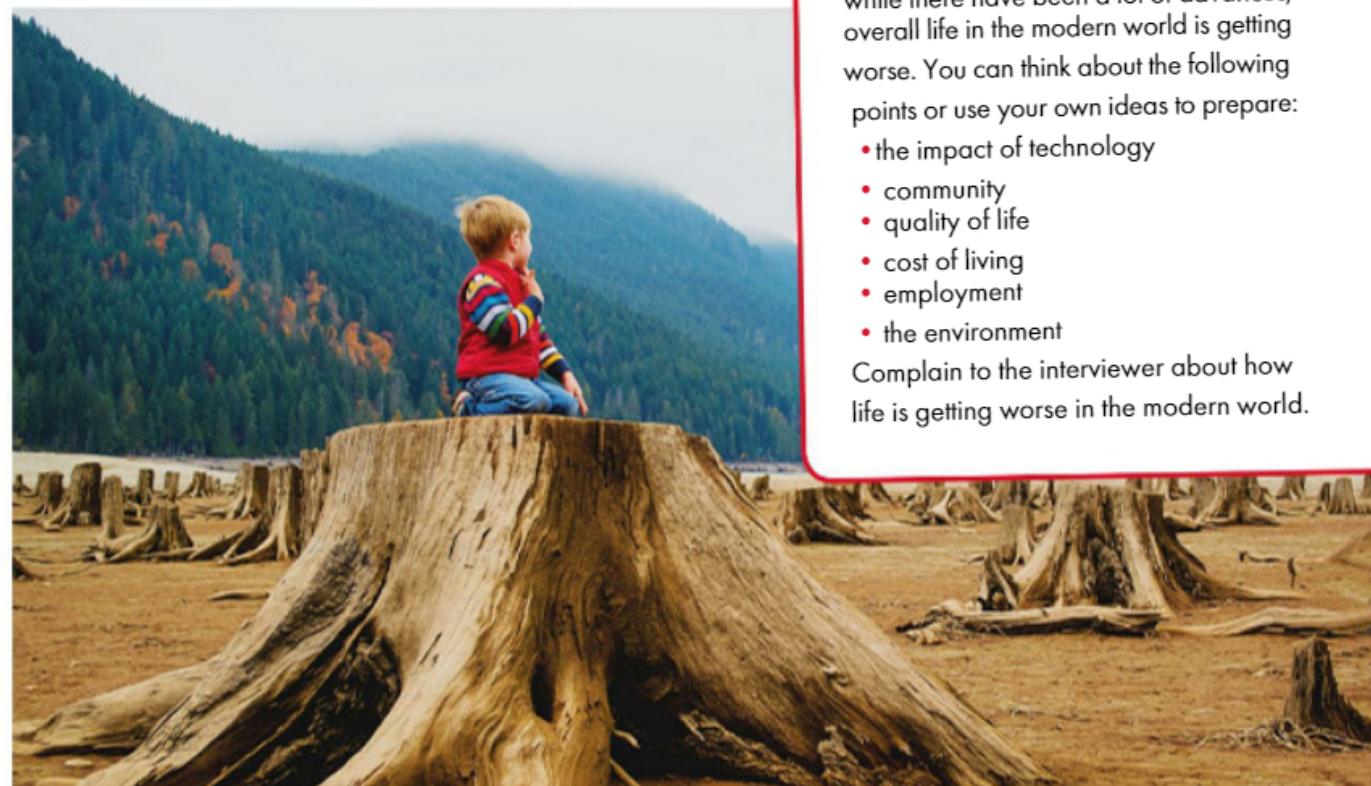

4.3 Students

Both pictures are brightness illusions known as Munker's illusion. Although the shapes appear to vary in brightness, they are actually the same. It is the colours next to them that make them appear different.

► Go back to page 46.

3.2 Student B

Read the situation and prepare what you will say.

You're being interviewed for a radio programme about progress. You feel that while there have been a lot of advances, overall life in the modern world is getting worse. You can think about the following points or use your own ideas to prepare:

- the impact of technology
- community
- quality of life
- cost of living
- employment
- the environment

Complain to the interviewer about how life is getting worse in the modern world.

► Go back to page 31.

6.3 Students

Underline examples of summarising, repetition and dynamic words in the transcript.

Hydrogen atoms, carbon atoms, oxygen and sulphur atoms – these basic building blocks react and combine to make everything.

A woodland is a complex place – there are oak trees and grass and mosses and ferns, and countless animals and plants all living together in a tangled ecosystem. But there's a simpler level of description – everything is made of atoms. So an oak tree is really just carbon, nitrogen, oxygen and hydrogen and a few other bits mixed together. So, when you look at it like that, it's really not that complicated at all.

The atoms that make up this woodland have been on an extraordinary journey to get here. Think of a carbon atom in this acorn. It was assembled in the heart of a star billions of years ago out of protons that were built just after the Big Bang. It got thrown out into the universe in a supernova explosion, collapsed as part of a dust cloud to form the sun and then the earth four and a half billion years ago.

It will have spent a lot of time in rocks. It was probably part of some of the first living things on Earth. It would have got breathed out as carbon dioxide by someone that walked through this wood 400 years ago. It will have got into some ancient oak tree through the action of photosynthesis constructed into this acorn and fallen down to the ground. And there it is. It's got a history that goes back billions of years. In fact, a history in terms of the building blocks of carbon, the protons that goes back right to the origin of the universe. And in billions of years time when the sun dies and the Earth is vaporised they'll be thrown back out into space and probably condensed into a new world billions of years in the future.

So life is just a temporary home for the immortal elements that build up the universe.

► Go back to page 70.

10.3 Student B

SPEAK Describe the following scene to your partner.

► Go back to page 118.

6.1 Group B

Work in small groups. Read about an historical mystery. Speculate about what happened.

THE NAZCA LINES

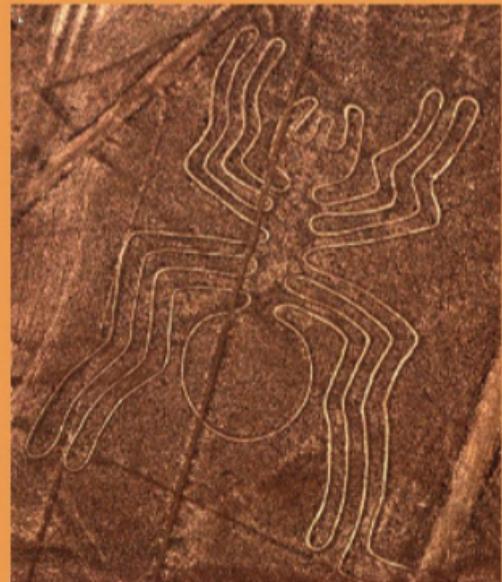

Approximately 2000 years ago, people living in southern Peru drew pictures of shapes and animals into the dry desert landscape by removing red rocks to reveal the white sand below.

Some of the pictures are as large as the Empire State Building, but when seen from above are very accurate. How did the people draw the pictures without being able to see them from above? And since the pictures are not visible from the ground, who was supposed to see them?

One scientist found that one of the lines pointed directly to the sun during the winter solstice.

Another scientist believes the drawings were used to mark the location of underground rivers and wells.

One image is of a spider, but this species of spider is not found in this area. It comes from the Amazon, over 900 miles away.

► Go back to page 63.

W- making your blog post successful

- A Look at the buttons. What do you think skeuomorphism means?
- B Read 4 things you need to know about skeuomorphism. Complete the article with the headings (a–d).
- Is skeuomorphism cool?
 - Is skeuomorphism useful?
 - What are some examples of skeuomorphism in real life?
 - What is skeuomorphism?

4 things you need to know about SKEUOMORPHISM

Have you ever wondered why the best websites look fresher and smarter than yours? Do you want to learn the powerful secret of great web design? Then you need to know about skeuomorphism.

1

Here's a simple definition: skeuomorphism involves making digital objects look like things in the real world. The earliest websites just had lots of text. Instead of a 'click here' button, you simply had the words 'click here'. But web designers soon realised that users prefer life-like buttons and switches.

2

Examples of skeuomorphism are everywhere. Is there a trashcan on your phone for 'delete'? A cogwheel for 'settings'? An envelope for 'messages'? The list of examples is endless. Skeuomorphism even brings outdated technologies – like floppy disks and sand-filled hourglasses – back to life.

3

It depends. Early web designers got carried away with skeuomorphism. Every button had a 3D appearance, with shadows and reflections. This led to a backlash in the early 2010s called 'flat design', which gave a cleaner, less fussy appearance. Flat design managed to appear both retro and modern ... but also a little boring.

4

Yes and no. Skeuomorphism does make things more user-friendly and intuitive. We all know that a green phone means 'start a call' and a red one means 'end a call', but what if you've never seen an old-fashioned phone? What if you're colour-blind? By all means use skeuomorphism in your web design, but don't assume your users can work out what everything means!

Want to learn more about web design trends?
Click here to sign up for our online course.

- C SPEAK Work in pairs. Discuss the questions in the headings.

- D Match the objectives (1–3) with the strategies (a–g).

Making your blog post successful

A successful blog post achieves three objectives:

- People will find it using search engines. _____
 - They will read it from start to finish. _____
 - They will take some action that helps the writer. _____
- Include a number in your title (i.e. 7, not seven). Search engines prefer them!
 - End with a clear call to action (CTA), e.g. 'sign up for our newsletter'.
 - Ask questions in your first paragraph, but only answer them later in your blog post.
 - Choose one key word or phrase and use it as many times as possible in your blog post.
 - Use questions as section headings. Many people use questions to search.
 - Speak to readers as 'you' and offer to solve their problems.
 - Include lots of common search terms like 'definition' and 'examples'.

- E Find examples of the strategies (a–g) in the blog post.

WRITING

- A PREPARE Work in groups. You are going to write a blog post about a trend or trends in general. Think of ideas for topics.

- B PLAN Choose your key word or phrase (to be repeated many times in your blog post), your title and a series of questions to use as section headings.

- C WRITE Write your blog post. Make sure the first paragraph encourages the reader to keep going to the CTA!

- D REVIEW Read some other people's blog posts. Use the box above to evaluate the posts.

W writing concisely

A Read this announcement and answer the questions.

Reviews wanted

Have you recently read a classic book or watched a classic film? We're starting a series of reviews of classic books and films and we want your opinions. Is the book or film as good as everyone says it is?

Is it still relevant today? Please send us a review for the college paper. Write 220–260 words.

- 1 What should be reviewed?
 - 2 What questions should be addressed by the review?
 - 3 Who is the target audience?
 - 4 How long should the review be?
- B Read the review. Does the writer agree that the book deserves its reputation as a classic? Which parts of the review tell you this?

– Alice's Adventures in Wonderland –

1 Fantasy children's novel Alice's Adventures in Wonderland was published in 1865. The book, adapted for film and television and translated into over 100 languages, fully deserves its reputation as a classic and is just as fun today as it always was.

2 At the start of the story, Alice sees a white rabbit wearing clothes and talking to himself. Following the rabbit, she falls down a hole into a bizarre world of strange and wonderful creatures, including a snooty caterpillar and the mysterious, grinning Cheshire Cat.

3 One of the reasons that Alice's Adventures in Wonderland is so popular is that it is a nonsense story. It's not a typical linear story or a story with logic and a moral. It's about the strange situations and unusual characters created by the author, and they surprise and delight readers.

4 Another reason for the book's enduring popularity is Lewis Carroll's playful use of language. The story is full of riddles, puzzles, puns and made-up words. One of the most famous examples is the 'unbirthday party' at the Mad Hatter's tea party.

5 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland is without doubt a classic book that has captured the imaginations of generations of children and adults. Its creative story, characters and playful use of language make it a unique story – and one that everybody should read at least once.

C Look at the review and identify which paragraph contains the following information.

- a an overall opinion of the work and a recommendation
- b key information about the work and a general opinion of it
- c analysis of a second positive or negative aspect of the work
- d a plot summary or description of the work
- e analysis of one positive or negative aspect of the work

D Read the review again and answer the questions.

- 1 Which characters from the book are mentioned?
- 2 How is the story of this book different to most other books?
- 3 What example of playful use of language does the writer give?

E Find features of concise description in the text. Use the information in the box to help you.

Writing concisely

If you need to write concisely, you can use some of the following features:

- noun phrases: English writer and mathematician Charles Dodgson
- reduced relative clauses: Charles Dodgson, writer and mathematician, published his first book.
- participle clauses: Educated at home, Dodgson wrote poems and short stories.

WRITING

A PREPARE Look again at the announcement in Exercise A.

B PLAN Plan your review. Use your answers to question 2 in Exercise A to help you.

C WRITE Write your review. Use your plan to help you.

D REVIEW Exchange your review with a partner. Do you have similar information? Underline any information that you don't think is correct.

E EDIT Read your partner's comments. Rewrite any parts you think should change.

W persuasive techniques

A SPEAK Read the email. Who is the writer? Who is he writing to? Why?

To: Lakeside residential estate (group)
From: Daniel Hernandez

Subject: Road resurfacing

Dear all

- a As you know, the internal roads in our estate are in a dreadful condition. Not only does this look ugly, but it also damages our cars. Furthermore, one of our loved ones may be injured by tripping on the uneven surface.
 - b With that in mind, the housing association has set aside funds to resurface the roads. As I'm sure you remember, the roads were last resurfaced five years ago. One option is simply to use the same cheap materials again (and in five years, the surface will have deteriorated again).
 - c I would like to propose an alternative: self-repairing concrete. Thanks to cutting-edge technology, self-repairing concrete is infused with billions of tiny limestone-producing bacteria, Bacillus pseudofirmus. While sealed in concrete, these bacteria remain inert, but when exposed to air they multiply rapidly. No sooner does a crack appear in the concrete than millions of these bacteria will wake up and plug the crack.
 - d As you can imagine, although self-repairing concrete is rather expensive, it will save us money in the long run (see attached calculations). More importantly, if one serious accident can be prevented over the next five years, I'm sure you'll agree it will have been worth the extra cost.
 - e I know you are all smart people, so let's make the smart decision. Please support my proposal at our next housing association meeting.
- Best regards
 Daniel

B Read the email again. Match the questions (1–5) with the paragraphs (a–e). Then discuss the questions in pairs.

- 1 What is a potential objection and how can it be overcome?
- 2 What is the most likely solution and what's wrong with it?
- 3 What action does the reader need to take?
- 4 What is the problem and why should the reader care?
- 5 What's an alternative solution and why is it better?

C Underline examples of each technique in Daniel's email. Use the information in the box to help you.

Persuasive techniques

- 1 Use words like we, our and let's to build a connection with the readers.
- 2 Flatter your readers by claiming they're intelligent and knowledgeable.
- 3 Provide facts and figures to support your claims, in an attachment if appropriate.
- 4 Use emotive language and imagery to appeal to your readers' fear of loss, damage or injury.
- 5 Explain technical issues in simple language, but include some impressive technical terms.
- 6 Use although or while to link weaknesses with strengths.

D Work in pairs. Use the techniques in Exercise C to make these email extracts more persuasive.

- 1 Your biggest problem is that you spend too much money on electricity.
- 2 Please support me so I can solve this problem for you.
- 3 The road surface is so bad that delivery drivers may refuse to drive into our estate.
- 4 I admit this solution will be extremely disruptive during the building work.

WRITING

A PREPARE Work in groups. You are going to write a persuasive email about sustainability, smart materials or voluntourism. Generate a list of ideas. Use the following questions to help you:

- 1 What problem are you trying to solve?
- 2 Who do you need to persuade?
- 3 What do you want your reader to do?

B PLAN Plan a five-paragraph email. You can use the five questions from Exercise B to help you.

C WRITE Write your email, using techniques from this lesson.

D REVIEW Exchange your email with a partner. Do you use similar techniques? Comment on how the email could be made more persuasive and underline any mistakes.

E EDIT Read your partner's comments. Rewrite any parts you think should change.

W hedging

- A Study the list of twenty words for one minute. Then try to write them all down.

experiment brilliant eccentric participant professor memory argument common sense fashion metaphor trend brainpower website conclusion project world-famous iconic obstacle self-portrait inspiration

- B Work in groups. Compare the words that you remembered. Which words did most people remember?
- C Read the report. Which words did the study find were more likely to be recalled? Why were these words more likely to be recalled?

INVESTIGATING SHORT-TERM AND LONG-TERM MEMORY

Introduction

This report describes an experiment to replicate the results of an earlier study. Murdock (1962) investigated the concepts of short-term and long-term memory by getting students to memorise a list of words. He found that students were more likely to recall the words at the beginning and end of the list. He concluded that this may be because the words from the beginning of the list were stored in the long-term memory, whereas the words at the end of the list were stored in the short-term memory.

Methods

Thirty participants (16 men and 14 women) were asked to look at a list of 20 words for a minute. They were then asked to try to recall the words.

The words that participants wrote down were analysed to see which words were recalled the most and if the position of the word in the list affected the students' ability to recall the word.

Results

The results confirmed Murdock's findings and showed that students were more likely to recall words from the beginning and end of the list.

Discussion

Murdock suggested that students studied the words at the start of the list more carefully, perhaps by saying the words out loud. He believed that this meant that the words had been processed enough to enter the long-term memory. The words at the end of the list were the words students had just looked at, so these were likely to be stored in the short-term memory. This study replicated Murdock's findings and suggests that his theory may be correct.

Conclusion

It can be concluded that when given information as a list, we are more likely to recall items from the beginning and end of the list.

- D Look at the report again and match the report headings with the descriptions (1–5).

- 1 Analysis of the meaning of the findings _____
- 2 Description of participants and what was done _____
- 3 The findings _____
- 4 A summary of the outcome _____
- 5 An overview and background information _____

- E Match the rules with the four sentences (a–d) in the report.

Hedging

In a scientific report unless something is a well-established fact, we should use hedging to make our claims less strong and less open to criticism. Use:

- 1 auxiliary verbs such as may, might and could _____
- 2 adverbs such as probably, possibly and likely _____
- 3 verbs that allow for some doubt, such as seem, appear, suggest, indicate _____
- 4 introductory phrases to qualify, such as We believe, We understand, In our view _____

WRITING

- A PREPARE Read about a similar experiment. Imagine you have recently replicated this experiment.

- B WRITE Write a full report about it.

Glanzer and Cunitz (1966) did a similar experiment to Murdock, but they had two different groups. One group received the test immediately after looking at the words. The other group had a 30-second delay before they did the test and had to count backwards in threes from 99 during the delay. The results showed that although participants could recall the words from the start of the list, they could not recall the words from the end of the list. Glanzer and Cunitz concluded that this was because these words were no longer in participants' short-term memories because of the delay and the distraction.

References

Glanzer, M., & Cunitz, A. R. (1966) 'Two storage mechanisms in free recall' Journal of Verbal Learning and Verbal Behavior, 5(4), 351–360.

W using depersonalisation

A Read the report and answer the questions.

- 1 Who commissioned the report? Why?
- 2 What worked well in the two case studies? What went wrong?
- 3 Which elements does the writer recommend copying? What would the writer change?

Using games to attract tourists to Littlemarket

Background

At a recent meeting of the Littlemarket Tourism Board, ¹it was proposed that an investigation should be conducted into the use of urban gaming and gamification to attract tourists. This report summarises the research and provides a series of recommendations.

Case study 1: Bighampton

Two years ago, the tourism board in Bighampton launched a series of treasure-hunt worksheets for tourists, which ²were reported to be enjoyable by 55% of participants. However, they were found to be too easy by 25%. The games were moderately successful in attracting tourists to some lesser known attractions, but the overall impact on tourist numbers was minimal (a 1.5% rise).

Case study 2: Smallton

Last year, the Smallton Tourism Board developed an app to gamify tourists' experience of the town. Badges could be won for visiting particular cafés, museums and other attractions. ³In spite of widespread frustration with technical problems, the results were impressive, with some cafés and restaurants reporting an 80% increase in sales. ⁴It remains to be seen how successful the app has been at boosting overall tourist numbers, but initial indications are positive.

Recommendations

⁵It would be relatively cheap and simple to develop a series of printable treasure hunt maps. Ideally, a range of levels (beginner to expert) would be offered. However, ⁶it would be necessary to invest significantly in marketing ⁷to raise awareness of the games. ⁸It would also make sense to use the gamification techniques from Smallton's experiment to encourage tourists to spend more money. Unlike Smallton, we should involve local businesses in the costs of developing and promoting our games.

The costs of developing an app are currently beyond our budget, so I recommend gaining experience first with a cheaper, low-tech solution and then, if appropriate, upgrading to a sophisticated technical solution in two to three years.

B Complete the examples with the extracts (1–7) from the report.

Using depersonalisation

Depersonalisation involves removing people from your writing to make it more formal. Depersonalisation techniques include:

- a it + be + adjective + to -infinitive: we could cheaply and easily → ; we'd need to →
- b preposition + noun: Although many people got frustrated →
- c changing verbs into nouns or adjectives: 55% of participants said they had enjoyed → ; to inform people about →
- d the passive voice: somebody proposed that →
- e other impersonal phrases: We still don't know → ; we should also →

WRITING

A PREPARE Work in groups. You have been asked to write a report for a language school about using games to attract new students and improve language skills. Discuss how escape rooms, urban games, game theory or gamification could help your language school.

B PLAN Imagine two or three case studies involving other language schools. Make notes about each case study in your plan.

C WRITE Write your report. Use depersonalisation techniques to make it suitably formal.

D REVIEW Exchange your report with a partner. Do you use similar techniques? Comment on how your partner has used depersonalisation.

E EDIT Read your partner's comments. Rewrite any parts you think should change.

W Structuring an expository essay

- A SPEAK Work in pairs. Read the essay prompt and brainstorm possible answers.

What are the benefits of deep-sea exploration?

- B Read the essay. What benefits does the writer mention? What evidence or examples does the writer give for each benefit?

The benefits of DEEP-SEA EXPLORATION

Did you know that humans have only explored 5% of the world's oceans? This means there is clearly a lot left to be discovered. There are benefits of deep-sea exploration, such as learning more about climate change, addressing the problems of food shortage, and finding cures for diseases.

First, deep-sea exploration is providing vital information about climate change. For example, researchers have been observing how rising temperatures affect the movements of sea creatures. In addition, some studies have found that the sea is able to absorb carbon from the atmosphere.

Second, exploration of the seas will help governments ensure there is enough food for everyone in the future. According to the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation, fish stocks are already getting low. However, improvements to fish farming methods will allow countries to support sustainable fishing.

Finally, exploring the seas is leading to advances in medicine to help fight disease. For example, medicines have already been discovered to help with chronic pain, asthma and even cancer. Many scientists believe we are much more likely to discover new medicines in the sea than on land.

In summary, there are many benefits to deep-sea exploration. It can help scientists to understand climate change better as they try to prevent it. It can also help people to ensure the ocean remains a valuable source of food. In addition, discovering new species of plant and animal could lead to the development of new medicines. People have already discovered a lot from just 5% of the ocean. Imagine what they could find in the other 95%.

- C Read the essay again and answer the questions. Use the information in the box to help you.

Structuring an expository essay

The typical structure of an expository essay is:

- Introduction: Includes a 'hook' to get readers' attention, background information and the thesis statement, which states what the essay will describe or explain
- Body paragraph one: Describes or explains the first point
- Body paragraph two: Describes or explains the second point
- Body paragraph three: Describes or explains the third point
- Conclusion: Summarises the points that were made and leaves the reader with a 'final thought'.

- 1 Which sentence is the hook? How does the writer get the reader's attention?
- 2 Which sentence is the thesis statement? What do you notice about the order of the points in the thesis statement?
- 3 The first sentence of each paragraph is called a topic sentence. What information is included in this sentence?
- 4 What kind of information is included in each paragraph to support the idea introduced in the topic sentence?
- 5 The conclusion contains a summary of the points made in the essay. What do you notice about the order of the points in the summary?

WRITING

- A PREPARE Work in groups. Read the essay prompt in Exercise A again. Come up with ideas and make a list of possible benefits.

- B PLAN Choose the best ideas and organise them into paragraphs.

- C WRITE Use your plan to write an expository essay. Write approximately 250 words.

- D REVIEW Work in pairs. Edit your partner's essay. Check:

- spelling and punctuation
- use of language
- clarity of the structure

W using power verbs

A Read the job advert.

Which skills and abilities:

- 1 will candidates need to prove from their qualifications and experience?
- 2 will candidates try to show from their life experience and character?
- 3 are useful but not essential?

Research Technician – Antarctica

The International Antarctic Research Station (IARS)

is recruiting a research technician. The job involves setting up and maintaining equipment for scientific experiments, collecting data and providing support as part of the IARS team.

No research skills are required but experience of work in glaciology, geology, meteorology or oceanology would be valuable. The main requirements are technical skills (including electrical and mechanical engineering). You will need to cope with extreme conditions (including severe weather, dangerous environments and hazardous materials), work as a reliable member of an international team and follow instructions accurately and intelligently.

Applications to: Dr Adelia Ross, IARS

B Read the cover letter. Which skills and abilities from Exercise A does Francesca mention? What doesn't she mention?

Dear Dr Ross,

I am writing to apply for the position of Research Technician at the IARS.

You will see on my CV (attached) that I have six years' experience as a laboratory technician at an international energy company, where I investigated energy efficiency. During this time, I gained invaluable insights into real-life research, where quick thinking and creativity are just as valuable as patience and precision.

I have explored the Polar regions many times. Last summer, I successfully led an international expedition to a remote part of Greenland, where I demonstrated exceptional organisational skills, resilience in the face of extreme challenges and, above all, the ability to work in a team.

I look forward to the opportunity of an interview.

Best regards,

Francesca Matienzo

C Read the information about using power verbs to apply for a job. Add five power verbs from Francesca's letter to the list of examples.

Using power verbs

In CVs and cover letters, it's more powerful to use verbs to describe your achievements (I managed the project) rather than nouns (I was the manager of ...) or adjectives (I was responsible for ...).

Examples: achieved, coordinated, designed, implemented, improved, negotiated, organised, persuaded, strengthened, updated,

D Make these extracts more powerful.

- 1 I was involved in negotiations to buy raw materials.
- 2 My manager agreed to my idea to switch suppliers.
- 3 I was in charge of a team of six.
- 4 Our old records were out of date, so I fixed them.
- 5 I did general office tasks, like answering the phone and checking emails.

WRITING

A PREPARE You are going to apply for your dream job or one of the jobs below. First, list the skills, abilities, experience and qualifications required for the job.

- stunt performer
- safari or mountain guide
- zoo keeper
- astronaut

B PLAN Draft your cover letter, using Francesca's letter as a model.

C WRITE Make your letter more powerful by adding at least five power verbs.

D REVIEW Read some of your classmates' letters. Which letters would persuade you to invite the candidate for an interview? How could you improve the other letters?

W paraphrasing

A SPEAK Work in pairs. How does stress affect the body?

B Read The effects of stress on the body and circle the specific health problems the article mentions.

The effects of stress on the body

Chronic stress can affect several different parts of the body, including the musculoskeletal system, the cardiovascular system and the gastrointestinal system.

Stress causes muscles to tense and when this happens for an extended period of time, it can cause tension and pain in the back, shoulders and head. For many people, this results in tension headaches and migraines.

It is well known that acute stress causes a temporary increase in heart rate and blood pressure. However, long-term stress means that heart rate and blood pressure remain high, potentially leading to inflammation of the arteries and an increased chance of hypertension, heart attack or stroke.

Stress can have a direct or indirect effect on the gastrointestinal system. Stress often causes people to eat more unhealthy food than they usually would. This can lead to heartburn and acid reflux, which can affect the throat. Stress can upset the stomach too, leading to digestive problems, nausea and even stomach ulcers. In summary, long-term stress puts extra pressure on the body that can lead to health problems for various parts of the body, such as the muscles, the heart and stomach.

C Look at three draft summaries of the article. What are the problems with each of these summaries?

- 1 Long-term stress can lead to heart attacks and strokes because of the extra pressure it puts on the cardiovascular system. During periods of stress, our heart rate and blood pressure are raised. This is a natural response to stress, but it becomes harmful if it continues for an extended period of time.
- 2 It is important to use strategies to help you relax, so that stress does not lead to health problems with your muscles, heart and digestive system. For example, having an increased heart rate and increased blood pressure for an extended period of time can result in heart disease or stroke. Stress can also cause headaches, digestive problems and even panic attacks.
- 3 Chronic stress can affect different parts of the body, including the musculoskeletal system, the cardiovascular system and the gastrointestinal system. Stress causes muscles to tense, and people to eat more unhealthy food, which can upset the stomach.

D Read the information in the box about writing a summary. Then identify the main points in The effects of stress on the body.

Paraphrasing

It's important to focus on the main points of the source text, but not just to copy the text. You need to explain the information in your own words.

- 1 Identify the main points in the piece of text that you want to summarise. In an academic paper, look at the introduction, the topic sentences at the start of each paragraph and at the conclusion. In a newspaper article, look at the opening paragraph and the conclusion.
- 2 Note down any words you need to re-use from the text (i.e. proper nouns, technical words).
- 3 Explain the information in your own words. Use different structures and different words to make sure you aren't copying from the text. You can also put the information in a different order.
- 4 Check your summary. Make sure you have not copied parts of the original, introduced new information or changed the meaning.

WRITING

A WRITE Write a short summary of The effects of stress on the body. Do not write more than 60 words.

B REVIEW Exchange your summaries. Give your partner any suggestions for improvements.

C EDIT Use your partner's feedback to improve your summaries.

W linking in academic writing

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Say the following sentences aloud five times. Do they make you feel happier/sadder? Why?

- 1 Two new blue shoes flew to the moon.
- 2 These green leaves seem free and easy.
- 3 Our alarm can't harm the calm farmer.

B Read the conclusion to an academic report. Does it agree with your responses to Exercise A?

1 Our research set out to test the facial feedback hypothesis that our facial expressions can affect our moods. Strack et al (1988) famously asked respondents to evaluate cartoons while holding a pen in their mouths. Some held it between their teeth, forcing them to smile; others held it between their lips, forcing a frown. The 'smilers' found the cartoons significantly funnier than the 'frowners'. Similarly, Zajonc et al (1989), demonstrated a causal relationship between vowel sounds and mood: the repetition of 'smile vowels' (/e/, /i:/) and the 'aha vowel' (/a:/) put the respondents in a significantly better mood than 'frown vowels' (e.g. /u:/). However, recent research by Wagenmakers et al (2016) has cast serious doubt on this hypothesis.

2 Our own research provides limited support for the hypothesis. We found that repeating sentences with 'smile vowels' did indeed provoke a mood improvement compared to 'frown' vowels. However, in neither case were the results conclusive: the majority of respondents reported no change in mood. The one exception was that the 'aha vowel' had a significant positive effect on almost every respondent's mood.

3 Our evidence suggests that facial expressions do indeed affect mood, but it is principally the open-mouthed 'aha smile' rather than the wide-mouthed grin that has the greatest impact. This may explain the failure of Wagenmakers et al to repeat the effects of the pen experiment: they were focusing on the wrong type of smile.

4 If refined and confirmed by further research, the facial feedback hypothesis could be used by psychotherapists and carers to improve patients' moods. Additionally, marketers may use vowel sounds in product names to influence customers' connotations. If products such as 'New You' are renamed as 'Calming Spa', it may well be because of the effect of vowel sounds on our mood.

C Match the topics (a–d) with the paragraphs (1–4).

- a Analysis: What did you learn?
- b Implications: What do your findings mean?
- c Background: What question were you trying to answer?
- d Key findings: What information did you collect?

D Answer the questions. Use the information in the box to help you.

Linking in academic writing

Use linking words (e.g. however) to show the relationships between ideas.

Use colons (:) to show that one idea 'explains' another.

Use semi-colons (;) to show that two related ideas are 'equal' in importance.

- 1 Find a semi-colon in paragraph 1. In what way are the two ideas equal?
- 2 Which two linking words in paragraph 1 link all the research together?
- 3 Find three colons in paragraphs 1–3. How does the second idea explain the first in each case?
- 4 What linking word in paragraphs 2 and 3 relates expectations to reality? What grammar structure is often used with this word?
- 5 How does the writer link the main ideas in paragraph 4?

WRITING

A PREPARE Choose one of your own ideas or a piece of academic research from this unit.

B PLAN Make notes about the points you will cover in your conclusion.

C WRITE Write a four-paragraph conclusion. Use linking words, colons and semi-colons in your writing.

D REVIEW Exchange your conclusion with a partner. Do you agree with their analysis? Comment on how they use linking words.

E EDIT Read your partner's comments. Rewrite any parts of your conclusion that you think could be improved.

W using counter-arguments and rebuttals

A SPEAK Work in pairs. Look at the essay title and discuss the questions.

- 1 What is gentrification?
 - 2 What do you think of gentrification? Is it a good or bad thing?
- B Read the example essay and answer the questions.
- 1 What is the writer's opinion of gentrification?
 - 2 What reasons does the writer give for her opinion?
 - 3 What reason to support the opposite opinion on gentrification does the writer mention?

DOES GENTRIFICATION HAVE A POSITIVE OR NEGATIVE IMPACT ON CITIES?

In cities all over the world, 'gentrification' is changing entire neighbourhoods. Some people argue that this improves the areas by making them cleaner and safer.

However, on the whole, gentrification actually has a negative impact. It prices people out of the areas where they have lived for years, destroys the unique character of neighbourhoods, and it only benefits the rich.

The most obvious negative impact of gentrification is that it forces long-term residents to move away from their homes. As an area becomes trendy, landlords are able to increase the rent and attract wealthier tenants to the area. Meanwhile, lower income families are forced to move away from their friends, schools and jobs to find cheaper places to live.

Gentrification also results in the area losing its individual character. People may have first been attracted to an area by its unique shops and restaurants. However, as this area becomes gentrified, these establishments are unlikely to be able to pay increased rent. Gradually, these shops and restaurants are replaced by high street chains so the area becomes just like many other neighbourhoods in the city.

Some people argue that gentrification has a positive impact because the area becomes cleaner and safer. While it is true that gentrification leads to less crime and better facilities, the local people who deserve to benefit from these changes are unable to stay in the area.

Rather than improving the city for all, gentrification only benefits the wealthiest.

In conclusion, gentrification predominantly has a negative impact on cities. It forces long-term residents from their homes, results in areas losing their individual character, and only provides real benefits for those with the most money. The government needs to find a way to ensure that redevelopment of the city can have a positive effect for everyone.

C Find the phrases the writer used to introduce the counter argument and rebuttal in the example essay. Use the information in the box to help you.

Using counter-arguments and rebuttals

In order to strengthen your argument in a persuasive essay, you can anticipate the points that could be used to support the opposite side of the argument (the counter-arguments) and respond with your answer to those arguments (a rebuttal). The rebuttal must respond directly to the counter argument.

Introduce a counter argument with phrases like:

- Opponents/Supporters of ... claim/argue/believe that ...
- Some studies have shown that ...
- There is an argument that ...

Introduce a rebuttal with phrases like:

- However, this is only partially true.
- Studies have shown this is not true.
- Nevertheless, ...

WRITING

A PREPARE Work in pairs. Look at the essay prompt and brainstorm reasons to support each side.

Which is better: living in the city or living in the countryside?

Reasons why living in the city is better	Reasons why living in the countryside is better

B PLAN Decide on your best points from Exercise A and make a plan of your essay.

C WRITE Write a persuasive essay to answer the essay prompt. Use a counter-argument and rebuttal in the third body paragraph. Use the example essay to help you.

D REVIEW Exchange your essay with a partner. How could your partner's essay be improved? How effective are their counter-arguments and rebuttals?

E EDIT Read your partner's comments. Rewrite any parts of your essay you think can be improved.